All the "Punch" Gone From Germans on West Front, Recent Fighting Shows, Says Simonds

Allies Over Crest of the Hill, Writes Critic, in Reviewing Series of British Advances in Flanders and Pointing Out What the Expected Retirement of the Germans Will Mean.

By FRANK H. SIMONDS.
Author of "The World War."

IN recent articles I described the geography and the recent war history of the Ypres salient. In the present article I shall try to outline the actual achievement and the eventual purpose of the attacks now being made on the Flanders front and also to compare them with the first offensive of the "new" British armies—that at the Somme last year.

At the outset it is necessary to recall that the British in Flanders, with useful and gallant but relatively inconsiderable French aid, are now engaged in driving a wedge between the German armies along the Belgian coast and the main German forces in line from Lille to the Swiss frontier.

At the time of writing the point of the wedge has almost attained Passchendaele and the immediate objective is Roulers, rather less than half a dozen miles northeast of Paschendaele. As the wedge is thrust forward there is a pause from time to time at the apex and attacks are made upon the sides to widen the wedge itself. The recent French attack, east of Langemarck, which coincided with a British thrust at the apex, was for this purpose, and we may expect an early attack toward Beececlaire, Gheluvelt and Zandvoorde for the same purpose.

Upper solid black area about Ypres shows ground won in third battle of Ypres, June to October 15, 1917.

═══ shows front from Lens to La Fere after the German retreat of March, 1917, and the battle of Arras in April, 1917.

A twofold strategy is here disclosed. As he drives this wedge forward, Haig will cut the lines of communication connecting the Germans on the seacoast both with the mass of the German armies and with their own bases of supplies. Already the advance has approached the Lille-Ostend railroad, one of the two vital lines of communication, and the British guns are as near this railroad as were the Germans to the main Verdun line, that coming up from Chalons, which their guns blocked.

We may regard this railroad and the parallel highway as now practically out of business. When the point of the wedge arrives at Roulers, British guns will, in the same fashion, cut a second and only less important line from Ghent through Thielt and Courout to Ostend. There will then remain only the trunk line from Ghent through Bruges to the coast, which runs a dozen miles to the north of Roulers. When this city is reached, all of the German positions on the coast, from the Dutch frontier to Nieuport, would have to go; they would be isolated. In point of fact, before the British reached this Ghent-Bruges line, the German retreat would be inevitable, since the peril of envelopment and capture would be very great.

The aspect of the British strategy has been apparent from the outset, and has been freely discussed in the press and foreign comment. It acquires importance from the fact that the submarine base of Zeebruegge, one of the most troublesome of the German submarine nests, would be abolished should the Germans be compelled to leave the Belgian coast. There would be less air raiding on London, too, once this base on nearby Belgian soil was disposed of.

Yet, recognizing the importance of abolishing the submarine base at Zeebruegge, it still seems to me that too little attention has been paid to the far more important threat this British advance carries to the whole German position in France from Lille to Verdun. For, as the British advance, they are slowly but surely encircling Lille, moving across its northward lines of communication and reaching for those to the eastward, which are life lines.

When the British reach Menin, as they are now sure to do, for they have mastered the dominating ridge to the eastward of this town and nearly all the high ground on the west bank of the Lys, they will be nearer to Brussels than the Germans in Lille are, and will either hold or, by their artillery, cut many of the Lille roads, including the railway line leading to Ghent and Antwerp, which is only less important than the Lille-Brussels main line to the eastward.

Now, recall for a moment the events at the Somme. The British and French were then operating on the northern side of the great salient of which Noyon was the apex. they were aiming at the railways and high roads serving this salient and moving across the rear of the salient itself. The operation was quite the same as the British operation north of Lille today. By Nov. 1 of last year the British and French were close to Baupaume and Peronne, just as now the British are approaching Roulers and Menin.

The threat to the Noyon salient last year produced the great German retreat of this spring, a retreat from all the German lines between Arras and Noyon, which was explained by reason of the French attacks at the Aisne and the British victory at Arras. Now, when the British get Roulers and Menin the peril to the Germans east and west of the wedge will be unmistakable, and before the British Courtrai, half a dozen miles east and downstream from Menin, the Germans will have to clear out of the Lille salient.

A German withdrawal from Lille would mean the evacuation of all French territory between Verdun and Lille—that is, all French territory west of the Meuse—and such an evacuation would be wholly analogous to the retreat from the Noyon salient last spring. Actually the whole German position from Lille to Verdun is a great salient, many times larger than the Noyon salient, but not otherwise differing from it, and the British attack at Ypres this year corresponds exactly with the Anglo-French attack at the Somme last year.

Lille is the anchorage of the whole German line from Switzerland to the Flanders front. Its forts, partially dismantled, its railroads and high-

The Truth About Rasputin and His Part in the Russian Revolution

—By—

THE PRINCESS RADZIWILL

Titled woman of the Russian Court set herewith presents the first chapter of a book designed to show that the "Black Monk of Russia," who came to wield a powerful influence over the Imperial Court, was a dirty, uncouth peasant, the plaything of circumstances rather than the molder of history, and she tells how he was pushed into the most important position in Russia—a Minister without portfolio, but with power to sway the Czar and the Court; a "monk" without orders, but casting a spell over the people that defied the Holy Synod itself.

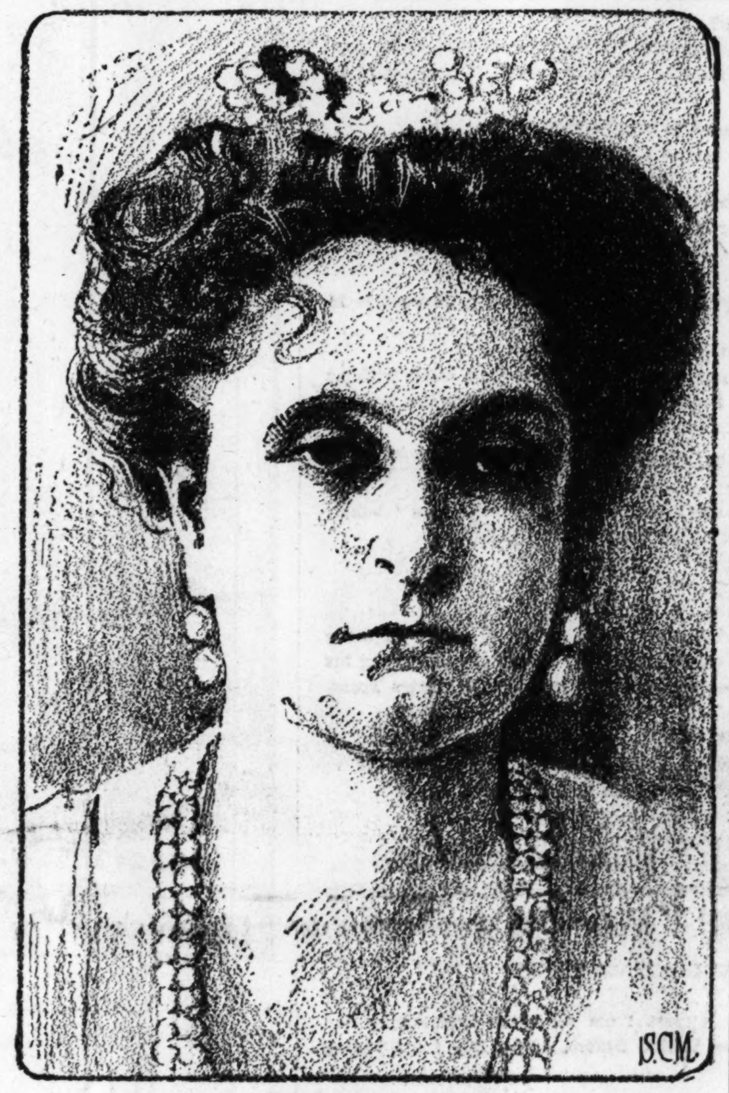
By PRINCESS RADZIWELL.

Introduction.

THIS expose, based on facts which have come to my knowledge, though probably far from being complete, aims at depicting the recent state of things in Russia, and thus to explain how the great changes which have taken place in my country have been rendered possible. A lot of exaggerated tales have been put into circulation concerning the Empress Alexandra, the part she has played in the perturbations that have shaken Russia from one end another and the extraordinary influence which, thanks to her and to her efforts in his behalf, the sinister personage called Rasputin came to acquire over public affairs in the vast empire reigned over by Nicholas II for 22 years. A good many of these tales repose on nothing but imagination, but nevertheless it is unfortunately too true that it is to the conduct of the Empress, and to the part she attempted to play in the politics of the world, that the Romanoffs owe the loss of their throne.

Alexandra Feedorowna has been the evil genius of the dynasty whose head she married. Without her it is probable that most of the disasters that have overtaken the Russian armies would not have happened, and it is certain that the crown which had been worn by Peter the Great and by Catherine II would not have been disgraced. She was totally unfit for the position to which chance had raised her, and she never was able to understand the character or the needs of the people over which she ruled.

Monstrously selfish, she never looked beyond matters purely personal to her or to her son, whom she idolized in an absurd manner. She, who had been reared in principles of true liberalism, who had had in her grandmother, the late Queen Victoria, a perfect example of a constitutional sovereign, became from the very first day of her arrival in Russia the enemy of every progress, of every attempt to civilize the nation which owned her for its Empress. She gave her confidence to the most ferocious reactionaries the country possessed. She tried, and in a certain degree succeeded, in inspiring in her husband the disdain of his people and the determination to uphold an autocratic system of government that ought to have been overturned and replaced by an enlightened one. Haughty by nature and by temperament, she had an unlimited confidence in her own abilities, and especially after she had become the mother of the son she had longed for during so many years, she came to believe that everything she wished or wanted to do had to be done and that her subjects were but her slaves. She had a strong will and much imperiousness in her character, and understood admirably the weak points in her husband, who became but a puppet in her hands.



THE DEPOSED CZARINA OF RUSSIA

Haughty by nature and by temperament, she had an unlimited confidence in her own abilities, and especially after she had become the mother of the son she had longed for during so many years, she came to believe that everything she wished or wanted to do had to be done and that her subjects were but her slaves. She had a strong will and much imperiousness in her character, and understood admirably the weak points in her husband, who became but a puppet in her hands.

Czarina Despised the Czar and Let Everyone Know It

She herself was but a plaything in the game of a few unscrupulous adventurers who used her for the furtherance of their own ambitious, money-grubbing schemes, and who, but for the unexpected events that led to the overthrow of the house of Romanoff, would in time have betrayed Russia into sullying her fair name as well as her reputation in history.

Rasputin, about whom so much has been said, was but an incident in the course of a whole series of facts, all of them more or less disgraceful, and none of which had a single extenuating circumstance to put forward as an excuse for perpetration.

He himself was far from being the remarkable individual he has been represented by some people, and had he been left alone it is likely that even if one had heard about him it would not have been for any length of time.

Those who hated him mostly did so because they had not been able to obtain from him what they wanted, and they applied themselves to paint him as much more dangerous than he really was. They did not know that he was but the mouthpiece of other people far clever and far more unscrupulous even than himself, who hid themselves behind him and who moved him as they would have done pawns in a game of chess, according to their personal aims and wants. The people it was who nearly brought Russia to the verge of absolute ruin, and they would never have been able to rise to the power which they wielded had not the Empress lent herself to their schemes. Her absolute belief in the merits of the wandering preacher, thanks to his undoubted magnetic influence, contrived to get hold of her mind and persuade her that so long as he was at her side nothing evil could befall her or her family.

It is not generally known outside of Russia that Alexandra Feodorowna despised her husband, and that she made no secret of the fact. She considered him as a weak individual, unable to give himself an account of what was going on around him, who had to be guided and never left to himself. Her flatterers, of whom she had many at a time, had persuaded her that she possessed all the genius and most of the qualities of Catherine II, and that she ought to follow the example of the latter by rallying around her a sufficient number of friends to effect a palace revolution which would transform her into the reigning sovereign of that Russia which she did not know and whose character she was unable to understand. Love for Nicholas II she had never had, nor esteem for him, and from the very first moment of her marriage she had affected to treat him as a negligible quantity. But influence over him she had taken good care to acquire. She had jealously kept away from him all the people from whom he could have heard the truth or who could have signaled to him the dangers which his dynasty was running by the furtherance of a policy which had become loathsome to the country and on account of which the war with Germany had taken such an unexpected and dangerous course.

The Empress, like all stupid people, and her stupidity has not been denied, even by her best friends, believed that one could rule a nation by terror. She, therefore, always interposed herself whenever Nicholas II was induced to adopt a more liberal system of government and urged him to subdue by force aspirations it would have been far better for him to have encouraged. She had listened to all the representatives of that detestable old bureaucratic system which gave to the police the sole right to dispose of people's lives and which relied on Siberia and the knout to keep in order an aggrieved country eager to be admitted to the circle of civilized European nations.

Without her and without her absurd fears, it is likely that the first Duma would not have been dissolved. Without her entreaties, it is probable that the troops composing the garrison at St. Petersburg would not have been commanded to fire at the peaceful population of the capital on that January day when, headed by the priest, Gapone, it had repaired to the Winter Palace to lay its wrongs before the Czar, whom it still worshipped at that time. She was at the bottom of every tyrannical action which took place during the reign of Nicholas II. And lately she was the moving spirit in the campaign, engineered by the friends of Rasputin, to conclude a separate peace with Germany.

In the long intrigue which came to an end by the publication of the manifesto of Pskow, Rasputin undoubtedly played a considerable part, but all unconsciously. Those who used him, together with his influence, were very careful not to initiate him into their different schemes. But they paid him, they fed him, they gave him champagne to drink and pretty women to make love to in order to induce him to represent them to the Empress as being the only men capable of saving Russia, about which she did not care, and her crown, to which she was so attached. With Rasputin she never discussed politics, nor did the Emperor. But with his friends she talked over every political subject of importance to the welfare of the nation, and being convinced that they were the men best capable of upholding her interests, she forced them upon her husband and compelled him to follow the advice which they gave. She could not bear contradiction, and she loved flattery. She was convinced that no one was more clever than herself, and she wished to impose her views everywhere and upon every occasion.

Every Class of Society Was Her Uncompromising Enemy

Few sovereigns have been hated as she has been. In every class of society her name was mentioned with execration, and following the introduction of Rasputin into her household this aversion which she inspired grew to a phenomenal extent. She was openly accused of degrading the position which she held and the crown which she wore. In every town and village of the empire

Princess Radziwill's Standing in Russia

PRINCESS CATHERINE RADZIWILL is one of the oldest of Russian families. She recently came to this country to lecture and raise money for war prisoners. She has done a great deal of work for the exchange of French and English soldiers captured by Germany.

Gen. Count Adam Rzewski, father of the Princess, is connected with many royal houses of Europe. Louis XV's Queen was a niece of her great grandfather. Her maternal grandfather was Chief Justice of Russia from 1831 to 1837, and the author of the Russian code of criminal law abolished by the recent revolution. Princess Radziwill was a blood cousin of the Duchess of Hohenberg, wife of Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria, whose assassination started the war.

The Princess lost her eldest son in the first year of the struggle fighting for the Czar. She affiliated herself with the revolutionists and gave her money and her strength and her courage to the fight for liberty. She was born in Russia, but she was reared in Paris by an aunt.

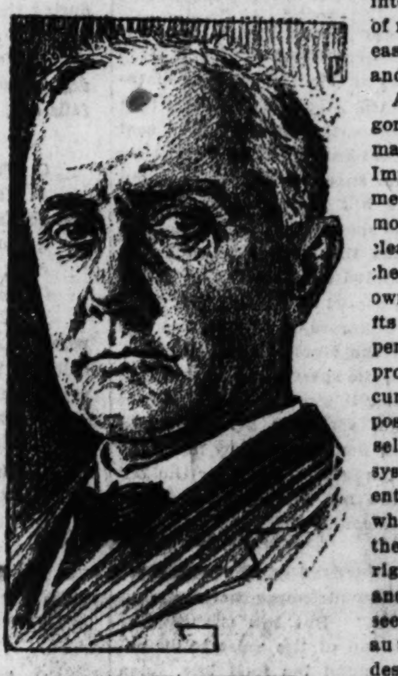
U. S. Attorney-General Writes of Disloyalty and Its Punishment

America's Heaviest Hand Will Fall Upon Those Agitatators Who Seeks to Hamper Within the Nation the Progress of the War.

That there may be no misunderstanding of the Government's intention to deal in full measure with all forms of treason and disloyalty and to lay its heaviest hand upon everyone guilty of any form of effort to hamper, within the nation, the progress of the war, Attorney-General Gregory has sent out to the whole press of the country for publication today the following statement defining the attitude of the Department of Justice, which will be in charge of the prosecution of all forms of sedition and espionage.

By THOMAS W. GREGORY.
Attorney-General of the United States.

The sporadic activities of a few agitators who led by good or bad motives, seek to hamper our work in the war justify me as the chief law officer of the executive branch of the Government in calling attention to the duties, moral and legal, of all persons owing temporary or permanent allegiance to the United States.



THOMAS W. GREGORY.

The German Government began this war by a contemptuous breach of its formally plighted faith made in solemn treaty and from the beginning until now has more than made good this ominous earnest of its intention and temper. The President has shown us how, one by one, as opportunity offered, the safeguards which civilization has been able during the centuries to throw around neutrals and the nonfighting people of warring nations were ruthlessly torn down; how patient and long-suffering remonstrance and request were met by fair words and fairer promises, made only to be broken.

We all know as bus sober fact, plainly stated, that the Imperial Government has allowed no rule of war, no principle of civilization, no consideration of humanity, no teaching of Christianity, to stand between it and the working out of its illegal purposes. For half a century that Government has schemed and prepared to dominate the world by "blood and iron." For half a century the officials of the Imperial Government, from the Kaiser down, including even the teachers of their children, have prostituted the minds of their youth until the whole people has been led to a toleration, if not approval, of the hideous outrages and barbarities practised by that Government in this war. While yet we were neutral, struggling to keep free from the conflict, the representatives of that Government in this country planned to destroy our factories and our railroads, forged our public papers, deceived us when convenient, violated our hospitality and our sovereignty, while they plotted against our territorial integrity; they deliberately and with malice affronting forewarning drowned our helpless women and babes and declared a public holiday that they and innocent children might celebrate the murder.

"THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT CAN FIND IN EXISTING STATUTES AND OTHERS NOW PENDING BEFORE CONGRESS POWER TO HANDLE ANY SITUATION T AT MAY ARISE BECAUSE OF THE ILL-ADVISED ACTIVITIES OF DISLOYAL AGITATORS"—ATTORNEY-GENERAL GREGORY.

Germany Terrorizes Mankind Conquer It the More Easily

They have bombarded unfortified towns and bombed the unprotected homes of their foes, taking their toll of wounded and dead from the aged and infirm, the young and the helpless. They have made barren desert of the garden spots of the earth; they have needlessly pillaged and willfully burned towns; they have reduced to slavery men, women and children; they have wrecked and torn asunder families with a system diabolical in its efficiency; they have wantonly defiled and destroyed the temples of God. They have done all of these things that they might strike terror into the hearts of of men so as more easily to conquer and rule them.

As the war has gone, the ultimate aim of the Imperial Government has become more and more clear. Drunk with the sense of its own power and its asserted superiority, it has proposed to secure a dominating position for itself and for its system over the entire world. Nowhere yielding to the people their rightful powers, and everywhere seeking to uphold autocracy and despotism, it has shown its intention to perpetuate absolute government of which it admittedly is the head and front. Its "kultur" is avowed to be the acme of human goodness and endeavor, and is to boast the rulership of the world, gained by force and arms.

The world must fight to preserve itself. Of this there can be no doubt.

"Our National Life Is Bound Up in This War's Result"

Heretofore, save in rare cases, war has been a fight between armies; but this war, because of the initial preparation for it by an autocracy which prostituted a whole mighty nation to its purpose, is a contest between peoples themselves. It is correspondingly intense and relentless. The march of events shows that it is now a war of systems—Kings against peoples. If our enemy win, Kings will dominate the world, because no democracy fights with or for them. The Prussian autocrat and the brutal Turk will impose upon us their wills, tell us what we may do, what we may not do, and the horrors and atrocities of Belgium and Armenia leave no doubt what this means. "Government of the people, by the people and for the people will perish from the earth." In this sense this is truly a war of absolute and complete extermination not of people, but of systems, and so far as human sight can pierce the future the life of one system or the other waits on the result.

Thus our own very life came to be bound up in the outcome of this war long before we entered it, and even years before the war broke. To the man of vision it is as clear as sunlight that the air and the plan of the Imperial Government was and is to conquer the world, nation by nation. It was first to defeat France and Russia, next to dominate Great Britain, and, with Europe at its feet, to turn to America. "Kultur" and the German sword were to rule around the world. We have been thus forced by the Imperial Government itself to choose whether, in addition to suffering outrage and plunder, we should calmly wait to be crushed ourselves in due time and at the pleasure of the royal will, or

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Senator Reed's Error.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In your paper of Oct. 12 appears a statement from Senator Reed to the effect that his speech against the food bill was sent out before the bill became law. Permit me to say that the speech was not sent out until after the bill became law, because that part of the speech in which he so particularly attacks the law and the President was concluded not 30 minutes before the conference report on the bill was finally adopted by Congress on Aug. 8, and was withheld from the Record until Aug. 23. In other words, the speech was not printed for 15 days after it was delivered, and, of course, was not sent out before it was printed. So the Senator is sadly mistaken about that. It was sent out after the bill became law and for the purpose of discrediting the law and the President with the people.

He is also quoted as saying that since the passage of war measures there "should be no bickering." But has the Senator forgotten that one of the most bitter attacks he made upon his food law, upon Mr. Hoover and upon the President of the United States, was made on Aug. 18, five days after the food bill had become law, and after the President had appointed Mr Hoover food administrator? He took up two and a half pages of the Congressional Record in this tirade against the law. In his attack upon Hoover, and, of course, it was an attack upon the President, he said:

> I now make the statement that I believe to be true, and upon which I am willing to hazard whatever reputation I have for sound judgment, that a food dictator who lived in England all of his grown-up life, whose house and whose home are in England, whose business affilations are in England, whose business associates are Englishmen, will employ all his powers in the interest of England.

He refers to Hoover as the master of the people and calls upon his hearers to read what he calls the decree of Hoover. and asks them to observe how their master employs his omnipotent power. If this is not bickering, then I do not know what bickering is. As the President is wholly responsible for Hoover and for his acts, then if his speech is not an attack upon the President, I do not know what an attack is. And this speech, consuming at least 2600 words, was sent out after the war law was passed.

La Follette's Defiance.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Senator La Follette, in his three-hour speech in the Senate, failed to "vindicate or justify" his course of action and conduct since the sinking of the Lusitania. He has preached a "dangerous" doctrine in this country, and his "insidious utterance" would, if not checked by a sound, healthy, public, moral, patriotic and loyal American opinion, not only "undermine" the loyalty of the people in time of stress and war, but would "defy" the rights, powers and authority of the regular constituted authorities of the Government of the United States of America (under the Constitution and the laws made in pursuance thereof) to "successfully prosecute" the war which we are now engaged in against the imperial German Government.

We are at war, and I challenge the right of any United States Senator (since a state of war has been declared by the Government of the United States) to make verbal (oral) or written statements tending "to aid and encourage the enemy and to cast dishonor and discredit upon this nation" after the war has once been declared. The Louisville Courier-Journal asks: "Is La Follette a lunatic, a rascal or a fool?" To which the Frankfort State Journal replies, and says: "Between us, Marse Henry, he was a lunatic to think that such a rascal and fool could fool some of the people all the time or all the people some of the time." The Macon Telegraph says: "Marse Henry compares La Follette with Aaron Burr, but his innate sense of justice compels him to give Burr the best of it."

Yes, so far from being a novelty, the ousting of United States Senators for "treason" was one of our principal industries in 1861 and 1862.

GEORGE A. RITTER.

WHAT AND WHY IS THE LIBERTY LOAN?

For the benefit of those who have never bought United States bonds and who do not thoroughly understand what they are and how to obtain them, we reprint the following statement issued by the United States Treasury Department:

Q. What is the Second Liberty Loan of 1917?

A. It is a loan of money by the people of the United States to their Government.

Q. Why does the United States Government borrow money?

A. Because we are forced to defend ourselves against the attacks on American honor and American rights by the German Government, and therefore must have money to equip and maintain our Army and Navy. We need money also in order to lend to these nations with whom we are making common cause in this war.

Q. Are not the ordinary receipts of our Government from taxes, etc., sufficient to do this?

A. No; the ordinary receipts of the Government are about one and a quarter billion dollars a year, while our expenses of the war for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1918, will be over $10,000,000,000, not including the money which we will lend to our allies.

Q. How is the Government going to raise this large amount of money?

A. By borrowing from the people and by increasing taxes.

WHAT IS A UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT BOND?

Q. When I lend my money to the United States Government, what do I get in return?

A. You get a promissory note given by the United States Government and bearing interest. This note is called a ''bond.''

Q. What, then, is a United States Government bond?

A. It is the direct and unconditional promise of the United States of America to pay upon a certain date a specified sum of money in gold, together with interest at a specific rate, payable at specific dates until the bond matures, or is called for redemption.

Q. When will these bonds be paid by the Government; that is, when will they become due?

A. November 15, 1942; but the Government has the right to pay them any time after 10 years from date of the bond.

Q. Do I have to hold my bond until the date it is due before I get my money back?

A. No; you can sell your bond any time you desire. There is always a ready market for United States Government bonds.

Q. If necessary, could I borrow money on these bonds?

A. Yes; United States Government bonds are the best security which can be offered in borrowing money. They will obtain for you the best terms possible. Ask any bank if you desire to borrow money on your Liberty Bonds.

Q. Do I get any interest on my money while it is loaned to my Government?

A. Yes; the Government will pay you interest at the rate of 4 per cent a year.

Q. How do I collect the interest?

A. Attached to each bond is an engraved sheet of interest coupons, one for each six months' period. When the interest date arrives, you cut off the interest coupon of that date and take it to any bank, where it may be cashed or deposited.

Q. How often do I get this interest?

A. Every six months. This interest will be paid to you every May 15 and every November 15 during the life of the bond.

Q. Is there any way I can collect my interest without having to cut the coupons?

A. Yes; you can get the Government to give you a ''registered'' bond; that is, a bond without any coupons attached and with your name written on the bond; and each six months, as the interest falls due, the Treasury Department will send you check in payment of the interest.

WHAT KINDS OF BONDS ARE TO BE ISSUED?

Q. Then are there two kinds of Liberty Bonds?

A. Yes; bonds with interest coupons attached which are called ''bearer'' or ''coupon'' bonds, and bonds which do not have coupons attached, which are called ''registered'' bonds.

Q. To whom is a coupon bond payable?

A. A coupon bond is payable to bearer.

Q. To whom is a registered bond payable?

A. A registered bond is payable to the person whose name is written on its face and no other person. A registered bond can be transferred from one owner to another by the owner writing his name on the back of the bond in the presence of a witness authorized by the United States Treasury Department.

Q. Shall a married woman use her own name or her husband's?

A. Her own—Mrs. Mary Brown, not Mrs. John Brown.

Q. Suppose a married woman wishes to transfer a bond made out in her maiden name?

A. She should sign herself ''Mary Jones, now by marriage Mary Brown.''

Q. Can I lend any amount to the Government and get a bond in return?

A. No; $50 is the smallest amount that the Government will accept in return for a bond. Coupon bonds are issued in the following fixed denominations: $50, $100, $500, $1000, $5000, and $10,000; registered bonds are issued in fixed denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1000, $5000 $10,000, and $100,000.

HOW FAR ARE THESE BONDS EXEMPT FROM TAXES?

Q. Are Liberty Bonds exempt from taxation?

A. The bonds are exempt both as to principal and interest from all taxes imposed by the United States, any state, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority, except:

(a) Estate or inheritance taxes.

(b) Graduated additional income taxes, commonly known as surtaxes and excess profits taxes now or hereafter imposed by the United States upon the income or profits of corporations, individuals, partnerships, or associations.

The interest on an amount of bonds and certificates, not in excess of $5000 in one ownership, is exempt from the taxes provided for in clause (b) above.

Q. Suppose the Government offers bonds in the future which will pay a higher rate of interest than 4 per cent?

A. If so, the holder of a Liberty Bond will have the right to exchange this bond for one bearing the higher rate of interest.

Q. What is the amount of the Second Liberty Loan?

A. The Secretary of the Treasury is inviting subscription for $3,000,000,000 and reserves the right to allot additional bonds up to one-half the amount of any oversubscription.

Q. How was this bond issue created?

A. It was authorized by an act of Congress and approved by the President of the United States.

HOW TO BUY.

Q. How much do bonds of the Second Liberty Loan cost?

A. From $50 to $100,000, whatever their face value calls for. The law states that these bonds must be sold at not less than ''par''; that is, their face value—100 cents on the dollar.

Q. How can I buy the bonds of the Second Liberty Loan?

A. By filling out an application blank and handing it to any bank or trust company, bond dealer or broker, or to one of the Federal Reserve Banks, or to the Treasury Department at Washington.

Q. When can this application for bonds be made?

A. At any time from the 1st day of October to the close of business on the 27th day of October, 1917.

Q. In what form must application to buy a Liberty Bond be made?

A. All applications must be in the form prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, obtainable at any bank or from a Liberty Loan Committee.

Q. Must the full price of bonds be paid on application?

A. No; only 2 per cent of the amount you want to buy is required when application is made.

Q. When must the remainder be paid?

A. In installments as follows: 18 per cent on November 15, 1917; 40 per cent on December 15, 1917; and 40 per cent on January 15, 1918.

Q. Can I buy a bond on the installment plan by paying for it weekly or monthly?

A. The Treasury Department will not accept payments in this manner, but many banks and a great many employers will sell you a bond and allow you to pay for it in partial payments. If you desire to pay for your bonds in this way, consult your employer or any banker.

Q. When will the subscribers know how many bonds they will receive on their subscriptions?

A. The Secretary of the Treasury will announce this about the 6th of November, 1917. This is known as making the ''allotment.''

Q. Must all subscribers to liberty bonds wait until the allotment is made to know whether or not they will receive their bonds?

A. No; a subscriber for bonds up to $1000 is certain to receive his bond.

Q. If I desire to pay for the bonds at the time I make my subscription, may I do so?

A. Yes; you can pay in full for any bonds you buy up to and including $1000; but subscribers for more than this amount must wait until the allotment is made.

Q. If I pay in full for a $50, $100, $500 or $1000 bond, do I receive the bond?

A. Yes; you will receive a bond dated November 15, 1917, and bearing interest from that date. You will receive it within a short time after your payment has been made.

Q. To whom shall I make payments?

A. Payments can be made to the Treasury Department at Washington or to one of the 12 Federal reserve banks in cash, by bank draft, certified check, postoffice money order, or express company money order, but subscribers are urged to make all payments on their bonds to the bank with whom they placed their subscriptions.

Q. What provision is made for the interest accruing on the bonds from November 15, 1917, to May 15, 1918, a six months' period, when final payment on the bonds is not made until January 15, 1918?

A. Interest from November 15, 1917, to date of final or full payment must be made added to their last payment. Credit will be given the subscriber for interest at the same rate upon all the payments. Tables showing the amount of accrued interest payable on January 15, 1918, and on various interest days after payment has been made, will be distributed through the banks by the Treasury Department.

SUNDAY IN CAMP.

TWO long lines of jitneys
From town stretch out to camp,
Plum full of plump civilians
To see some lucky skamp—
The corn-fed girls are coming,
For its Sunday at the camp.

Private Smith of Oskaloosa,
Sent from District Number Three,
Is expecting out his sweetheart
And her whole blame familee—
For they wrote him they were coming
In their little tin liz-zee.

They found Smith of Oskaloosa—
After finding fifty more,
For of Smiths there are a number
And there's always room for more.
They found Smith of Oskaloosa
Standing by the kitchen door.

And he wore a snow-white apron.
In his hand they saw a knife.
He was peeling huge potatoes
With vitality and life—
And in that exalted station
Smith beheld his future wife.

Two long lines of jitneys
From camp stretch into town,
Taking tired civilians
To their beds of elderdown—
And to tell in Oskaloosa
Of Private Smith's renown. —BO.

IN SIGNS.

No Swearing Allowed.
These Are Contented Cows.

''It is a stringent rule on all our stock farms,'' says M. J. Norton, the Oconomowoc manager, ''that harsh language or unkindness toward the cattle is absolutely forbidden. Strange as it may seem, a cow is as responsive to pleasant treatment as a human being is. If you are mean to a cow she is pretty apt to return the meanness. Therefore we preach bovine optimism. We keep our cows contented and we find they give more and better milk.''

MUST THEY DO BOTH?

SHE was never tired of watching the crowds on Fifth avenue, although she has watched and mingled with them many, many times.

At the library on Forty-second street the crowd was a little denser than usual.

On the steps stood a boy with the natty Scotch Cap and ''AA'' of the Ambulance Corps. He had just finished his talk for Liberty Bonds.

His face seemed familiar, but it was too old. She looked again. Yes, the last time she had seen this boy she was bidding good-bye, in St. Louis, to the young son of her dearest friend on his departure for France.

She found he was on furlough, was leaving that evening for St. Louis, but was ''doing his bit'' on Fifth avenue, as he had done it in France.

Another young lad from the same corps, on whom the horrors of war had made an indelible impression, was just beginning to speak. He also was passing through on furlough.

ARE WE GOING TO MAKE OUR BOYS SELL THE LIBERTY BONDS AS WELL AS FIGHT OUR BATTLES AT THE FRONT?

WE MUST FURNISH THE MONEY. WHY NOT DO IT TODAY AND MAKE THEIR WORK EASIER? M.

Third Baseman Zimmerman's feat of chasing Eddie Collins home in one of the world's championship games isn't a patchen to John J. McCloskey's celebrated story of First Baseman Noonan. Noonan was a Cardinal rookie under McCloskey. A big, Bashantine fellow, he fairly pawed the earth to get into the game. One day when the Cubs were playing Jake Beckley a little harder than usual on the throw-the-ball-away stunt between first and second, McCloskey yielded to the importunities of fans and put in Noonan. Noonan trotted to first donned the big mitt, spat into it viciously, and shouted, ''Less go!'' The batter drove the ball at the shortstop, and beat by a step the throw to first. Noonan, nothing abashed, took right after him. The runner, astounded, dashed for second. Six men leaped into the air and shouted to Noonan for the play to second, but Noonan was getting that man alone. He crossed second so close to his man that if the pursued had by any chance had a coat-tail Noonan would have tagged him. Eight men massed ahead of the flying pair and bellowed at Noonan for the play at third, but Noonan, stretching forward as never man had stretched, rounded third with the clinched ball fairly waving in the small of the runner's back. The entire Cardinal team and two umpires, dashed to the plate, begging Noonan to throw, but Noonan, ignoring them, dashed over the plate an inch shy of the flying Chicagoan's shirt.

McCloskey was spectacular. He dashed over from back of first and jerked his left hand as only McCloskey could, toward the bench.

That was all for Noonan in the big leagues.

BEAUTY CULTURE.

JANE.—Bay rum is fine for oily hair. A mixture of cornmeal and orris root is also good. Take the finest ground white cornmeal, add a little powdered orris root and sprinkle the powder through the hair. Massage the scalp and rub the powder over it. Shake the powder through the long hair, letting it stand for half an hour. Remove the meal with a long-fibered brush. A little borax used in the water in which you wash your hair will also extract some of the oil. Oily hair should be washed at least every three weeks.

PLEASE.—A beauty writer says: Two simple and inexpensive articles of diet that are excellent for the complexion and system generally are particularly to be recommended, and strange to say are not eaten as much as they should be. They are green salads of any sort with French dressings, oil, pepper, salt, vinegar and oranges. The latter cannot be too highly advocated. Occasionally there is a person with whom they disagree radically, but this is the exception, and individuals who cannot eat any other fruit will thrive upon oranges. This particular form of fruit is nourishing, its action upon the digestion is peculiarly beneficial, and therefore it is clearing to the skin. A dozen a day is none too many to eat if a person wishes. If, however, they have not been eating them it would be well to begin gradually. Before breakfast take the juice of one strained. This is given to babies and is more easily digested than when the pulp remains in. If, however, the digestion is good there is no objection to the pulp. It is better, however, always when possible, to eject the fine inner skin, and under no circumstances should the tough white underskin be eaten, for it is one om the most indigestible vegetable forms grown. Another orange may be eaten an hour after breakfast if wished and a couple at luncheon is none too many. After that one or two at a time at intervals of two hours may be taken, with some just before going to bed. At this last time they will frequently induce sleep. It is not of course necessary to eat so many, but they will take the place of other food. Always buy a good quality and be sure they are not overripe. For girls working in offices oranges are invaluable food, if they did but know it. One after luncheon will piece out that meal most satisfactorily, and many times it would be possible to have one of the fruit and kept in a desk drawer to be eaten in the afternoon when one is tired, at the same time not stopping work. A little food is a great stimulant when body and mind are fatigued. Green salads, such as lettuce, endive, chiccory and the like, are skin whiteners and excellent food. They are appetising, and the oil eaten on them is nourishing and fat making. The London Lancet, one of the best known medical papers, recommends them highly, saying: "When there is no inclination to eat, or when, as it is commonly said, a person does not fancy his food, there is, as a rule, torpidity of digestive function. With the sight of tempting food the work of the digestive organs is begun. The mouth waters, and even the gastric juice flows in response to a pleasant impression. The salad, therefore, may fill a special and important gap in the dietary; and when it is prepared with oil, as every good salad should be, it becomes an excellent and agreeable vehicle for conveying fat into the body. Dressed by the discreet addition of sound olive oil and pure wine vinegar, no more excellent adjunct to the old dish can be suggested. The oil modifies and smooths the peculiar flavors of the juices of the plant, while the vinegar softens the tissues, renders them more digestible, and kives an agreeable piquancy to the whole. The use of salads prepared from tender plants by those who possess normal digestive powers is undoubtedly salutary, and the constituents in raw green vegetables contain salts which have a favorable effect upon the condition of the blood. In cooking, of course, a large proportion of these salts is removed. It is probably the abundance of alkaline salts in green vegetables which makes them of service in some diseases of the skin." If a working girl will finish her lunch or dinner with a good salad and cheese instead of sweets she will be better off and look better.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

AND OBLIGE. — Home-made yeast cakes: Pare and slice eight fine mealy potatoes, and put into two quarts cold water with cup fresh hops tied in cheesecloth bag. Boil 45 minutes after bubble begins. Take out hop bag, straining and squeezing hard to get out all strength. Pour the hop tea and potatoes into a bowl through a colander, rubbing potatoes well until all have passed the holes. Set back on fire and stir into mixture 2 cups flour wet up with cold water. Take from fire and cool to blood warmth, after beating smooth. Add two great spoons lively yeast, throw a bit of netting over the open bowl and let rise. It should quadruple the original bulk. Now, knead into a paste a cup white Indian meal; roll out into a sheet quarter inch thick and cut into round cakes. Dry in hot sun in summer, in open oven in winter. They must be dried—not baked. To cook them would vitiate their vitality. It is a good plan to put them into a cooling oven at bedtime and leave them until morning. When quite dry, put into muslin bag and hang in cool, dry place. If properly made and thoroughly dried, they keep a month without losing strength. Use as you would patent yeast cakes. A cake the size of an ordinary tumbler will make two loaves. Soak soft in lukewarm water, stir in a mere pinch of soda and work into the dough.—Marion Harland's "Housekeeper's Week."

RANSOM!

A New Mystery Novel by the Author of "Loot,"

ARTHUR SOMERS ROCHE

CHAPTER XV.

SINSABAUGH spoke first.

"This officer here," and he pointed to Kelcey, "has placed me under arrest. He refuses to state why. May I beg that you will explain to me?"

"I ain't arrested him, Commissioner," corrected Kelcey. "I knew you wanted to see him, and when I run across him at the desk of the Plutonia—I went back there to quiz the employes once more, just on general principles—I told him that you'd like to see him, and was kinda firm about his comin' down here. But I didn't arrest him."

Sinsabaugh smiled sourly. "A distinction with mighty little difference," he stated. "What do you want of me, Commissioner?" he demanded.

"Were you looking for Philip Waring?" asked Herkomer.

"Waring?" Sinsabaugh's face expressed blank surprise. "Is he at that hotel?"

"He was," said Herkomer grimly.

He eyed the other man. Then he placed his cards upon the table.

"You've heard the newsboys crying panic, Mr. Sinsabaugh?"

"It may perhaps occur to you that this panic is one reason why I'd like to be at my desk," snapped Sinsabaugh.

"And it might have averted this panic if you had told the truth last night about Philip Waring's presence in your home. Wait," said Herkomer hastily as the big man's face crimsoned. "This isn't a time to mince words. Listen!"

And as he had told Malcolm, so he told Sinsabaugh his suspicions, his beliefs.

"Now, Mr. Sinsabaugh,' he added, "Waring is undoubtedly a friend of yours; you want to help him. I admire that. But shielding a friend when that friend is doing irreparable damage to a nation's business, when that friend has been mixed up in murder—was Waring at your house last night?"

"But it's absurd to think Phil Waring is in a thing like this," cried Sinsabaugh.

"Yet he was at your house last night, and fled from the officers sent to arrest him, didn't he?" insisted Herkomer.

"Waring has done no wrong; he told me as much," he said stubbornly. "And I believe him, and will believe him. But, under the circumstances, I can see your side of it, the mighty suspicious side of it, Mr. Herkomer. And Phil—Phil's level-headed enough and honest as the day, but he might innocently enough, have let himself in for something. Yes, he was at my house last night."

"How'd he get away?" demanded Herkomer.

"Side door."

Herkomer waved aside Sinsabaugh's last night's denial to the police of Waring's presence in the Sinsabaugh mansion. The truth, not reasons for previous evasion or falsehood, was what the Commissioner wanted now.

"Leave his address?"

"No. Said he'd phone. Told me that if I heard anything, not to believe it. And I don't," he added stoutly.

"Then what were you doing at the Plutonia, the hotel he went to?" questioned Herkomer.

"I didn't know he'd been there,' said Sinsabaugh hotly, angry at the apparent imputation that he lied.

"I believe you,' said Herkomer quietly.

But Sinsabaugh insisted on explanation. "We had another guest at dinner last night, a Miss Claire Sorel, from Paris—at least, her uncle, a Mr. Peter Randall, makes his home there, and she's lived abroad a long time. My wife had met her, and so she was asked to dinner. My wife wanted her to meet Waring."

"And Waring dined with you last night?"

"He did. He didn't want to come, but when I mentioned Miss Sorel's name, he seemed quite interested—she too, when they met, but it was a mutual error. Neither had met the other before, although I think that each of them had heard of the other."

"And how did Miss Sorel leave your house without the officers on watch knowing it?"

"I guess your men only watched the front door," grinned Sinsabaugh. "She seemed a little upset by the presence of policemen; it made her nervous, and so I let her out the side door, too."

Herkomer shook his head despairingly. But one doesn't get genius for a wage of $1800 or less. Still, the men watching Sinsabaugh's place ought to have some sense! But Sinsabaugh evidently knew what was passing through the Commissioner's mind, and relieved his chagrin by the remark:

"Not everyone knows of that side entrance, Mr. Herkomer. There are times when a railroad man likes a private conference without newspaper men knowing about it, you know."

Herkomer nodded. It always relieved him to find that the men under him were not so blameworthy as they appeared.

"And Miss Sorel seemed to have heard of Waring," he said thoughtfully. "I'd like to speak with her."

"So would I," said Sinsabaugh. "My wife picked up a rather expensive brooch that she'd dropped, and as it was on my way to my office, I thought I'd drop in and deliver it to her. But the clerk told me that she had left early this morning, leaving no address. Merely took a taxi to the Grand Central."

"H'm," Herkomer pursed his lips. Then he shrugged his shoulders. This was unimportant. However:

"Better let me have the brooch, then, hadn't you?" he said. "You say it's valuable?"

"I've bought trinkets like it," said Sinsabaugh wryly. "They don't come under a couple of thousand."

Herkomer whistled. "Most women would have been at your house before this."

He examined the trinket. "Wore it at her breast? Yes? Don't see how she could have missed it." He laughed. "But leaving a trinket at a friend's house hardly comes under the 'lost and found' category, does it? Force of habit made me ask for it, I guess."

He started to hand it back; then his eye was caught by engraving on the back.

"'From S. to D.,' eh? Thought her name was Claire?"

"May be an heirloom," suggested Sinsabaugh.

"Rather modern design," doubted Herkomer. He passed the brooch to Sinsabaugh, who put it in his pocket.

"Is there anything else I can do for you, Commissioner?" asked the railroad man.

"No. You could have done it last night; you could have delivered Waring over to my men. However, the fat's in the fire. And we don't prosecute people for helping their friends—not while I'm Commissioner; and anyway, no warrant was shown you. * * * And you can't give me the faintest light?"

Sinsabaugh shook his head. He started to leave. Then he stopped and asked: "Do you think—have you any idea that you can locate Conybear and the rest?"

Kelcey dropped his argumentative manner. His voice took on its usual drone.

"I sent a couple of men out to look up this Monte Messerman, who drove the taxi this 'Doris Marchant' came to the Plutonia in," Kelcey said. "I went myself to the Hotel Anson and talked with this Jacques Pelletier; he's an importer, lives in Dubuque and landed only the other day on the Montania. He didn't know why anyone should have taken his name and address. I asked him if he had many friends in New York, and he said only business acquaintances. I described Waring to him and he knew him at once."

"Knew Waring?" cried Herkomer.

Kelcey shook his head. "No, sir; he recognized him as someone else. Pelletier identified this description I gave him as fitting a fellow passenger of his on the Montania, a guy named Pierre Carnot. He hadn't had much conversation with this Carnot, Pelletier says, Carnot havin' been seasick in his cabin most of the time. But the last night out they spoke to each other in the smoking room, both being Frenchmen, you see, and had a drink together. That's where he learned Carnot's name."

"And Carnot's destination?"

"I telephoned the steamship company right from Pelletier's room, and they ran over the list of passengers for me, that arrived on the Montania. Carnot, in spite of his name and bein' French, lives in Grand Rapids, Mich. Naturalized, I suppose. And," Kelcey went on, before Herkomer could put the next question, "I sent a wire immediately to the Chief of Police in Grand Rapids, asking for dope on this guy Carnot. There's no answer yet, of course."

"And I hardly see what bearing any answer can have on this affair, anyhow. The man we're after isn't a man that looks like Waring; we're after Waring. * * * And, still, why should Waring use the name and address of a man that landed from the Montania?"

Herkomer puzzled over this. He gave it up and attacked Kelcey with further questions.

"Messerman? The man that drove the girl to the Plutonia? What did he have to say? Was he located?"

"Yes sir. He told the men I sent to round him up that he picked up his fare on the corner of Sixth avenue and Forty-eighth street. He didn't know what house she come from. She was walkin' along, half-runnin', when she spied him and he spied her. She jumped in and told him to drive as fast as he could to the Plutonia. There she told him to wait for her. While she was goin' into the hotel, another taxi drove up, and a man asks Messerman if his fare said wait. And he hands Messerman fifty when Messerman answers yes, and tells him to blow. Messerman's one of the nighthawks around the tenderloin. He don't ask no questions nor make no parley when half a century is in it for him. He drives off. But he noticed the driver of the other car. He was a guy named Cantrell, a big gunman. He's been mixed up in a lot of gun play, but we never had the real goods on him. I'm havin' the burg combed for him this minute."

"Good!" Herkomer nodded approvingly.

An officer entered, announcing that a Portsmouth policeman had a prisoner for the Commissioner. Herkomer ordered them brought in, and he wasted no time in his verbal assault on Peter Perkins, the half-wit.

"Peter," said the Commissioner severely, "I'm ashamed of you."

"Well," said Peter, shuffling his feet, "I give you a good chance to gimme a big reward, and you can't call $2 much, can you? Leastwise, it's a lot, but I kinda thought that if I took my time I might get more."

"Well, if I gave you $2 the last time you were here, and you kept something back from me, how much should I give you to get everything you know?"

"Twenty dollars," cried Peter.

A moment later a $20 bill crumpled in his pocket, Peter was telling the true history of the Conybear cry for help.

"Well," he said, "I didn't find the note at 4 o'clock in the mornin' like I said. It was given to me about 8 o'clock by a man I'd never seen before. I was—well, I was trespassin' on Mr. Conybear's land on my way back from the beach, where I'd been clammin', and that's why I said I found the note on the road. The man said I wouldn't get into no trouble for trespassin' if I done what he told me to do, but I was scared and I couldn't believe him, could I? How'd I know? But he gimme $2 and said that was all he had in his clothes, and the Police Commissioner of New York would give me some more, lots more, he said, and well"—Peter drew a long breath before he went ahead.

"Well, after he finished writin' the note, he put it in the envelope and addressed it and give it to me. And I opened and read it. And bimeby I come to New York and got $2 from you, and today I got thinkin' about it, and my mother had found the $2 and took 'em from me; and I'd read the note before I sealed it, the man having forgot to seal it, so I went to the banker in Portsmouth, thinkin' he'd want to know all about Mr. Conybear, and he laughed at me, and—I ain't done nothin', and I want to go home," wailed Peter, forgetful of the twenty in his pocket.

Herkomer reminded him of his fortune, and Peter's tears were quickly dried. But nothing more, by the shrewdest questioning, could be elicited from the half-wit; he could not even describe the man who had given him the note, but was certain that it was not Conybear himself. And Herkomer dismissed the man, convinced that he finally told the truth.

Once again Herkomer's thoughts were interrupted, this time by the telephone. The speaker was one of the officers detailed to find Cantrell, the gunman chauffeur. * * * Herkomer put down the receiver with a groan. For Cantrell had been found; but in a hospital—dead. Two men, so the officer said, had been brought into the hospital in the early hours of the morning. They had been in a taxicab, both apparently on the front seat; they had been speeding along Riverside drive, had skidded in a pool formed by a slight shower, had been overturned, and both were dead. The man Cantrell had been identified by his chauffeur's license, and friends summoned from the garage where he stored his car had recognized his companion as a man named Durney. Both, hurried to the hospital in an ambulance, had died without recovering consciousness. There was no evidence of foul play. Accident had robbed Herkomer of a link in his chain.

He gritted his teeth as he turned back to his desk. Kelcey stood silently by, with no suggestion to offer. Herkomer reviewed events once more.

"A telegram, sir," said Kelcey, loath to interrupt his chief's brown study.

Herkomer took it; he read it mechanically; then, his eyes burning, he ran through it again. It read:

"Herkomer, Police Department, New York: Peter Randall, Government agent in Paris, cabled today great plot against finances of world frustrated by the arrests made by him. Says has been employing this end discredited agent this Government named Chesley. Advises us disregard Chesley's former record place ourselves his disposal and advise metropolitan police departments obey Chesley and place forces at his disposal. Randall trust Chesley and department will do as he says. Plot concerns kidnaping of financiers. Has New York panic spreading all over country any relation to this information? Randall states sent two agents recently to work with Chesley, girl named Claire Sorel and French stool pigeon named Carvajal. Latter just arrived this country via Montania; traveled under name of Carnot and was to report arrival to you and disclose details. Have you heard from him?"

The message was signed by the chief of the secret service of the United States Government, and even as Herkomer was feverishly composing a reply, another telegram arrived from the same person. This one stated that a cable just received from the French police stated that Peter Randall had been assaulted by persons unknown just outside a cable office in Paris, and was now unconscious in his apartments.

The business was narrowing down—but narrowing down to what? Once again the Commissioner dropped into a study. Light began to filter through the mystery here and there. For instance, Malcolm, who ought to know, had said that the Conybear appeal for rescue was written on a note paper peculiar to the secret service branch of the Government. The discredited agent, Chesley, might have had such paper in his possession. But if Chesley had written the note, why hadn't he merely called the police on the telephone? It would have been much simpler, and there would have been no kidnapings, no murders. Herkomer shook his head, puzzled.

And Claire Sorel! If she were a Government agent, why had she disappeared from the Plutonia this morning? And was her failure to recognize Waring—or her recognition, or whatever had been the underlying cause of what Sinsabaugh had described as her peculiar manner toward Waring—was that important or unimportant? Did it have any bearing whatsoever? It was so hard to know what was important and what was not.

Herkomer scratched out the message that he had begun, a message that contained a demand that the secret service head cable Paris at once and get definite details. Instead he wrote the laconic sentence:

"Better catch the first train to New York."

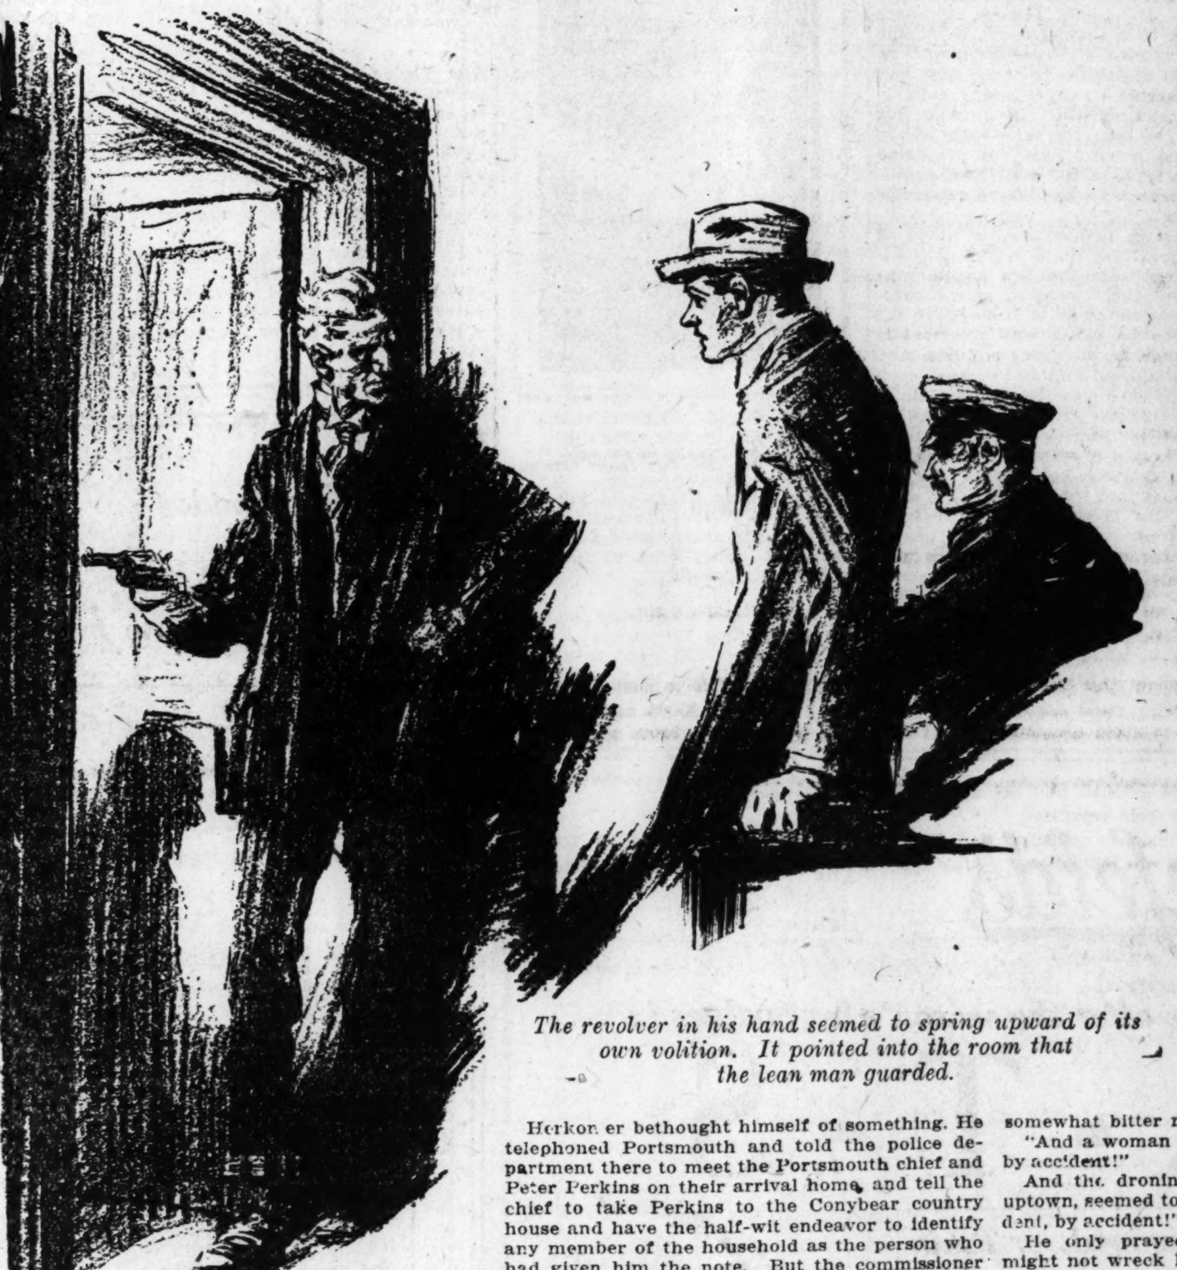
Kelcey left the room. He returned in a moment bringing another telegram. Herkomer opened it. It was from the Chief of Police of Grand Rapids, and conveyed information that Herkomer already knew; that no Pierre Carnot was known in that Michigan town.

Herkomer smiled wanly. No one knew anything—including himself.

But the mention of Pierre Carnot's name in the telegram made Herkomer think again of Pelletier, and of Waring's assumption of that name. And then he thought of the real Pelletier's description that corresponded to Waring. The height, the coloring of hair and eyes, that Herkomer would himself give, were he asked to describe Waring—the same description that was, or should be, in the mind of every police officer in New York — flashed through Herkomer's brain. And unconsciously he began fitting that description to someone else—to the unidentified man, apparently a Frenchman, who had been picked up dead, killed by an automobile in front of Waring's apartment house.

Pelletier's description would fit this man Carnot, or Carvajal. And Carvajal's description, then, would fit the victim of the automobile accident. Was there a connection? The man had been killed in front of Waring's apartment, killed fleeing from Waring. There must be a connection—in which case it was possible that Waring was playing Carvajal's part. But why, then, had he chosen the name of Jacques Pelletier?

Herkomer's brain, traveling all around the edges of this mystery of mysteries, touched again at a salient point. The man who had given Peter Perkins the note was apparently, from what Peter said, one of the Conybear household. Only one member, besides Conybear, of that household was missing. That one was Henderson, the secretary-valet with whom Herkomer had himself talked regarding Conybear's note. Could Henderson, the secretary-valet, be Chesley the secret agent? But if so. Why hadn't Henderson, or Chesley, told Herkomer about the note, that he had himself written it, when Herkomer telephoned?



The revolver in his hand seemed to spring upward of its own volition. It pointed into the room that the lean man guarded.

Herkomer bethought himself of something. He telephoned Portsmouth and told the police department there to meet the Portsmouth chief and Peter Perkins on their arrival home, and tell the chief to take Perkins to the Conybear country house and have the half-wit endeavor to identify any member of the household as the person who had given him the note. But the commissioner instinctively felt that this was a waste of effort; Henderson, the missing man, was the one that had written it. So instinct told him, and Herkomer believed instinct.

The hours passed. Portsmouth reported that Peter Perkins recognized no member of the Conybear household as the writer of the note. It must have been Henderson.

A deputation of the governors of the Stock Exchange, headed by President Symons of Amalgamated Products Co., called, to beg, to beseech, to pray Herkomer for information which he could not give them. They left, threatening to have his political head if the missing financiers were not produced, as Herkomer had promised Symons they should be, before the exchange opened in the morning.

The Mayor, luckily, was on his vacation, and the Governor was confined to his bed with the after-effects of an operation for appendicitis. Herkomer could not be removed out of hand, but —there was small comfort in that. There was only this much comfort: The newspapers, although they denounced Conybear and his associates for their absence at a time when strong men were needed in the market, did not give credit to the missing millionaires for any decent attributes; they assumed that their absence was voluntary. No hint of kidnaping had reached the press. Nor did any cables from Europe mention the failure of a great plot over there that would inevitably have led to comparison and assumption over here.

By 10 o'clock the chief of the secret service department was in Herkomer's office. But in half an hour he and the commissioner were reduced to the one telling and the other listening to the story of one Victor Chesley's withdrawal from the department. For the chief could deduce nothing from what Herkomer could tell him, and Herkomer could really tell him little.

It was midnight when the Washington man rose to his feet.

"Well, as far as I can see, there's nothing to be done but take our medicine," he announced. "Paris says that Randall won't be out of his stupor for several days. There's no further information to be got from him. I'm going to a hotel, sleep on it, and—pray. You'd better do the same."

"I suppose," sighed Herkomer.

He had reached for his hat and coat, when the telephone rang. He listened a moment, ejaculated formless exclamations, hung up and turned to the secret service chief.

"Ever hear of Mrs. Willy Sinsabaugh?" he asked.

"Wife of the railroad man?"

"Uh-huh! Silly little thing—butterfly, gadabout hubby's money spender—all that sort of thing. I've never met her, but I've heard of her. And I've had the gall to pity Sinsabaugh. As if it wasn't patent to the common sense that a man like Sinsabaugh wouldn't stand for a woman like that unless she was more than a doll. Had brains."

"Well, what about it?"

"Oh, nothing much," smiled Herkomer wearily, "except that she's just given me a tip that—the woman Claire Sorel left a brooch at Sinsabaugh's house. It was engraved 'From S. to D.' That didn't mean much, either to me or to Mrs. Sinsabaugh. But a scrap of paper that Mrs. Sinsabaugh found by her desk telephone in her boudoir —the telephone that Miss Sorel had asked permission to use last night. It happens that Miss Sorel had once told Mrs. Sinsabaugh that the brooch was a gift to her. Naturally, when her husband pointed out the engraving, Mrs. Sinsabaugh thought that it was funny.

"In her boudoir tonight Mrs. Sinsabaugh chanced upon the scrap of paper I just mentioned. Instead of berating her maid for untidiness, she looked at the paper. On it was a telephone number, 'Bryant 272727.' No, I didn't write it down—three twenty-sevens aren't hard to remember. And on it also was the name 'Simon Bergson.' That name doesn't mean much to you, but to Mrs. Sinsabaugh—'Simon Bergson' is the name of the man that Carey Haig, a defaulting trustee, uttered with his dying breath some months ago. And Carey Haig had stolen the Philip Waring fortune, and Philip Waring is a friend of Mrs. Willy Sinsabaugh's. Get it?"

"I don't see much," said the secret service man. "What's it to do with Conybear?"

Herkomer shook his head; head-shaking was getting to be a bit of a habit with him recently.

"Neither do I! I don't have to. Anything that has to do with Philip Waring interests me, because Waring has been seen with Conybear since Conybear left Portsmouth. But that isn't all. Mrs. Sinsabaugh's husband is a stockholder in the telephone company. Hence she has a book which gives numbers first and names afterward. She looked for 272727 under 'Bryant.' She found the name—it isn't 'Bergson;' it's 'Clarkson,' as a matter of fact, and it's a private hospital—the Clarkson Hospital.

"And then what do you suppose she did? She took a car over to that hospital—it's on Fiftieth near Sixth avenue. And Mrs. Willy Sinsabaugh, all by herself, is watching that house, into which, as she walked by 10 minutes ago, having dismissed her car at the corner, as she reconnoitered—bless her kid heart —she saw Burton Conybear walk!"

"Then what in the name of heaven are we sitting here idling for?" cried the man from Washington.

"Because the minute I hung up the phone I pressed a button under my foot," smiled Herkomer, "and it's taken until just about now for reserves to pile into autos. I think we'll find them waiting for us if we go downstairs now. Care to come along?"

"Care to—oh, gosh!" said the secret service man.

Dumbly but swiftly he followed Herkomer downstairs—followed. Herkomer, whose heart sang a song, with a somewhat bitter refrain, about as follows:

"And a woman did it by accident, by accident, by accident!"

And the droning engines, as Herkomer raced uptown, seemed to repeat: "By accident, by accident, by accident!"

He only prayed that some further accident might not wreck his sudden hope. After all, he wasn't after glory; he was after results. And results seemed very near. He was first to arrive at the door of the Clarkson Private Hospital.

CHAPTER XVI.

TWO automobiles, crowded with plain-clothes men, stood at Sixth avenue and Fiftieth street. Two others, similarly crowded, stood at Fifth avenue and the same street. Four others debouched a score of officers within a few doors of where Herkomer's automobile had stopped.

Kelcey, the Secret Service man, Lieut. Dan McGaw and a plain-clothes man followed Herkomer up the steps of the Clarkson Private Hospital. Herkomer rang the bell.

For a moment after the door opened Herkomer was inclined to believe that a wild goose chase had brought him here. Under the softening light above the white-garbed nurse who opened the door seemed innocent, seemed, by her very ministering presence, to make his errand fantastically bizarre.

"Dr. Clarkson in?"

"Dr. Clarkson has retired," was the answer.

"Some one else, then?"

"We receive no patients save by engagement," was the answer.

The nurse gently closed the door. But Herkomer's foot held it partly open.

"I want to come in," he said.

And then the whole manner of the demure nurse changed. Her face grew hard, vicious. She threw her whole weight against the door. But she was one woman and there were five men opposed to her already, with reinforcements loitering outside. Herkomer broke through the door.

But the white-garbed woman eluded him—leaped backward. There must have been a button in the wall, for two iron doors shot forward to meet and bar the way. Herkomer had paused involuntarily as the woman broke from his detaining clutch, and it was this that saved him from being crushed between the two sheets of steel. And the fact that the plain-clothes man had thrust a nightstick forward held the two iron doors apart.

The mechanism was thus deranged. There was no need of the hydraulic jacks that one of the police automobiles carried. Herkomer led the way into the hall just in time to see the figure of the nurse turn the corner at the head of the first flight of stairs.

He did not hesitate, but mounted the stairs. Standing in the doorway of a room stood a lean, eagle-nosed, sunken-eyed man. The revolver that he held in his hand was to have been expected; it was his calm that amazed Harkomer. The calm evenness of the man's voice, halted Herkomer.

'Stop—please. You have found me. There i no haste."

He did not menace with his weapon. He seeme to know that a threatening gesture with it woul mean an overwhelming rush that he might stop in part but not in its entirety.

Herkomer labored for his breath; lost in th dash upstairs. He held back, by his own halt the men behind him.

'You are under arrest," he said. "It will g easier with you if you put up that revolver."

'So?" The lean man smiled cruelly. "I think not." He eyed Herkomer closely. "You may tak my word for it that the men you come in searcl of are alive. They are here; there is no need fo haste. If you move toward me"——

The revolver in his hand seemed to spring up ward of its own volition. But it did not point a Herkomer. It pointed into the room that th lean man guarded. And the lean man had shifte his position as the revolver had flashed upward

"Mr. Burton Conybear," said the lean man "will you kindly inform these gentlemen that yo are alive?"

"And will you kindly point that damn thing th other way?" sounded the irascible voice of Cony bear.

Herkomer sighed with relief. He know Cony bear's voice. The man facing him was a mania —no question of that; Conybear's life hung o Herkomer's tact.

"Don't worry, Mr. Conybear," cried Herkome "This is the Commissioner of Police, and"——

"I will talk, please," said the man in the door way. "You will listen."

His lips curled back as he surveyed Herkome

"You have caught me—yes. But to what pur pose, while I have Mr. Conybear—so?"

His revolver accented the word "so."

"But you know we have you cornered," sai Herkomer, persuasively, as though humoring child.

"How much is Mr. Conybear worth to yo —alive?"

Herkomer hesitated. When he answered, h spoke to Conybear.

"What do you say, Mr. Conybear?" he aske It was absurd to haggle with a madman, but— might be more absurd not to do so.

"Say? Why, you blasted nincompoop, you'v found me, haven't you? And if you can't dri a hole in him before he can get me—good Lor I've toed the mark for this crazy lunatic, with gun sticking in my ribs or within an inch of m head, until I'm sick of it. But I didn't have n gun at all when they handed me this deal! Yo got a gun! Go to it, and"——

Herkomer's revolver was out, and he was firin as he ran forward, drowning Conybear's word with the crash. Beyond one shot at the commis sioner, the lean man paid no attention to Herko mer's rush, or to his shots; he leaped into th room. And Herkomer, gaining the doorway, fe his right hand grow suddenly numb; his revolve clattered to the floor, and he stood there block ing the way of his followers.

Burton Conybear sat in an armchair, his le and hands manacled. He was moving his bod from side to side to avoid the shots that the lea man fired at him. Then a door across the roo burst open; through it came a red-haired youn man whom Herkomer knew to be Waring.

Waring hurled himself upon the lean ma From still another door came the woman in th nurse's dress. She fired at Waring; and from th same door came another young woman who seize the arm of the nurse; the spitting revolver swaye toward Herkomer; instinctively he ducked. B something struck him heavily over the left ten ple; he reeled into the arms of Kelcey; then rush of men, his men, went by him, and Herk mer lost consciousness.

The rasp of a file and the sound of a voice th sounded as harsh as the working steel broke upon Herkomer's consciousness. He looked u the wrinkled visage of Kelcey was close to h face. He could see tears in Kelcey's eyes, thoug the lips of Kelcey framed a grin.

"Feelin' fine, Commissioner? Sure you ar Nothin' wrong but a lick on the mitt and a d on the bean. Sit up?"

Herkomer sat up. He looked about him. The was a blood-stain on the rug before him.

"What time is it?" he asked Kelcey.

"You ain't been lyin' here 15 minutes, Commi sioner," reassured Kelcey.

"Conybear?"

"That's him talkin'."

Through an open door Herkomer saw th grizzled old financier. He was sitting at a des telephoning; and as he talked a man whom He komer recognized as a police chauffeur was filin away at the irons that held Conybear's feet t gether.

"Right!" Conybear was saying. "We'll bu this panic higher than a kite by 10:15 o'clock the morning. I'll be at my office at 7. You there; round up the others; I'll have enough ca on hand to show anybody that's nervous that bull market is on the way."

He hung up the receiver with his manacle hands and wheeled around, almost knocking ov the kneeling man who labored at his ankles. H spied Herkomer.

"Here, this can wait," he roared. He rose an shuffled into the next room.

"How're you feelin'?" he cried. "Great figh wasn't it? By gosh, it made me young agai Pshaw, you didn't see it. Tough luck! Be phonin' my broker. I'll be on the job in th mornin'. Here you, get busy with my feet again

And he sank into a chair and beamed upon th Commissioner as though they were seated plea antly in a club, chatting together.

Herkomer beamed in response, though it hu his head to move a muscle of his face. He fe the bandage across his forehead and sighed he looked at his likewise-bandaged hand.

"What you sighin' for?" chuckled Conybea "Ain't you landed the biggest gang that ever w and covered yourself with glory, and won't th girls make a fuss over a handsome young fell with a wounded hand? You bet! Smile!"

"Kelcey, sketch in the bare places, will you" Herkomer asked.

Kelcey grinned. "Well, there's one guy on th way to the cemetery—at least he will be tomo row."

"Shot?"

"No." And the good-natured Kelcey's tone w slightly regretful as he made the admissio "Apoplexy. Leastwise, so the doc. says."

He nodded at a bearded man in the back ground, who bowed acquiescence.

"Yes, but then?"

"Why, then, Commissioner, way, then, y see"——

Herkomer wondered why Kelcey should spe in so singsong a voice. He suddenly realized th he was being picked up and carried. Herkom was asleep before his bearers reached the foot the stairs. But it was a calm, restful sleep, u disturbed by harassing dreams.

University Society Will Take a Respite From War Relief Work by Calling a Special Meeting for the Morning of Nov. 3, When a Reception Will Be Given in Honor of Melba, Muratore, Galli-Curci and Other Members of Grand Opera Company.

IN these busy days of war relief service in which all women are interested there must be some respite from the exigencies thereto, and that is what the women of the University Society are going to get. It is oing to be a respite full of interest, instruction and social features, one hat for the moment will make them less cognizant of the sacrifices of today d one which will make them take up their war activities with just that uch more vigor and energy.

It is a true saying that all work will make for dullness and women to- y need the diverting influence of social contact or the uplifting influ- nce of good lectures and music to bring them to their highest efficiency the great undertakings which war has brought upon them.

The University Society, aside from s regular monthly meetings, has call" meetings when any person of terest in in our city. THE patriotic ball to be given Thursday night at Arcadia by the Inter-Sorority Council for the benefit of the Navy Drum Corps and the naval scouts is holding the attention of society to a marked degree, as it will be the first big ball of the season.

Those who are at the head of it are untiring in their efforts to make it one of the notable affairs of the year and with the list of sponsors it is bound to be one of the most successful war benefit affairs on the social calendar. Among many other features will be a number of dances by young girls. "Aurora" will be impersonated by Miss Grace Oberschelp; "A Moment Musicale," by Miss Lila Louise Pellman; "A Village Belle," by Margaret Lippmann; "Harsovian Maid," by Miss Ellen Barber; "Waltz Romance," Miss Charlotte Pellman; "Wood Nymph," Kathleen Wheeler; "A Pastorale," by Misses Ruby Farrar and Eva Hayne, and "Diana," by Miss Margaret Houser. These are under Miss Alice Martin's direction. All the boxes for this ball were sold the first day. Gov. and Mrs. Gardner will occupy one.

Among the sponsors for the affair are Mmes. Howard Benoist, Theodore Benoist, J. D. Perry Francis, Auguste Chouteau, Walker Hill, Festus J. Wade, John O'Fallon Delaney, Eugene Angert, Lon O. MURILLO PORTRAITS.

THERE was an innovation at the wedding of Miss Katherine Guy, Oct. 4, when she became the bride of Lieut. Henry Fenimore Cooper II at Cooperstown, N. Y. The bride carried a gorgeous bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley and also carried a prayer book bound in ivory and enclosed in a satin box fashioned from the same satin as her wedding gown. This was presented by the bride at the altar to the minister, who read the marriage service from it.

A pretty fashion and a world of sentiment!

It used to be that our grandmothers kept their wedding gowns carefully packed away in lavender in the attic, to be taken out occasionally and shown to the children and grandchildren, and sometimes even worn by them at their own weddings, but in this day of changing styles, of apartment house dwelling where space is at a premium and there are no attics, wedding gowns are not cherished and treasured as they once were. But the small box of the wedding dress material with the prayer book from which the service was read is a keepsake that can be easily treasured for many years, and children and grandchildren in the years to come can still know, at least, what the material of their grandmother's gown was like and can still use the same prayer book at their weddings that she used. So now added to the family heirloom lace which is a part of nearly every bride's wedding gown a bride of future generations may also have the prayer book in its satin box as an added touch of sentiment to her bridal array.

MRS. FRITZ RIESMEYER
WHO WILL DEPART SOON FOR NORFOLK, VA., TO BE NEAR HER HUSBAND WHO IS IN THE COAST PATROL . .

AMONG the war relief societies, one that is doing a vast amount of good in a quiet, steady sort of way is the St. Louis Branch of the British American War Relief Fund for the Allied Countries. Its headquarters are in New York and Lady Herbert is the president. The St. Louis branch is composed of many prominent women, who meet Friday of each week at the Church of the Messiah, on Union and Von Versen avenues, making garments, etc., which are shipped to New York headquarters to be sent abroad.

Mrs. Benjamin Gratz formerly was president, but Mrs. J. P. Jamieson is now filling that place. Miss Bertha Skinker is secretary and the committee of the St. Louis branch consists of Mmes. W. A. Hardaway, C. C. Pangman, C. G. Spoeri, Robert Terry, John Shapleigh and H. L. Chase. Some of the volunteer workers who are found each Friday devoting their time to work for our soldiers and sailors are Mmes. W. A. Layman, J. Porter Tirrell, Sam Plant, W. L. R. Gifford, Newton R. Wilson, Halsey C. Ives, John W. Day, Thomas G. Rutledge, W. C. d'Arcy and W. W. Hoxton.

Friday evening at 8 o'clock there will be an illustrated lecture at the Church of the Messiah clubrooms, under the auspices of this society. Mrs. John Lowes, chairman of the Entertainment Committee, will be assisted by Mmes. J. P. Tirrell, C. C. Pangman, Archer O'Reilly and George O. Carpenter Jr. Capt. Charles Dolphin of the Twenty-fourth Battalion, Canadian expeditionary force, and Royal Flying Corps, will tell about the great war as he saw it during two years of service at the front. Capt. Dolphin was leading a scouting party when one of his command had his arm shot off at the shoulder. Capt. Dolphin took him on his back and made for cover. Just then a German bomb struck the wounded man, blowing him to atoms, and Dolphin landed 50 feet away in a shell crater. Four days later he opened his eyes in the hospital uninjured save for shell-shock, which has put him out of active service for the present.

SUITS--A Sale at $19.50 and $24.50

Girls' Coat, tan broadcloth, Hudson seal collar and cuffs, $45.00.

Now, a mere announcement of Suits at $19.50 and $24.50 has little or no meaning. Practically every store in the country has around $20 and $25 suits. But there's no special inducement for a woman to buy a $20 or $25 suit for $20 or $25—and these Suits we're featuring for Monday at $19.50 and $24.50 are not $19.50 and $24.50 Suits.

That's what will make this sale out of the ordinary. Through an unexpected trade turn we secured several hundred Suits last week that are worth up to $35.00—a few worth $40.00—and we secured them at a "Price" which brings them to our customers at the two prices mentioned.

more. The women have done some of the best work of any of our patriotic societies and since June 18 they have sent more than 5000 knitted garments to the front.

An emergency call came the other day that 5000 woolen socks and 10,000 woolen garments were needed for immediate shipment to the front, so from now on there will be no busier place in St. Louis than the headquarters of the organization.

Even the school children respond to the patriotic call and from the Yeatman School 500 comfort kits, and 5000 trench candles were shipped by the comittee on Monday. Mrs. William A. Stickney is the head of this branch of the Navy League and some of her assistants are Mmes. I W. Morton, John T. Davis Sr., Joseph Dickson, William Bascom, William Bagnell, Charles Filley, Edward Simmons, Henry Eliot Jr., J. W. Singer and Marcus Harris.

Another benefit, not a war benefit, but for a good cause, nevertheless, is the bridge party to be given at the Woman's Club Friday afternoon for the benefit of the Chapel of Our Lady of Lourdes of which Father O'Connor is the pastor in charge. Such well-known names as Mmes. Theodore Benoist, Charles A. Faris, Edward J. Walsh, John Felix Valle and William Morrison appear as sponsors for the entertainment.

Distinctive hemstiching, 5c per yard, while you wait; pleating, buttons, work guaranteed. Becker's, 819 Washington. Main 4403.—ADV.

Marching for one's country will be the patriotic contribution of St. Louis women Wednesday, the day of the women's big Liberty Bond parade.

All women who have given sons, husbands or other relatives to the army or navy service, or who are engaged in war relief work, are expected to join the ranks of the marchers.

Leading the parade will be Mrs. Fred Gardner, wife of the Governor, who has given her 19-year old son to the American Ambulance service in France. Mrs. Theodore Benoist, Mrs. McKittrick Jones and a host of other women, the men of whose family are wearing the olive-drab, will be in this division.

Mrs. George Gellhorn, will lead members of the Women's Food Conservation Committee. Mrs. Frank V. Hammar will lead the Red Cross workers.

A squad of knitters from the Navy League, have promised to bring their work with them and knit as they march.

News of Miss Isabel Downing Cabanne's engagement to Lieut. Sevier Rains Tupper of the Seventeenth United States Infantry, now stationed at Camp Chickamauga, Ga., came as a surprise to many of her friends. Miss Cabanne is one of the most talented and accomplished girls in society. She writes poetry, sketches and paints unusually well, is one of the most graceful dancers in St. Louis, swims well, runs her own car and besides all is a good housekeeper. Miss Cabanne is now in the East with her mother and sister, Mrs. Dutilh Cabanne and Miss Dorys Cabanne, and upon their return plans for the wedding will be completed. It will be a quiet affair on account of the recent death of the bride-elect's father, and will take place some time next month. It will be the third marriage to army officers in Miss Cabanne's family within the last three months.

Miss Marie Louise Benoist and Lieut. Francis T. Bryan III were married last evening at 7:30 o'clock at the residence of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Benoist of 4414 McPherson avenue. The Rev. Father Gilfillan of the New Cathedral officiated. Miss Benoist's youngest sister, Miss Lucillle Benoist, was her maid of honor and Capt. John F. Lehmann acted as best man.

The house was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and the ceremony performed before an improvised altar of greens and white chrysanthemums. The bride's gown was of heavy white satin with a medium-length train. Over her long tulle veil she wore a wedding veil of rare old lace which was worn by Mr Bryan's sister, Mrs. Bruce Seddon, at her wedding, and which belonged to her grandmother. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridemaid's frock was of pink satin veiled in chiffo nand trimmed with silver lace with tiny blue rosebuds on it. She carried pink roses.

The wedding unites two old St. Louis families, for both the bride and bridegroom-elect belong to families which have been prominent in the social and civic life of the city for the last century.

Miss Benoist made her debut three winters ago. Mr. Bryan is the son of Francis T. Bryan Jr. and a grandson of Capt. Frank T. Bryan, now 90 years of age, who graduated from West Point in 1846. His mother was Miss Fanny Wickham, through whom he is related to many of the colonial families of Virginia.

After a short wedding trip Mr. Bryan and his bride will got to Manhattan, Kan., where they have taken a residence, as the bridegroom is a Lieutenant in the field artillery stationed at Camp Funston.

Miss Marie Hermann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Hermann of 3455 Longfellow boulevard, and Richard Holecamp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holecamp of 4263 Virginia avenue, were married at the home of the bride last night. Rev. Dr. John L. Roemer of Lindenwood College performed the ceremony in the presence of the two families Mrs. Herman Pierik of Springfield, Ill., was matron of honor and Karl Kempf acted as best man. The house was decorated in pink roses and chrysanthemums.

The bride's gown was of white satin, the bodice entirely of rose point lace, and the bottom of the skirt had a flounce of the same lace. The long train of tulle was finished at the end with a band of satin above which was a wide band

JUICE OF LEMONS! HOW TO MAKE SKIN CLEAR, SOFT, WHITE
Girls! Prepare this lotion and massage face, neck, arms and hands. It's cheap!
At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin bleach, skin softener and complexion beautifier by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. It really will bleach and remove such blemishes as pimples, freckles and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier which absorbs readily and is not sticky or greasy.
Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this harmless lemon lotion and apply it daily to the face, neck, arms and hands. It really does soften, freshen, bleach and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin.

Queen Anne Furniture—

Marked the focusing of the pleasing features of the various types---French, Italian, Portuguese, Spanish and Dutch---that were favored by one or another of the fashionables in England during the Seventeenth Century, into a fixed type which held sway during practically the whole of the Eighteenth Century, a period now termed "Queen Anne."

The suite we illustrate here is Queen Anne in its pleasing design and graceful proportions. It is really wonderful that American artisans can produce this beautiful suite at a fraction of the recorded prices paid by wealthy Englishmen of the days of Anne and the Georges.

Our prices on these pieces—made of either Mahogany or American Walnut:

The Papyrus Club will hold its fifty-fifth meeting the evening of Oct. 30, at the Washington Hotel. There will be an informal reception at 6:45 o'clock and dinner will be served at 7:30. The address of the evening will be given by George E. Odell of New York, whose subject will be "The Art and Ethics of the Moving Picture Theater."

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McEnroe of 1368 Goodfellow avenue have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Gladys Marie McEnroe, to Wilfred Hunter of Montgomery, Mo. The date for the wedding has not been set.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Krite celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home, 1527 North Seventh street, Oct. 13. They have five living children and seven grandchildren.

Mrs. Edward Day Rae of 6186 Kingsbury boulevard has as her guest, her daughter, Mrs. Charles B. Squier of New York, who will remain for about two weeks. Mrs. Rae has recovered after being ill for six months.

WANTS BONDS TO BE BAPTIST

Liberty Loan bonds come in different denominations, but that does not make them denominational. An application received yesterday indicates, however, that there is a good Baptist woman in St. Louis who thinks they are denominational and wants hers to be Baptist.

The woman, who is patriotic as well as denominational, decided to put all of her savings into the bonds. In filling out the application when she came to the line for insertion of the denomination of bonds desired, she promptly wrote in "Baptist."

The Coiffure Beautiful

WOMAN'S natural adornment—or coronet if you will—is her hair. If it is thin and stringy it detracts from her appearance. If it is soft and rich and fluffy her beauty and attractiveness are increased many fold.

Wavy hair does this. And then you are relieved of the unpleasant task of putting your hair up in curlers and trying to sleep on them, the natural result being a headache. Then with the damp weather comes disappointment because the curls and waves quickly disappear.

Our Permanent Hair Waving Process

will give your straight hair a beautiful, natural wave. The treatment is safe and mild, and the wave is guaranteed for six months. Prices are within the reach of every woman's purse.

For a limited time only we will make 15 curls for $12.00.

Simple Home Treatment to Remove Hairy Growths

(Beauty Culture)

Two or three minutes' use of a delatone paste will banish every bit of hair from your face, neck or arms. This paste is made by mixing some water with powdered delatone. After the paste is removed, the skin should be washed to free it from the remaining delatone and it will be clear and spotless. You will not be disappointed with this treatment if you are sure to obtain real delatone from your druggist.—ADV.

"VERY GOOD EDDIE" IS INTIMATE MUSICAL PLAY

Intimate musical comedy is the lass of entertainment to which "Very Good Eddie," to be seen tonight at the Shubert-Garrick Theater, belongs. It is the opposite of he big revue, or girl show with vaudeville interpolations. Its very successful engagement in New York was in the Princess Theater, one of the smallest of the commercial playhouses in the Broadway group. It won vogue there by the prettiness of its scenes and the skill of the players, and the smartness of its chorus.

Many who will see this production on its belated first visit to St. Louis re already familiar with the two elements from which it was constructed. One of these was the farce "Overnight," by Phillip Bartholomae nd guy Bolton, which has its scene on a Hudson River steamer, and shows the mixing-up of two newly married pairs. The other was the yrics and music, by Schuyler Green nd Jerome Kern, which have become familiar in phonograph reproductions, and, it must be added, through the use of some of them by he late lamented Park Opera company.

Ernest Truex, the funny little husband of the New York and Chicago engagements, has been replaced in he cast by Georgie Mack, who also wears collar and shoes of subnormal size. There have been several other changes, but Helen Raymond, who plays the part of the little man's domineering bride, was in the earlier cast as were Denman Maley, Harry Linkey and Jean de Briac.

A Sure-Fire Success.

The Chicago production of "Turn o the Right," which ran through ast season at the Cohan Grand here, while another company was naking its record of a year in New York, will be on display at the Jefferson tonight. This comedy, with ts reformed crooks, its rural types, ts peach orchard and its peach jam, s as unmistakably a sure-fire success as anything the stage has seen n recent years.

Mabel Bert will be seen here as he mother, a part which she is said o have played in Chicago as successfully as Ruth Chester played t in New York. Ralph Morgan, Barry McCormack, William Foran, James H. Huntley, Philip Bishop, Ruth Rose and Helen Collier are among the other principals.

Elsie Janis at Orpheum.

Elsie Janis, to be seen at the Orpheum tomorrow, promises to give ew imitations in a new way. Anna Chandler will present a study in ong and Raymond Bond, assisted y Elizabeth Shirley, will present "Remnants." Bert Swor, former minstrel star; Walter de Leon and Mary Davies, in "Behind the Front," and he Gaudsmidt Brothers, clowns from The Netherlands, are others on the ill.

"Which One Shall I Marry?" is o be seen at the American this afternoon. Money or love is the heroine's alternative, and imaginative and allegorical scenes are used o add to the effect.

The Zig-Zag Revue is the Grand's leading feature tomorrow, and other vaudevillians to be seen there are Reed and Hudson, Elaine Julyette, nd Len Hilton and Alice Lazar. At he Columbia, The Napanees, in a musical act, "Fun in a Schoolroom," re to be featured. Monroe Hopkins nd Lola Axtell will appear in "Travilig," a sleeping car skit. The several other vaudeville acts will be supplemented by a Charlie Chaplin film, "The Adventurer."

The Burlesque Bills.

The Twentieth Century Maids will e at the Gayety this week, with Jim arton as chief funmaker. "O K—O." is the title of the production, which Jack Duffy, Jim Howell, ob Ferns, Florence Tanner, Jacquane Tallman and Juliette, ragtime iolinist, appear.

The Military Maids will be seen at e Standard this week in a burletta ntitled "Hotel de Crook."

The week's bill at the Imperial, rovided by a stock company with lm feature reinforcement, will be In Hulaland." This would appear be about Hawaii, and songs by Davis are featured.

IESAPOTAMIA TEMPERATURES IN JULY BROKE ALL RECORDS

ercury Was 122.8 Degrees in Bagdad, but Soldiers Kept Up Their Spirits.

BAGDAD, Oct. 20.—This has been e hottest season in Mesopotamia which record exists. The highest mperature at Bagdad was 122.8 July, and at Basrah 122, while in e tents of the soldiers the thermometer rose to 10 degrees higher. his was 10 to 12 degrees higher an in 1916. August was also severely hot, and September opened th a heat wave which drove the ermometer to an average of eight grees above normal. The mercury Basrah on Aug. 28 was 118, and Sept. 5 was 116, in a damp atmosphere.

In spite of the abnormal conditions e spirits of the British troops has en excellent and in the hottest eather sports have been enjoyed usual. Early in June a football p series was played at Samarah. e first week of September was arked by a regatta and race meeting at Bagdad and a large number men are now in training for a boxing tournament.

48,000 Women's Handk'rch'fs "Seconds"

In a Sale at, Each, 5c

A WELL-KNOWN maker sent us over 48,000 Handkerchiefs which his inspectors had classified as "seconds" because of minor imperfections in the embroidering or because of a drawn thread here and there.

There are sheer lawn, fine cambric and some all-linen, and, of course, there are hundreds of patterns that embrace every embroidering idea. Some in all-white, others in novelty colored effects. This is a splendid saving opportunity, and most people will buy them a dozen at a time.

Women's Handkerchiefs at 15c

All are of pure linen, fine quality, embroidered in scores of effective patterns in one-corner styles, and neatly hemstitched and with ¼-in. hems—embroidered in all white or colored effects.

GALLI-CURCI AND COMING OPERA STAR

First, Heroine of "Lucia di Lammermoor; Second, Marguerite in "Faust."

Some of the keenest discussions centering about the coming engagement of the Chicago Opera Association at the Odeon, Nov. 2 and 3, will concern Mme. Nellie Melba's portrayal of Marguerite in "Faust" on the first night and that of Lucy in "Lucia di Lammermoor" by Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci on the second evening.

St. Louisans of no immemorial antiquity recall the singing of Mme. Melba as Marguerite, about 15 years ago at the old Exposition Hall, with the two De Reszkes in the cast, as one of the unforgettable musical memories of their lives. They speak of the crystalline purity of her tones, of the sheer beauty of her utterance, of her touching acting of the role. These historians will have an opportunity of judging whether their opinion today will concur with that of the past, considering the passage of years and the growing insistence upon expressiveness.

The appearance of Mme. Galli-Curci will have no connotations of the past, as this will be her debut in St. Louis. Except for her phonographic records, she is vocally unknown here. Everyone remembers how, a year ago, she sought an opportunity to create an American public through the Metropolitan Opera Co., and was repulsed; and how the Chicago company gave her a chance, which resulted in her awakening in the morning to find herself renowned.

Her admirers are now saying that she is greater than Tetrazzini, because she has full command of her voice through all its range, while Tetrazzini was lacking in the middle and lower registers; and that Galli-Curci is superior to those coloratura sopranos who rely solely upon technique, because her voice is not a cold instrument like the flute, but one instinct with human warmth and sympathy.

The casts for the two operas will be as follows:

FAUST.

Marguerite	Nellie Melba
Faust	Lucien Muratore
Mephistopheles	Gustave Huberdeau
Valentine	Alfred Maguenat
Siebel	Jeska Swartz
Martha	Louise Berat
Wagner	Desire Defrere

LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR.

Lucy	Amelita Galli-Curci
Edgar of Ravenswood	Giulio Crimi
Lord Henry Ashton	Giacomo Rimini
Raymond Bide-the-Bent	Vittorio Arimondi
Alice	Alma Peterson
Lord Arthur Bucklaw	Octave Dua

Both performances will be conducted by Cleofonte Campanini, the celebrated impressario of the Chicago Opera Co., and that organization's complete chorus and orchestra are promised.

TO PLAY NUMBER HE USED IN CONCERT HERE 30 YEARS AGO

Violinist Announces Program for Concert at Sheldon Auditorium Thursday Night.

When 14-year-old Theodore Spiering played at a concert of the old Choral Symphony Society, the fifth concerto of Vieuxtemps, which will be one of his numbers at a recital Thursday night at the Sheldon Memorial Auditorium. Since that time, 30 years ago, he has won many honors as a violinist and as an orchestral director. He was assistant director of the New York Philharmonic orchestra under Mahler, and would have succeeded to the latter's baton, his friends say, but for "symphonic politics."

This is Spiering's first recital in St. Louis, his home city, since he left here several years ago. His program will be as follows: Tartini's Sonata in G minor, Beethoven's Romance in G major, Vieuxtemps' Concerto No. 5 in A minor, the Dvorak-Kreisler Slavonic Dance in E minor and Laub's Polonaise in G. In addition the violinist will play three of his own studies from Opus No. 4.

LUTHERAN CANTATA AT ODEON

Celebration of 400th Anniversary of Reformation Oct. 31.

A musical celebration, under Lutheran auspices, of the four hundredth anniversary of the Protestant Reformation, will be held in the Odeon on the night of Oct. 31. A chorus of 200, including members of church choirs and students of Concordia Seminary, will sing the jubilee cantata, "At Eventide."

The text of this cantata was written by the Rev. F. W. Herzberger of St. Louis, and its music was composed by B. Schumacher of Milwaukee. Choral compositions of Martin Luther are woven into the music. The soloists will be Miss Alma Wibbing, soprano; Mrs. H. L. Boecler, alto; Carl Backhaus, tenor, and Adolf Behnke, bass.

AGUINALDO'S SON AN OFFICER

Commission Given Man Whose Father Led Philippine Revolt.

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 20.—Miguel Aguinaldo, son of Don Emilio Aguinaldo, the president of the short-lived Philippine republic at Malolos and generalissimo of the Filipino forces during the revolution against Spain, has been appointed to the rank of second lieutenant of the Philippine National Guard by Gov.-Gen. Harrison, according to an announcement given out in the guard headquarters.

Cousins to Give Concert Here.

Two St. Louisans who are cousins, Minna Niemann, pianist, and Elsa Diemer, soprano, will give a recital at Sheldon Memorial Auditorium on the evening of Nov. 8. Miss Niemann, who has had several appearances here, in addition to her solo numbers, will serve as accompanist for Miss Diemer.

HE TRUTH ABOUT RASPUTIN AND THE RUSSIAN REVOLT

her conduct came to be discussed and her person to be cursed. She was held responsible for all the mistakes that were made, for all the blunders which were committed, for all the omission which had been performed. And when the plot against Rasputin came to be engineered it was as much directed against the person of Alexandra Feodorowna as against that of her favorite, and it was she whom one aimed to strike through him.

Had she shown some common sense after the murder of a man who she well knew was considered the most dangerous enemy of the Romanoff dynasty things might have taken a different course. Though everyone was agreed as to the necessity of a change in the system of government of Russia, though a revolution was considered inevitable, yet no one wished it to happen at the moment when it did, and all political parties were agreed as to the necessity of postponining it until after the war. But the exasperation of the Empress against those who had removed her favorite led her to trust even more in those whom she had introduced and recommended to her attention. She threw herself with a renewed vigor into their schemes, urging her husband to dishonor himself, together with his signature, by turning traitor to his allies and to his promises. She wanted him to conclude a peace with Germany that would have allowed her a free hand in her desire to punish all the people who had conspired against her and against the man upon whom she had looked as a savior and a saint. Once this fact was recognized the revolution became inevitable. It is to the credit of Russia that it took place with the dignity that has marked its development and success.

This, in broad lines, is the summary of the causes that have brought about the fall of the Romanoff dynasty, and they must never be lost sight of when one is trying to describe it. It is, however, far too early to judge the Russian revolution in its effects, because, for one thing, it is far from being at an end, and may yet take quite an unexpected turn. For another, the events connected with it are still too fresh to be considered from an objective point of view. I have, therefore, refrained from expressing an opinion in this narrative. My aim has been to present to my readers a description of the personality of Rasputin, together with the part, such as I know it, that he has played in the development of Russian history during the last five years or so, and afterward to describe the course of the revolution and the reasons that have led to its explosion in such an unexpected manner.

CHAPTER I.

A Court Favorite.

We live in strange times, when strange things happen which at first sight seem unintelligible and the reason for which we fail to grasp. Even in Russia, where Rasputin had become the most talked-of person in the whole empire, few people fully realized what he was and what had been the part which he had played in Russia's modern history. Yet during the last 10 years his name had become a familiar one in the palaces of the great nobles whose names were written down in the Golden Book of the aristocracy of the country, as well as in the huts of the poorest peasants in the land. At a time when incredulity was attacking the heart and the intelligence of the Russian nation the appearance of this semi-vagrant and semi-monk of one of the most persecuted sects in the empire, was almost as great an event as what that of Cagliostro during the years before the fall of the old French monarchy.

There was, however, a great difference between the two personages. One was a courtier and a refined man of the world, while the other was only an uncouth peasant, with a crude cunning which made him discover soon in what direction his bread could be buttered and what advantages he might reap out of the extraordinary positions to which events, together with the ambitions of a few, had carried him. He was a perfect impersonation of the kind of individual known in the annals of Russian history as "Wremienschtchik," literally, "The Man of the Day," an appellation which since the times of Peter the Great had clung to all the different favorites of Russian sovereigns. There was one difference, however, and this a most essential one. He had never been the favorite of the present Czar, who perhaps did not feel as sorry as might have been expected by his sudden disappearance from the scene of the world.

I shall say a thing which perhaps will surprise my readers. Personally, Rasputin was never the omnipotent man he was believed to be, and more than once most of the things which were attributed to him were not at all his own work. But he liked the public to think that he had a finger in every pie that was being baked. And he contrived to imbue Russian society at large with such a profound conviction that he could do absolutely everything he chose in regard to the placing or displacing of people in high places, obtaining money grants and Government contracts for his various "proteges," that very often the persons for whom certain things depended, hastened to grant them to those who asked in the name of Rasputin, out of sheer fright of finding this terrible being in their way. They feared to refuse compliance with any request preferred to them either by himself or by one who could recommend himself on the strength of his good offices in their behalf. But Rasputin was the tool of a man far more clever than himself, Count Witte. It was partly due to the latter's influence and directions that he tried to mix himself up in affairs of state and to give advice to people whom he thought to be in need of it. He was an illiterate brute, but he had all the instincts of a domineering mind which circumstances and the station of life in which he had been born had prevented from developing. He had also something else—an undoubted magnetic force, which allowed him to add auto-suggestion to all his words and which made even unbelieving people succumb sometimes to the hypnotic practices which he most undoubtedly exercised to a considerable extent during the last years of his adventurous existence.

Outside the discontent which, it would be idle to deny, had existed in the Russian empire during the period which immediately preceded the great war, the personality of Rasputin had played a great part in giving to certain people the opportunity to exploit his almost constant presence at the side of the sovereign as a means to foment public opinion against the Emperor and to throw discredit upon him by representing him as being entirely under the influence of the cunning peasant who, by a strange freak of destiny, had suddenly become far more powerful than the strongest Ministers themselves. The press belonging to the opposition parties had got into the habit of attacking him and calling his attendance on the imperial court an open scandal, which ought in the interest of the dynasty to be put an end to by every means available.

In the Duma his name had been mentioned more than once, and always with contempt. Every kind of reproach had been hurled at him, and others had not been spared. He had become at last a fantastic kind of creature, more exploited than anything, more destroyable than destructive, one whose real "role" will never be known to its full extent, who might in other countries than fix a corn so it wouldn't hurt. But now no one in the world "should worry," because the moment you put "Gets-It" on, it means the end of a corn. There is nothing in the world like "Gets-It"—nothing as sure and certain—nothing that you can count on to take off a corn or callus every time, and without danger. The corn never grew what "Gets-It" will not get. It never irritates the flesh, never makes your toe sore. Just two drops of "Gets-It" and presto! the corn-pain vanishes. Shortly you can peel the corn right off with your finger, and there you are—corn-free and happy with the toe as smooth and corn-free as your palm. Never happened before, did it? Guess not.

Russia and at another time have become the founder of some religious order or secret association. His actions when examined in detail do not differ very much from those of the fanatics which in Paris under the reign of Louis XV were called the "Convulsionnaires," and who gave way to all kinds of excesses under the pretext that these were acceptable to God by reason of the personality of the people who inspired them. In civilized, intelligent, well-educated Europe such an apparition would have been impossible, but in Russia, that land of mysteries and of deep faiths, wheer there still exist religious sects given to all kinds of excesses and to attacks of pious madness (for it can hardly be called by any other name), he acquired within a relatively short time the affections of a whole lot of people. They were inclined to see in him a prophet whose prayers were capable of winning for them the Divine Paradise for which their hungry souls were longing. There was nothing at all phenomenal about it. It was even in a certain sense quite a natural manifestation of this large Russian nature, which is capable of so many good or bad excesses and which has deeply incrusted at the bottom of its heart a tendency to seek the supernatural in default of the religious convictions which, thanks to circumstances, it has come to lose.

The American public is perhaps not generally aware of the character of certain religious sects in Russia, which is considered to be a country of orthodoxy, with the Czar at its head, and where people think there is no room left for any other religion than the official one to develop itself. In reality, things are very different, and to this day, outside of the recognized nonconformists, who have their own Bishops and priests, and whose faith is recognized and acknowledged by the State, there are any number of sects, each more superstitious and each more powerful than the other in regard to the influence which they exercise over their adherents. These, though not numerous by any means, yet are actuated by such fanaticism that they become apt at certain moments to become subjects of considerable embarrassment to the authorities. Some are inspired by the conviction that the only means to escape from the clutches of the devil consists in suicide or in the murder of other people.

The Two Principal "Heresies."

For instance, the Baby Killers, or Dietooubitsy, as they are called, think it a duty to send to Heaven the souls of new-born infants, which they destroy as soon as they see the light of the day. thinking thus to render themselves agreeable to the Almighty by snatching children away from the power of the evil one. Another sect, which goes by the name of Stranglers, fully believe that the doors of Heaven are only opened before those who have died a violent death, and whenever a relative or friend is dangerously ill they proceed to smother him under the weight of many pillows so as to hasten the end. The Philipowtsy preach salvation through suicide, and the voluntary death of several people in common is considered by them as a most meritorious action. Sometimes whole villages decide to unite themselves in one immense holocaust and barricade themselves in a house, which is afterward set on fire.

An incident that occurred during the reign of Alexander II is remembered to this day in Russia. A peasant called Khodkine persuaded 20 people to retire together with him into a grotto hidden in the vast forests of the Government of Perm, where he compelled them to die of hunger. Two women having contrived to escape, the fanatics, fearing that they might be denounced, killed themselves with the first weapons which fell under their hand. It was their terror that they might find themselves compelled to renounce their sinister design, and thus fall again into the clutches of that Satan for fear of whom they had made up their minds to encounter an awful death. Even as late as the end of the last century such acts of fanaticism could be met with here and there in the east and center of Russia. In 1883, under the reign of the father of the present Czar, a peasant in the Government of Riazan, called Joukoff, burnt himself to death by setting fire to his clothes, which he had previously soaked in paraffin, and expired under the most awful torments, singing hymns of praise to the Lord.

Excuses Their Religion.

Among all these heresies there are two which have attracted more than the others the attention of the authorities, thanks to their secret rites and to their immoral tendencies. They are the Skoptsy, or Voluntary Eunuchs, about which it is useless to say anything here, and the Khlysty, or Flagellants, which to this day has a considerable number of adepts and to which Rasputin undoubtedly belonged, to which, in fact, he openely owed allegiance. This sect, which calls itself "Men of God," has the strangest rites which human imagination can invent. According to its precepts, a human creature should try to raise its soul toward the Divinity with the help of sexual excesses of all kinds. During their assemblies they indulge in a kind of waltz round and round the room, which reminds one of nothing so much as the rounds of the Dancing Dervishes in the East. They dance and dance until their strength fails them, when they drop to the floor in a kind of trance or ecstacy, during which, being hardly accountable for their actions, they imagine that they see Christ and Virgin Mary among them. They then threw themselves into the embrace of the supposed divinities.

GERMAN "PUNCH" GONE ON WESTERN FRONT — SIMONDS

ways give it very great value. It cannot be attacked without certain destruction, and it is one of the great cities of France. But once the Germans are out of it their next good line is from Antwerp to Namur, covering Brussels, and thence behind the Meuse right down to the hills they hold on the east bank of the Meuse below Verdun. If Lille is lost, then, although there may be a temporary halt behind the Scheldt from Tournai north to hold the Zeebrugge base, the Germans will have to retire to the Antwerp-Brussels-Verdun line with little delay.

This, as I see it, is the larger and the real meaning of the British thrust in Flanders, which is moving down the Lys Valley toward Menin, with Ghent as a remoter objective, and also toward Roulers, with Bruges as a similar goal.

Weather Becomes a Factor.

Long before the line of Bruges-Ghent is reached the Germans will be behind the Scheldt and the Meuse. Whether the British will reach Menin and Roulers or not this year depends almost wholly on the weather, but as this has turned bad there are doubts in all minds now as to the future of this year's operations. But, bad weather and all, the British have been moving at a rate of something like a mile a week for the last month, a rate far swifter than anything they achieved at the Somme. With a little luck they may get to Menin this fall.

Anyway, they should get as near to that town as they did to Baupaume last year, and as they approach Menin their threat to the Lille position will be quite as immediate as the

HANDY STOMACH REMEDY TO HAVE ABOUT YOUR HOME

Instantly stops indigestion, gas, sourness, heartburn or acidity.

"Really does" put upset stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness due to acid fermentation in five minutes—that—just that —makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach antacid and regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments and turns sour, you belch gas and eructate undigested food or water; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin is worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest surest antacid for the stomach in the world.—ADV.

Nuxated Iron to Make New Age of Beautiful Women and Strong Iron Men

Say Physicians—Quickly Puts Roses Into the Cheeks of Women and Most Astonishing Youthful Health Into the Veins of Men—It Often Increases the Strength and Endurance of Delicate, Nervous "Run-Down" Folks 100 Per Cent in Two Weeks' Time.

Opinions of Dr. Schuyler C. Jaques, Visiting Surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York City; Dr. James Louis Beyea, for Fifteen Years Adjunct Professor in the New York Homeopathic Medical College, and Wm. R. Kerr, Former Health Commissioner, City of Chicago.

King M.D.

Since the remarkable discovery of organic iron, Nuxated Iron or "Fer Nuxate," as the French call it, has taken the country by storm, it is conservatively estimated that over three million people annually are taking it in this country alone. Most astonishing results are reported from its use by both physicians and laymen. So much so that doctors predict that we shall soon have a new age of far more beautiful, rosy-cheeked women and strong iron men.

Dr. Ferdinand King, a New York physician and Medical Author, when interviewed on this subject, said: "There can be no strong iron men without iron. Pallor means anaemia. Anaemia means iron deficiency. The skin of anaemic men and women is pale; the flesh flabby. The muscles lack tone; the brain fags and the memory fails and often they become weak, nervous, irritable, despondent and melancholy. When the iron goes from the blood of women, the roses go from their cheeks.

"In the most common foods of America, the starches, sugars, table syrups, candies, polished rice, white bread, soda crackers, biscuits, macaroni, spaghetti, tapioca, sago, farina, degerminated cornmeal, no longer is iron to be found. Refining processes have removed the iron of Mother Earth from these impoverished foods, and silly methods of home cookery, by throwing down the waste pipe the water in which our vegetables are cooked, are responsible for another grave iron loss.

"Therefore, if you wish to preserve your youthful health and strength to a ripe old age, you must supply the iron deficiency in your food by using some form of organic iron, just as you would use salt when your food has not enough salt."

Former Health Commissioner Wm. R. Kerr, of the City of Chicago, says: "I have taken Nuxated Iron myself and experienced its health-giving strength-building effect and in the interest of the public welfare I feel it my duty to make known the results of its use. I am well past threescore years and want to say that I believe my own great physical activity is largely due today to my personal use of Nuxated Iron. From my own experience with Nuxated Iron, I feel it is such a valuable remedy that it ought to be used in every hospital and prescribed by every physician in this country."

Dr. E. Sauer, a Boston physician who has studied both in this country and in great European medical institutions, said: "As I have said a hundred times over, organic iron is the greatest of all strength-builders.

"Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old and asked me to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of twenty and as full of health, strength, endurance and vitality as a young man; in fact, a young man he really was, notwithstanding his age. The secret, he said, was taking iron—Nuxated Iron had filled him with renewed life. At 30 he was in bad health; at 46 he was careworn and nearly all in. Now at 50, after taking Nuxated Iron, a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking, just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while double their strength and endurance and entirely rid themselves of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit."

Dr. Schuyler C. Jaques, Visiting Surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York City, said: "I have never before given out any medical information or advice for publication as I ordinarily do not believe in it. But in the case of Nuxated Iron I feel I would be remiss in my duty not to mention it. I have taken it myself and given it to my patients with most surprising and satisfactory results. And those who wish to increase their strength, power and endurance will find it a most remarkable and wonderfully effective remedy."

Dr. James Louis Beyea, for 15 years Adjunct Professor in the New York Homeopathic Medical College, says: "As a physician I have always been opposed to prescribing advertised remedies, and for fifteen years, while Adjunct Professor in the New York Homeopathic Medical College, I taught my medical students that such remedies were generally valueless, but in the case of Nuxated Iron severe tests made on myself and numerous patients, have absolutely convinced me that it is a remedy of most extraordinary merit and one which should be generally prescribed by all physicians. Notwithstanding the fact that I am nearing my 80th birthday, a short course of Nuxated Iron has made me feel like a new man. Friends say, 'What have you been doing to yourself, you look so well and full of life?' In my opinion there is nothing like organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to put youthful strength and power into the veins of the weak, run-down, infirm or aged. But beware of the old forms of metallic iron which often do more harm than good. To be absolutely sure that my patients get real organic iron and not some form of the metallic variety, I always prescribe Nuxated Iron in its original packages."

NOTE—Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians in such a great variety of cases, is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians both in Europe and America. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in nuxated iron, that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron, and increase their strength 100 per cent, or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by Judge & Dolph Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Johnson Bros.' Drug Co., Pauley Drug Co., Keiffer Drug Co. and all good druggists.

SPECIAL TO PHYSICIANS: Doctor, when you wish to prescribe a true tonic and blood builder, one that puts the real "stay-there" strength and youthful endurance into the blood and nerves, try Nuxated Iron. If you have been using the old forms of metallic iron, without success: if you have had patients complain of discolored teeth, upset stomachs, etc., from the use of metallic iron, again we suggest, try Nuxated Iron. Nuxated Iron will be furnished by any druggist on an absolute guarantee of success or money refunded. It is highly endorsed by such physicians as Dr. James Louis Beyea, for fifteen years Adjunct Professor in the New York Homeopathic Medical College; Dr. N. H. Hornstine, for ten years in the Department of Public Health and Charities of Philadelphia; Dr. A. J. Newman, late Police Surgeon of the City of Chicago, former House Surgeon Jefferson Park Hospital, Chicago; Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author, and others. In most cases physicians direct the use of two five-grain tablets three times per day after meals.

threat to the Noyon salient incident to British advances at the Somme last autumn.

Now, as last year, the Germans are plainly making a desperate effort to hold on until bad weather ends the campaign. To retreat now, to make such a retreat as they would have to make if they were turned out of Lille, would be to let the cat out of the bag; it would be to disclose their defeat on the map that Bethmann-Hollweg once talked about. This retreat would abandon some 6000 square miles of Northern France, three-quarters of what they hold, together with 3000 or 4000 square miles of Belgian territory. Last spring they gave up only 1000 square miles, and were able to explain this, after a fashion, as a strategic retreat.

No such explanation would do for a retreat behind the Scheldt and the Meuse; this would be a confe[illegible] pure and simple.

Germany is planning a peace [illegible]paign this winter. She hopes to be able to assert that the war has become a deadlock and that her lines cannot be pierced, although at the cost of great losses they may be bent back here and there. Precisely this claim is being supported by many thoughtless writers upon the military situation of today, just as the last ditch of the Confederacy before Richmond was heralded by Southern writers and by their Northern dupes as "impregnable." The same sort of nonsense is being talked now, and Germany will turn it to her advantage a little later.

Retreat Confidently Expected.

The truth is otherwise. Germany will have to retreat in the spring, if she escapes the necessity this autumn. When she retreats the world will perceive that she has' lost the war. There will be no further possibility of concealing the fact, because the retreat will be so considerable. But for the winter, if she can hold on, Germany will have a show of an argument for her assertion that the war is a hopeless deadlock and a useless slaughter that can end only in stalemate. Actually her appeal will be made to the pacifists, the weak-kneed and the disloyal in all countries fighting her.

We are seeing one of the greatest campaigns of human history; we are seeing the fight between two great races. What the Germans hoped would come eventually, but not until they had disposed of their Continental rivals first, has happened; Briton and German are fighting a contest surpassing the Napoleonic drama, and in this struggle the German, already weakened by his struggle with the French, is losing surely, if slowly. The British army has now taken over practically the whole offensive task in the west. France did her work at the Marne in 1914, at Verdun in 1916.

Britain began at the Somme last year, still aided by the French, but now she has arrived and is "carrying on" until that hour when if necessary, our millions shall arrive to relieve her.

Paid Dearly for Machine.

Every comparison that one can make between the achievement of Haig's army this year and last demonstrates the enormous improvement that has been made. Last year the British began at the Somme with a green army; their artillery was but little trained; they had men, munitions, machinery, but they did not have a machine. When they finished this battle, which was, in fact, a training school, they had the machine, although they had paid dearly to assemble it. At the taking of Beaumont-Hamel last November the British demonstrated that they were superior in men, guns and aircraft; they had wrested the superiority from the German's hand; he has not regained it.

This year the British began where they left off. The German had abandoned his old style of defense. The Somme had doomed the defense based upon huge redoubts, deep dugouts and similar works. The Somme had proved that these could be destroyed at a greater cost to the defender than to the assailant. Therefore the German had recourse to a new system. He held his front by light works, concreted shell craters, little machine gun shelters; he put few troops in the front line and counter attacked vigorously when the British advance had slowed down.

But this method has failed, too. Today the British are getting on more rapidly than they ever did at the Somme. The "elastic" defense has gone the way of last year's system.

The British army is at its best this year; it will be little weaker next year, but thereafter its decline will be relatively rapid, as its losses exceed its reserves. Next year the Unitd States can do little; less than the British did in 1915, much less. But in 1919, if the war reaches that year, we shall be able to deliver the knockout blow, replacing the British as they have this year replaced the French. Next year it will still be the British who will have the heat of the day, but our contingent will be growing, and its aid to France, comparatively small though it will be, will give the French a greater reserve than the Germans can possibly have in 1918.

Meantime no one should make the mistake of judging the results from the map alone or mainly. Here we are in late October, and the campaign of 1917 is drawing to a close without a single considerable German success or even a respectably impressive offensive East or West. In 1914 we had the Marne and the bid for Calais; in 1915 the great Russian campaign and the push through Servia; in 1916 the drive that wrecked Rumania and destroyed all allied hopes of a decision last year. Everywhere on the Western front where there has been action the German line has gone back. Nowhere on any front, save about Riga, has there been anything like an attack; such gains as were made in Galicia were due solely to the collapse of the Russian armies.

The Russian collapse has set free many thousands of German troops for use in the West; it has released many guns and huge stocks of munitions, but with all these the Germans have not been able to hold their own, much less attack. From Verdun to the sea they have recoiled before each attack, and they are now recoiling on the anniversary of the opening of the First Battle of Ypres, which was to open the road to Calais.

Now Has Fresh Foes.

Germany affected to believe Britain would never arrive in time. Britain has arrived and we are coming. Meantime there has been no German victory, and Germany, having fought France and Russia for more than two years, while Britain was preparing, has now to face a relatively fresh Britain, while still a fourth foe, the United States, is training her millions and equipping them.

Unmistakably we are over the crest of the hill. Only weakness is spirit now, only the failure of those behind the front in France, Britain and the United States, can prevent the realization of the fruits of the great sacrifices and the splendid devotion of recent years. The German army must be decisively beaten upon the battlefield, beaten so that its defeat will be obvious, first in Germany and then elsewhere. Once this has been done the end of the war will be within sight. It is not necessary to occupy Berlin or cross the Rhine; but if the German menace to civilization is to be abolished it must be abolished by such an allied victory as will strip the German military machine of the last claim to invincibility, a claim nowhere recognized now save in Germany and among the faint hearts and pro-Germans in allied countries.

HAPPIEST WOMAN IN NEW ENGLAND FOUND IN FALL RIVER

Says Health Is Wonderful Blessing---Suffered Years From Chronic Rheumatism of Joints

"Health is a wonderful blessing, one never appreciates good health until attacked by disease. I am rich in health today; that's why I believe I am the happiest woman in the world," said Mrs. Marion Bossen of 574 Bedford St., Fall River, Mass.

"It's wonderful to be able to go about without a pain or an ache after suffering for years from chronic rheumatism of the joints. I suffered pain in almost every joint in my body, my knees were very bad so that it was almost impossible to go up or down stairs, the stiffness was intense after sitting down any length of time and attempting to get up.

"I know I neglected my health, for when I first noticed the pains I paid very little attention to them, finally the joints got so stiff and painful I had to give up completely. Two physicians treated me but failed to relieve the pain. For weeks at a time I was confined to my bed and after getting up I was just able to limp about.

"I was unable to bend my knee and when I walked on the street attracted attention because I was so lame. My ankles troubled me a great deal and for four months I was confined to the house, only able to move about with the greatest effort and suffering constantly.

"Reading so much about Var-ne-sis and what it was doing for others suffering the same as I was I made up my mind I would give it a trial. I thank God I found this good remedy, it was a wonderful find for me. After taking Var-ne-sis for some time all the pain and stiffness left me. I am today free from rheumatism and haven't an ache or a pain.

"I owe my good health to Var-ne-sis and want to do all I can to help others find health as I have."

W. A. Varney says: "Var-ne-sis conquers rheumatism. The evidence I am constantly producing no one can dispute. Every testimonial I publish is a true statement of facts. I will pay the expense of three business men to investigate the evidence I produce, providing they will allow me to publish the results over their names. Can I do more?"

You ought to read "The Rust of Human Hinges," just off the press. It's free. Just address W. A. Varney, Lynn, Mass.

Var-ne-sis does not contain salicylate of soda, iodides, pepper or capsicum, but is composed of herbs, roots and barks. Var-ne-sis tends to help the stomach.

My collection of wheel chairs, crutches, canes and letters on display at my Boston office, 140 Boylston street, is open to the public. The names and addresses are on each article and I court investigation of each case.

Your druggist can get Var-ne-sis from his wholesaler. For sale by Johnson Bros. Drug Co., Enderle Drug Co. and Pauley Drug Co.—ADVERTISEMENT.

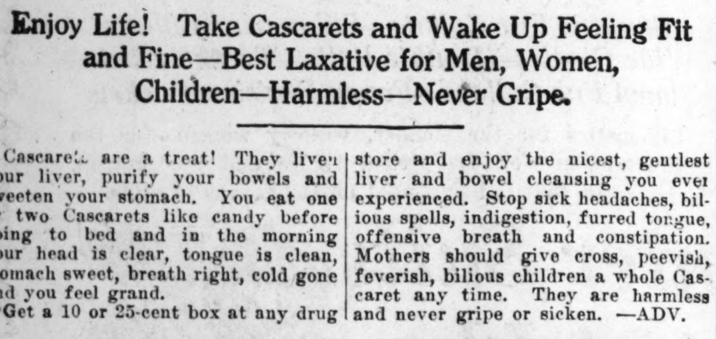
"CASCARETS" FOR COLDS; HEADACHES

They Gently Clean the Liver and Bowels, and Stop Headache, Colds, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath.

Enjoy Life! Take Cascarets and Wake Up Feeling Fit and Fine—Best Laxative for Men, Women, Children—Harmless—Never Gripe.

Cascarets are a treat! They liven your liver, purify your bowels and sweeten your stomach. You eat one or two Cascarets like candy before going to bed and in the morning your head is clear, tongue is clean, stomach sweet, breath right, cold gone and you feel grand.

Get a 10 or 25-cent box at any drug store and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. Stop sick headaches, bilious spells, indigestion, furred tongue, offensive breath and constipation. Mothers should give cross, peevish, feverish, bilious children a whole Cascaret any time. They are harmless and never gripe or sicken. —ADV.



CASCARETS WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP.

ECZEMA

Also Called Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritus, Milk Crust, Water Poison, Weeping Skin, Etc.

DR. CANNADAY
Eczema Specialist for 15 Years.

For fifteen years I have been treating one disease alone—ECZEMA. I have handled over one million cases. I do not pretend to know it all, but I am convinced the disease is due to an excess of acid in the blood, and closely related to rheumatism and cancer. This acid must be removed.

Eczema is called by some people Itch, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritus, Milk Crust, Weeping Skin, etc. I am fully convinced Eczema is a curable disease, and when I say it can be cured, I mean just what I say—C-U-R-E-D, and not merely patched up for a while to return worse than before. It makes no difference what other doctors have told you, or what all you have tried, all I ask is just a chance to prove to you that this vast experience has taught me a great deal that would be of help to you. If you will write me today I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will do more to convince you than I or anyone else could in a month's preaching. It's all up to you. If you suffer any more with eczema and refuse to merely write to me for free trial, just blame yourself. No matter where you live, I have treated your neighbors. Merely dropping me a postal today is likely to give you more real comfort in a week than you ever expected to enjoy again. Do it right now—your very life may be at stake.

The Old Age Sign Double Crossed

Don't let gray hair make you look years older than you are, for it is now an easy matter to tint gray, faded or bleached hair in a harmless way. The new preparation, "Brownatone," is proving so popular that thousands of people of refinement and many leading hairdressers are now using this wonderful product exclusively.

"Brownatone" meets every demand and fulfills every test required of it, and is so simple to use that no previous experience is necessary. Comes ready for use—no mixing—and is entirely free from lead, sulphur, silver, zinc, mercury, aniline, coal-tar products or their derivatives. There is no danger of irritation or a poisoned scalp when you use "Brownatone," because it is guaranteed harmless.

Produces the most beautiful shades from light golden to the deepest brown or black. Will not rub or wash off and cannot be detected. Most all leading druggists everywhere now sell "Brownatone" in two sizes, 35c and $1.15, and in two colors—one to produce "golden or medium brown," the other "dark brown or black."

Get a 35c bottle from your dealer today, or if you prefer, a sample bottle with interesting book will be mailed on receipt of 10c, to help pay postage and packing charges, if sent to the manufacturers.

Sold and guaranteed in St. Louis by Judge & Dolph Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Johnson-Enderle-Pauley Drug Co., and other leading dealers.

This is our promise to those we p, our warning and threat to those fight. Our own fair name is d up in this pledge. Our honor ands that it be met to the full ure. From the time Congress the President thus spoke for us became the duty, moral and legal, each of us to abate nothing that within his power to make our e good. Whatever our views, ever our sympathies theretofore been, the quarrel was now our rel, and we must be true to it in er to be true to ourselves. That means that some of us must k with cherished memories, with ds, home and kindred, cannot r. So broke our fathers, who us our liberties; so must we k to preserve them. The man o is unwilling to make that sac- ce is unworthy the liberties he oys and is unwelcome in our st. The sovereign people of the ted States have willed that our y available resource of men and stry must play its part in win- g this war, and no head is too h or too low to wish to escape the y hand of our sovereign neces- y.

I have spoken thus far, not of the l penalties which attach to ob- ction and disloyalty to this Gov- ment, but of the broad political moral elements of our situation of the considerations of integ- and honor which must impel us loyalty to our cause and compel active aid and support.

I have done this because after all safety lies not in penal statutes, in a realizing sense of a right- cause, a firm resolution to do full duty and an understanding we fight for the liberties of our- , our families and our poster- . I have purposely moved slowly with caution in invoking the arm of the law for seeming ty, believing that more ma- consideration would show the occasional agitator that he was wrong and the rest of us were right. However, I shall not be half-measured in undertaking the control of those who persist in their disloyalty and schemings against the Government and its purposes.

The Federal Government is not powerless to handle such malcontents. Amongst other offenses, it can prosecute those who willfully make or convey false reports or false statements, when the United States is at war, with intent to interfere with the operation or success of the military or naval forces of the Federal Government, or to promote the success of our country's enemies; also those who willfully cause, or attempt to cause, insubordination, disloyalty, mutiny or refusal of duty, or willfully obstruct the recruiting or enlistment service of the United States; also those who unlawfully combine or conspire to impede, obstruct or prevent the execution of the laws of the United States; also those who undertake to overawe the officers of the United States in performing their duties either by direct intimidation or threats, or by injuring their persons or property; also those who engage in seditious conspiracies to overthrow or levy war against the Government or forcibly oppose its authority.

The recently enacted espionage act is designed among other things, to punish spies, regulate the use of the mails and punish those who abuse that use.

The provisions of the selective draft act provide punishment for those who fail or refuse to register or hinder or obstruct the enforcement of that act.

Treason (defined by the Constitution as consisting only in levying war against the United States or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort), is punishable by death, and the other offenses mentioned by severe and just penalties.

The Federal Government can find in existing statutes and others now pending before Congress, power to handle any situation likely to arise because of the ill-advised activities of disloyal agitators.

LICENSE GRANTED TO MAXINE CAFE DESPITE PROTEST

Excise Chief Says Permit Is Necessary for Music in Saloon Cafes.

Excise Commissioner Lewis said yesterday that the playing of musical instruments in cafes connected with saloons will be allowed only when the proprietors of such establishments obtain a special permit from his office. Many cafes in which liquor is served now have this privilege, Lewis said.

Owners of property on the east side of Grand avenue, between Franklin avenue and Morgan street, appeared in the Excise Commissioner's office Friday to oppose the issuance of a license to John Schappner, proprietor of the Maxine Cafe, 814 North Grand avenue, contending that his place had not been properly conducted.

Former Excise Commissioner Thomas E. Mulvihill, representing W. J. Comstock, one of the objectors, asserted that Schappner had permitted music to be played in the cafe adjoining the saloon and contended that this was a violation of the law.

"It isn't his fault; I gave him permission," Excise Commissioner Lewis said.

Court Ruling on Music.

Mulvihill said the Court of Appeals had held that the playing of music either on the premises of a dramshop or in a room connected with it was prohibited by statute.

"I won't admit that the law forbids music in cafes and I won't change my ruling," Lewis said.

George D. Mabon, attorney for Schappner, explained that only a small quantities of lipuor was served daily in the barroom. Most of the liquor sold by Schappner, Mabon said, was dispensed to customers of the cafe. Schappner is so careful to prevent minors from frequenting his establishment, Mabon said, that he requires young men to produce their registration certificates as proof of their age.

Philemon Bevis, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., asserted that the moral condition in the neighborhood of Schappner's saloon had suffered by its presence.

"Undoes Our Work."

"We know that young men go to this cafe with young girls," Bevis said. "The saloon is a menace to young men and boys. We have 3200 members, of whom 800 are boys and young men between the ages of 12 and 21 years. This saloon undoes the work that we are attempting in behalf of young men. I urge you to refuse this license."

Excise Commissioner Lewis decided that Schappner had obtained the consent of a majority of the property owners in the block and issued the license.

"I was misunderstood when I was thought to have announced that this rule regarding music in cafes connected with saloons is new," Lewis told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "That is not the case. I am simply following the precedent set by my predecessors. The practice of giving permits in special instances is of long standing."

The DOCTOR'S ADVICE by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Elwood streets, Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious names will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

H. C. B. writes: "I have been taking salts to purify my blood and cure my skin of itching and pimples, but don't get much benefit. Please prescribe for this."

Answer: I advise three-grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur tablets), composed of sulphur, cream of tartar and vegetable extracts that remove constipation and purify the system. Take this treatment for several months for best results.

J. R. O. asks: "I am thin, angular, weak and tired. What can I take to improve my health, strengthen my nerves and increase my weight about 20 pounds?"

Answer: Take regularly with your meals three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets, sold in sealed packages, by druggists, with complete directions. These tablets improve the blood, increase nutrition and strengthen the nervous system if used regularly for several months.

"Free Advice" writes: "I want your free advice. I seem to have gone all to pieces. I am irritated and annoyed by dizzy moments, fickle appetite, no strength and life has no pleasures for me any more."

Answer: There are thousands who live too fast and then find themselves in your plight. The nervous vigor has been deranged. A tonic invigorating medicine called three-grain cadomene tablets will afford aid to Nature by supplying more food-energy and give your system a chance to recuperate, when calm nerves should take the place of shattered nerves.

Mrs. C. W. B. asks: "I suffer greatly owing to too much fat. Can you advise me of a good reduction remedy?"

Answer: Any well-stocked pharmacy can supply you with 5-grain arbolone tablets, packed in sealed tubes with full directions for use. These tablets have proven wonderfully effective in reducing abnormal fat.

"Fern" writes: "I have suffered with a bad cough for some time and I am also weak and tired most of the time, which I think is due to the severe coughing. Can you give me a remedy?

Answer: Yes, your weakness is due to the coughing, but you should be well relieved by using the following: Get a 2½-oz. package of essence mentholaxene and make according to directions on the bottle, then take a teaspoonful every hour or two until the cough is cured. This makes a full pint of the very best and safest cough syrup. If your druggist does not have mentholaxene, have him order it for you of the wholesale firm.

Mrs. X. asks: "My scalp itches terribly, is feverish and a great amount of oily dandruff is present. What is good for this?"

Answer: First shampoo the hair and then apply plain yellow minyol about once a week as per directions. This relieves the itching, overcomes the dandruff and makes the hair beautifully glossy and vigorous. Obtain in 4-oz. jars of druggists.

NOTE: For many years Dr. Baker has been giving free advice and prescriptions to millions of people through the press columns, and doubtless has helped in relieving illness and distress more than any single individual in the world's history. Thousands have written him expressions of gratitude and confidence similar to the following:

DR. LEWIS BAKER, DEAR SIR: I feel it as a duty to write you. Four years ago my husband had a bad cough and found no relief from all cough medicines we could try. We finally tried the mentho-laxene prescription and made it up as cough medicine and it quickly cured him. Now, this last winter my two boys had a fearful cough, and again it has cured them. It also gives me great relief from asthma, from which I suffer in winter time, as you know here in Oregon we have it so rainy instead of snow. I send stamps and coupon for your great "Guide Book, Healthy and Beauty." Thanking you, I am,

Truly yours,
MRS. M. H. VAN WART,
Lents, Oregon.

NEARLY 1000 GARMENTS MADE FOR THE CHILDREN OF FRANCE

Baptist Women Have Been Working Three Months and Forwarding Goods Through Red Cross.

During the last three months almost a thousand garments have been made by the women of the Baptist Unit of the Society for the Relief of Destitute Children of France, and forwarded through the Red Cross to Paris. The work is done under the auspices of the board of managers of the Missouri Baptist Orphans' Home.

Soon after the Germans had evacuated the villages of the Aisne district, before the advance of the French, stories of the condition of the children of these villages reached the United States. France has not sufficient cloth to clothe the children, so help from the United States was asked. The women of the Second Baptist Church, King's highway and Washington, have since sewed every Friday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. completing about 90 garments a day, each one costing about 75 cents.

The garments are the typical French peasant dress—an apron, bloomers and a pair of woolen stockings.

GIRLS ADOPT A FRENCH BOY

It Will Cost Lindenwood Students $36 a Year to Raise Him.

"Edouard" is the name of a French boy whom the girls of the senior acadamy class of Lindenwood College have "adopted" in France. They were influenced to this charity by a talk on the subject at the college recently by Miss Constance Edwards of Kirkwood, who herself has "adopted" several.

The adoption is renewed annually, and the payment of $36 a year, which the American foster-parents make, covers the outstanding expenses of bringing up the child. The Lindenwood girls will send a Christmas present to "Edouard." He is soon to send them his picture.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS AND CONSTIPATED

Look, mother! See if tongue is coated, breath hot or stomach sour?

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative because they love its pleasant taste, and it thoroughly cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."—ADV.

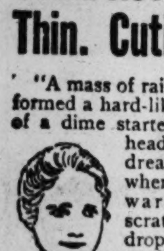
Dandruff on Head Itched Dreadfully. Could Not Sleep. Hair Thin. Cuticura Healed.

"A mass of raised-up dandruff which formed a hard-like crust about the size of a dime started on the back of my head with itching. It itched dreadfully and more so when the scales became warm, and when I scratched bits of crust dropped off and was very unpleasant. Sometimes I could not sleep, and the hair became thin, lifeless, and dry.



"The trouble lasted two years. I decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After I had used one box of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Soap I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Belle Fox, 4751 N. Paulina St., Chicago, Ill., Jan. 16, 1917.

Nothing better to clear the skin of pimples, blotches, redness and roughness, the scalp of dandruff and itching and the hands of chapping and soreness. Cuticura Soap used daily for all toilet purposes with touches of Ointment now and then to soothe and heal tends to prevent skin troubles.

EARLY HOLIDAY SHIPMENTS TO AVOID CONGESTION

Plan to Anticipate Rush Inaugurated Here Is Being Taken Up Generally.

The St. Louis Car Commission of thfe Railroads' War Board yesterday received reports indicating that the country generally had taken up the plan inaugurated by the local commission to prevent serious congestion in the important gateways due to the anticipated rush of holiday express and parcels post shipments.

Last year, when there were no military encampment shipments of any moment to reckon with, there was much confusion and delay in a number of cities, affecting freight movements. This year, with men in the training camps and cantonments who will receive Christmas shipments, railroads, express companies and the postal officials have a real problem.

The St. Louis commission inaugurated an early shipping movement two weeks ago, and the car commissions throughout the country have taken action along the same line to get this traffic distributed over a period of sufficient width to avoid serious interference with the Government's military shipments and the greatly increased industrial and general freight movement.

At yesterday's meeting Chairman A. S. Johnson of the Joint Committee of Railroad and Express Officials reported that additional facilities would be provided for the express companies by the railroads when it was definitely ascertained what would be needed. Even with reinforced trackage and storage room to handle the increase, trouble will come unless the public co-operates to the extent of getting the packages mailed or expressed much earlier than usual.

It is hoped all nonperishable goods will be out of the way before the middle of December, leaving the last week before Christmas for the movement and distribution of perishable gifts. The Government has already made complete preparation for the parcels that are to be sent to the expeditionary forces in France, and will co-operate with railroads and express companies in handling domestic business.

DEAN DAVIS WILL BE HOME FROM FRANCE IN FEW WEEKS

Chaplain of St. Louis Base Hospital Unit Is Expected Back Before Christmas.

Dean Carroll M. Davis of Christ Church Cathedral will return within a few weeks from France, where he went last spring as chaplain of Base Hospital Unit 21 of the American Red Cross, the St. Louis unit, now established near Rouen. At the Cathedral parish house it was said yesterday that he would probably be in St. Louis before Christmas. His mother and sister are living at the deanery, 64 Vandeventer place. The Post-Dispatch yesterday made erroneous mention of Mrs. Davis as the dean's wife. Dean Davis is a widower.

The Rev. George F. Taylor, former rector of Grace Church and Holy Cross Mission, in North St. Louis, has been named as chaplain of the hospital unit, and is believed to be now on the ocean on his way to France. He resigned his position at Grace Church last summer, after disagreements with Bishop Coadjutor Johnson. The appointment of the Rev. Carl Reed Taylor of Kansas City as rector of Grace Church was announced yesterday.

BILL BENEFITS DOG OWNERS

Provides for Release of Impounded Aanimals on Payment of Fee.

Bills providing for the payment of fees for the release of unmuzzled and unlicensed dogs which have been imponded, were introduced by Alderman Bergt in the Board of Aldermen yesterday.

One bill authorizes the release of an unmuzzled dog on payment of $1, if the owners satisfies the City Marshal that the animal was at large without his knowledge. The other provides for the release of an unlicensed dog on payment of 25 cents and the making of an affidavit by the owner that the license tag has been lost or misplaced.

STUDENTS JOIN SIGNAL CORPS

Ten From Washington University Class Accepted by Government.

Ten students of the St. Louis University Training School of Land and Wireless Telegraphy have qualified and enlisted in the Government signal service since Sept. 10, when classes began. Capt. A. G. Thompson, who was in command of a signal corps in the Spanish-American War, is in charge of the school.

He said yesterday that young men who take the course of instruction will be able to enter the army or navy in a field that offers a good chance of promotion and at the some time escape draft in the national army.

Overdraft Heater

A New Idea in Heating Stove Construction

WE consider this the most wonderful heater that has ever been produced—it is entirely new in principle—and so scientifically perfect that it burns hard or soft coal, coke, wood or slack, and gets more heat out of every ounce of fuel than any other heater made. Can be made to burn fast or slow as desired—and the fire can be kept going 24 to 36 hours without touching the stove or adding fuel. It is the only soft coal stove that radiates the heat out and down so that every part of the floor as well as the room receives direct heat waves. It will pay you to call and investigate the many unique features of this heater which we offer special at only—

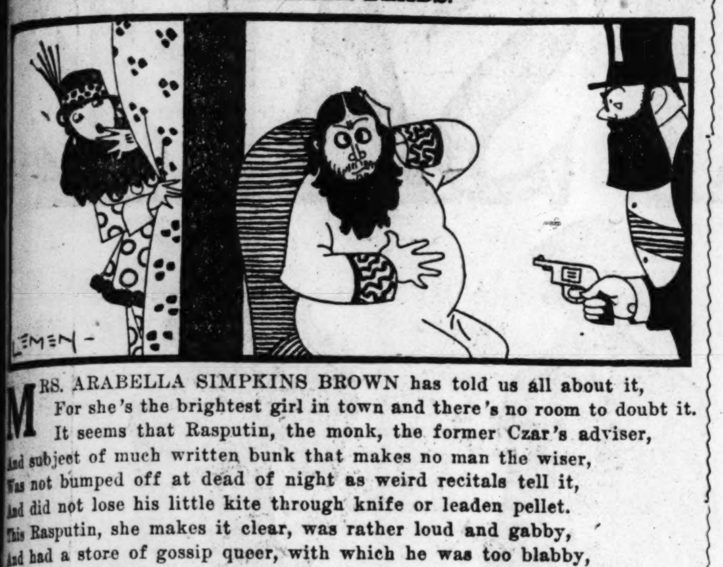
JESTS AND JINGLES

By

W. H. JAMES.

ARABELLA BLABS.



MRS. ARABELLA SIMPKINS BROWN has told us all about it,
For she's the brightest girl in town and there's no room to doubt it.
It seems that Rasputin, the monk, the former Czar's adviser,
And subject of much written bunk that makes no man the wiser,
Was not bumped off at dead of night as weird recitals tell it,
And did not lose his little kite through knife or leaden pellet.
This Rasputin, she makes it clear, was rather loud and gabby,
And had a store of gossip queer, with which he was too blabby,
And when the wine was flowing free as Russian wine is apt to,
He went upon a verbal spree and told the things he'd rapped to.
He showed the Grand Dukes up for true with all their faults and failings
Until he had them feeling blue and hanging on the palings.
The language that he used, of course, was idiomatic Russian,
The kind that makes the thorax hoarse and rougher than the Prussian.
With p's and q's and x's mixed like letters on a hummer
A tongue that when you want it fixed you have to call a plumber.
Those Grand Dukes then as mad as Kurds, they vowed that he would rue it,
And they would make him eat his words, and set about to do it.
And so to make the tale complete, it's clear beyond a question,
Those Russian words they made him eat—He died of indigestion.

YOUR CHANCE.

BE a helper in the fight
Upholding still the truth and right.
You can lend a ready hand

Although behind no gun you stand

Let your money stand the brunt
In the battle at the front,
Bearing aid at Freedom's call
Even while the valiant fall,
Rendering service where you may
To the boys for whom you pray.
You can also do your bit;

Be you not content to sit,
Only hoping for the best,
Now's the time to meet the test—
Do it now!

A BIT OF VAUDEVILLE.

"HELLO, Binks."
"Howdy, Jinks. We'd better use our voices now."
"What's the idea?"
"Well, when this soft coal winter gets started we won't have any voices."
"Smoke up."
"The Kaiser when calling in Turkey."
"Was outwardly sassy and perky."
"Bue he knew very well.'
"Though refusing to tell."
"That his Kultur machine had gone jerky."
"The miners that mine yours and mine."
"Think calling a strike is just fine."
"How long they'll stay out."
"Is a matter of doubt."
"If Garfield can't whip 'em in line."
"A Liberty Bond is a pledge."
"That our patriotism's on edge."
"And a Kaiser named Bill."
"All dressed up to kill."
"Will be hit on the bean with a sledge."
"Though nothing offensive we mean."
"As we hope will in Boston be seen."
"When we speak of a dome."
"Where there's nobody home."
"In terms of the praiseworthy bean."
"When the war is all over, they say."
"The prices will drop every day."
'And in that happy time."
"Perhaps for our dime."
"We get more tobacco—less hay."

OUR ANSWER.

DER Kaiser says the world must do
Just the way he tells it to.
"Verboten" this, "verboten" that,
And every man must tip his hat
When Hohenzollern marches by
With mustache pointed to the sky.
The center of this mundane sphere
Is where he sits and sips his beer,
And every other place on earth
To him is "Nichts," and "nothing worth."
All the little girls and boys
Must be content with German toys,
And anyone who likes them not
Is fit for Prussian bomb and shot.
He looks to men of German birth
Wherever scattered on the earth
To play the traitor and the spy
At winking of his royal eye.
Der Kaiser thinks the world must do
Just the way he tells it to;
But—instead of answering "Very well,"
The brave old world says "Go to hell."

GERMANY DISGUSTED.

ELIHU ROOT said at a dinner in New York:

"Germany, while I was abroad, tried very hard for a separate peace. She soon gave up, however, disgustedly declaring that the allies were more inclined for separate pieces.'

PREHISTORIC PESSIMIST.

FRANK SCOTT, of Cleveland, of the War Industries board, said of pessimism, in a discussion of the last British victory in Flanders:

"Pessimism is as old as the eternal hills. You say that this victory was very costly. I reply that your pessimistic words remind me of the Babylonian farmer.

A farmer on the outskirts of Babylon was a confirmed pessimist. His nephew from the city visited him one August day.

" 'Uncle,' said the nephew, pointing to the rich, heavy and golden fields of grain that spread as far as the eye could reach, 'uncle, you are fortunate this year. You can't grumble about your crops this season, eh?'

" 'No,' whined the prehistoric pessimist, 'but a crop like this is terrible wearin' on the sile, "

"Dear Old School Days"

Teacher—As the caricaturists draw her and a sketch of her from life.

Her first day—She had been there just fifteen minutes. To Teacher—"Well, I Guess I'll go now!"

A Boarding-school Miss.

The School of Agriculture—
Little did Hiram Haymow dream, that the city chap who used to visit at his farm and who used to think you got milk from the cow by using her tail like a pump-handle would some day be the greatest expert in his state and teach Hiram how to make his dairy profitable.

A High School "Freshie."

Two Boys—
One:—"Gee! but this is tough!"
The Other One:—"Gee! I wish I had a chance!"

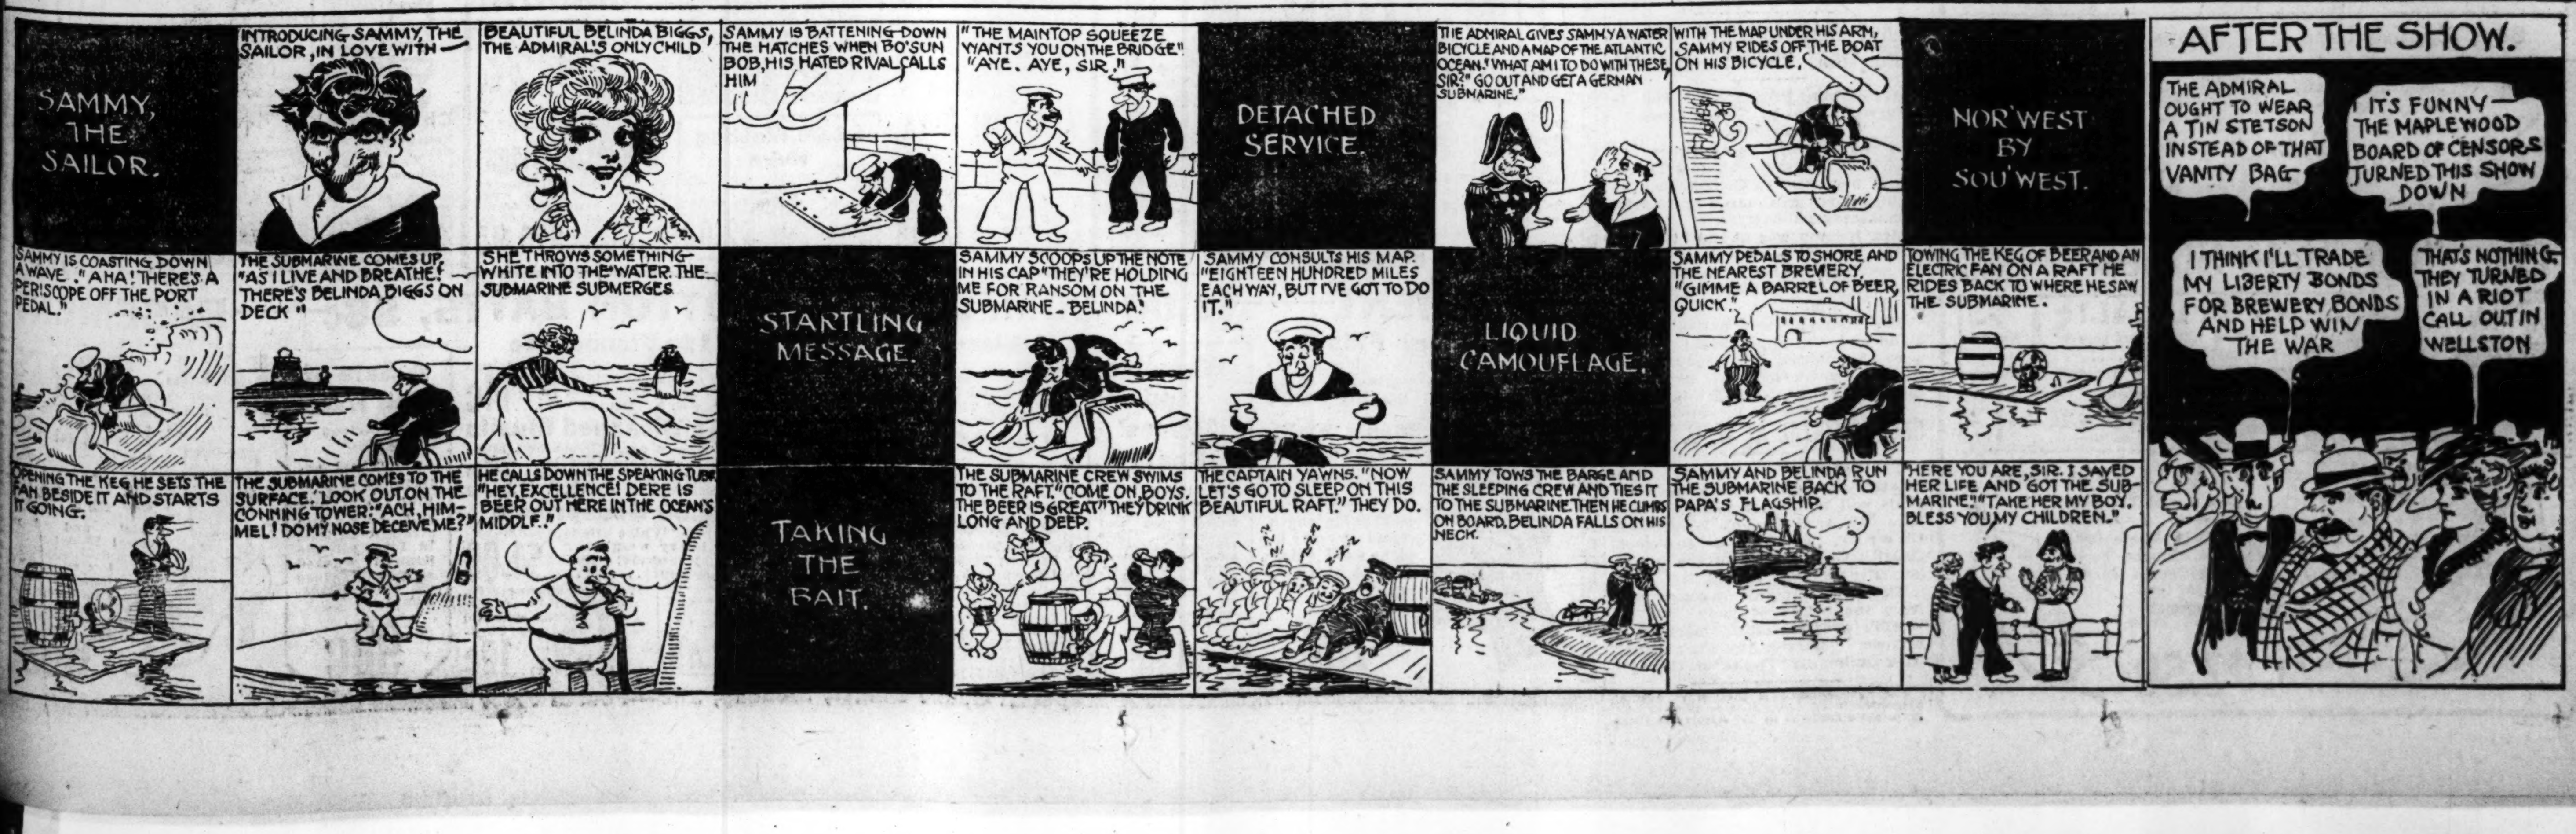
THE POST-DISPATCH MOVIE: Sammy, the Sailor, Uses Liquid Camouflage to Win the Admiral's Daughter

Plot by W. H. James.
Pictures by Carlisle Martin.



SAMMY, THE SAILOR.
INTRODUCING SAMMY, THE SAILOR, IN LOVE WITH—BEAUTIFUL BELINDA BIGGS, THE ADMIRAL'S ONLY CHILD
SAMMY IS BATTENING DOWN THE HATCHES WHEN BO'SUN BOB, HIS HATED RIVAL CALLS HIM
"THE MAINTOP SQUEEZE WANTS YOU ON THE BRIDGE" "AYE. AYE, SIR."
DETACHED SERVICE.
THE ADMIRAL GIVES SAMMY A WATER BICYCLE AND A MAP OF THE ATLANTIC OCEAN. "WHAT AM I TO DO WITH THESE, SIR?" "GO OUT AND GET A GERMAN SUBMARINE."
WITH THE MAP UNDER HIS ARM, SAMMY RIDES OFF THE BOAT ON HIS BICYCLE.
NOR'WEST BY SOU'WEST.
SAMMY IS COASTING DOWN A WAVE. "AHA! THERE'S A PERISCOPE OFF THE PORT PEDAL."
THE SUBMARINE COMES UP. "AS I LIVE AND BREATHE! THERE'S BELINDA BIGGS ON DECK"
SHE THROWS SOMETHING WHITE INTO THE WATER. THE SUBMARINE SUBMERGES
STARTLING MESSAGE.
SAMMY SCOOPS UP THE NOTE IN HIS CAP "THEY'RE HOLDING ME FOR RANSOM ON THE SUBMARINE—BELINDA."
SAMMY CONSULTS HIS MAP. "EIGHTEEN HUNDRED MILES EACH WAY, BUT I'VE GOT TO DO IT."
LIQUID CAMOUFLAGE.
SAMMY PEDALS TO SHORE AND THE NEAREST BREWERY. "GIMME A BARREL OF BEER, QUICK."
TOWING THE KEG OF BEER AND AN ELECTRIC FAN ON A RAFT HE RIDES BACK TO WHERE HE SAW THE SUBMARINE.
OPENING THE KEG HE SETS THE FAN BESIDE IT AND STARTS IT GOING.
THE SUBMARINE COMES TO THE SURFACE. "LOOK OUT ON THE CONNING TOWER." "ACH, HIMMEL! DO MY NOSE DECEIVE ME?"
HE CALLS DOWN THE SPEAKING TUBE "HEY, EXCELLENCE! DERE IS BEER OUT HERE IN THE OCEAN'S MIDDLE."
TAKING THE BAIT.
THE SUBMARINE CREW SWIMS TO THE RAFT. "COME ON, BOYS. THE BEER IS GREAT" THEY DRINK LONG AND DEEP.
THE CAPTAIN YAWNS. "NOW LET'S GO TO SLEEP ON THIS BEAUTIFUL RAFT." THEY DO.
SAMMY TOWS THE BARGE AND THE SLEEPING CREW AND TIES IT TO THE SUBMARINE THEN HE CLIMBS ON BOARD. BELINDA FALLS ON HIS NECK.
SAMMY AND BELINDA RUN THE SUBMARINE BACK TO PAPA'S FLAGSHIP.
"HERE YOU ARE, SIR. I SAVED HER LIFE AND GOT THE SUBMARINE." "TAKE HER MY BOY. BLESS YOU MY CHILDREN."
AFTER THE SHOW.
THE ADMIRAL OUGHT TO WEAR A TIN STETSON INSTEAD OF THAT VANITY BAG
IT'S FUNNY—THE MAPLEWOOD BOARD OF CENSORS TURNED THIS SHOW DOWN
I THINK I'LL TRADE MY LIBERTY BONDS FOR BREWERY BONDS AND HELP WIN THE WAR
THAT'S NOTHING. THEY TURNED IN A RIOT CALL OUT IN WELLSTON

Daughter Found Remedy That Saved Her Mother

MRS. MARY K. PEROUTKA

Suffered Terribly But Did Not Want to Submit to An Operation.

Mrs. Mary K. Peroutka, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 41, Milladore, Wis., is a firm believer in Fruitola and Traxo. She writes: "I wish I could tell everybody how much Fruitola and Traxo has done for our family. Both my husband and I were cured of gall stones, and in such a short time and at such little cost, and Fruitola is so easy to take. Four years I suffered those terrible spells and at last the doctor said I had gall stones and advised an operation. I said if the doctors were in the house when I had one of those spells I might let them operate, but not otherwise. My daughter wrote to a lady who had been cured of gall stones without an operation and who recommended Fruitola. I took only one bottle of Fruitola and have not been bothered since. My husband had stomach trouble and he used Fruitola, too, with most satisfactory results."

Fruitola and Traxo are compounded from the original Edsall formulas at the Pinus laboratories in Monticello, Ill., and can be purchased in drug stores; a doctor's prescription is not necessary. Fruitola is a pure fruit oil that acts as an intestinal lubricant. One dose is usually sufficient to indicate its efficacy. Traxo is a tonic-alterative that is most effective to rebuild and restore the weakened, run-down system.

A booklet of special interest to those who suffer with stomach trouble can be obtained by writing to the Pinus Laboratories, Monticello, Illinois.

TOUCHING STORY WINS EXEMPTION FOR MARRIED MAN

Claude G. Ellis Explains How Bride of April 8 Has No Relatives Except Invalid Sister.

DISTRICT BOARD UPHELD

President Denies Appeal of Auto Delivery Operator—Government Wins in 20 Appeals.

Claude C. Ellis of 2854 Eads avenue yesterday was allowed exemption by the District Appeals Board, although he was married on April 14 after he told a touching story in his appeal.

Ellis filed an affidavit in which he said his wife's father had disappeared when she was 10 years old and that her mother died when she was 13 years old, leaving her with an invalid younger sister to support. The affidavit says that she supported herself and sister until she, too, became ill and was forced to quit work. Ellis says that he then married her to take care of her. He said that she is soon to become a mother. She has not a relative, Ellis said, to whom she could look for support should he have to go to war. Ellis' case is one of very few in which a man who was married after April 6 was allowed exemption.

The board received a telegram from President Wilson yesterday, informing them that he had upheld the board in denying exemption to Sylvester Goldstein of 4245 Easton avenue on industrial grounds. Goldstein established an auto delivery business last February and asked exemption on that ground.

William C. Binder of 3523 Louisiana avenue, whose exemption, allowed by a local board, had been revoked on Oct. 9 by the district board because he was married on April 14, yesterday was allowed exemption by the district board on the ground that he is an alien.

The district board yesterday allowed three claims, denied three and revoked exemptions allowed 20 men, on Government appeals.

The following claims were allowed:

John Suess, 3517 Easton; dependents.

Oscar Cloninger, Fredericktown, Mo.; dependents.

The following claims were denied:

Vincent Spicuzza, 1214 North Sixteenth; dependents.

The local boards were reversed in allowing exemption to the following men:

B. S. Phillips, 5310A South Compton; married April 18.

Casper A. Pelot, 729 Fillmore; married May 9.

Ben Moore, 2636 Randolph; married July 7.

Harry Rusan, 724A North Twenty-third; dependents.

R. L. Evans, 3893 Washington; married Aug. 11.

J. H. Godbey, 340 North Spring, dependents.

Thomas Clark, 2626 Lawton; married July 30.

Harry M. Evans, 3527 Lindell; dependents.

Nathan Jackson, 1441 Francis; dependents.

Herbert O. Scates, 3689 Laclede; married May 17.

Ira Bradshaw, 2210 Washington; married April 9.

Everett S. Kirkpatrick, 1400 Temple; dependents.

Oscar Lilienkamp, 7528 South Broadway; dependents.

Thomas M. Creedon, 8317 Pennsylvania; dependents.

Claude Haill, 4611 Tyrolean; dependents.

George A. Hipolite, 3625 Botanical; dependents.

John Pott, 4029 Nebraska; married June 6.

Kenrick I. Gannon, Picher, Ok.; married April 30.

THIRTY GRANDCHILDREN ATTEND MRS. MARY HANVEY'S FUNERAL

Ten Children Present and She Is Survived Also by Eleven Great-Grandchildren.

At the funeral this afternoon of Mrs. Mary Hanvey, who died Thursday at her home in Collinsville, 30 grandchildren will march in a group as honorary pallbearers.

Mrs. Hanvey was ill less than a week. The funeral will be at 2 o'clock from the residence, 617 West Clay street, to the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Hanvey was a native of England and was 72 years old. There were 10 children, and in addition to the 30 grandchildren mentioned there are 11 great-grandchildren.

ORGAN RECITAL AT W. U. TODAY

The season's series of eight monthly Sunday afternoon organ recitals will be started today in Graham Memorial Chapel, Washington University, from 3 to 4 o'clock, Charles Galloway being the organist. The public is invited.

The initial program is constructed from the works of some of the world's greatest music masters, as follows: "Marche Aux Flambeaux," Alex Guilmant; "Fugue" in C major,

RED CROSS HEADS TO EXPLAIN WORK DONE IN EUROPE

District Workers From Seven States to Attend Conference Here Tomorrow Night.

H. P. DAVISON TO SPEAK

Morgan Partner Gave Up Banking Business to Superintend Relief.

What the American Red Cross has done since the United States entered the war will be told tomorrow night by Henry P. Davison, chairman of the Red Cross War Council, and by Harvey D. Gibson, general manager of the Red Cross, at a rally of Red Cross workers of St. Louis and the Southwestern district, at the Odeon.

These men, and Ivy L. Lee, son of the Rev. James W. Lee of St. Louis, and the Rev. Robert Davis of Englewood, N. J., who has just returned from a three months' tour in France as an observer for the Red Cross, will arrive in St. Louis at 1:50 this afternoon for a series of addresses at churches, clubs and other public places tonight and tomorrow.

The rally tomorrow night will be open to the public. An attendance of 500 Red Cross workers from the Southwestern Division, which comprises Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and the western part of both Kentucky and Tennessee, is expected.

Nurses to Be on Stage.

There will be on the stage 250 Red Cross nurses, nurses' aids and surgical dressing instructors in uniform. Besides these and the speakers there will be Col. Murray, commandant at Jefferson Barracks, representing the United States army; Capt. E. A. Brooks, representing the United States navy; Commander Fechet, now stationed at the Scott Field aviation school, representing the French army, and Capt. Charles Dolphin, representing the British army.

A special object of the meeting is to give the active heads of the Red Cross an opportunity to account to the people for the expenditure of the funds raised for the Red Cross. About $30,000,000 of the $120,000,000 subscribed last summer has been spent abroad for relief work. St. Louis contributed $2,000,000 to this fund.

The meeting will be under the auspices of the St. Louis chapter of the Red Cross, of which Mrs. Frank V. Hammar is chairman. The visitors also will inspect the workrooms of the St. Louis chapter at Barnes Hospital, the Kinloch Building and Washington University.

Quit Bank for Red Cross.

Chairman Davison is a New York banker and business associate of J. P. Morgan, who gave up his private business interests last spring to take up the Red Cross work. He will speak at noon tomorrow at a luncheon at the Missouri Athletic Club, where 24 teams which participated in the Red Cross fund campaign here will be guests.

At noon tomorrow Gibson and Dr. Davis will speak at the City Club.

Dr. Davis will speak tonight at St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church, South, King's highway and Washington boulevard. He will relate some of his experiences while on his observation tour in France.

Ivy Lee also will speak tonight at St. John's Church. His subject will be "What the Red Cross Has Done in Europe."

The speakers will hold a series of conferences Monday and Tuesday with Red Cross workers at the Jefferson Hotel. From here they will continue a transcontinental tour in the interest of the Red Cross.

MEXICO ADVISED TO OPPOSE GERMANY

Proper Spirit of Gratitude to President Wilson Not Shown, Leader Declares.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 20.—Gen. Garcia Vigil, leader of the Liberal Constitutional party, in a speech in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday declared it was the duty of Mexico to take sides against Germany. The speech was applauded by the great majority of the members and the galleries.

The General said he thought that Mexico and the present Government had not shown a proper spirit of gratitude to President Wilson and the United States. The President had condemned the crimes of President Huerta and had not recognized him, but Mexicans appear to have forgotten this attitude of the American President. There were some protests from various parts of the Chamber.

Gen. Vigil declared he could not explain how Mexico, a country with democratic ideals could stand impassive before the crimes committed against Belgium. He asked if it were possible that Mexicans had forgotten their Latin ideals or whether they do not care about the fate of France The speaker was interrupted several times by applause.

"Why vacillate?" he asked. "Is it because the Government has not gained information of the true course of public opinion? No. It is because the lower instincts of our people have been stimluated by those, who, enthusiastic over the ferocities of Huerta, are now enthusiastic over the German Government which has trampled upon all the sacred rights of nations and shown no respect for treaties.

"I will continue to proclaim in Congress that Mexico should unite frankly with the countries who are defending democratic principles, which are the same Mexico fought for during the revolution and which Mexico wil continue to fight for."

FOUR LAFAYETTE SQUADRON FLYERS CITED FOR BRAVERY

Raoul Lufbery Mentioned in French Orders for Bagging Six Enemies in 16 Flights in Fortnight.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Four members of the Lafayette Escadrille were cited in the latest French army orders. The citations follow:

Dudley Hill of Peekskill, N. Y., "for high courage in the recent attacks at Verdun, especially on Aug. 18, when his airplane was damaged as he was protecting bombardment Avions."

Edwin Parsons of Springfield Mass., "for splendid courage shown on all missions entrusted to him. He brought down an enemy on Sept. 8."

Sergt Kenneth Marr of San Francisco, "a valiant pilot who aided in bringing down an enemy on Sept. 19 and engaged several enemy machines on Sept. 22. By his coolness and daring he brought his own damaged avion back."

Lieut. Raoul Lufbery of Wallingford, Conn., cited for "16 flights in a fortnight in which he brought down or disabled six enemies, scoring his eleventh victory on Sept. 4. His own machine was damaged five times during these flights."

WALL STREET NO LONGER PAYS DIRECTORS THEIR FEES IN GOLD

Time-Honored Custom Abandoned Because of Government's Plan to Conserve Supply.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—An ancient Wall street custom of paying the directors of corporations in $10 and $20 gold pieces for their attendance at directors' meetings has been abandoned owing to the general plan on the part of the Government to conserve the gold supply for the Liberty Loan.

One of the largest corporations in the financial district yesterday sent its messenger to the bank for the customary stack of golden eagles with which to pay the directors and he returned with crisp paper certificates. The bank explained there was plenty of paper money but no gold.

Miller's Antiseptic Oil Known as

Snake Oil

Will Positively Relieve Pain in Few Minutes.

Try it right now for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, sore, stiff and swollen joints, pains in the head, back and limbs, corns, bunions, etc. After one application pain disappears almost as if by magic.

A new remedy used internally and externally for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Sore Throat, Diphtheria and Tonsilitis.

This oil is conceded to be the most penetrating remedy known. Its prompt and immediate effect in relieving pain is due to the fact that it penetrates to the affected parts at once. As an illustration pour ten drops on the thickest piece of sole leather and it will penetrate this substance through and through in three minutes.

Accept no substitute. This great oil is golden red color only. Every bottle guaranteed; 25c, 50c and $1.00 a bottle or money refunded at Enderle Drug Co., Johnson Bros. TAX BRINGS PENNY SHORTAGE

The extra 1, 2 or 3 cents charged for cigarettes and pipe tobacco as a result of the war tax is causing the United States mints and subtreasuries to work overtime. The demand for pennies has exhausted the supply of the subtreasuries in all parts of the country, and in St. Louis the subtreasury has been unable to meet the demand from banks for pennies to supply their customers.

Treasury officials also say that there is a scarcity of nickles and dimes due to the increased business of the country.

GIRLS! ACT NOW! HAIR COMING OUT SIGN OF DANDRUFF

A small bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Girls! Try this! Doubles beauty of your hair in a few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first —yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable luster, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine for a few cents at any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any —that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.—ADV.

HERE'S RELIEF FROM THAT PAIN

Why waste time and prolong suffering when Sloan's Liniment acts so promptly?

Stop the pain! Give me relief! That's what you want when you're hurt. That's what you get with Sloan's Liniment. It not only "kills pain," but does it quickly, without delay.

If you're tormented by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sprains, Bruises, Backache, any body or nerve pain— just see how instantly a little Sloan's Liniment gives relief. The very first application rests and comforts. Seems to reach right down to the seat of the trouble, warming and easing the nerves and tissues. You can almost feel the inflammation, swelling or stiffness subside, as the pain grows less and less.

You don't even have to wait to rub in Sloan's Liniment. It penetrates, and its clear, clean liquid can be poured right on the skin without staining. Get a generous size bottle from your druggist today. 25c, 50c, $1.00.

BOY SCOUTS SELL $200,000 WORTH OF BONDS ON PARADE

C. H. Howard and G. W. Brown Each Pledges Self to Take $100,000.

MARCHERS REVIEWED

British Munitions Commissioners See Lads on March Opening Campaign.

Members of the Boy Scouts signalized their parade yesterday afternoon by selling $200,000 worth of Liberty Bonds to Clarence H. Howard and George Warren Brown, each of whom pledged himself to take $100,000 worth. They were in a party of St. Louisans acting as an escort for the British Ministry of Munitions, which reviewed the parade in front of the Post-Dispatch Building.

Quick to scent an opportunity, several of the boys fell out of line when the St. Louisans were sighted in the two automobiles of the reviewing party and completed the transaction in a few minutes. The Boy Scouts have set $1,000,000 as their goal in the second bond campaign, and were jubilant over the fact that one-fifth of this sum was obtained at the outset of the drive. They sold $768,525 worth of bonds of the first Liberty Loan issue.

Reviewers Are Delayed.

The British commissioners, who had promised to review the parade, were delayed by a luncheon at the Mercantile Club, and the Boy Scouts continued marching through the downtown streets, passing the Post-Dispatch Building three times, until the Britons finally arrived. Among them were Sir Stephenson Kent, K. C. B., head of the commission and director-general of the Labor Supply Department of the British Ministry of Munitions, and Capt. Cyril Asquith, son of the former English Premier. Capt. Asquith was in uniform, with a belted military coat and cap.

Hundreds of Boy Scouts in khaki, nearly all of them carrying flags, marched in the parade. Before them was borne a big banner with the legend: "The Boy Scouts sold $23,338,225 of the first loan to 139,554 people, and we intend to beat that this time." These are national figures. There were many banners with slogans urging investment in Liberty Bonds.

"Uncle Sam" Greets Visitors.

In the line was a youth dressed as Uncle Sam, who fell out to greet the British visitors. He was presented to all of them and welcomed with cordial handshakes.

The parade started from Twelfth and Market streets at about 1 o'clock, marched north to Olive street and turned east. It soon returned to Twelfth street and as the Britons had not yet arrived it wheeled east once more. The third time the reviewers were in place. It was then 2:30 o'clock.

Some of the inscription on the banners were: "We Want Liberty When We Grow Up—Buy a Bond," "Buy a Bond and Sink a U-Boat," "Subscribe to the Loan and Hear the Kaiser Groan," "Liberty Bonds Afloat Will Get the Kaiser's Goat," "Millions for Democracy, Not a Cent for Autocracy," "Lend Your Money Now or Give Your Lifeblood Later" and "If You Can't Go Across Come Across."

The boy scouts' selling campaign will be carried on largely by house-to-house canvassing.

DIRECTOR ZACH EXPECTED TO ARRIVE IN CITY THURSDAY

Will Begin Earlier Than Usual to Get Symphony Season Under Way.

Director Max Zach of the Symphony Orchestra, who has spent the summer at his home in Boston, is expected to arrive here Thursday. He returns rather earlier than usual so as to get the season's work well under way by the time the first concert is given, on Nov. 16.

The public's failure thus far to purchase boxes for the Saturday night concerts on the same scale as in previous years has caused a special drive to be undertaken by the Women's Committee of the Symphony Society. Teams have been formed and each has a list of prospective buyers on whom to call. All of the boxes for the Friday afternoon series were disposed of early this month.

AMERICAN DYES DECLARED TO BE AS GOOD AS GERMAN

Never Again Need This Country Be Dependent on Europe for Raw Materials, Manufacturers Say.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 20.—American dyes are as good as German, and never again need this country be dependent on Europe for the raw materials, in the opinion of I. F. Stone and H. Gardner McKerrow, dye manufacturers, who addressed the convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers at the closing session today.

The conclusion reached by both was that in the relatively short time since the war began the industry in this country had been developed to a point where the situation was no longer serious. Stone explained how the immense demand for coal tar derivations for explosives with the high prices obtainable made it possible to recover these on a commercially profitable basis and in quantities sufficient to meet every need.

HOFMANN BROS. PRODUCE CO.
EVAPORATED AND DRIED FRUITS

St. Louis, March 13, 1907.

Dr. W. A. Lewin, St. Louis, Mo.

Dear Sir—

It affords me great pleasure to report to you that I am effectually cured of my double Hernia, after having been afflicted over ten years.

I have gone for weeks without my truss and find no inconvenience or trouble, and consider you have made a complete cure, for which I am under lasting obligations.

Please accept my heartfelt thanks.

Sincerely yours,
F. W. Hofmann

YOU can be cured of your Rupture without pain and without neglecting your business. This letter tells you of the experience of Mr. Hofmann. I have hundreds of other letters just as convincing, if you will but call at my office to see them.

¶ Think!—No knife, no anaesthetic, no hindrance to your duties, and however simple your Rupture or however serious or long standing it may be, I can cure you as I have 12,000 others in St. Louis, in my more than 25 years of practice in this city. The Lewin Method is widely known as safe and permanent in results.

¶ Consultations FREE.

TODAY'S AID TO BEAUTY

Hair is by far the most conspicuous thing about us and is probably the most easily damaged by bad or careless treatment. If we are very careful in hair washing, we will have virtually no hair troubles. An especially fine shampoo for this weather, one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair, that dissolves and entirely removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt, can easily be used at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox (which you can get at any druggist) in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. This chemically dissolves all impurities and creates a soothing, cooling lather. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on the glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem much heavier than it is. After a canthrox shampoo, arranging the hair is a pleasure.—ADV.

Few Drops When Corns Hurt, Pain Stops! Corns Lift Out

Don't let corns ache twice! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers—Here's magic!

No humbug! Any corn, whether hard, soft or between the toes, will loosen right up and lift out, without any pain.

This drug is called freezone and is a compound of ether discovered by a Cincinnati chemist.

Ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezone, which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus.

Put a few drops directly upon any tender, aching corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly the corn or callus will loosen and can be lifted off with the fingers.

Freezone doesn't eat out the corns or calluses but shrivels them without any irritation.

Just think! No pain at all; no soreness or smarting when applying it or afterwards.

Women! Keep freezone on your dresser and apply a few drops whenever a corn begins aching. Pain stops, corn goes!—ADV.

An Instantaneous Wrinkle Remover

The average woman is always surprised to learn, after experimenting with all sorts of patent so-called "wrinkle removers," that the most effective remedy in the world is a simple face wash which she can make herself at home in a jiffy.

She has only to get an ounce of pure powdered saxolite from her nearest druggist and dissolve it in half a pint of witch hazel. Apply this refreshing solution to the face every day for a while. The result is charming—marvelous. Even after the very first treatment the wrinkles show less plainly and the face has a nice, firm, comfortable feeling that is thoroughly delightful and lends self-confidence in one's appearance. This harmless home remedy is used by thousands of women to obliterate the unwelcome traces of time.—ADV.

RED CROSS NEEDS WOMEN WORKERS

"Women's Council" Considering Whether to Employ French or Send to America.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—The "Women's Council" of the American Red Cross, which came into being during the summer organization of American women in France, to do their share of the necessary work, must either employ French women or send to America for additional helpers.

In response to an appeal to the American women in France to assist in the work, there have been found only about 300 who are not already engaged in similar work, and this number is not sufficient to carry on the Red Cross activities.

Speakers of French Needed.

Members of the council who want to employ French women argue that, since much of the work for which they are needed is with refugee children whom the Red Cross is now bringing back from the front zones, French women are best. It would be a difficult matter, they say, to procure enough Americans who can speak French.

Those who want to do all the work possible with American women rely on their argument that they are in a position to draw on trained women, far better equipped for the work than almost any that could be obtained here, and that the work should remain entirely and distinctively American.

The need for additional workers is chiefly felt in the Canteens, the refugee and Civil Relief departments with its children's bureau, and the surgical dressing work. It is expected that trained nurses will come over as fast as they are needed.

Many in Work Require Pay.

There is a lesser demand for helpers as visitors to tuberculosis patients, in the hospital auxiliary work, the Equipment Department having charge of uniforms, badges, etc., and in the housing department, which looks out for hotels and pensions for the workers. There will be more needs when the blind, diet kitchens and home work departments get fully going.

American women, who have gone into the work thus far, range from society women of wealth to poor art students and women who have scraped up a little money in the United States to enable them to come here for a time and help, and who in many cases must soon return if they are not paid for their labor.

6,000,000 MEXICAN SILVER PESOS BOUGHT FOR U. S. MINTS

Treasury Made Deal When Metal Shortage Was Feared, but Prices Declined Afterward.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Six million Mexican silver pesos have been bought by the Treasury Department at 88¼ cents an ounce, for minting into half dollars, dimes and quarters. The Treasury acted when faced with the necessity of buying silver for coinage at steadily increasing prices, which at their height brought the value of the metal dangerously close to the minted value.

"Now the price of silver in this country has dropped precipitately. The swift collapse, from $1.16 to 85 cents per ounce, a decline of 31 cents, within three weeks, has resulted in an investigation to determine whether the market had been manipulated. The high prices recently prevailing are regarded as wholly unwarranted by officials here.

The purchase of the great volume of Mexican dollars, the largest purchase by the Government of the minted silver of another nation ever recorded, places the United States in possession of a sufficient quantity of silver to run the mints for two or three months and withdraws from the silver market here the largest single buyer.

SOLDIER'S HOMECOMMING

He Asks Court to Give Children to Him From Unfaithful Wife.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—A private in the Welsh Fusiliers, who has recently returned from Switzerland, where he had been interned for a year, asked Mr. d'Eyncourt, the West London magistrate, for the custody of his two children. His wife had written to him admitting she had not been faithful.

The magistrate told the soldier he was entitled to the custody of the children as well as a divorce, and that he would help him to obtain the latter.

QUAKE RECORDED IN CAPITAL

Seismograph Indicated Distance Was 2000 Miles Away.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—An earthquake of some intensity and lasting more than an hour, was reported today by the Georgetown seismological observatory. It was about 2000 miles from Washington and began at 11:43 a. m. yesterday. The maximum vibrations were recorded between 11:52 and 11:53 a. m. and the tremors died away about 1 p. m.

Director Tondorf said there had been since Aug 20, the most quiet seismic season in years, only one disturbance having been reported in the two months up to yesterday. On Sept 20 there was a very slight disturbance.

MUMFORD GIVES METHODS OF CONSERVING FOOD SUPPLIES

Have a Meatless Day and Substitute Vegetable Fats for Animal, Says State Administratior.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 20.—Dean F. B. Mumford of the University of Missouri, who recently was appointed Food Administrator for Missouri, has given out the following advice on food conservation:

Have one meatless day a week—preferably Tuesday. Eat more fish and poultry products. Eat less candy. Use vegetable fats (for example, cottonseed oil products) in cooking and thereby save butter and lard. Develop methods of using corn. It is possible to have good wheat bread that will contain 20 to 30 per cent of cornmeal. Eat corn muffins and corn cakes. Use fewer pastries and cakes and thereby conserve wheat, lard and sugar. Consume more perishable home-grown products and thereby reduce the strain on the railroads. Make a garden, if possible.

Bolivian Congress Honors Carranza.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 20.—The Congress of Bolivia has voted to bestow on President Venustiano Carranza the Order of the Grand Cross of Mariscal.

Folly to Let Man Drink, Says Druggist Brown of Cleveland, Who Gives a Home Remedy

A New Treatment Given Without the Consent or Knowledge of the Drinker.

Cleveland, Ohio.—"A woman who lets a man drink is foolish," says Druggist Brown, "for no man who drinks even a little bit is safe. A woman can break the drink habit in a few weeks for half what a man spends on liquor in the same time, and the drinker need never know she did it. For the sake and safety of both stop the drink habit in its beginning. Let the first whiff of liquor on his breath be your danger signal, but even if he is rum-soaked through and through do not despair; he can be saved, and it is your duty to save him." Druggist Brown knows the awful curse of strong drink, because he himself has been a victim. A loving sister rescued him from the brink of a drunkard's grave and kept her secret ten years, then she told him how she did it. She saved him from the demon drink, rescued him from his own depraved self by means of a secret remedy, the formula of an old German chemist. To save other families from the curse of drink and to help other victims out of the murk and mire he now makes the formula public. Any druggist can help you if you long to save a loved one. Just ask your druggist for prepared Tescum powders and drop a powder twice a day in tea, coffee, milk or any other drink. Liquor soon ceases to taste the same, the craving for it vanishes and, lo, one more drunkard is saved without knowing why he lost his taste for strong drink.

One woman who used this prescription on her husband says: "It is going on the fourth week since he has touched a drop of anything in the form of liquor or used tobacco of any kind. He seems already like a different man. Tescum has gained a wonderful enthusiast in me. I regard it as a Godsend. Just think, I have never seen my husband sober for more than 48 hours in years, and now it is going on one month since he had his last drink."

Another one gratefully writes: "I have used Tescum powders on my husband and find it one of the greatest cures in this world. He hasn't taken a drink for almost five weeks, and says he never will. My home does not seem like the same place and life seems worth living. I hope thousands gain what I have. This has been a good new year for me without drink in my home."

Note: Prepared Tescum, referred to above, should not be given except where it is desired to destroy all taste for alcoholic drinks. Women who approve of moderate drinking and believe moderate drinkers safe should give Tescum only when they see, as most do in time, that the danger line is plainly near. You take no risk with Tescum, as it is sold in this city under a steel-bound money-refund guarantee by Johnson Bros' Drug Co., Enderle Drug Co., Pauley Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and other first-class druggists. They guarantee it to do the work or refund the money.—ADVERTISEMENT.

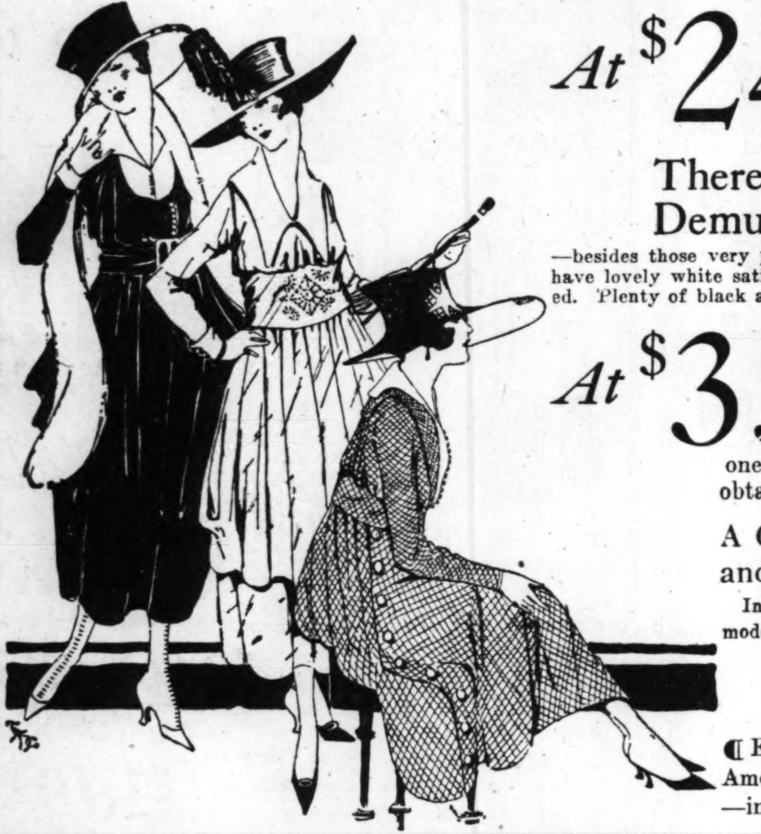
In Two Remarkable Groups Monday—

Women's and Misses' Fashion Frocks



Featured for Special Selling

At $24.75

Those in this group are especially notable from the value standpoint; comprising superior crepe de chine, satins and taffetas, and introducing many new and peculiarly charming ideas, foreshadowing advanced Winter modes.

There Are Clever Street Frocks, Demure Dresses for Afternoon Affairs

—besides those very practical Dresses for office and school wear. Almost invariably these have lovely white satin collars, and the skirts are mostly all full draped or tuniced or plaited. Plenty of black and blues.

At $35.00

It would be hard to imagine more grace and charm in Frocks at $35.00. Whether you choose one of the little silk models for afternoons, or a serge or gabardine to wear on the street, you will possess one of the smartest, one of the newest, and unquestionably one of the BEST frocks obtainable this season at the price.

A Good Many Original Combinations of Materials and Trimming Distinguishments of Unusual Charm

In short, you are certain to find here a very attractive dress at a very moderate price. All sizes.

Gowns, Upwards to $375.00

Semi-Annual Sale "Victoria" Coats

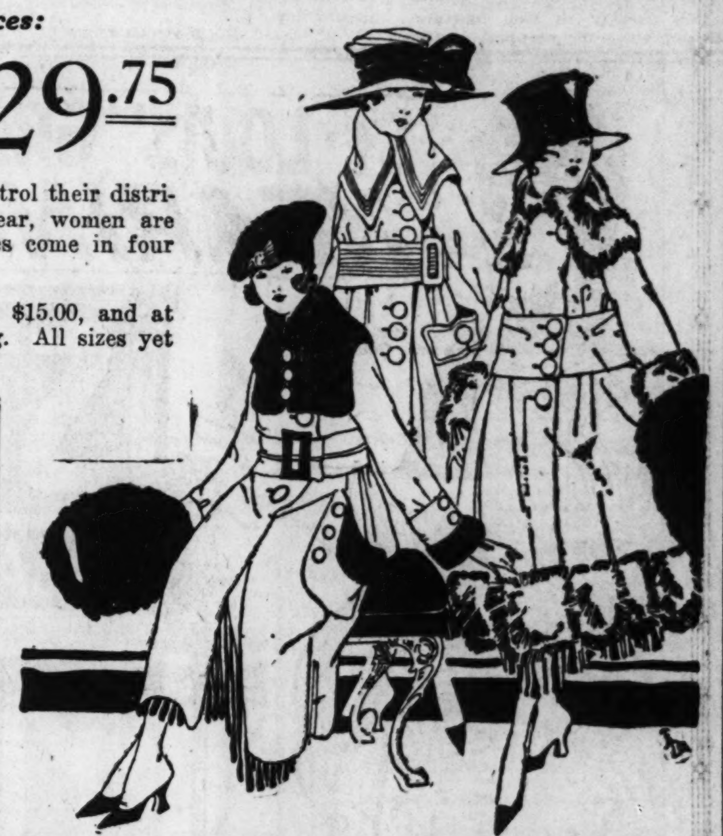
Copyright, 1906)

With Excess Values at Each of These Prices:

$15 $19.75 $24.75 $29.75

THERE is only one sale of "Victoria" Coats, for we alone control their distribution in St. Louis. And when it does come, twice a year, women are quick to respond to its economies. This season the extra values come in four big groups—a larger variety than ever before.

◖ You can depend on getting a SPLENDIDLY GOOD Coat at $15.00, and at every other feature price expect the same proportionate saving. All sizes yet for women and misses tomorrow.



New Coats---Just Received---Are First in Value at $39.75

◖ Consider the materials—pompoms, velours, suedes, plushes, silvertones and crystal cloths—the aristocrats of the Winter season; and the linings are as rich as the outer fabrics.
◖ Consider, likewise, that the styles are delightfully varied, and that the color range includes the new shades of brown, red, gray and green.
◖ Every woman whose size is between 14 and 44 can be fitted perfectly—a fact that should not be overlooked when the value is considered.

Rich, Roomy Coats---Up to $375

◖ New—and exclusive! Many are the new "half-cloth, half-fur" styles—more desirable, in many respects, than an all fur garment. Probably the largest variety of BETTER Coats in St. Louis today. Third Floor.

BLIND MAN "SEES" MAGAZINE COVERS

Keeps in Touch With Pictures Through Customers and Says He 'Certainly Enjoys Them.'

Cyrus H. Morris of 3254A Morganford road, vendor of newspapers and magazines at the Frisco Building corner, Ninth and Olive streets, "sees" the pictures on magazine covers through the eyes of his customers, though he is totally blind.

A Post-Dispatch reporter discovered this faculty in the sightless newsdealer when he stopped at the corner to buy a Saturday Evening Post from "Cy," as he is familiarly known. "Cy" stopped the purchaser as he was walking away and said:

"What's the picture on the cover this week?"

"A soldier," said the purchaser.

"Aha! I thought so. They're all running to soldier pictures now," exclaimed Cy. "What's he doing this time?"

"He's on a motor cycle and he's carrying a rifle."

"How's he carrying the rifle? He needs both hands to guide the machine, doesn't he?"

"He has a contrivance on the front of the machine. It is something like an umbrella holder and the rifle is in it, barrel down."

"That's a good idea," remarked Cy. "He can get hold of it quick when he needs it. What kind of a uniform has he got?"

"Well," said the now thoroughly interested purchaser. "He has a peaked cap and" ——

"O, I see. He's an officer, then," interjected Cy. "What's the color of his suit?"

"Well, it seems to be woolen khaki, but it has a grayer tone than most of the uniforms we see here."

"Yes, that seems to be a hard color for the artists to get right."

"Cy" had one more question about the cover. "What's the background?" he asked.

"I'll bet that gives a dandy effect," exclaimed "Cy."

Then "Cy," with an air of diffidence, explained that he "sees" the magazine covers through the eyes of his customers. "When the new magazines come out I always ask the first purchasers what the covers are like—because I certainly do enjoy pictures."

"Cy" can't read these lines, but there is no room for doubt that he can "see" that soldier on the motor cycle with his rifle "where he can get at it handy if he needs it."

NEGRO ARMY RIOTERS MOVED

Taken to San Antonio to Answer Charges Pending Courtmartial.

FORT BLISS, Tex., Oct. 20.—Under a heavy guard of United States troops, 63 negroes of the Twenty-fourth Infantry were taken to San Antonio, Tex., today to answer charges of having participated in the Houston rioting of Aug. 23. Their trials by courtmartial will be held there in November.

There remain here in the prison stockade 160 negro prisoners and 22 witnesses.

RAILROAD HEADS SEE BIG WASTE IN USING FREE BRIDGE

FACILITIES NOW ENOUGH

Merchants and Eads Bridges Sufficient, According to Cotton Belt and Wabash Presidents.

Use of the free bridge by railroads entering St. Louis from the north and east would mean a useless expenditure and waste of many millions of dollars, according to James M. Herbert, president of the St. Louis Southwestern (Cotton Belt) Railroad, and E. F. Kearney, president of the Wabash, in interviews given by them as a result of Mayor Kiel's announcement that he would ask railroad presidents to meet him to discuss use of the bridge by railroads.

They said that in their opinion the free bridge was not needed as a railroad bridge and that the Merchants' and Eads' bridges would serve the full needs of the city for many years.

The views of these railroad men are said in railroad circles to be representative of the opinion of the heads of all the roads entering St. Louis from the East, and that there is little probability that the roads will use the bridge unless concessions are made by the city permitting the charge of an arbitrary virtually the same as is charged over the railroad-owned bridges.

"St. Louis has not needed, does not need and will not for many years need the free bridge as a railroad bridge," Herbert said. "If it had been exclusively a wagon bridge it would have filled the city's full need.

"The Eads and Merchants bridges are at present used to only a small proportion of their capacity, and all the terminal facilities on the East Side have been constructed with a view to the use of those bridges. They can handle all the traffic coming into St. Louis. What really is needed is greater terminal facilities on the St. Louis side of the river to handle the business that comes over the bridges.

Would Need New Terminals.

"If our road should use the Free Bridge instead of the other bridges we would have to construct new freight and passenger terminals at a cost of several million dollars. East St. Louis would be taken off the Cotton Belt map and the present terminal facilities, worth at least $3,000,000, would be abandoned. We cannot see that it would profit us to make the change.

"Our company is constructing additional freight yards and terminals at Valley Junction at a cost of $750,000; it owns a one-fifth interest in the Relay Depot and adjoining railroad property in East St. Louis, is a one-fifteenth owner in the Terminal Railroad, Wiggins Ferry and Merchants' Bridge properties, and has other valuable holdings which could be used only in connection with the use of those properties."

Herbert said that he would be glad to attend a conference of city and railroad oficials if Mayor Kiel called one, but that he could not see that such a conference would result in any change of view on the part of railroad oficials. The Municipal Bridge Commission, of which Mayor Kiel is chairman, has set Nov. 22 as the date of the conference. Invitations will be sent to railroad officials next week.

Kearney, in an interview yesterday, pointed out that from the viewpoint of a railroad official, the free bridge was useless for the railroads entering St. Louis from the north and east. He said that it could be conveniently used only by the roads entering from the south, such as the Mobile & Ohio, and that even those roads had their east side terminals constructed with a view to using Eads Bridge.

Kearney said he always had been convinced the building of the free bridge as a railroad bridge, was a mistake, and that as to facilities, the Merchants and Eads bridges would supply all that would be needed for many years.

Exchange Basis Not Favored.

Suggestions for the use of the Free Bridge by railroads on the basis of an exchange have come in the past from city officials, but were not favorably received either by the roads or the public. Former Mayor Wells advocated a trade of the railroad deck of the Free Bridge for the upper roadway of Eads Bridge, and about 15 months ago Comptroller Player repeated that suggestion.

Comptroller Player's proposal was that the railroads in the Terminal Association give the city free use of the roadway of Eads bridge and pay the fixed charges on the Free Bridge as compensation for the use of the railroad deck by the different lines. He held that this would give the city two free crossings for interurban cars, vehicles and pedestrians and relieve the taxpayers of about $250,000 a year in interest on the money invested in the bridge.

CATHOLIC BURIAL DENIED TO MAN SLAIN BY GANG

James Ward McNulty First to Come Under Ban of Archbishop Glennon.

PRAYERS OUTSIDE CHURCH

Arthur Reidy, Also Killed in Gang Shooting, Buried With Complete Ceremonies.

The first Catholic to be affected by Archbishop Glennon's ruling denying Christian burial to church members suspected of belonging to a gang, it was learned yesterday, was James Ward McNulty, 22 years old, 2704 Stoddard street, who was shot and mortally wounded in a gang fight in front of a poolroom at 2241 Cass avenue last Sunday night.

McNulty was buried from an undertaking parlor at 1039 North Grand avenue last Thursday, after two unsuccessful attempts on the part of relatives to have funeral services conducted in Catholic churches. The only service consisted of a few prayers read by Father Francis J. Moser of St. Vincent's Church, Ninth and Barry street, at the request of a city hospital chaplain, who had administered the sacraments to McNulty shortly before the later's death.

Another victim of gang shooting, Arthur Reidy, 29 years old, of 2226 University street was buried from the Sacred Heart Church with complete ceremonies only after the pastor, the Rev. P. J. Dooley, had satisfied himself, through a personal investigation, that there was no proof of Reidy's previous bad character.

Efforts of Relatives Futile.

In discussing the McNulty case, Father Patrick Dooley, pastor of St. Bridget's Church, Jefferson avenue and Carr street, in which parish the slain man lived, said that McNulty's relatives conferred with him concerning the funeral and were sent to Archbishop Glennon. The Archbishop declined to permit McNulty's body to enter the church, Father Dooley said, but gave the latter permission to read a few prayers over the body elsewhere.

An attempt was then made to have a requium funeral mass held at St. Alphonsus' Church, but, according to the pastor, the Rev. J. McGinn, this also was refused when the circumstances became known.

The funeral was then held from the undertaking company's chapel. That it was not a "Christian burial," in the true meaning of the phrase, was the contention of Father Dooley, who asserted the term applied only to services held within the church proper.

Various Kinds of Services.

"There are various kinds of funeral services in the Catholic Church," said Father Dooley, "but it is generally considered that a Christian burial is one in which the corpse is brought into the church or that funeral services are held in the church for the deceased. Sometimes the body never enters the church, such as in cases where death has been due to a contagious disease, but even then solemn funeral services are conducted at the altar. It is unusual, and a sign that the full stamp of aprpoval of the church upon the character of the deceased is absent, when the services are held away from the church."

Father Dooley said he believed the Archbishop's letter containing the ruling, issued Friday, was a direct outcome of the controversy over McNulty's funeral.

At the time McNulty was shot, Arthur Dineen, 29, 1426 North Twenty-second street, also was shot, but not dangerously hurt. Reidy was slain by three men in a saloon at 210 Morgan street.

Weds 11 Couples in One Day.

SAFEGUARDS HEALTH OF THE CHILDREN

Constipation, or inaction of the bowels, is a great menace to health. Cathartic or purgative remedies should never be given to children, as the violence of their action tends to upset the entire digestive system. A mild laxative is far preferable, and the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and sold in drug stores for fifty cents a bottle, is highly recommended. This preparation contains no opiate, narcotic, or habit-forming drug of any description, and is mild and gentle in its action. Its pleasant taste appeals to children and they take it readily.

Thousands of mothers have testified to the merit of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in countless homes it is the standard family remedy. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 456 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

CONVENTION TO DISCUSS "INDUSTRIAL HOUSING"

American Civic Association to Begin Annual Sessions Here Tomorrow.

The thirteenth annual convention of the American Civic Association, which was created in St. Louis during the World's Fair, will open at 10:30 a. m., tomorrow, at the Planters Hotel, and continue through Wednesday. John H. Gundlach, chairman of the General Arrangements Committee, will preside at the opening session.

Lieutenant-Governor Crossley will welcome the delegates on behalf of the State; Louis P. Aloe, President of the Board of Aldermen, in behalf of the city; J. Lionberger Davis, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, on behalf of the commercial interests, and Miss Jessie I. Moller in behalf of the women's organizations. Response will be made by J. Horace McFarland of Harrisburg, Pa., president of the association.

The subject for tomorrow afternoon, when Richard B. Watkins of Washington, D. C., will preside, will be "Industrial Housing," and Watrous will lead with a paper of "The Need of the Hour in Industrial Housing." Dr. John Nolen of Cambridge Mass., vice president of the association, will discuss another phase of the problem, and "Men and Bricks in the Making" will be the theme of discussion by Miss Marguerite Walker Jordan, Fairmont, W. Va. A special paper will be that of Maj. W. A Starrett, U. S. R., Washington, on the "Housing of the New Army."

MINNEAPOLIS EDITOR INDICTED

D. R. Johnson Charged With Discouraging Enlistments.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 20.—D. R. Johnson, editor of the People's Magazine, formerly the Royal People's Magazine, published here, was indicted by the county grand jury today on a charge of "interfering with and discouraging enlistments." He was arraigned and after pleading not guilty was released on $2500 bail.

The indictment quotes large sections of speeches of Senator La Follette and Congressman Lundon, as published in the Magazine, together with the editorial comment which accompanied the published speeches.

DALLAS BECOMES "DRY" CITY AS SALOONS CLOSE LAST TIME

200 Dramshops, Five Wholesale Liquor Houses and 135,000 Population Affected by Law.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 20.—Dallas citizens will awake tomorrow in a "dry" city. The city's 200 saloons finally barred their doors at the regular closing time at 9:30 o'clock tonight. They will not open Monday morning. It is estimated that about 1200 men must seek other employment.

The closing of the saloons was the result of the county option election held Sept. 10, when prohibition won in Dallas County by a majority of 1852 votes. The city of Dallas, the only "wet" spot in the county for 25 years, turned in a "wet" majority of 800 votes, but this was overcome in the rural districts.

Besides the saloons, five wholesale liquor houses and one brewery are affected. The brewery, however, has announced it will continue to operate, making both beer and a "soft" drink, since the law does not prohibit the manufacture of intoxicants. The brewery plans to ship its beer to "wet" territory. Wholesale liquor houses have ceased operation.

Dallas is rated as having a population of 135,000, while the population of the county is 65,000.

Fort Worth is the nearest "wet" city. It is 30 miles from Dallas on an interurban line. Fort Worth voted "wet" about a year ago, and a few weeks ago, since Dallas was voted "dry," the County Commissioners refused to grant petitions of the prohibitionists for another local option election in Tarrant County on the ground that too short a time had elapsed since the previous election.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and luster and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—ADV.

Specially Selected and Priced

This is the highest grade 3-room outfit ever offered in St. Louis. We say this unreservedly, for we have made a special effort to give you not only the best Period Furniture—with Floorcoverings included—but we have priced the outfit so far below anything that has been offered before for similar goods that if you will come in to the store tomorrow—only a glance will at once convince you of the great value offered.

Living up to every word in our advertisement is the policy which this progressive Housefurnishing Establishment has adopted.

It is the common custom to advertise a great quantity of Furniture at an alluring price just to attract you, but after you visit the store you find that the goods are not desirable and you buy higher-priced Furniture, and when it is all over you find that you have paid $350.00 or more for a selection which is greatly inferior to ours. We leave that to your judgment. This statement you can rest assured is the truth—without any strings or comebacks.

Each and Every Article WE Offer is guaranteed to be of the highest quality—to be exactly as represented, and to be the biggest value in town.

- You can choose Bedroom, Dining Room and Kitchen, or Living Room, Dining Room and Kitchen, or Living Room, Bedroom and Kitchen, for $345.00.
- Selections made now will be held as long as four months without any additional charge.

Balks ta Clause Prohibiting Sending Out of Food or Gold.

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 20.—The Mexican Government has not approved the tentative embargo agreement reached in Washington between Ambassador Ignacio Bonillas and representatives of the American Government, according to advices received here today by mining companies from Mexico City.

This tentative agreement specified that the metals embargo would be modified by Mexico in return for shipments of gold and corn from the United States. A clause in the proposed agreement prohibiting the shipment of food or gold to other countries from Mexico was said to have been the reason for Mexico declining to enter the agreement and a counter proposal is expected from President Carranza.

TO STOP A PERSISTENT, HACKING COUGH

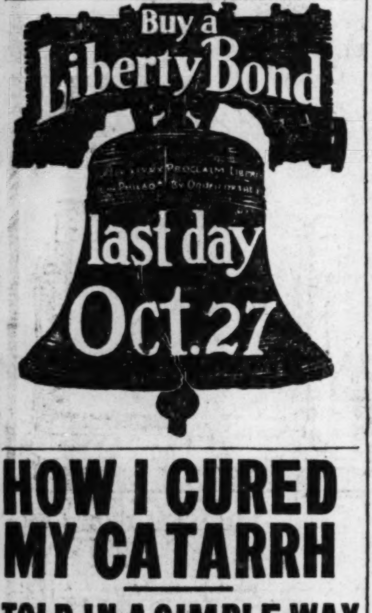
The Best Remedy Is One You Can Easily Make at Home. Cheap, but Very Effective.

Thousands of people normally healthy in every other respect, are annoyed with a persistent hanging-on bronchial cough year after year, disturbing their sleep and making life disagreeable. It's so needless—there's an old home-made remedy that will end such a cough easily and quickly.

Get from any druggist "2½ ounces of Pinex" (60 cents' worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Begin taking it at once. Gradually but surely you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether, thus ending a cough that you never thought would end. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma there is nothing better. It tastes pleasant and keeps perfectly.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is used by millions of people every year for throat and chest colds with splendid results.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," with full directions, and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.



HOW I CURED MY CATARRH

TOLD IN A SIMPLE WAY

Without Apparatus, Inhalers, Salves, Lotions, Harmful Drugs, Smoke or Electricity.

Heals Day and Night

It is a new way. It is something absolutely different. No lotions, sprays or sickly smelling salves or creams. No atomizer, or any apparatus of any kind. Nothing to smoke or inhale. No steaming or rubbing or injection. No electricity or vibration or massage. No powder; no plasters; no keeping in the house. Nothing of that kind at all. Something new and different, something delightful and healthful, something instantly successful. You do not have to wait and linger and pay out a lot of money. You can stop it overnight—and I will galdly tell you how—FREE. I am not a doctor and this is not a so-called doctor's prescription—but I am cured and my friends are cured, and you can be cured. Your suffering will stop at once like magic.

I Am Free--You Can Be Free

My catarrh was filthy and loathsome. It made me ill. It dulled my mind. It undermined my health and was weakening my will. The hawking, coughing spitting made me obnoxious to all, and my foul breath and disgusting habits made even my loved ones avoid me secretly. My delight in life was dulled and my faculties impaired. I knew that in time it would bring me to an untimely grave, because every moment of the day and night it was slowly yet surely sapping my vitality.

But I found a cure, and I am ready to tell you about it FREE. Write me promptly.

RISK JUST ONE CENT

Send no money. Just your name and address on a postal card. Say: "Dear Sam Katz: Please tell me how you cured your catarrh and how I can cure mine." That's all you need to say. I will understand, and I will write to you with complete information, FREE, at once. Do not delay. Send postal card or write me a letter today. Don't think of turning this page until you have asked for this wonderful treatment that can do for you what it has done for me.

FILM SHOWS ITALY'S NOTABLE PART IN WAR

"Italian Battlefront" Official Pictures Will Be Seen at Victoria Today.

Italy's remarkable part in the war, and the unparalleled conditions under which Italy is fighting, will be shown for the first time, in a comprehensive way, to St. Louisans, in "The Italian Battlefront," and official folm exhibited under the auspices of the Italian Government, which will be shown at the Victoria Theater beginning this afternoon.

This film was termed by Charles Darnton of the New York Evening World, "by far the most remarkable war picture that New York has seen." The New York Times, in describing the unique character of the warfare shown, said: "On the frontiers of other nations, the human element in the conflict lives underground, in mud and water. Here the firing line is in the eternal snows, among clouds and stars."

The New York Evening Post said: "Those who have felt impatience at the slow progress of the Italian armies against their Austrian foe may now understand the obstacles they have had to overcome in their advance. Thousands of men, hundreds of heavy guns and vast quantities of supplies have had to be transported from peak to peak in cages suspended from steel ropes, and the soldiers have fought their way foot by foot in a rain of shot and shell up steep mountain sides."

Film in Three Parts.

The first part of the film shows the campaign of the Italian army in the Alps. Detachments are scaling the Alps, trudging through the deep snow and carrying not only their equipment but sections of the huts in which they are to live. Over these mountains, thousands of feet above the sea, these Alpine troops drag their heavy guns, hundreds of men tugging at the ropes as the loads creep along by inches. Soldiers on skis act as scouts and toil painfully up the slopes to coast rapidly down the other side. The guns are mounted, emplacements being dug in the banks of snow, and then the bombardment begins.

The second part shows the battle of Gorizia, with Gen. Cadorna in command of the Italians. There are views of this commander directing the operations, and of the Duke of Aosta and his brother, the Count of Turin. The fire of the heavy batteries trained on Gorizia is plainly shown and the entry of the Italian troops into the city. Most interesting are the scenes showing the hospital corps carrying the wounded down the mountains and those showing the thousands of Austrian prisoners going to the rear. One scene shows the explosion of an Austrian shell on a bridge, not more than 200 yards from the camera.

The third division shows the battles fought by Italy in the sky and on the sea. The Italians have no superiors as airmen, and the maneuvers of their aeroplanes are thrilling in the extreme.

The pictures of the sea operations and the defense of Venice are followed by the finale, which shows Italy cheering the entrance of the United States into the war.

PACIFIC GLANDERS PUZZLED BY WHITE MEN'S WAGING WAR

For Years Natives Heard War Denounced As Sin by Races Now Fighting Bitterly.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The "white man's big war" has completely mystified the natives of England's Pacific islands, who for a generation have heard war denounced as a sin by their white protectors. Moreover the fact that a war could last more than a few days was a puzzle to them. An account of the attitude of the natives of the Gilbert and Ellice Islands is included in the annual report of the colony. It says:

"When it was rumored that native races were being allowed to take their place with British troops the islands volunteered to a man. When it was learned that their services could not be accepted, but that they might be permitted to contribute towards war relief funds, they were profoundly surprised.

"Carefully it was explained that the money was not for the conduct of the war, that money for this purpose was raised, where necessary, by demand and not by voluntary effort, but that many men had to die, and that women and children must continue to live not wholly as a burden on the empire. Once realized, the reply was spontaneous. The natives of Ocean Island asked leave to give all their phosphate royalty to patriotic funds, and were with difficulty persuaded to limit their gift to £1000 by the warning of possible future droughts."

$1,600,000,000 WRUNG FROM BELGIANS BY THE GERMANS

In Addition to Forced Labor, Manufacturing Secrets of Belgium Have Been Violated.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Germany so far has wrung about $1,600,000 in cash from stricken Belgium, exclusive of what she has gained by occupation of the country and systematic exploitation of its resources and people. Information reaching here today through official channels makes this estimate and adds that Germany still takes Belgians for "forced labor on the German front in France, while the recruiting for Germany by means of false promises and moral pressure goes steadily on."

German newspapers during the last year, according to this information, have printed notices inviting German manufacturers in need of labor to apply to the German industrial bureau, the organization operating in Belgium during the violent deportations of 1916-1917.

The Federation of German Metallurgists has announced that at the request of the munitions department the director of the federation has been appointed to procure for German workshops the machinery and plants taken from the occupied territories. The information is also to the effect that manufacturing secrets of Belgian trades have been violated by the Germans.

A SIMPLE WAY TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—ADV.

ARABS ATTACK WRECKED BARGE

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Sergt. J. Harts of the Inland Water Transport recently had a narrow escape from being murdered by Arabs after he and some companions were shipwrecked. In tow of a tug the party were proceeding from Aden to Muscat on a barge when the tug foundered in a hurricane. The barge was driven ashore on the Arabian coast, and 300 Arabs, armed with knives, swarmed aboard, looted the vessel and threatened the crew with death.

On the following day the Arabs began to fight among themselves. When the guard left the prisoners to join in the fight they crawled away and escaped over the mountain into the desert, over which they tramped for nine days, practically without food or water. Eventually they arrived at a place where friendly natives lent them a dhow of about 250 tons. After eight days of further privations they were taken on board a warship which had been dispatched to the scene of the wreck.

New Method of Reducing Fat

A news item from abroad informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression over there, must be the Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we have nothing better for this purpose in this country. Anything that will reduce the excess flesh two, three or four pounds a week, without injury to the stomach, the causing of wrinkles, the help of exercising or dieting, or interference with one's meals is a mighty important and useful addition to civilization's necessities. Just such a catalogue of good results, however, follow the use of these pleasant, harmless and economical little fat reducers. We say economical because Marmola Prescription Tablets (made in accordance with the famous prescription) can be obtained of any druggist or the makers, the Marmola Co., 864 Woodward Av., Detroit, Mich., for seventy-five cents the large case, which is a decidedly economical price, considering the number of tablets each case contains. They are harmless.—ADV.

WASHINGTON AVENUE TO BE WIDENED IN SPRING

Exceptions Withdrawn to Report of Commissioner and Court Approves Improvement.

All legal obstacles having been removed, the work of widening Washington avenue, from Jefferson to Grand avenues, will begin in the spring, it was stated yesterday. This announcement was made following the withdrawal of the exceptions to the report of the commissioners who assessed the damages to property owners along the route of the proposed improvement.

The commissioners—William B. Homer, Louis Nolte and Edward A. Raithel—filed their report in Circuit Judge Klene's court several weeks ago, in which they fixed the total of damages at $551,464.70, to be distributed among about 1700 property owners.

Exceptions were filed by Mrs. Hattie E. Fischel, Stephen J. Boggiano and the Greenleaf Real Estate Co., alleging that the sums awarded in their individual cases were not enough. The objectors' attorneys yesterday notified Judge Klene that they had withdrawn the exceptions, and accordingly the Court instructed the City Counselor's office to prepare a decree showing that the commissioners' report was approved.

The ordinance providing for the work was adopted five years ago, but the work has been delayed on account of legal proceedings. The width of the street is to be increased from 60 feet to 80 feet. The city will pay $60,885 of the improvement and the remainder will be assessed against property owners in the "benefit district," including territory between Lucas avenue, Locust street, Waterman and Delmar avenue as the northern and southern boundaries, and Second street and Belt avenue as the eastern and western boundaries.

Hot Water Each Morning Puts Roses in Your Cheeks

To look one's best and feel one's best is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken each day leave in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which, if not eliminated, for toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body.

If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, you are told to drink every morning upon arising a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Girls and women with sallow skins, liver spots, pimples or pallid complexion, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphated hot water drinking and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

Women who desire to enhance the beauty of their complexion should just try this for a week and notice results. —ADV.

To Stop Those Terrible
Rheumatic Pains
USE "5-Drops"

It has proven its value for many years past and the testimony of those who have used "5-Drops" and found relief from the torture and agonizing pains caused by rheumatic conditions is the best evidence of its remarkable power.

Mrs. H. Higgens, Ashland, Ky., writes: "I always said that rheumatism could not be cured, but will take it back. I believe your '5-Drops' will relieve any kind of rheumatism."

Steve Brownlee, Appleton, Ark., writes: "I suffered with rheumatism for over fifteen months. Just two bottles of your wonderful '5-Drops' has made a new man of me."

Harry Stafford, No. Baltimore, O., writes: "I had rheumatism in my knees and ankles and tried all sorts of highly recommended remedies, but to no avail until a friend told me to try '5-Drops.' I used about three quarters of a bottle of '5-Drops' and am as well as usual."

"5-Drops" is sold by the leading druggists in every part of the United States and Canada.

MAY BAR ELECTRICAL SIGNS

Fuel Administration Considering Step as Conservation Measure.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The fuel administration, in its efforts to save coal during the war, is considering the advisability of discontinuance of the expensive electrical sign displays that light up the streets of New York and other cities. They are classed among the first luxuries that could be dispensed with.

In addition it is considered feasible to stop making many nonproductive articles.

BIG TOURING CAR AND BONFIRE ARE MYSTERY SETTING

Detective Serial Circumstances Surround Burning of Woman's Clothes in County.

BLOODSTAINS, SAYS BOPP

Spire of Flame Attracts Graders to Unfrequented Retreat of Hooded Auto.

St. Louis County authorities, with city detectives, are investigating, it became known yesterday, a set of circumstances which line up like the opening installment of a detective serial.

The setting of the first chapter is eerie enough to satisfy Anna Catherine Green. It was broad noon, a week ago yesterday, and three graders, hard-working and unimaginative men, were eating their lunch in a little hut dotting the landscape in a wooded tract about three blocks north of the Clayton road and a block east of Pennsylvania avenue, in Clayton.

Through the tract runs an old and abandoned road, choked with weeds. As the men—Harry Hall of 7029 Bancraft avenue, Maplewood; A. D. Edwards of Webster Groves and Sylvanus Martin of South Clayton—were discussing their simple repast they caught sight of a large black touring car speeding along Pennsylvania avenue. It struck their eyes especially because it was closely curtained on the sides and front, so that no occupant was visible, although it was not raining.

To their surprise, the machine wheeled into the road running through the tract and was lost to sight behind the tall weeds. The men remarked that they had never seen an automobile take that road before.

Bonfire Is Chased.

A few minutes later they saw a spire of flame shoot above the weeds. Thinking the automobile had caught fire, they ran down to the road. When they came in sight of the car they saw it was intact, but that a bonfire was blazing beside the road. Two men had dismounted, but, on seeing the graders, leaped into the automobile, which whirled away at high speed and vanished to the south on the Clayton road.

Hall and his companions put out the fire, noting, they said, a strong odor of gasoline. On examining the partly consumed debris they decided to notify Sheriff Bopp.

He arrived on the scene a few hours later and, after an investigation, stated that what the men in the automobile had tried to burn was a bundle of woman's clothes, which had apparently been wrapped up in automobile curtains, as several metal snappers were found in the ashes.

Fine Raiment Remnants.

There were particles which had apparently belonged to a broadcloth dress, bits of fur and parts of a coat of good fabric. Evidently dropped in haste were two gold-colored woman's slippers, size 4½, which lay unharmed about three feet from the spot where the fire had been.

Across the bits of cloth ran deep red streaks, which Sheriff Bopp declares to be bloodstains. He has had no analysis made of the discolorations, but maintains that his four years' experience as Coroner of St. Louis County qualified him to know bloodstains when he sees them.

Here, like a "continued in our next," the mystery for the present halts. The authorities, after a week of work, confess they have found no solution, and not even a new clew.

SPEAKER GOES AMONG INDIANS TO TALK ON LIBERTY BONDS

Dr. Charles A. Eastman, Indian Writer, Says Tribes as a Race Are Absolutely Loyal.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Chiyesa better known as Dr. Charles A. Eastman, the Sioux writer and lecturer, has enlisted as a speaker in the Liberty Loan campaign and will make a hurried speaking tour among Indian tribes of the West and Southwest, between now and Oct. 27, when the campaign closes. Many Indians already are subscribing to the loan. Dr. Eastman departed today for Sioux City, Io., where he will first speak.

"The Indian tribes as a class and a race are absolutely loyal," Dr. Eastman said. "It is the only race that has no shadow on its loyalty to the country in time of trial."

AERIAL OBSERVERS WANTED

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Orders directing rapid enlistment of men for service as aerial observers were received today by Maj. Joseph C. Morrow, in charge of the aviation section of the Signal Corps in the Central Department of the army.

Successful applicants will be sent to the University of Texas for a six weeks' aviation course, and then to the army school at Fort Sill, Ok., for training. Enlistments are to be made in Chicago.

MORE RAILROAD PAY DEMANDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—In addition to demands recently made by passenger trainmen on Eastern railroads for increased pay, the "Big Four" brotherhoods will shortly ask for higher pay for the freight and yardmen, according to unofficial reports circulated in railway circles here today.

The reasons which the brotherhood chiefs will give for asking for the increase will be the high cost of living and advances in wages in other lines of industry, it is said.

EVERY SOLDIER AND SAILOR WILL GET CHRISTMAS PACKAGE

Red Cross Gifts Will Contain Variety of Articles for Comfort and Amusement.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Every American soldier and sailor will have the best Christmas the Red Cross can give him. Each one in this country or abroad will receive a Christmas package, approximating a value of $1.50 and containing chewing gum tobacco, writing material, games, dried fruit, candies, puzzles, knives, mouth organs or other articles. Each package is to be wrapped in a khaki-colored handkerchiew and tied with red ribbon.

The work of making the packages will be divided among the 2800 Red Cross chapters and one-third of the allotment will have to be in the division warehouses by Nov. 1.

Money for the purchase of the packages is being raised through contributions by individuals.

RUB RHEUMATISM AWAY; STOPS PAIN

Instant Relief! Rub the Pain right out with "St. Jacobs Oil."

Rheumatism is "pain only."

Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop drugging. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil" directly upon the "tender spot" and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacob's Oil" is a harmless rheumatism cure which never disappoints and cannot burn the skin.

Limber up. Quit complaining. Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacob's Oil" and in just a moment you'll be free from any rheumatic pain, soreness and stiffness. Don't suffer. Relief and a cure awaits you. "St. Jacob's Oil" is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains and swelling.—ADV.

CREAM FOR CATARRH OPENS UP NOSTRILS

Tells How to Get Quick Relief From Head-Colds. It's Splendid!

In one minute your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh will be gone.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh—relief comes so quickly.—ADV.

JEWISH STORES EXCEPTED IN SUNDAY CLOSING BILL

Establishments Could Operate if They Closed on Own Sabbath, if Udell's Proposal Passes.

Jewish stores are excepted from the provisions of a bill which Alderman Udell has introduced in the Board of Aldermen to prohibit the sale of dry goods, shoes, men's furnishings, millinery and similar goods on Sunday. A fine of from $20 to $50 is provided as the penalty for violating the ordinance. Jewish stores are to be exempted from the prohibition if their proprietors close their establishments on their own Sabbath.

Mayor Kiel several weeks ago vetoed a bill closing dry goods stores, shoe stores and haberdasheries on Sunday, giving the explanation that the State law could be invoked and that there was no need of such an ordinance. In an interview with a Post-Dispatch reporter, Mayor Kiel also said that Sunday closing of stores ought to be discouraged, lest the movement end in forbidding amusement places to operate on Sunday.

ACCUSED OF PLOTTING MURDER

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.—Government authorities have arrested on a charge of conspiring to commit murder, Charles des Jardin, whom they had employed to obtain evidence in connection with the attempt to dynamite the country home of Lord Athelstan, owner of the Montreal Star, some weeks ago. Des Jardin was released under bail after pleading not guilty.

After the explosion in Lord Athelstan's home eight alleged anticonscriptionists were arrested. Several days after the dynamiting, it developed that an attempt to assassinate Lord Athelstan had been plotted. At the preliminary trial the evidence purported to show that Des Jardin furnished money and also promised rifles.

"NEVER-TEL"

Better Than Advertised

Darkens Gray Hair To a Youthful—Natural Color

NEVER-TEL, the World's Greatest Hair Restorative, heralds joy and happiness everywhere! It is clean, simple, scientific. It gradually darkens the premature gray hair of youth, and modestly corrects the ravages of approaching age. It does its work positively, yet so gradually that even your own friends can "Never-Tel"—that's why it was legally accorded the name NEVER-TEL. It is not sticky, and will not stain the most delicate skin. It invigorates the scalp; eliminates dandruff, and stimulates the hair to a more luxuriant growth. It is a perfect delight to modest, refined women who have experienced the disagreeable features of other preparations; and to all who have felt the tragedy of grayness, NEVER-TEL comes as the one safe, sanitary preparation to restore the natural, lustrous color; place the glow of youth upon your cheek, and social confidence at your command.

Born in a College Laboratory!

The primative thought leading to the discovery of NEVER-TEL came from a college student—a young man who was prematurely gray. He had often been distressed by the use of different kinds of hair preparations. He was a student of chemistry and for five years made one experiment after another on his own account. He conferred with professors, and submitted test after test. Natural hair of every kind was used, and the combination of chemicals that gave the positive, gradual darkening without stain to the skin was adopted—its own beautiful work suggesting the name, which is now legally known everywhere as NEVER-TEL. Valuable treatise on the hair in every 50c box at all druggists.

Put Up in Perfumed Tablet Form!

NEVER-TEL is put up in delicately-perfumed tablet form for home users and travelers alike, because it is the most convenient, sanitary form known to modern science. Every NEVER-TEL tablet is complete in itself, to be dissolved in a little water as used; and to protect you against impostors, every NEVER-TEL tablet is stamped with the letters N-T. There are no extras to buy when you use Never-Tel; no concoctions to bother, no lightning changes to embarrass. NEVER-TEL is the careful work of eminent chemists—a most delightful, harmless restorative, appealing to modest, refined people everywhere. No need to worry—a 50c box of NEVER-TEL at all druggists will turn back the pages of so called "Time".

AMERICAN IS ONE OF BRITAIN'S BEST FLYERS

Chicagoan Has Accounted for Twenty-Two German Machines —War Honors Distributed.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Airmen figure prominently in a long list of war honors announced this week.

Lieut. A. P. Rhys-Davids received the military cross for destroying four enemy aircraft and driving down many others out of control. "On one occasion," it is said, "he shot down a German pilot who had accounted for 29 allied machines."

Capt. W. C. Campbell got the distinguished service order for "courage and skill in attacking enemy aircraft at close range." He had destroyed 12 hostile airplanes and two balloons and had taken part in many other combats in the last three months.

Another recipient of the distinguished service order is Lieut. A. S. Shepherd. "Within a month he brought down seven machines. Though surrounded by enemy machines, he fought for nearly an hour against two hostile formations, finally bringing down one of the enemy."

Lieut. E. L. Caldwell, military cross, has taken part in more than 50 contests in the air. Lieut. W. C. Cambray, similarly decorated, shot down four enemy scouts. Military crosses also were awarded to Lieut. G. H. Bowman, who led the offensive patrols on 20 occasions, and to Capt. A. J. Clarke, who led 14 bomb raids.

The foremost airman in the British army today is a Canadian, but his closest rival is an American from Chicago, who has thus far accounted for 22 German machines.

Up to the present it has been forbidden to mention by name any of the American airmen serving in the British army, but it is expected that this rule will be relaxed shortly and that accounts of the work of several American members of the Royal Flying Corps will be issued for publication. The total "bag" of American fliers in the British service is now in the neighborhood of 60.

Walk-Over SHOES

COMPLAINTS about the wear of shoe-soles are the rarest thing in the world where Walk-Over shoes are concerned. Walk-Over soles really give unusual wear. This remarkable fact is due to the special Walk-Over purchasing and tanning facilities. The raw hides are bought abroad by foreign representatives and tanned by an exclusive Walk-Over process. No "fillers" are ever used. The result is a durability of shoe-bottom that astonishes our new customers and gives constant satisfaction to our regular patrons.

Don't stay stuffed up! Quit blowing and snuffling! Ease your throbbing head! Nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only a few cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine. Don't accept something else.—ADV.

ALUM WATER FOR GRAY HAIR

Restores Natural Color

It is easy to use, and gives quick, perfect, lasting results. You can have your hair a beautiful, natural color for the balance of life. It acts like magic. It brings back the natural color, soft fluffiness and gloss to the hair, and restores the original color in shades either of light, medium or dark brown, or blonde. It will stay the same rich, natural color, stay fluffy, glossy, clean and odorless, with a clean scalp. Dissolve one bottle of ovelo powder in two ounces of water, moisten the hair with the solution, and while damp rinse the hair in tepid alum water (two heaping teaspoons of powdered alum to one quart), then rinse in plain tepid water, then dry the hair. Ovelo powder solution is inert and strictly harmless—a child can drink it. Ovelo powder is sold at drug stores.—ADVERTISEMENT.

$17,000 IN 27 WEEKS ALLEGED LOTTERY PROFIT

30 PERSONS QUESTIONED

Woman Stenographer Is Said to Have Acted as Agent at Shoe Factory.

It was announced yesterday that the grand jury had indicted James Hilton, 3806 Shaw avenue, on a charge of establishing a lottery known as the Mutual Bankers' Clearing Association, which is said to have had 5000 purchasers of chances and to have cleared for its promoters $17,000 in 27 weeks. This lottery was exposed by the Post-Dispatch several months ago, but the police did not become active against it until Friday.

The penalty for this offense is six to 12 months in jail or two to five years in the penitentiary. No indictment was returned against Hilton's wife, Mrs. Mattie Hilton, who was arrested with him Friday night, and who was indicated in evidence as his financial agent and the distributer of the prizes.

Thirty Persons Questioned.

Everyone joining the lottery paid $2 as an initiation fee and $1 a week for 27 weeks. Every day 10 prizes were awarded, the highest being $100; every Saturday 10 were given, the highest being $1000; and at the end there was supposed to be a grand prize of $4000. The winning numbers were taken from the totals on the daily clearing house reports.

Some 30 persons, supposed to be agents or subscribers in the lottery, were questioned by the grand jury Friday afternoon and night. The result of their testimony was the arrest of Hilton and his wife, and the seizure of records and papers at their home. Both were released on bond.

Grocer Tells of Winning $1000.

Hilton told the police, they said that he was formerly connected with the lottery, but withdrew several weeks ago. Most of the ticket holders were employes of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., where Hilton works as a twister; the United Railways Co., the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co.'s factory at Jefferson avenue and Randolph street, the Scullin-Gallagher Steel Co. and the Frisco Railroad.

J. W. Bissell, a grocer, 2301 South King's highway, who was one of the witnesses before the grand jury, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he won $3000 in this lottery last March, and since then has won one $40 prize. He declared that he was not told who the promoters of the lottery were, and denied a report that a ticket given to him by a man to pay an $18 debt won $1000, which he was said to have divided with the original owner of the ticket.

CHINESE NEWSPAPERS PROTEST AGAINST ARMS-ALLIANCE LOAN

PEKIN, Oct. 20.—The Chinese press is agitated greatly over the proposed so-called arms-alliance loan which a combination of Japanese munitions manufacturers is endeavoring to make to China for the equipment of the Chinese army. The Japanese, it is understood, desire the control of the two arsenals and also seek to have Japanese military advisors employed by China. They contend that such action would be necessary to prevent the use of the arms by the Governments of the North China provinces for political purposes against the Southern provinces. They also want China to agree to supply Japanese with iron, claiming that the American embargo on steel makes this necessary.

The Chinese papers denounced the proposed agreement as a revival of Group 5 of the much-discussed 21 demands made by Japan some months ago. The amount of the proposed loan is uncertain, but probably would total 30,000,000 yen.

Tsao Yu Lin, Minister of Communications, is the object of much criticism by certain newspapers. They charge that the effort to negotiate the loan is an attempt to give Japan control of China's army.

Face Wrinkled? Complexion Sallow?

Then Why Not Treat Your Skin As Beautiful French Women Do?

Only a woman who has watched her complexion change from wrinkled, coarse, sallow ugliness to clear, soft, youthful beauty can realize the feeling of joy that comes over one when first she sees her own careworn, aged-looking skin actually regaining its girlish freshness; yet all this and more may be accomplished by a new process called Skin Osmosis, which any woman may easily induce by the simple application of warm water and roseated cream. The warm water softens the rough skin cuticle and opens the pores. The absorption of the cream helps to remove the half-dead skin scales and brings out the fresh, beautiful skin from underneath, giving to the complexion a most astonishingly clear, youthful appearance. This is the beauty secret of many famous actresses. Try it tonight. Merely wash your face with warm water and rub in a teaspoonful of roseated cream (which can be obtained from druggists), wipe the face and apply Poudre Petalias—a very fine complexion powder prepared especially for shiny noses and bad complexions. If your face is badly wrinkled, get a box of Japanese Ice Pencils to use in connection with the roseated cream, and you should get quick action on even the deepest wrinkles. Many a wrinkled, hollow-cheeked, careworn-looking woman has in this way banished every complexion blemish and unsightly mark of age and marvelously increased her beauty.

NOTE—Creme Tokalon Roseated and the other articles mentioned in the beauty recipe above are inexpensive, and the manufacturers guarantee success from their use or refund the price paid. They are supplied in this city by Lindell Dry Goods Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney Co., Judge & Dolph Drug Co. and B. Nugent Bros.—ADV.

It May Rain Today

Then again it may not. Whether it does or not, the man who wears an AIR-IN is prepared. If it rains he is secure and comfortable in a stylish raincoat. If the sun shines he is not out of place or uncomfortable with a conspicuous raincoat or a troublesome umbrella.

An AIR-IN is a double-purpose all-weather coat, ready for shower or sunshine.

Air-in
"The coat with lungs"

It is the special AIR-IN feature—the "lungs"—that prevents overheating and subsequent colds and make a raincoat really comfortable to wear in any sort of weather. The "lungs" in an AIR-IN are hidden under a plait in the back but open and close as the wearer moves, forcing the heated air out and the fresh air in through the openings.

A variety of AIR-IN styles, in the fashionable fabrics, at special introductory prices, $13.50 to $25.

1847 ROGERS BROS. SILVER WEEK

A Jubilee Week, Celebrating the 70th Anniversary of 1847 Rogers Bros. Tableware

An event planned to even farther extend the already nation-wide popularity of 1847 Rogers Bros. ware, which has been standard for 70 years.

Famous-Barr Co., headquarters in St. Louis for this celebrated tableware, is featuring a complete line of "Heraldic" pattern, a wonderful hammered effect with shield for family initial or escutcheon; the "Continental" pattern, designed from the revolutionary period; the "Old Colony" pattern, typical of the days of the first families, and the "Cromwell" pattern of old England.

The 1847 Rogers Bros. factory have sent Miss Mitchell and Mr. Vinal direct to represent them here during Jubilee Week. They bring with them a complete showing of the various processes which show the development from the crude material to the finished article in 1847 Tableware. They will be pleased to explain everything pertaining to this product.

See the "1847 Girl" in the Silver Section. She will be here from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. each day.

President Approves Plan to List 9,000,000 Registrants So as to Show Their Status as to Dependents, Occupations and Other Matters Affecting Service.

SCHEME WILL GOVERN NEXT CALL FOR MEN

Local Boards' Work Will Be Simplified — Rotation Numbers Presumably Will Operate to Determine Order of Examination.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—A sweeping change in the machinery of the selective draft, based on division of the 9,000,000 remaining registrants into five classes in order of their eligibility for military service, was announced today by Provost Marshal-General Crowder. Details of the plan, which has been approved by President Wilson, are not disclosed. It is calculated, however, to do away with virtually all the complicated machinery of the first draft and to make the operations of the local boards hereafter little more than rubber-stamp proceedings.

The plan was worked out at conferences with local and district board officials and approved by the various state authorities. Its chief features are that every registered man will know his exact position and be able to arrange his affairs accordingly and that no man deemed necessary in any important industry or needed at home to support his family will be called to the colors unless the military situation is desperate.

To Govern Second Call.

Detailed regulations to govern the new system are now being made ready for distribution to local and district board members. Gen. Crowder in a formal statement assures them that they will be given ample opportunity to familiarize themselves with these regulations before the machinery provided is called into use. As the next call to the colors is to be made under the new plan, this assurance is taken to indicate that the second call is not to be expected before the first of the year, although no authoritative statement on this point was available tonight.

Provost Marshal-General Crowder issued this statement:

"With the completion of the draft of the first army of 687,000 men, a new system will be installed for the creation of succeeding armies which will greatly lessen the labors of the local and district boards. So far has this been accomplished that it is believed that under the new system 80 per cent of the work will be eliminated while the forms to be used will not exceed 20 in number, as compared with approximately 182 forms which the present system requires.

"Along with the reduction of the labor there will be provided a system which will classify each of the nine millions of men who have not yet been inducted into military service, and each man will have been given his place in the national scheme of defense.

"To do this it has been determined to obtain from each man complete information of a character which will definitely fix his economic worth as compared with his fellow registrant, and from the information thus obtained, to place him in one of five classes each to be called in turn as the need arises.

"The method of obtaining this information is through a (questionnaire) a series of questions calculated to produce the information required. This document will be mailed to every registrant not yet in service, on a day to be fixed, seven days being given to each registrant to complete and return the same. Every opportunity will be offered to each man to complete his questionnaire fully and without error.

"The local boards will then examine each questionnaire and assign each registrant to one of five classes.

Class One to Be First Called.

"These classes will be based upon every conceivable condition, from the family or occupational standpoint, that should properly be advanced by a man desiring to be excused from military duty. Class one will be the first called for physical examination and service and when it is exhausted, if the nation's needs are such as to make it necessary, class two will follow, and thus each man registered will ultimately take his place if needed.

"Every opportunity for appeal from such classification by the local board has been retained and per-

BOUGHT GOLD BAR FOR BRASS

Bargain Was Part of Torpedoed Boats Cargoes.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The Daily Chronicle's Cork correspondent telegraphs that one result of the U-boat campaign has been a new industry which is earning small fortunes for its investors. This is a traffic in the cargoes of vessels which have been torpedoed, but which managed to reach port. Frequently these cargoes are damaged but slightly, but they are sold quickly at next to nothing, such is the haste.

At one port in the South of Ireland it was said that a purchaser bought for four shillings a bar of gold worth about $2500, both the seller and the buyer believing it was brass, but a Government official prevented the purchaser from carrying off his bargain.

MOTORCYCLE OVERTURNS AUTO

Woman and Man Hurt in Collision at Street Corner.

A motor cycle ridden by Edwin Seistel, 29 years old, of 3439 California avenue, crashed into a five-passenger automobile yesterday afternoon at Louisiana avenue and Miami street, with such force that the automobile was overturned. The auto was going east on Miami street and the motor cycle north on Louisiana avenue.

The occupant of the automobile was Mrs. Louise Yackel, 42 years old, of 3630 South Grand avenue. She was thrown to the street and suffered lacerations of the face. Seistel suffered a compound fracture of the right leg. He was taken to the city hospital.

DEMAND FOR LARGER LOAVES

Reports Said to Indicate 5-Cent Loaf Is Inadvisable.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Reports of food administration investigators throughout the country indicate that prevailing flour prices make inadvisable the baking of 5-cent loaves of bread. The survey has revealed that the majority demand is for the larger sized loaf.

The average retail bread price, computed on a base of one pound, was announced as 10⅛ cents on Oct. 13 as against 11½ cents Sept. 29. Prices in the South range around 10 cents, and in the Northeast a cent higher. A reduction of $1.25 a barrel in the price of flour was announced today by Baltimore retailers

BUYS LIBERTY BONDS BY CABLE

Capt. Scott Heuer of St. Louis With Medical Corps in England.

Capt. Scott Heuer of 304 Skinker road, stationed with the medical corps, United States Army, at the Second Northern General Hospital, Leeds, England, has bought $400 worth of Liberty bonds by cable.

Capt. Heuer, who was graduted in medicine from Washington University two years ago, cabled $200 to his brother, Harry D. Heuer, assistant auditor of the Terminal Railroad Association, to buy bonds, and cabled the War Department to send $200 in salary due him to the National Bank of Commerce in St. Louis to buy bonds.

FALLS 75 FEET, BACK AT WORK

Bridge Employe Lands on Back and Is Uninjured.

Charles Daily, 35 years old, a workman for the Kansas City Bridge Co. on the Highway bridge across the Missouri River at St. Charles, when working on the middle span, fell 75 feet into the stream at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, escaping practically without injury.

Daily landed on his back. He was rescued by a fellow workman in a skiff, into which he climbed a few minutes after hitting the water. He exchanged his drenched clothes for a dry suit and went back to work.

SOLDIERS SEND MONKEY TO ZOO

A ring-tail monkey called "Happy" was received yesterday by the Post-Dispatch from the members of Truck Company No. 4, 110th Motor Supply Train, now at Camp Doniphan, to be turned over to the Forest Park Zoo as the gift of the company. The monkey was the mascot of the truck company.

The letter accompanying the gift did not give a reason for the presentation. There are 52 men in the company. "Happy" will be made at home with the others of his species at the zoo.

SANTINO GIVEN 5 YEARS IN VIVIANO KIDNAPING CASE

Prosecution Relied Chiefly on Testimony of Handwriting Experts to Convict.

ALIBI DISREGARDED

Defendant Protested His Innocence as Verdict Was Read in Courtroom.

Michael Angelo Santino, 42 years old, a grocer, of 920 Wash street, was found guilty of participating in the kidnaping of Frank Viviano, the 8-year-old son of Gaetano Viviano of 5855 Waterman avenue, March 1 last, and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary by a jury in Judge Rassieur's court yesterday afternoon. The verdict was returned at 5:20 p. m., four hours and five minutes after the case was given to the jury.

The sentence was the minimum that can be imposed for kidnaping under the laws of Missouri, the maximum being life imprisonment. The jury's verdict was a surprise to many, as the Viviano boy, after giving a vivid recital on the witness stand of the kidnaping and his experiences while being held 12 days in a house at High and Wash streets for ransom, was unable to identify Santino either as one of the actual kidnapers or as one of the guards at the house.

Writing Experts Relied On.

The prosecution's main reliance was the testimony of handwriting experts that three ransom letters received by the elder Viaviano were in Santino's handwriting. This was the second time in a week that the testimony of handwriting experts was used before a Missouri jury to convict a man of kidnaping. The first case was that at Marshfield, where Claude Piersol was found guilty and sentenced to 35 years in the penitentiary for kidnaping Baby Lloyd Keet of Springfield. In both cases Gus V. R. Mechin testified as an expert that the handwriting of ransom letters was the same as that of the accused men. In both cases John M. Trendley of East St. Louis testified as an expert that the handwritings were not the same.

When the Santino verdict of guilty was read the accused sprang to his feet and shouted in Italian, "I am innocent. I have a big family." He then wept so violently that he had to be taken from the courtroom while the jurors were getting their script from the clerk.

Santino's attorney, Thomas Rowe Jr., filed a motion for a new trial. Pending action on this, Santino was released on a $5000 bond signed by a professional bondsman. Santino has a wife and four children. The youngest child is 2 weeks old and the eldest is 5 years old.

Three Letters Compared.

The three ransom letters received by Viviano were compared by the jurors with writing done by Santino at the dictation of Chief of Detectives Allender after his arrest and with writing done in the courtroom. Several bank employes added their testimony to that of Mechin that the handwritings were the same.

A large number of witnesses for the defense, including a cousin of the kindaped boy's father, testified that Santino was in Crystal City, Mo., the day of the kidnaping. The Court instructed the jury that, although they might find Santino had nothing to do with the original plans or actual kidnaping of the boy, yet if they believed he later entered into the conspiracy and wrote the ransom letters they must find him guilty.

DREW CAMINETTI, CONVICTED ON MANN ACT CHARGE, PAROLED

Maury Diggs, Sentenced With Immigration Commissioner's Son, Ineligible Yet for Release.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 20.—Drew Caminetti, son of Anthony Caminetti, United States Commisioner-General of Immigration, serving a term in the Federal Penitentiary at McNeil's Island, after being convicted on a Mann act charge, was released on parole yesterday, according to word received here today.

Maury Diggs of Berkeley, Cal., convicted jointly with Caminetti, is serving his sentence at McNeil's Island, as he is not yet eligible for parole. Caminetti and Diggs were convicted in San Francisco in 1913 for transporting Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris from Sacramento to Reno, Nev. Caminetti was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment and fined $1500; Diggs was given two years and a fine of $2000.

Both began serving their sentences April 4, 1917.

EAST ST. LOUIS CONDITIONS AMAZE RIOT INQUISITORS

Post-Dispatch Reporter Testifies Before the Congressional Committee.

OFFICIALS CRITICISED

Investigators Get Story of Gambling and Reign of Lawlessness.

The inquiry by the special congressional committee into the East St. Louis race riots developed yesterday into a searching investigation of municipal inefficiency both during and for some time previous to the riots. This unexpected turn in the inquiry came during the examination of Paul Y. Anderson, who has been a reporter for the Post-Dispatch in East St. Louis for more than three years.

Anderson's testimony about the treatment he had received from Mayor Mollman and other city officials because of news printed in the Post-Dispatch about gambling and other lawlessness in East St. Louis, brought frequent expressions of astonishment from the Congressmen composing the committee. They interrupted the testimony several times to deliver sharp criticisms of East St. Louis official methods.

The session, lasting from 10:30 to 1 o'clock, was consumed by the reporter's testimony, and, when an adjournment to tomorrow was taken, he was asked to take the stand again tomorrow morning.

Tells of Secret Inquest.

"A secret inquest!" exclaimed Congressman Cooper. "I never heard of such a thing. Is it a custom here?" The witness replied that it was the only such instance he knew of.

"If it was secret, somebody must have wanted to conceal something," Cooper declared. "What, in your opinion, was it?" The reporter answered that the hearing was held at the police station and that the police had tried in every way possible to suppress facts about the riot. Further questioning brought out that Anderson had been barred from the police station for nine months prior to the riots.

"Who barred you?" demanded Chairman Ben Johnson. "I was barred by order of the Mayor," Anderson replied.

"What reason did he have for such a proceeding?" Congressman Raker asked. Anderson said the only reason ever given him was that he was not the friend of the administration, but said he believed the action was taken because he had supplied stories to the Post-Dispatch about gambling in the city.

"This is one of the most extraordinary and most serious things I ever heard of," Congressman Cooper said. "Begin at the first, and tell us just what you printed, and what the result was."

Told Where Gambling Was.

"The stories supplied by me to the Post-Dispatch told where gambling was going on, giving the correct street numbers; told when it started and who operated the games," Anderson testified. "Not only did we print the facts repeatedly, but I personally told the Mayor and the Chief of Police when and where he could raid them. Shortly after that the Mayor made a physical attack on me and ordered me kept out of the police station."

"What did he say when he attacked you?"

"Nothing, except to denounce me for writing the stories, and to call me a lot of names." Congressman Cooper asked what the epithets were, and the reporter told him.

"Do you mean that Mayor Mollman, the chief executive of this city, did that?" inquired Cooper, pointing to Mayor Mollman, who sat in the courtroom. Anderson replied that he did.

"And is it possible that the Chief of Police carried out such orders?" Cooper asked. The witness replied in the affirmative, and Cooper asked that the court reporter take the name of Ransom Payne, who was the Chief referred to.

Run by "Mule Pole" Fritz.

Upon further questioning Anderson testified that the particular gambling establishment involved was one previously conducted at 327A Missouri avenue by "Mule Pole" Fritz. He told the committee how gamblers lured youths to the place by sending out cards stating that the new "clubrooms" were open and inviting them to visit. He obtained possession of such cards when fathers of boys to whom they were sent appealed to the Post-Dispatch to expose the practice, he testified.

"I don't suppose any suits for libel were ever filed against your paper on that account," Congressman Cooper remarked, ironically. "I never heard of such a condition. Here, I believe, is a case where a man was abused and deprived of his lawful privileges by the very officials who should have been grateful

THRILLING FEATS ARE PERFORMED IN BOND 'RAID' ON CITY

Four Airplanes and Balloon Drop "Bombs" at Same Time in Interest of Liberty Loan.

AVIATOR DESCRIBES TRIP

"Tail Spin" Over Union Station Fashioned After Fall of Leaf From Maple Tree.

A series of thrilling feats, performed in an army biplane over the business district of St. Louis by William H. Couch, civilian instructor at Scott Field, the army aviation school near Belleville, helped to advertise the liberty bond sale at noon yesterday.

Four machines from Scott Field and one balloon from Meramec Park, on South Grand avenue, were over the city at the same time, dropping "bombs," which were packages of liberty bond literature. Two of the airplanes were seen as far west as Goodfellow avenue, and North and South St. Louis also had a view of the flyers. The machines were driven by Maj. S. H. Wheeler, Chief Civilian Instructor J. D. Hill and Instructors Couch and H. T. Lewis.

Couch, after his return to Scott Field, described his flight to a Post-Dispatch reporter. He said:

"I left the field at 11:30 a. m., and without making the customary circle of the field, flew over Belleville. From there I took the direction in which I knew East St. Louis to lie, and I could discern the heavy smoke of St. Louis about as soon as I could see East St. Louis.

Flies at Height of 5000 Feet.

"The way I took to St. Louis was direct over the Eads Bridge. I was at a height of about 5000 feet on the approach to the city, but I got down to about 3000 feet as I came over Union Station.

"I had 75 pounds of the 'bombs,' there being about 400 circulars to the pound. My job was to throw them where the people would be most likely to get them, and I think most of those thrown down on St. Louis and East St. Louis hit the mark, though I had to do some experimenting with cross-currents of air. The bombs were small bundles, about the size of a 10-cent package of envelopes, with a paper wrapper. The seal was broken before the package was tossed out, and it was intended to open and scatter the circulars. Most of them did this, though some bundles seemed to fall in a solid mass.

"Over the neighborhood of Union Station I began doing stunts. I tried several 90-degree banks, in which the wings of the machine are perpendicular. Then a tail spin. This is considered the most dangerous of aviation stunts. You have seen leaves fall from a maple tree in a strong wind and how they whirl. That is the model for the movement of the machine in the tail spin.

"Tail Spin" Takes Machine Down.

"The tail spin brought the machine down from 3000 to 2000 or perhaps not more than 1500 feet, and I turned east. As I went over the business district, in which the Railway Exchange Building stood out in tremendous fashion, I made two loops.

"You don't lose much altitude on a loop, or, rather, you get back about as much as you lose. While I was still over the downtown district I tried a 90-degree bank and a stall, or tail glide. This is done by setting the nose of the machine perpendicular, stopping the motor and gliding down tail first until you start the motor again.

"Jefferson Barracks was my next destination, and when I got there I found some difficulty in dropping the bombs just where I wanted to. There was a current of air somewhere below me which was not in the same direction as that which I was encountering and it took the circulars away from the post and into the woods.

Travels at 95-Mile Rate.

"So I came down to a height of a few hundred feet, and the soldiers, who had been standing on the parade ground and cheering, evidently decided I was going to land, for they cleared the field in a hurry. I don't think I was more than 100 feet above the parade ground when I threw out the bombs. I crossed the river without increasing the altitude much, and as my 'gas' was about sufficient for a two-hour flight, I headed back for the field, passing over Mascoutah and dropping bombs there on the way to Belleville.

"Passing over East St. Louis on the flight west, I saw a balloon, but didn't get very near it. The wind was from the southwest, so that we had to buck it on the way over, and it reduced our speed to 60 or 65 miles an hour. Returning, with the wind, we must have made 95 or 100 miles an hour. Normal speed is 75 miles, but when you are bucking a strong wind you have to increase speed somewhat to ride it, so that your loss of speed is not equal to the velocity of the wind."

As seen from the roof of the Post-Dispatch building, the first of the Scott Field biplanes came into sight at 12:02 p. m. This machine, which,

REDFIELD URGES ST. LOUISANS TO BUILD SHIPYARDS

Secretary of Commerce Pledges Contracts if City Will Provide Construction Facilities.

OPENED RIVER TRAFFIC

Welcomes Government Steamer Towing Iron Ore Barges at Chain of Rocks.

Secretary of Commerce Redfield, who yesterday officiated at the opening of the through-Mississippi traffic in iron ore and coal, concluded his visit to St. Louis with an address on the economy of waterway transportation at a banquet in his honor last night at Planters Hotel. Four hundred guests were present. The secretary departed for Washington at 11:50 p. m.

"St. Louis can best aid the Government at this time and also after the war," the Cabinet member declared, "by shipbuilding and by a more intensive use of the river to relieve the railroads of their present burdens.

"When you are ready with the shipyards, I shall see to it, if I am Secretary of Commerce when you are ready, that some of the orders for ships will go to your yards."

The Secretary gave assurance that waterway development would receive the support of every resource of the Government as it had become pertinent that the country had outgrown the present system of railroad transportation.

Traces River Development.

Redfield began his address with a review of river and railway development in the United States, tracing it from the days of the canoe and the stage coach to the present, when the railroads have reached their maximum carrying capacity, while the waterways are comparatively in disuse.

"But a new era is dawning for the economic policy of this country," he said, "and we are again turning to the waterways to solve our transportation problems. The railroads are hopelessly overburdened. They are more than a thousand locomotives and 75,000 cars short. To that degree they are inadequate for the needs of the nation, and we turn to the waterways as the great instrumentality that shall save us in this situation."

"The chief engineers of the Government are giving river transportation their best thought, and the authorized expenditure of $3,500,000 on boats and barges for St. Louis alone indicates, particularly at this time, with what great importance our President regards the movement. These boats will have modern condensing engines, which are much more economically operated than are locomotives, and will result in consequent decreased carrying charges.

St. Louis Is Waterways Hub.

"St. Louis is the hub of America's 16,000 miles of navigable waterways, and the commerce that shall move along them will radiate from this city if you will have it so.

"But the Government does not intend to favor St. Louis unless St. Louisans do their part. For the first time in this country's history we are going about the development of transportation by water in an intelligent manner and on a broad scale. St. Louis is the hub of the scheme anyway you figure it, and we want to see this city take advantage of its golden opportunity and capitalize this suggestion for all that its citizens are worth.

"A good way to begin would be with shipyards. We have 150 ships in the department of commerce, 130 of which are of a size that could have been built in St. Louis and many steel vessels can be built with facilities in and near St. Louis. This is an answer to the erroneous impression prevalent in these parts that ocean-going vessels are too large to be built on inland waters like the Mississippi river.

"I want to caution you that hereafter the Government will help only those who help themselves, and though I am glad you have made a splendid beginning, I want to see St. Louis utilize this great inheritance from God and work out your economical salvation along that line."

Railroads Not Opposing Plan.

The Secretary said that there would be no more opposition to waterway transportation from the railroads.

J. Lionberger Davis, who introduced the Secretary, made a brief appeal for the Liberty Loan. Other speakers were Sir Stephenson Kent, K. C. B., member of the Council of Ministry and Director-General of the Labor Supply Department of the British Government; Col. E. Keller of the United States Department of Engineering; Edward F. Goltra, president of the Mississippi Valley Iron Co.; Charles W. Laporte of Peoria and O. E. Keller, Commissioner of Commerce of St. Paul.

Secretary Redfield, acting for his department and the War Department as well, formally opened barge line traffic between St. Louis and St. Paul at 1 p. m., when he welcomed the Government steamer No-

TOTAL GERMAN CASUALTIES ESTIMATED AT 8,250,000

List for Three Years of War Said to Fill Thirty Volumes of 22,000 Pages.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 20—The Cologne correspondent of the Tidji reports that the German casualties list, comprising killed, wounded, prisoners and missing from August, 1914, to September, 1917, fill 30 folio volumes of 22,000 pages.

He calculates the total number of names as 8,250,000.

FOUR CONVICTED OF PLOT TO FOMENT REVOLT IN INDIA

Gustav H. Jacobsen, Wealthy Chicago Real Estate Dealer, and 3 Co-Defendants Found Guilty.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Gustav H Jacobsen, a wealthy real estate dealer, and three co-defendants were found guilty tonight of conspiring to foment a revolution in India.

The defendants were also found guilty of actually committing the act of getting on foot a military enterprise. Besides Jacobson, the men found guilty are Albert Wehde, George Paul Boehm and Heramba Lai Gupta, a Hindu.

Federal Judge K. M. Landis, before whom the case has been tried, gave final instructions to the jury this afternoon at 4:26 o'clock and was in the courtroom at 9:25 o'clock tonight to receive the verdict.

HAIG'S SUCCESSES DUE TO SUPERIORITY OF ORDNANCE

Pershing to Use French Guns Until U. S. Can Send Necessary Supply.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The recent successes of Field Marshal Haig in Flanders were due primarily to the maintenance by him of a constant superiority of well-organized ordnance. This is gleaned from unofficial correspondence of American officers in France. The same is true of the forward pushes of Gen. Petain.

This information is confirmed by reports that Gen. Pershing's staff is prepared to recommend still further increases in the ratio of artillery to be attached to the American expeditionary divisions.

The deficiency causing the most anxiety at the War Department from the outset has been heavy field guns. There has been discussion of sending to France reserve supplies of heavy artillery constructed for our coast defenses. Arrangements have been made for manufacture of guns most necessary to successful prosecution of the war. Until these are forthcoming French guns will be used.

RIDER DIDN'T KNOW DERNBURG HAD PART IN LOAN TO HIM

Former Banker Says $15,000 of $20,000 Came From German Without Editor's Knowledge.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Perley Morse, accountant, retained to investigate financial transactions in America of Bolo Pasha, alleged German spy and propagandist, today made public testimony given by Adolf Favenstedt, former head of a banking house, to the effect that he lent $20,000 to the late Herman Ridder, publisher of the New York Staats Zeitung.

Pavenstedt's testimony showed that $15,000 of the money came from Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, former German propaganda director in America, but that neither Ridder nor any member of his family ever knew of Lernburg's connection with the transaction. "They do not know it today," he said.

Pavenstedt said that he went to Dernburg and told him of Ridder's need of money without Ridder's knowledge.

TWO DESTROYERS, 9 MERCHANT SHIPS, SUNK BY GERMANS IN NORTH SEA FIGHT

Escorting Vessels and Merchantmen Attacked Midway Between Norway and Shetland Islands by Two Fast Raiders.

Destroyers Wage Unequal Battle Until They Go Down, 135 Britons, All on Board, Being Lost.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The British Admiralty today made official announcement of a German naval success in the North Sea on Wednesday in which two British destroyers and nine merchant vessels were sunk by two fast and heavily armed German raiders. One hundred and thirty-five officers and men of the British destroyers were lost.

The merchantmen were being convoyed from Norway to England, and the fight occurred midway between Norway and the Shetland Islands. The British Admiralty disputes the German official account saying that all the vessels with the exception of a fishing steamer were sunk.

A dispatch from Christiania tonight says the German vessels were cruisers, and declare 12 merchant ships were sunk—five Norwegian of a total tonnage of 8400, two Danish, two Swedish, one Belgian and two British. Seventy-one survivors, after strenuous rowing, have arrived at different places on the Norwegian west coast.

Official British Account.

The official statement issued by the Admiralty today, said:

"Two fast and heavily armed German raiders atacked a convoy in the North Sea about midway between the Shetland Islands and the Norwegian coast on Wednesday. Two British destroyers, His Majesty's ships Mary Rose, Lieutenant-Commander Charles Fox, and Strongbow, Lieutenant-Commander Edward Brooke, which formed the anti-submarine escort, at once engaged the enemy vessels and fought until they were sunk after a short and unequal engagement.

"Their gallant action held the German raiders sufficiently long to enable three merchant vessels to effect their escape.

"It is to be regretted, however, that five Norwegian, one Danish and three Swedish vessels, all unarmed, were thereafter sunk by gunfire, without examination or warning of any kind, and regardless of the lives of their crews and passengers. Lengthy comment on the action of the Germans is unnecessary, but adds another example to the long list of criminally inhuman deeds of the German navy.

"Anxious to make good their escape before British forces could intercept them, no effort was made to rescue the crews of the sunken British destroyers, and the Germans left the doomed merchant ships while these were still sinking, thus enabling the British patrol craft, which arrived shortly afterward, to rescue some 30 Norwegians and others, regarding whom the details are not known. The German navy by this act, once more and further degraded itself by this disregard of the historic chivalry of the sea.

Evaded Watchers on Dark Nights.

"The German official communique on this subject states that the attack took place within territorial waters in the neighborhood of Shetland Islands and that all the escort vessels, including the destroyers, were sunk, with the exception of one escort fishing steamer. The statement as to the locality of the attack is untrue, as is also the statement regarding the destruction of the escort vessels.

"It is regretted that all the 88 officers and men of H. M. S. Mary Rose and 47 officers and men of H. M. S. Strongbow were lost."

Germans Had No Loss.

The official German announcement of the action, as given out here, says:

"On Wednesday light German sea fighting forces in the northern part of the North Sea, within territorial waters in the neighborhood of the Shetland Islands, attacked a convoy bound from Norway to England, consisting of 12 vessels, including by way of protection two modern British destroyers, G-29 and G-31.

"All the ships of the convoy and the protecting vessels, including the destroyers, were destroyed, with the exception of an escorting fishing steamer. Our fighting forces returned without loss or damage."

FOUR ZEPPELINS DOWNED IN FRANCE AFTER LONDON RAID

20 DEATHS IN LONDON

Aerial Torpedo Kills 13 Persons, Eight in One Family—Seven Die in Shopping Quarter.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Reuter's correspondent at the battle front in France telegraphs that four of the Zeppelins which took part in last night's raid on England were shot down in various parts of France, where the air defenses operated vigorously.

The correspondent's dispatch reads:

"A fleet of Zeppelins returning from England was routed by the French air defenses last night. Four of them were brought down, all being forced to land in France. It is believed a fifth German airship was destroyed at Bourbonne-Les-Bains.

Eleven Airships Cited.

"The approach of 11 Zeppelins was signaled through France late in the evening. At once the air defense squadrons and batteries all over the country were warned and the enemy's airships were attacked and scattered all over France like a flock of frightened birds.

"One Zeppelin was brought down at St. Clement, near Luneville, by anti-aircraft guns. Two others were brought down or forced to land, one at Vergeannes in the department of Cote d'Or, (more than 100 miles southeast of Paris), and the other at Lamarche, in Haute-Marne, (also southeast of Paris). One of these was damaged by French airmen and the other by guns. A fourth Zeppelin, after being chased throughout central France through the districts of Lyons, Djon and St. Marcellin, was brought down at Gap in the Hautes-Alpes (more than 100 miles from the Mediterranean.

"No bombs were dropped in France by the Zeppelins which were practically at the mercy of the French air defense service from the moment they crossed the coast."

Aerial Torpedo Kills 13.

Of the 27 deaths officially reported as the result of last night's air raid in England, seven persons were killed outright by bombs that fell in the shopping district of London and 13 by a torpedo which destroyed three houses in the residential quarter. Of the latter victims, eight belonged to one family—a mother and her infant, four girls and two boys. A lodger in the same house also was killed.

It is reported from an eastern county that seven Zeppelins remained overhead there for several hours last night and dropped 50 bombs, including a number of incendiary nature. No casualties resulted, but a farm building and an inn were damaged and two horses were killed in a field. Most of the bombs dropped in the open country.

The official announcement today said that in all districts 27 persons had been killed and 53 injured in the raid and that there was some material damage to houses and business premises.

Crew of One Zeppelin Raider Made Prisoner by French.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—Tonight's official communication records the breaking up of a Zeppelin raid as follows:

"Aviation—Last night, about midnight, Dunkirk was bombarded from the sea. According to the report, there were no civilian casualties.

"During the night a large number of Zeppelins flew over French territory without causing damage. In their passage they were bombarded by our anti-aerial defense posts. Several of the machines, which were dispersed, were brought down or compelled to make a landing. One Zeppelin was brought down in flames at St. Clement, 10 kilometers southeast of Luneville. A second, attacked by our aviators, was compelled to land near Bourhonne-les-Bains. The crew were taken prisoner, the machine being intact. Two other Zeppelins, in a damaged condition, fell in the interior zone."

SECRETARY REDFIELD URGES ST. LOUIS TO BUILD SHIPYARDS

komis and a barge cargo of iron ore from Minnesota to St. Louis. At the same moment Mayor Kiel officially received the Secretary and other Government officials on behalf of the city. The ceremony took place a short distance south of the McKinley Bridge.

Ceremony at Chain of Rocks.

Secretary Redfield and party went up the river on the harbor boat Erastus Wells, which flew the flag of the Secretary of Commerce. They expected to meet the Nokomis at Alton, but came upon her at Chain of Rocks. She was five days out from St. Paul, and had made good time despite low water.

The ore was a consignment from Ironton, Minn., to the Mississippi Valley Iron Co., of which Edward F. Goltra, who started the movement for a revival of traffic on the Upper Mississippi, is president. There were 11 barges in the fleet, containing about 3600 tons of manganese ore. It is estimated that the cost of the shipment by river was one-third less than would have been charged for river transportation.

In order to decrease the burdens of the railroads by increasing river traffic, the Government has authorized the building of five towing steamers and 24 steel barges for use on the low-water stretches of the Upper Mississippi, which will be leased for this service. Each of the barges will be 310 feet long, 50-foot beam, have a capacity of 2000 tons and a draft of less than four feet. With the steamers, they will cost approximately $3,500,000.

Distinguished Party Members.

Others in the party were Col. E. Keller, representing the U. S. Army Engineering Corps; Gen. William A. Bixby and Col. J. A. Ockerson of the Mississippi River Commission; St. Louis city officials and business men, and city officials of St. Paul and Minneapolis. Col. Campbell Stuart of the British army, who is in St. Louis to arrange for the visit of Lord Northcliffe Friday, also went along.

The harbor boat went alongside the Nokomis, and Secretary Redfield, Col. Keller and Gen. Bixby stepped aboard the latter and shook hands with the Captain. Mayor Kiel then did the honors for St. Louis by receiving the Secretary and army officials back on the harbor boat.

On the trip back to the wharf luncheon was served, at which Secretary Redfield spoke.

"About 35 years ago," he related, "there were six railroads running along the banks of the Hudson River, from New York to Albany, in competition with river transportation, of which there was little at that time. Today, although the six railroads are still operating, there are 8,000,000 tons of shipping on the Hudson. There is no reason why St. Louis cannot follow this example."

ROBBER FILLS "PRESCRIPTION"

Druggist Can't Fix Up "$50 or Your Life" and Loses $25.

"Can you fill this prescription?" asked a man who entered a drug store at Twenty-fifth street and Bremen avenue last night and handed Peter J. Basler, the proprietor, a cigarette paper on which was written, $50 or your life."

"No, I can't," replied the druggist. Whereupon the stranger drew a revolver and opened the cash register, from which he took the contents, $25. To fill out the "prescription" he took an overcoat and a gold watch from a customer. He backed out of the front door and ran away.

to him, simply because he did what I believe was his private and public duty."

"This republic cannot continue without a free, fearless and honest press. This Government cannot stand if the public press is to be controlled by corrupt politicians."

Police Conduct During Rioting.

The committee then inquired into the conduct of the police and the militia during the rioting, particularly in connection with the destruction of cameras and photographs and the arrest of newspaper photographers. When Anderson told of a policeman taking photographic plates from a Post-Dispatch photographer and destroying them, Congressman Raker asked if the policeman had not been indicted, and was astonished when told that he was not even suspended. He was told that former Night Chief Hickey, who ordered it done, had been indicted, and that Maurice Ahearn, secretary to Mayor Mollman, who ordered photographers arrested, had been indicted.

"Did you see any police or soldiers doing anything to suppress the rioting July 2?" Chairman Johnson asked. Anderson said he had seen a soldier plead with a mob not to kill a prostrated negro at Division and Collinsville avenues, but that, as the soldier stood over the negro, a white man shot and killed the negro. That was the only instance, prior to the arrival of Col. Tripp at Fourth and Broadway at 7:30 p. m., when he saw guardsmen interfere, he testified. He did not see the police do anything that day to quell the massacre, he said, but did tell of seeing a policeman release a white man, at the request of the mob, after the white man had shot at a negro and accidentally wounded a white man.

The witness also told of hearing a guardsman tell a white rioter, as the latter reloaded a revolver, to "kill as many of the black ——— as he wanted to," as he, the soldier, didn't like them either.

"And this man wore the uniform of a United States soldier," remarked Chairman Johnson. "It is almost incredible."

"According to the witness both soldiers and police were not only inefficient, but were cowardly and cruel," Congressman Cooper asserted. "Is what you have told us a fair indication of the kind of a city administration you have?" The reporter replied that he considered it so.

Anderson testified about the fatal stabbing of John Eisinger, a 16-year-old white boy, by John McCafferty, a private of the Fourth Infantry, several days after the riot, and said that the result of a courtmartial to which McCafferty was subjected, was never made public.

"Is it not your opinion, as a newspaper man, that if the man was found innocent the fact should have been made public?" Congressman Johnson asked. Anderson replied that it certainly was. "It is a fact that, if he was guilty and the courtmartial wanted to exonerate him, they probably would suppress the finding is it not?" The witness assented.

Congressman Baker then asked for the name of the officer who conducted the courtmartial (Maj. John J. Bullington) and declared that he thought the matter should be fully investigated.

Gambling Facts Printed.

Congressman Baker again opened the question of gambling in East St. Louis, last summer, and asked Anderson if he was sure the officials knew of it. He repeated that the facts were printed and that he had told them personally.

"Then, in your opinion, somebody must have been getting money for protecting the games?" asked Congressman Cooper. Anderson replied that he did not feel justified in so testifying. "If the police knew it, and they apparently did; and the game continued, the inference is obvious," the Congressman declared.

Trial of Police Cases.

Congressman Baker asked who the officials of the city were, and how police cases were tried. The committeemen were apparently amazed when told that the police arbitrarily distributed police cases among the five or six Justices, the distribution being governed by the political attitude of the Justices toward the administration. The Justices receive fees on all cases they try, and Anderson testified that those Justices who were not political allies of the administration were not permitted to try police cases.

Anderson was asked if he knew of the importation of negro strikebreakers during the last year by the Swift, Armour and Morris packing plants, and by the Aluminum Ore Co., the American Steel Foundries and the Missouri Malleable Iron Co. He testified he only knew by hearsay.

In reply to questions, the reporter said he did not believe the riot was the result of a preconcerted scheme by labor unions, and did not believe the rioters were confined strictly to labor unionists. His observation was that the mob leaders were men of the type who loaf around winerooms and other resorts, and he pointed out that a review of those indicted for participating shows that many of them do not belong to any union. The five already tried include a chauffeur, a messenger, a switchman, a shoe repairer and an ice wagon driver. Among the others indicted are salesmen, policemen, a street railway claim agent and several other occupations are represented.

Assaults on Negroes.

The committee inquired in detail about the assaulting of negroes en route between St. Louis and East St. Louis, and about other incidents affecting interstate transportation.

In concluding, Anderson testified he believed the riot was brought about by a long reign of lawlessness, during which the lawbreaking elements of both races came to believe that they could engage in any crime and escape punishment. He said that all the agencies by which order is usually maintained broke down July 2. He gave, at the committee's request, a general review of the race trouble beginning with the strike at the packing houses last summer.

BOND "RAIDERS" OVER THE CITY PERFORM THRILLING FEATS

it was learned later, was Maj. Wheeler's, was first seen in the skyline sector between the Syndicate Trust building and the new Statler Hotel. At that time the balloon from Meramec Park was a considerable distance to the northeast at a height of about 4000 feet.

When the approaching airplane was still only a speck in the sky, it was seen to have changed its course and to be heading for the balloon. The biplane soon afterward passed within hailing distance of the balloon and circled about it. Then it moved over the northwest part of the city.

The second machine, which appeared three minutes later, came into view on a line with the Wright Building, on Pine street, and the third, which was less than a minute behind it, was in the same line, and somewhat lower. The fourth, after an interval of less than a minute, was in the line of Olive street.

The second plane made a detour to the south and crossed the river below the Free Bridge, apparently headed for its starting place, but it returned and encircled the receding balloon to the north, then flew over the business district again.

Loops Over Post-Dispatch.

Couch's "stunt" flying was seen from the Post-Dispatch Building and from the roofs of other downtown buildings, and gave a thrill to the many watchers. The "tail spin" feat, performed in the vicinity of Union Station, carried the machine northeast and the "loops" were made almost directly over the Post-Dispatch Building.

The longest flight that has been made from Scott Field was made yesterday morning by Maj. Rhinehardt, who flew to Springfield, Ill., scattering "bombs" on the towns along the way. He had as a passenger H. J. Helmle of the construction division, and the distance of nearly 100 miles was covered in an hour and a half. They will return today. Other flyers went over Millstadt and other towns near Belleville.

The balloon sent up from Meramec Park was piloted by Lieut. Fred Murphy, who was accompanied by Capt. Deiger and Second Lieutenant Dickey of the Marine Corps, and Private Guthrie of the army. They dropped an order for a $50 bond in the Cupples Station district, and when they landed on James H. Smith's farm near Marine, Ill., they presented Smith with a $50 bond.

SOUTHERN MOON SOUND ABANDONED BY RUSSIAN SHIPS

GUN FIRE IN WEST INTENSE

British Continue Bombardment—Berlin Reports French Shelling Is Destructive.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 20.—The Southern Moon Sound and Moon Island have been abandoned by the Russians under the pressure of superior hostile naval forces, it was officially announced today.

The text of the statement reads:

"Under pressure of superior enemy naval forces we have been compelled to abandon Southern Moon Sound. Moon Island thus came under the direct fire of the enemy ships from the Gulf of Riga and also from Kassar Bay and we were completely deprived of the possibility of defending Moon Island and therefore decided that no useful purpose would be served by attempting to hold it.

"The evacuation of the island was begun under very difficult conditions as it was all the time subjected to a cross fire from the enemy's ships. Our destroyers, trawlers and auxiliary ships engaged them.

"During the day our trawlers discovered mine fields sown by the enemy submarines with the obvious intention of closing to our ships the entrance to the Gulf of Riga from Moon Sound. These operations, coordinated with the landing of detachments on Dago Island, show unmistakably the desire of the enemy at all costs to destroy our naval forces defending this region.

"All yesterday mist and rain veiled and hampered our patrol and aerial scouting for the purpose of observing the movements of the enemy's fleet."

Gen. Tchermissoff, commander on the Russian northern front, has issued an order of the day condemning the agitation being carried out among the soldiers of the northern army. He states that agitators are spreading rumors that all the soldiers are preparing to leave the trenches at a given date.

British Official.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The report from Field Marshal Haig tonight on operations in Flanders reads:

"A hostile raiding party attacked our posts west of Lens early this morning, but was repulsed with loss.

"Our own and the enemy's artillery have been active northeast of Ypres. A number of destructive bombardments have been carried out by us in spite of the indifferent visibility."

French Official.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—The official communication tonight reads:

"On the Aisne front both artilleries were very active. We repulsed two enemy surprise attacks against our small posts, one southeast of Corbeny, the other in the Argonne in the region of Boureilles. On the right bank of the Meuse our artillery put an end to the violent bombardment of our positions north of the Bois le Chaume."

German Official.

BERLIN, via London, Oct. 20.—The supplementary statement from headquarters this evening says:

"In Flanders the firing was intense. Northeast of Soissons the most intense artillery engagement was in progress since midday.

"Good progress has been made on Dago Island.

"In Macedonia, French attacks west of Lake Ochrida failed."

This significant paragraph appeared in the statement issued this afternoon:

"Front of the German Crown Prince: The artillery battle northeast of Soissons continues with violence, which only diminished temporarily during the night. Artillery massed there concentrated its fire with the most extreme power. The continuous cannon and mine-throwing operations have transformed the foremost fighting zone between Vauxaillon and Braye into a crater field. Some thrusts by French reconnoitering troops were repulsed. Larger attacks have not ensued up to the present. East of the Meuse, firing activity increased yesterday afternoon. Several of our enterprises yielded us prisoners."

No Crowd to Hear Vardaman.

VICKSBURG, Miss., Oct. 20.—Fewer than 50 of the 20,000 visitors and veterans here for the National Memorial reunion of the Blue and the Gray turned out to see United States Senator Vardaman, who was scheduled to speak Thursday. He did not speak to the small crowd, saying he had to go to Jackson. Senator John Sharp Williams spoke to thousands Thursday.

AIRPLANES BEING DEVELOPED NOW ON BATTLESHIP PLAN

Demand for More Weight and Guns Changes U. S. Air Program.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The day of thrilling air duel between individual aviators over the fighting lines in Europe appears to be passing. Both official and unofficial advices recently have shown increasing use of heavier machines with greater armament and the development of air machines appears to be paralleling closely the development of fighting ships.

There are indications that amendment already has been necessary in the program for creating the huge air fleets provided for by Congress. While there will be no lack of small fighting planes, it is probable that stress is being laid now on the bombing craft and upon increasing the speed of these heavier machines and giving them adequate armament.

Already the engineers who designed the liberty motor are at work on plans of even more powerful plants, it is understood. At the same time the Liberty motor is now produced at a rate that assures a sufficient supply when American fliers are assembled in force over the fighting lines.

There have been rumors of great German aircraft soon to make their appearance and officials believe that the Germans are impressed with the desirability of substituting heavier machines, in which fighting power takes the place of high speed.

The production of training machines, it is understood, is the only element of the air craft program which is lagging behind schedule. With the completion of the Liberty motor and the successful test of the largest Liberty motor planned, the fighting machine program was made safe, and officials see no reason to expect serious delay in that direction.

New supply sources for the training machines are shortly to begin deliveries. That will increase the output and the first of the year probably will see the entire program abreast or ahead of its schedule. In the meantime there has been little delay in the training of aviators and many have been sent abroad after preliminary instruction to get proper flying experience.

WARFIELD'S ENGAGEMENT MARKED BY RECORD RECEIPTS

$20,580.50 Taken in at Jefferson in Week; Follies, at $2.50 Scale, Brought $30,267.50.

David Warfield's engagement in "The Music Master," which closed last night at the Jefferson Theater, marked the largest week's receipts of any attraction seen there for a year past, with the exception of the Ziegfeld Follies, which gave nine performances at a $2.50 price scale. Warfield gave eight performances at a $2 scale. Since Tuesday many who desired to buy seats have been turned away.

The receipts of the Warfield engagement were $20,580.50. The largest receipts were at last night's performance, $2802.50, and at yesterday's matinee, $2789.75. The capacity yield of the house, at the $2 price scale, is $2751, and the difference represents the sale of standing room tickets. The Follies' receipts at the Jefferson last winter were $30,267.50.

FRENCH SOCIETY'S DINNER

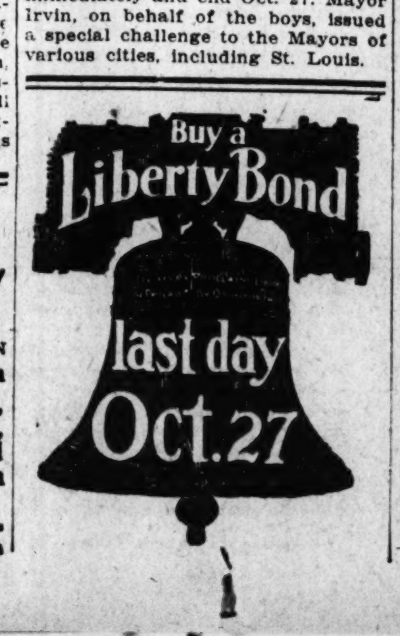
Charles P. Johnson Speaks and Anthems Are Sung.

The monthly dinner meeting of the French Society of St. Louis was held last night at Cafe Maxim, with about 100 members and guests in attendance. Charles P. Johnson, former Lieutenant-Governor, was the principal speaker. He delivered an address on the patriotism of the French.

Rene A. Rocfort, principal of the Patrick Henry School, a member of the society, also spoke. The dinner began after those in attendance had sung the Marseilleise, and at the close of the evening the Star-Spangled Banner was sung. The diners were entertained by several musical numbers by members of the society.

Bond Challenge by Boy Scouts.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 20.—Boy Scouts of St. Paul tonight issued a challenge to Scouts of any other American city to compete with them in the sale of the second Liberty Loan bonds. The contest is to start immediately and end Oct. 27. Mayor Irvin, on behalf of the boys, issued a special challenge to the Mayors of various cities, including St. Louis.



BRITISH MISSION IS QUESTIONED AT LABOR MEETING

Munition Delegates at Own Invitation Asked About Conditions in England.

Members of the Britsh Ministry of Munitions, on a tour of the United States, addressed about 200 members of St. Louis labor unions last night at Central Ttrades and Labor Union Hall, 2228 Olive street, and were questioned, at their own invitation, by the members. Earlier incidents of their day's stay in St. Louis were a meeting with employers, yesterday morning, at Hotel Jefferson, a luncheon at the Mercantile Club, a review of the Boy Scouts and an automobile ride.

Mrs. Sarah Spraggon was one of the questioners at the labor meeting and asked the commissioners as to the extent of women's employment in British munitions plants, and whether they would retain their jobs after the war. The reply was that women were now 99 per cent of the working force of the munitions plants, and were largely employed in other industries. The fighting men are to have their jobs back, but the Government, it was declared, expects such an industrial expansion after the war that women may also be employed.

SCir Stephenson Kent, K. C. B., member of the British Council of Ministry and director-general of the Labor Supply Department, said in his talk that strikes had been largely abandoned in England since it had been realized that they cost the lives of men at the front. He was asked whether the Government had committed itself to help restore the labor movement after the war, and he said specific promises to that effect had been made.

Uses American Slang.

H. W. Garrod, Deputy Assistant Secretary of Labor, Regulation Department, said labor was represented, "fifty-fifty, to use a bit of slang I have picked up in this country," on commissions dealing with matters of munition supply. President Grimes of the Central Trades and Labor Union commented on this as showing a very fair spirit toward labor. J. B. Conroy of the Stationary Firemen's Union understood Grimes to imply that the same fairness was not shown to labor in the United States, and took him to task for giving such an impression. Grimes replied that it was a matter of opinion, and added that President Wilson, whose name had been mentioned by Conroy, could "take care of himself."

The other members of the commission are: G. H. Baillie, Chief Technical Dilution Officer of the Labor Supply Department, and Capt. Cyril Asquith, son of the former Prime Minister of Great Britain, and Director of the Artificers' Allocation of the Labor Supply Department.

Purpose to Tell Experiences.

The purpose of the Commission as explained by the members is not to advise, but to inform the United States how Great Britain has met the labor difficulties growing out of the war and give this country the benefit of what Britain has learned by costly experience. One of the mistakes made early in the war by England was the placing of skilled workmen in the fighting line. That mistake has been rectified.

Sir Stephenson, at the Mercantile Club luncheon, said that capital and labor had agreed to make no wage changes or demands, and permit no strikes or allow anything else to occur that would hinder the making of munitions, without first submitting their differences to the Ministry of Munitions. He predicted the allies would win the war, even though Russia be subjugated.

400 at Luncheon Cheer Mission.

The Englishmen were given an enthusiastic welcome at the club luncheon. They were escorted to the dining room by Melville L. Wilkinson, Clarence Howard, Goodman King and William E. Bilheimer. Three cheers, led by Bilheimer, were given the visitors, by the 400 diners. Between speeches Mrs. L. E. Chittenden sang "America," "Keep the Home Fires Burning" and "Joan of Arc," the latter as a tribute to France. The diners joined in the chorus of these songs.

In the course of his address Sir Stephenson Kent said:

"We in England also have the I. W. W. to contend with. Being better organized in our country, they are more dangerous and insidious than any other class of labor.

"Over here you have big loans, and a great army in preparation, all of which is very good, but you must have industrial peace, and more, the friendly co-operation of employe and employer, to win this war. Gen Pershing must reckon on you for munitions; see to it that he gets them for the big drives he will direct on the Western front."

Capt. Asquith expressed the gratitude of the mission for its reception and for the hospitality of St. Louis, and, in concluding, said:

"The fortunes of war are not reposed in the fighting forces; they repose in the sacrifices in industry and in the home. An army is powerless without a healthy industrial source of supply."

Member of British Embassy Makes Visit to St. Louis.

Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell Stuart, a member of the British Embassy, was in St. Louis yesterday making arrangements for the visit here Friday of Lord Northcliffe, head of the British War Mission to the United States. He occupies the position of military secretary to the mission He made the trip up the river with Secretary Redfield and city officials to meet barges returning from St. Paul with iron ore.

MATHEW C. DONOHUE JR. AND WIFE ASPHYXIATED IN CHICAGO

Father Here Notified of Deaths Few Hours After Letter Told of Home-Coming Plan.

After receiving a letter from his son, Mathew C. Donohue Jr. of Chicago, Wednesday, announcing that he and his wife would return to St. Louis on Thanksgiving day to celebrate their first wedding anniversary a telegram was received by the elder Donohue telling him of the death of both his son and his wife in their home from asphyxiation.

Chicago authorities have held that the deaths were accidental and resulted from coffee which had been left in a pot on a lighted gas stove boiling over after the couple had retired, extinguishing the flame and permitting the gas to fill the rooms. The bodies of the couple were brought to St. Louis for burial. The funeral will be held this afternoon from the Donohue home. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Donohue Sr. live at 3021 Spring street.

SAYS NOVEMBER MILK COSTS PRODUCERS $4.08 A HUNDRED

Illinois University Expert Furnishes Figures Expected to Form Basis of New Demand.

D. A. Brooks of Marine, Ill., president of the Southern Illinois Milk Producers' Association, has obtained from F. A. Peterson of the Department of Agriculture of the University of Illinois figures on the production cost of milk, on which the association is expected to base a demand for another price advance for November.

Peterson estimates it takes 44 pounds of grain, 188 pounds of ensilage, 50 pounds of hay, 39 pounds of bedding and 2.42 hours' work to produce 100 pounds of milk. From these he computes that the normal cost of 100 pounds of milk is [illegible]; in October it is $3.43 and in November $4.08, exclusive of the investment, rent of buildings and the like. The producers are getting $3.20 per hundred pounds now.

STREET CAR VICTIM LOSES LEGS

Edward Everett One of Two Men Hit; Second Disappears.

One of the two men knocked down by a south-bound Vandeventer car in front of 1236 South Vandeventer avenue at 9:30 last night, was run over and both legs crushed so badly that they had to be amputated just above the knees.

At the city hospital this man said he was Edward Everett, 33 years old, a laborer, but he became unconscious before he could give his address. The second man knocked down was injured slightly and could not be found by the police after a crowd gathered. The motorman, Patrick Barry, said there was a third man in the party, who did not step on the track. The police could not find him.

The DUO-ART PIANO
"PLAYED FOR YOU BY WORLD-FAMED MUSICIANS"

The Duo-Art Piano is the most wonderful development of the pianoforte It is—

First: A perfect piano—a Steinway, Weber, Steck or Stroud—for playing by hand.

Second: A Pianola. And the wonderful Pianola action enables you to play with all the command of technique which the concert pianist acquires through years of practice.

Note:—Electric power drives the pneumatic system of the Duo-Art. When played as a Pianola there is no pedaling—no physical effort.

Third: The instrument is also equipped with the remarkable Duo-Art principle. The Duo-Art music rolls, which are records of great pianists' playing, guide this instrument to a remarkable reproduction of the artist's original performance true to the smallest detail.

The Duo-Art Piano is made in Steinway, Weber, Steck and Stroud models. Liberal terms of payment are extended, and other pianos or player-pianos are taken in part exchange.

NAVY IS SEEKING FURTHER NEWS OF ANTILLES DISASTER

Names of Survivors of Torpedoed Transport on Which Seventy Perished Are Called For.

FUTURE COURSE DECIDED

Prompt Announcement to Be Made of Attacks on American Vessels.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—No further details had been received from Vice Admiral Sims or Gen. Pershing tonight regarding the sinking of the army transport Antilles by a German submarine on Oct. 17, with the loss of 70 lives.

Secretary Daniels late today sent another dispatch to Admiral Sims, urging him to cable at once a list of the names of all survivors of the disaster in order that the relatives of men who escaped may have their minds set at rest.

Daniels announced after a conference with Secretary of War Baker that hereafter news concerning any disaster to American troops or ships will be made public immediately after its receipt, unless to make it public would endanger other American lives.

The Secretary made it clear today that a court of inquiry will be ordered to investigate the circumstances surrounding the loss of the Antilles. He said that Admiral Sims doubtless has already ordered such a formal inquiry, which is to some extent a matter of official routine.

Mistake Made in Name.

The Navy Department issued this statement today:

"In cabling the list of casualties in the sinking of the army transport Antilles, the name of E. L. Kinzey, seaman, second class (next of kin, Thomas M. Kinzey, Walter Valley, Miss.), was sent as one of those lost. A dispatch received today announced that Kinzey was saved and that J. C. McKinney, seaman, second class, was lost. His next of kin is A. L. McKinney, father, 136 Pennington street, Newark, N. J.

Any accident to a naval ship or one under naval jurisdiction, Daniels said, calls for the appointment of a court of inquiry. The Secretary did not define the loss of the Antilles as an accident. There was a little discussion on this point in his office today. Because neither the torpedo nor the submarine that fired it was seen, the mishap cannot properly be called an "engagement." By common consent it was called a "disaster."

In reply to questions, Daniels replied frankly that the convoy which furnished a transport on its homeward voyage is not nearly so strong as that furnished such a vessel en route to the other side with troops. Inasmuch as no returnin troop ships had been lost until now, Daniels said that naval experts had supposed the homeward-bound convoy to be adequate. The fact that the Antilles had the usual convoy and was lost, immediately raised the question as to adequate protection afforded to the ship. This question was the subject of discussion by naval experts today.

By careful tabulating the numbers displayed by German submarines operating in the Atlantic shipping lanes, the Navy Department has stumbled upon a complete revision of its estimates, as well as the estimates of the allies, as to the total number of U-boats engaged in the present ruthless campaign. The result is that the experts do not believe Germany has nearly as many submarines at work as had been supposed. By changing numbers immediately after a successful attack German U-boat commanders conveyed the impression that a much larger number of submersibles were loose on the high seas. This deception was discovered only through the failure of the German admiralty to regulate closely the numbers which each U-boat could display.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD BOY SHOOTS AND KILLS 3-YEAR-OLD SISTER

Melvin Redding, 5 years old, shot and killed his 3-year-old sister, Helen, at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Redding, near Highland, Ill., Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Redding were in the field. The children were in the house. Melvin took his father's revolver from a closet. He shot his sister through the head, then told his parents Helen had fallen from a chair and was dying.

The boy stuck to his story that she had fallen from a chair until last night, when he admitted he shot her.

NEW BANK CLEARING RECORD

Total for Week Just Closed Here Reaches $159,281,061.

Bank clearings for the week just closed broke all previous records in St. Louis for a six-day period. The total clearings as compiled by the St. Louis Clearing House Association amounted to $159,281,061. Balances were $35,314,168.

All local banks and trust companies reported unusual activities during the week. A. C. White, manager of the clearing house, said that while the large purchases of Liberty bonds were not entirely responsible for the large clearings, they were one of the contributory causes.

NEW DRAFT RULES TO PUT THE REGISTRANTS UNDER FIVE CLASSES

fected, but proceedings have been greatly simplified.

"The tedious work of the local boards has been practically eliminated by the production of a form to be known as No. 1000, which will be the foundation stone of the new system. Through its use all the laborious work of making and posting lists has been eliminated. All of the old docket sheets and records will be made unnecessary ,and by the arrangements of its columns the work of the lacal board will be reduced to a minimum.

"On this new form the complete history of each man's case will appear at a glance, beginning with his order number and ending with his induction into a military camp, while at the close of each day's work the local board is enabled to complete in a few minutes, with a rubber stamp, what has hitherto taken hours to complete. The system is such that it will present each case almost automatically to the local board.

"The completion of the new system will solve problems which have confronted the Provost Marshal General and caused him much concern.

"One of the most serious of these has been keeping together the great organization of the local and district boards which from a numerical viewpoint is of the strength of an army division; many of these officials have been clamoring for relief on account of the drain on their time, and the new system will make it easily possible for them to continue their duties, for which they have proven themselves eminently fitted.

"Another problem solved was the question of expediency of continuing the examination of the entire registry, thus fixing each man's status. This would have involved a medical examination of each man, whose physical condition might change from day to day, thus making this great undertaking valueless.

Confusion Is Avoided.

"Again, under the old system of exemption and discharge, it would have been necessary, if the national need required it, to send for the exempted man to return for physical re-examination, while in the meantime his industrial or family status might have changed, thus involving endless appeals and confusion.

"The new system fixes a man's class and calls him in his proper turn when he is needed. He will be examined physically only when needed. Thus the labors of the medical officers will be called for only when required. If the nation needs a half-million of men they will respond each in his turn fixed by his class.

"The man who can be least spared, either as the head of a family or the head of a business necessary to the defense of the nation, will be the last to go.

"The new plan is being made ready for the printer and will be submitted to the local and district boards in ample time to enable them to familiarize themselves with it and thus approach their next draft with a thorough knowledge of its requirements."

The success of the plan depends upon the completeness of the questionnaire. The questions to be answered by the registered men have been worked out with infinite care from the vast fund of information gleaned from the first use of the draft machinery.

Included in the plans of the Government, it is understood, is a provision which will place the services of a trained attorney at the disposal of every registrant to assist him in making his answers. Presumably all the machinery of affidavits to support claims for exemptions also has been absorbed into this document, making the working of the registrant in getting his situation properly before the board for consideration far less arduous.

The new plan, Gen. Crowder points out, settles the vexing question of continuing the physical examination of registrants until all have been classified in this way. Presumably it will be necessary to examine men under the new plan only when called upon or if greater speed can be secured in that way, to examine and classify physically all members of the class that is under call.

Rotation Numbers to Govern.

A point not made clear in Gen. Crowder's statement is how the rotation numbers of the drawing to fix the order of military liability are to be applied. Since no abandonment of that means of fixing the place of each individual in any class is announced it seems certain that the rotation numbers of the men in any class will govern the order in which they come up. In that case each class group would have its own order of liability list, based on the master list. The effect would be to eliminate in classes men who would have been certain to have been exempted at least temporarily had they been called up and examined individually.

The result of the new plan undoubtedly will be to place in the first class men who are without dependents, whose civil occupations are not vitally important to the nation's work at home and who are physically best able to endure the hardships of war. This undoubtedly will be the largest class of the five. At the same time, however, it will bring forward a majority of the single men of the entire registration, only those who have relatives directly dependent upon them or who have important places in industry being placed in later classes.

Presumably married men who have independent incomes also would be placed in the first class, where the support of the dependents in their absence was assured.

The new plan will afford, also, a better opportunity of conserving skilled labor. Where men needed in the various war industries are otherwise eligible for front line service, a means is provided for holding them back from the army under a definite, centralized plan.

HANDLAN BUYS $10,000 BOND

St. Louisan's Purchase Biggest in $1,251,800 Sale at Camp Funston.

CAMP FUNSTON, Kan., Oct. 20.—If Battery E of the 342d Field Artillery doesn't take all honors in the campaign to place a Liberty Bond in the hands of every soldier in the Eighty-ninth Division, it won't be the fault of Capt. Edward R. Handlan, in command of the battery. Capt. Handlan today bought a $10,000 bond, the largest sold in camp. Maj. Levy G. Brown, divisional inspector, is trying to sell each soldier here a $50 bond. Twelve men in Battery E subscribed to a total of $11,800 in bonds. Capt. Handlan is a St. Louisan.

The total of subscriptions at Camp Funston among the officers and enlisted men to date is $1,251,800.

A Jolly Dinner Party.

A get-together dinner and general good time was enjoyed by the employes of Hess & Culbertson Jewelry Co. last night at the American Hotel Annex. Following the dinner was a musical program, as tastefully selected and appreciated as the dinner itself. This jolly family affair, so to speak, was planned by Mr. George J. Hess and Mr. Leo J. Vogt, as an expression of the management's appreciation of the phenomenal progress of their business during the past year.

LEADERS EXPECT MINERS TO GO TO WORK TOMORROW

Union Conferences in Illinois Today on Proposal to Resume Operations.

FIRST EFFORT FAILS

Edwardsville Men Decide to Work Following Yesterday's General Meeting.

About 100 representatives of striking coal miners, from 15 mining communities in Madison, Bond, Macoupin and Montgomery Counties, met yesterday at Edwardsville and discussed whether to return to work tomorrow, as ordered by Frank Farrington, president of the United Mine Workers of Illinois.

The meeting was so nearly equally divided on the question that no declaration was adopted either in favor of returning to work or of remaining on strike, but it was recommended that the local unions defer action until after three conferences to be held today, one at Belleville, one at Ziegler and one at Springfield.

The meeting named six delegates to attend each of the conferences with instructions to notify by telegraph the officers of the Edwardsville local of the action taken, the information to be passed along by the Edwardsville officers to the locals of the other communities.

Last night the four Edwardsville unions met, disregarding the recommendation, and voted unanimously to return to work tomorrow morning.

At the day meeting resolutions were adopted setting forth the cost of coal production and distribution as the basis for a declaration that the operators are able to pay the wage increases demanded by the miners without waiting for the Government to allow an increase in the price of coal.

The State official of the miners' union are confident that all the men will return to work tomorrow, according to dispatches from Springfield. Harry Fishback, vice president of the State organization, stated that some mines resumed yesterday and that assurances had been received that the rest would resume tomorrow.

Southwestern Miners and Operators Settle Most Differences.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 20.—Representatives of the United Mine Workers of America in the Southwest coal fields and of the Operators' Association adjourned late today, after conferences lasting two days, without reaching an agreement to form the basis of a working contract. Negotiations will be resumed tomorrow.

All differences except that of the automatic penalty clause have been settled, both the operators and the miners declare. The miners hold that no contract with the penalty clause embodied will be signed by them.

The resumption of negotiations has deferred the strike in the Southwest fields called for Friday, and production in the mines continues.

CARD SHOWS GERMANY ORDERED MOBILIZATION JULY 17, 1914

Evidence Obtained From Effects of Teuton Found in Hiding by Federal Agents.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Conclusive evidence that Germany mobilized her forces long before the date on which she admits having done so, has been obtained through arrest by Department of Justice agents of Christopher Schnurrer, a graduate of the University of Leipsic, having degrees in surgery and arts, it was announced here today. The man was in hiding at Lake Hopatcong, where he was working as a laborer.

In Schnurrer's effects was found a card issued by the imperial German Government, directing him to report for military duty on July 17, 1914, a fortnight before Germany started hostilities on the plea that Russia was already mobilizing. Germany was obliged to admit that some of her troops were on Belgian soil early in August, but the Germans have insisted that their mobilization did not begin until the latter part of July, or when Russia was found to be preparing herself.

Man Struck by Krenning's Auto.

Joseph J. Kenney, 44 years old, an engineer, of 5568 Labadie avenue, was knocked down at 6 o'clock last night by the automobile of Walter W. Krenning, vice president of the St. Louis Independent Packing Co., as he was crossing St. Louis avenue near Grand avenue. He suffered a fracture of the left leg and contusions. Krenning was driving east on St. Louis avenue. Kenney was taken to the city hospital.

William T. Wheeler Dies.

William T. Wheeler, title examiner of the Title Guaranty Trust Co. since 1901, died Friday morning at his home, 3854 West Pine boulevard. Heart trouble was the cause. He was 71 years old. Wheeler was the oldest title examiner in St. Louis in point of service. He was at his desk until last Tuesday. He is survived by his widow and six children.

Veteran Physician Dies.

Dr. Eldridge Shay, 68 years old, died yesterday at his home, 5871 Delmar boulevard, from effects of an operation performed several weeks ago. He had practiced in St. Louis 30 years, was formerly a lecturer at the College of Physicians and Surgeons and was president of the Tower Grove and Southwestern Building Association.

LIBERTY BOND SALE HERE IN 2 WEEKS ABOUT $28,000,000

WOMEN WILL PARADE

Mothers, Wives and Sisters of Men in Service to March Wednesday Afternoon.

The total subscriptions for Liberty bonds at the close of the second week of the sale campaign, yesterday afternoon, was estimated at $28,000,000. The city's allotment is a minimum of $40,000,000, and the goal of the local campaign is a maximum of $68,000,000. The campaign will end Saturday.

The subscriptions for the Eighth Federal Reserve District, of which St. Louis is the center, are estimated at approximately $80,000,000.

Large subscriptions from several St Louis banks and trust companies are expected this week. The latest of such subscriptions reported are those of the Third National Bank, $4,000,000, and the Mechanics-American National Bank, $3,000,000.

The campaign will reach its climax Wednesday, when Liberty Loan day will be observed under the proclamation of President Wilson, which has been supplemented by a proclamation from Gov. Gardner. The Governor proclaimed a half holiday for Wednesday afternoon, and this will be observed in public offices, the courts and the schools.

Women's Patriotic Parade.

Members of the Home Guard, Boy Scouts and school children are to work as Liberty Bond salesmen Wednesday afternoon. A women's patriotic parade will form in front of the city hall at 2 o'clock and will march on Twelfth, Chestnut, Fourth, Olive, Tenth, Locust and Fourth streets, and west on Washington avenue. Mrs. John Holliday, chairman of the Women's Loberty Loan Committee, and Mrs. Philip Bond Fouke will be in charge of the parade.

The first division of the parade will be composed of the mothers, wives and sisters of men who are in the military or naval service, in whatever branch or rank. As it has not been possible for the women's committee to reach all these women through the mails, the comimttee has asked that the mothers, wives and sisters consider themselves invited to march in the place of honor in the demonstration, and appear without awaiting personal invitations.

Twelve other divisions will form the women's parade. These will be the St. Louis Chapter, American Red Cross, the Women's Committee on Food Conservation. the St. Louis Catholic Women's League; thewomen's trade unions; the Associated Retail Dealers' contingent; the Wholesale Dealers' contingent; Banks, Insurance and Railroads; Campfire and Housefire Girls; Woman's Suffrage League; women's patriotic societies; students' division, and Women's Council of National Defense.

Liberty Loan subscription cards will be distributed through the mails, through arrangements made by Postmaster Selph. The cards will be collected by carriers and delivered to the Liberty Loan organization in the Boatmen's Bank Building.

School children will also circulate subscription blanks, which are to be mailed to the Liberty Loan organization by the signers. These cards will designate the bank through which the subscriber wishes to buy a bond.

Business firms which do not close Wednesday afternoon will be asked to suspend business between 3 and 3:05 o'clock, and traffic in the streets is to be stopped.

Sousa's Band to Play.

Following the woman's parade, a mass meeting will be held on Twelfth street north of Locust street. Sousa's Great Lakes Band will play at this rally and will play at night at the Liberty Loan Revival in the Coliseum. The committee expects to have speakers of note at the Coliseum meeting. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was invited, but was unable to accept the invitation.

The saleswomen in the Women's Liberty Loan Department of the St. Louis Union Bank, who have been on duty at various times in the past two weeks, include a number of women whose husbands or sons are in the military or naval service. Those who served are: Mmes. J. D. Filley, Thomas H. West, J. Lionberger Davis, L. N. Rumsey, John T. Davis Jr., August A. Busch, George W. Simmons, G. H. Walker, R. McKittrick Jones, John Fowler, Charles W. Whitelaw, J. H. Grover, Jackson Johnson, Joseph D. Subscriptions at Theaters.

Festus J. Wade, president of the Mercantile Trust Co., is one of the four-minute speakers who have been speaking in theaters and moving picture houses the past week. Bond salesmen who accompanied him to the King's Theater, Thursday night, got subscriptions for $1000 worth of bonds after he had spoken. At the Columbia Theater, Friday night, his talk was followed by the sale of $850 worth of bonds. Former Judge O'Neill Ryan spoke Friday night at the Pageant Theater, and $650 worth of bonds were sold there, and at the Cinderella, where D. Arthur Bowman spoke, the sales were $450.

Of the 25 teams of the Investment Bankers' Committee, consisting of stock and bond salesmen, who have been at work for two weeks, the team of which Harry Potter is captain is in the lead in its total figures up to last night, and Charles Noel's team is second.

Bonds to the amount of $5500 were sold last week to 34 officers and men in the naval recruiting station in the Calumet Building, Seventh and Chestnut streets. One sailor, William Woods, subscribed for $2500 worth. The sales were made by Chesley Wall, of the team of which J. T. Abeles is captain.

Baer Encourages Employes.

Sigmund Baer of the Stix, Baer & Fuller Dry Goods Co. announced yesterday that he would personally give one-half of the initial payment on each Liberty Bond subscribed for by an employe of the store Wednesday, not exceeding $100 in value.

The $100,000 subscription of the Simmons Hardware Co., was announced through the Third National Bank. A. G. Edwards & Co., made a $50,000 subscription through the Central National Bank. The L. & N. railroad placed a $150,000 purchase through the National Bank of Commerce, this being part of a $6,000,000 subscription made by the road in different places throughout its territory.

The Central State Life Insurance Co. and employes subscribed for $69,100 worth of bonds. The Drosten Jewelry Co. and its employes made a $25,000 subscription, and the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Co. also made a $25,000 subscription.

Salesman Falls Dead on Car.

Henry T. Hull, 63 years old, of 1282H Hamilton avenue, a cigar salesman, fell dead yesterday afternoon on a Page car at King's highway, when on his way to his home. His body was taken to the city dispensary, where physicians said his death probably was caused by heart disease.

Nearly Two Billion of Liberty Bonds Are Sold

Three Billion More Must Be Taken This Week to Reach Goal---Big Effort to Be Made Liberty Day, Wednesday.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The liberty loan campaign today progressed to the threshold of official expectation, and paused. Treasury heads had hoped the $2,000,000,000 line would be crossed. Apparently the big total stopped just short of the mark, with an estimated total of $1,973,000,000.

The result means that the huge sum of $500,000,000 a day will have to be subscribed every day of the remaining week of the campaign with a handful of millions to spare, if the $5,000,000,000 goal is reached when subscription books close next Saturday night.

Official returns from the 12 reserve banks—representing subscriptions upon which the 2 per cent of the sum applied for, actually has been paid into the reserve banks—increased during the day to $1,200,000,000.

Table of Returns.

As announced by the Treasury tonight, the returns, the estimated subscriptions and the quotas of the reserve districts were as follows:

DISTRICT.	Official.	Estimated.
Boston	$141,300,000	$175,000,000
New York	540,412,000	660,000,000
Philadelphia	33,481,850	155,000,000
Cleveland	144,850,000	150,000,000
Richmond	44,307,000	95,000,000
Atlanta	10,642,550	25,000,000
Chicago	138,909,000	375,000,000
St. Louis	26,746,100	100,000,000
Minneapolis	44,000,000	55,000,000
Kansas City	11,902,000	65,000,000
Dallas	10,048,650	18,000,000
San Francisco	53,051,400	100,000,000
Totals	$1,199,740,550	$1,973,000,000

The $5,000,000,000 total can be attained next week, officials asserted, if there be no letup in the campaign and if districts in the middle West, the Southwest and the West are further aroused.

Hope in Liberty Day.

Liberty Day, it is thought, will be the banner day of the campaign. A total subscription of $1,000,000,000 on this day, next Wednesday, is the goal which hundreds of thousands of workers are striving to reach. It is also thought likely that the final week of the campaign will show, in its entirety, a response upon the part of the nation, greater than during the whole prior three weeks.

There will have to be such a response, it is stated, if the full $5,000,000,000 is raised.

Summarizing the developments of the day and the week, the treasury issued a statement tonight which said:

"Detroit went over her maximum quota of $43,000,000 today, taking first honors for a major league city. Efforts now are being made to reach $60,000,000. Richmond, Va., and Tucson, Ariz., are two other cities which over-subscribed their quotas.

"San Francisco reported that the sinking of the transport Antilles by a German submarine had a good effect on sales. The total of today ran close to $3,000,000, much more than has been sold on previous ordinary days.

"The Atlanta district, which was having trouble arousing the farmers particularly, reported that it expects to make great progress next week. Other than the Atlanta district, certain sections of the St. Louis and Dallas districts are making the poorest showings."

Over Three Billion Dollars Pledged to Seventh German Loan

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 20.

THE sum of 12,430,000,000 marks ($3,107,500,000) was subscribed to the seventh German war loan, closing Oct. 18, according to a Berlin dispatch today. This total does not, it was said, include subscriptions from the front.

JURY GETS CASE OF 3 ACCUSED OF MURDER IN RIOT

Hanna, Dow and Robinson Tried for Killing of East St. Louisan.

The case of Charles Hanna, John Dow and Harry Robinson, white men, charged with murder in the East St. Louis rate riot of July 2, went to the jury in the Belleville Circuit Court at 8:40 last night.

Judge Crow went home at 10:10, and the jury was sent out for the night. A verdict will be received today, if one is ready. The verdict in the first of the riot cases, in which negroes were defendants, was received on a Sunday.

In his closing speech for the prosecution, Assistant Attorney-General Middlekauf declared that the evidence against the three men was such as to justify and warrant the extreme penalty of the law. He did not appeal directly to the jury to hang any of the men, as he did the week before in the case of Herbert Wood, who was tried with Leo Keane. Wood and Keane got 14-year sentences.

Hanna, Dow and Robinson were accused, in this case, of the murder of William Keyser, a white hardware merchant, who was killed while he stood in front of his Collinsville avenue store at 1 p. m. on the day of the riot.

The three men are also accused of the murder of Ed Cook, a St. Louis negro, his stepson, Lurizza Beard, 14 years old, who were dragged from an interurban car and killed. The boy was shot while he was fleeing toward Keyser's store, and the State contended that the same bullet which passed through his body also killed Keyser.

The next trial, that of Richard Brockway and others on charges of rioting, will begin Wednesday. Brockway is a former street railway special agent.

WHERE MUSIC IS SWEETEST

First of All, It's a Fine Piano

This GULBRANSEN

(Pronounced Gul-bran'-sen)

Player Piano

—easy to pedal

"Suburban" Model

$395

Mahogany, Walnut, Oak. 10-year Guarantee

(Other GULBRANSEN Players, nationally priced:—"Town House," $430; "Country Seat," $475; "White House," $525.)

We are willing—yes, glad—to have you examine critically the Piano part of the GULBRANSEN Player Pianos.

Listen to the tone. You'll find it sweet, free, full and of uniform quality from low bass to high treble.

Feel the touch. It is light, but firm—not "mushy." The action is made under famous patents.

Inspect the casework, the finish, the design, the interior equipment and construction.

You will then agree with us that the Piano part, too, of the GULBRANSEN Player is built along dependable lines.

And why shouldn't it be?

In developing the GULBRANSEN Playing Mechanisms, the Gulbransens had to analyze the Piano, and the art of playing it, before they could design an artistically successful playing mechanism.

Furthermore, the great Gulbransen-Dickinson Co. couldn't afford to associate its refined, highly developed Player Action with a Piano that was not worthy.

It's the best Player value for the money on the market today.

CONSUMER BLAMED FOR SHORTAGE OF SUGAR IN EAST

Food Administrator Issues Statement in Regard to Measures of Relief.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Blame for the present sugar shortage north of Savannah and east of Pittsburg is placed squarely on consumers and on manufacturers of candies and other sweets by the food administration.

In a statement today the food administration said that had its recent request for the curtailment of the use of sugar been heeded, present conditions would not exist and it warned the people to economize until new supplies are available.

The administration made this explanation of its efforts to relieve the shortage:

Sales to Confectioners Stopped.

"The food administration some days ago directed all manufacturers and distributors of sugar to cease sales to confectioners, syrup and luxury manufacturers until Cuban supplies are available. By this means the sugar consumption of the area of plentiful sugar south of Savannah and west of Pittsburg should be greatly reduced and thus expedite the arrival of beet sugar into the sparse area.

"The purchase of more sugar by households than is needed from week to week only adds difficulties to the distribution agencies of the country which are co-operating loyally to minimize the period of shortage that exists in the Northeastern states. Reports today show that many retailers in many cities in this section are doing their best to effect just distribution and hold prices, but are having much difficulty with the hearding consumers."

Beet Sugar Makers Active.

Early in the day the administration made public a telegram it sent the American Refiners' Committee of New York, which handles cane sugar and the Sugar Distribution Committee of Chicago, which handles beet sugar, urging them to reduce sales of candy production so as to provide for the needs of the American households and the allies.

The beet sugar factories in the West, with the products of California, Colorado, Utah, Michigan and other states, rapidly are coming into action, Food Administrator Hoover said, and will be able soon to take care of the sugar supply west of Pittsburg, but the shortage is expected to continue north of Savannah and east of Pittsburg until December, when the Louisiana, Mississippi and Cuban supplies will become available. Beet sugar will be sent into the East, but the extent to which it will help will depend largely on economies that the people in the West observe.

New York Refiners Deny They Are Hoarding Sugar.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—A statement issued here on behalf of refiners, while conceding a sugar scarcity, which, it says, is temporary declares there is no hoarding by producers, refiners or wholesalers.

"There is no excuse for the charging of high prices by retail dealers," the statement adds. "The wholesale price of refined granulated sugar is being held at 8.35 cents a pound. Retailers can realize their customary profit by selling at 1 cent a pound above this figure. Retailers who charge higher prices are endeavoring to take undue advantage of the prevailing condition and of public concern over this situation."

The statement says dealers are justified in limiting amounts sold to each customer in order to tide the supply over to the coming of the next crop, and warns the public that "a scramble to obtain sugar" will give dishonest dealers opportunity to reap undeu profits.

College Raising Army Y. M. C. A. Fund.

FULTON, Mo., Oct. 20.—Students at William Woods College have started a campaign to raise $1000 for the army Y. M. C. A. and tonight it was announced that more than one-half of the money had been subscribed. A hay ride that was to have cost $35 was cancelled and the money donated to the cause.

500,000 POUNDS OF SUGAR ARE ON WAY TO END SHORTAGE

St. Louis Broker Says Buying to Hoard Was Chief Cause of Acute Situation.

Fifty or more cars of sugar, containing approximately 50,000 sacks of 100 pounds each, will arrive in St. Louis during the week, and will end the sugar shortage which has existed here for several days, according to J. M. Hutchinson of James Hutchinson & Son, one of the largest firms of sugar brokers in St. Louis.

Hutchinson declared to the Post-Dispatch last night that this amount of sugar would be received by his firm alone, and he said several cars had already arrived in the city. The shipments are being made from California and Colorado. The amount of sugar which will be received during the week by this firm alone, Hutchinson pointed out, will be enough to last the city more than a week, even if not other shipments are received during that period.

He declared that the situation has at no time been as acute as it was apparently believed to be by the public, and said that the public's "panicky" buying of sugar in larger amount than usual, to hoard and offset a shortage, really created the conditions the purchasers seemed to be trying to meet.

Retailers Limiting Sales.

Retail dealers for several days have been limiting the amount of sugar sold to each customer, in most instances each being permitted to buy 5½ pounds for 50 cents each day. Jobbers have been supplying the retailers with only a limited amount.

The shortage in some instances, however, has been so acute that retailers limited their customers to one pound a day, this being true of the J. F. Conrad Co., one of the largest retailers in the city. Retailers said yesterday that unless the situation was immediately relieved further restrictions on sales would be put in effect tomorrow.

Wholesale confectioners here, as elsewhere all over the country, have curtailed their output about 25 per cent, but the present sugar shortage they declared had nothing to do with this, as the measure was decided on some time ago as a general conservation move and has been in effect for several weeks.

All of the candy manufacturers declared they have had no difficulty in obtaining the required amounts of sugar to continue their business, although it was suggested that many would be forced to close down completely because of the shortage.

What Caused Shortage.

Hutchinson said that the shortage was created primarily by the western beet crop coming in about three weeks late this year, after the cane sugar supply had become exhausted a few weeks earlier than usual. Had the public not been unduly alarmed over what it believed to be a threatened sugar famine, he declared, no unusual measures would have been necessary to relieve the situation, as there was sufficient sugar to supply the demand if "hoarders" had not rushed into the market.

The real shortage, he declared, was in the East, and there the situation is actually acute. Since the supply of cane sugar was exhausted, he pointed out, few shipments of western beet sugar have gone farther ast than Chicago.

Hutchinson said that the public, instead of preparing for a sugar shortage, should have turned its attention to what he says is an exorbitant price being demanded for the product by the retailers.

He pointed out that under Government regulation jobbers can sell sugar to retailers at a price not higher than $7.70 a hundred pounds.

The jobber is permitted to make as profit only 25 cents on each 100 pounds, as the price fixed for its sale to him by the brokers is $7.45 a hundred. Retailers, however, are selling sugar generally 11 pounds for $1, at a rate of $9.09 a hundred pounds, giving them a profit of $1.39 on each 100 pounds sold. Retailers are not restricted as to price by the Government.

MANAGING EDITOR OF REPUBLIC FINED $50 FOR CONTEMPT

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Stout was cited for contempt because the Kansas City Star published an editorial expressing the opinion that Slate should not and therefore, would not, try the case of D. C. McClung, former Warden of the penitentiary, on a criminal charge, because Slate and McClung had been close personal and political friends and McClung had said he contributed funds collected for the State Committee to Slate's campaign fund.

Propriety of Discussion.

W. E. Scarritt, attorney for Stout, in his argument, said: "Discussion of the propriety of a Judge's conduct is within the limits of free speech, and is a subject of general public interest."

Judge Slate interrupted Scarritt abruptly when the lawyer was describing the offense McClung is alleged to have committed. Scarritt had read excerpts from news stories published in the Post-Dispatch, quoting McClung's statement that he had expended state campaign funds in an effort to re-elect Slate.

He pointed out that the man who spent the money is facing trial for his liberty, and that unless he disqualifies himself, Judge Slate will try the case.

"Here we have a trusted public servant," said Scarritt, "he had been honored by his party and his state, but he slipped his hands into the State treasury and appropriated public funds."

"Here, here, hold on," said Judge Slate, "excuse me for interrupting your argument, but you are getting on dangerous ground. Don't discuss cases that are to come before this court. Of course, I don't know what official you refer to, of course——."

"I refer to Mr. McClung," interrupted Scarritt.

Managing Editor's Position.

The case was taken under advisement, when Scarritt told Judge Slate that Stout had nothing to do with the editorial in question, and knew nothing about it until he saw it in print. The editorial had been written, he said, by an editorial writer at the request of I. R. Kirkwood, whose wife and mother-in-law are the principal owners of the Kansas City Star. Kirkwood represents the owners in the management of the paper.

Heberhart was fined because the Republic published a list of indictmetns voted by the Cole County Grand Jury before they were made public.

R. E. Holliway, the reporter who wrote the story, is in jail here for contempt because he refused to tell the Grand Jury the source of his information.

"EDITORIAL"

St. Louis Is One of the Great Cities of the World

We have a wonderful climate, the Fall weather is delightful and the Falls are long. The Winters are mild and short. The city and country around St. Louis in the Spring time is most beautiful.

St. Louis has great manufacturing plants and makes many goods that are shipped to all parts of the world.

The retail stores and shops of this city are equal in many respects to any stores in any city in the world.

Last but not least a word about the people of St. Louis: I have been in many large cities in our country and in other large cities of Europe and nowhere did I find the people, as a whole, as polite as the people of St. Louis.

The salespeople and clerks in the stores of this city and in the Prufrock-Litton Store are helping to make St. Louis a greater city because they are known for their politeness and courtesy.

SPECIAL MOTOR FINISH

To overcome the lack-lustetr appearance which the power plant of an automobile is bound to acquire as the result of heat and ever-present dust and oil, the Cole Motor Car Co. of Indianapolis has employed special manufacturing methods on its Cole Eight which are said to have proved most satisfactory.

Every car owner enjoys the sensation of lifting the hood of his car and finding a motor that "looks clean." Realizing this, the Cole Eight builders have used highly polished nickel unsparingly and even coated the cylinder blocks with fire proof lustrous paint.

Especially, however, does the company pride itself in the treatment given the exterior of the exhaust manifolds, which have generally proved themselves a nuisance to the engine designers who have sought to give them a permanent appearance of "newness."

It is claimed positively that the Cole Eight exhaust manifolds will not corrode or tarnish. They are coated with porcelain enamel, which is applied at a temperature of about 2500 degrees Fahrenheit.

MANY VISITORS SAW ALL-YEAR CAR DISPLAY

That all-year car show week, which drew to a close last evening, proved a fine trade barometer, is the opinion of Harry Newman, local Kissel Kar distributor.

"It is easy to see that the interests of the people have been quickened by today's necessity for economy and efficiency in both business and home life. Therefore it was not just an automobile that visitors came to see at our display, but rather an auxiliary or silent partner to their personal and business routine. They appreciated that the more highly developed a motor car was, the better able it would be to meet their requirements. Consequently when they saw how one dollar would do the work of two through the utility and completeness of the all-year car it opened up to them unusual motoring possibilities never before dreamed of.

"Of the different all-year car models, it would be hard to say which is the most popular because every Kissel model is designed to meet a definite demand of all classes of people. To business and professional men and women who do their own driving the Gibraltar four passenger roadster body, which is easily changed into a coupe proved particularly interesting. The average family man is naturally interested in the five-passenger touring car, which is quickly changed into an all-year sedan. For the purchaser who wants something very stunning the Victoria body appealed and so on.

FALSE ECONOMY TO HAMPER MOTOR CAR

"The war has centered attention on the automobile for two different reasons and from two totally different angles," comments Harry M. Jewett, president of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Co. "Military men, and laymen to some extent, if they have followed the great conflict closely, have observed what a vital part the motorized vehicle is playing in the struggle abroad. The motor car has been given credit and this fact, although not completely realized and appreciated, is no longer news.

"But since we have had to consider finances in relation to the war and ways and means for raising or saving money, certain people have turned the spotlight on the motor car from a different angle—a false angle. Lacking information or superficial in their reasoning, they have questioned the motor car as a commodity necessary for our daily affairs at this time.

"These false reasoners have even suggested that the automobile is a luxury and can be spared; that it would be well for the country at this time if its manufacture were curtailed and the money involved in making it, buying it and operating it were turned into more useful channels.

"Such peculiar reasoning shows how little these false economists understand the place the automobile now occupies. It was from the very first a utility and as great a necessity as the telephone. The fact that 63 per cent of all cars manufactured go to farms throws some light on the matter, for if the automobile were a 'pleasure car' the farmers would not be taking such a huge proportion of the output."

OVERLAND ANNOUNCES SMALL CHEAP CARS

There have been a great many rumors lately concerning the future plans of The Willys-Overland Co. as they relate to the building of a new model. According to officials of the company, it will be a type that will not in any way interfere or compete with its present line of vehicles.

"This new model is a small car designed to be produced in quantities and to meet an entirely different demand from anything we have in the line today," says John N. Willys, president of The Willys-Overland Co.

"It will have a short wheel base, two-speed transmission, and the front tires will be 30x3 inches and the rear tires, 30x3½.

"We hope to be able to get this car into production by the summer of 1918, but this is a particularly difficult period in which to engineer a production of this description, on account of the complications in getting material and machinery with which to go into this contemplated program.

"The tests of this new model have proved to us that the car has more than lived up to our expecations, and we believe that we will be able to produce results of a more or less startling nature. We hope by the summer of 1918 to have some of these cars in the hands of customers."

FARMERS' PROSPERITY AFFECTS EVERY INDUSTRY

The prosperity of the farmer means prosperity for everybody in the world. Some people are not sure about this, but the officials of the Moon Motor Car Co. have found out that it is a fact. October has developed the biggest business in the history of that company, and the officials of the company trace it directly to the fact that farmers throughout the St. Louis territory have had big crops and are getting high prices for them.

Orders from the surrounding territory for the new Thousand Dollar, six-cylinder Moon car have come in almost in profusion and dealers from all over the territory, as far as Texas and the Far West have been either telegraphing or writing, or personally visiting the Moon factory to close the agency for the new car. The result is that the manufacturing capacity of the Moon Motor Car Co. is already taxed and will be until its new plant, which occupies the entire block on Main street at Cornelia in St. Louis, is fully equipped with the machinery for turning out 20,000 of the new Thousand Dollar cars a year.

AN ACCESSORY CAFETERIA

Now that the public has become accustomed to the cafeteria plan in the business of selling "eats," a Chicago department store, Rothchild's, has just applied this principle to the merchandising of automobile accessories, and reports the plan a big success. Customers help themselves from a big counter, taking the goods they want to a clerk and paying for them. Each article is plainly marked and priced. One clerk is able to do the work of four under the old system, and the customers are handled more promptly. The store is also a Goodyear Service Station.

CHEVROLET
In the COLDEST Weather!

The CHEVROLET is just as handy when Jack Frost reigns as it is "in the good, old summer time."

One-man Top, weather-proof curtains and air-tight windshield keep out wind, rain and snow. Auto-Lite Starting and Lighting System makes it unnecessary to get out in the mud or cold to start the car or turn on your lights. The powerful Valve-in-head motor eats up a snowy road, same as any other. Wintertime isn't vacation time for the CHEVROLET.

The new CHEVROLET Sedan and Coupe are wonders of luxurious motor car convenience—at wonderfully low cost; but the price of these cars, like that of all others, is sure to advance very soon. Besides, there is sure to be a shortage of new cars. Be wise, and get your car while the getting is good.

Come in, and let us show you the "points" of these splendid new cars.

SOME REAL ESSENTIALS.

"Ample door openings, wide seats scientifically tilted for restful reclining—and plenty of stretching space, are essentials in motor car comfort," says J. C. Kardell of the Kardell Motor Car Co.; Dort distributor in St. Louis.

"The cushion seat springs should be of pressed steel with an open bottom construction that prevents shifting and loosening, and a good quality of stuffing should be liberally used.

"Semi-elliptic front springs, wide and long, with seven leaves—resilient as well as strong—should be employed. Rear springs should be of the cantilever type—the best spring known to the industry, for it positively absorbs rebound—the usual cause of hard riding."

PEERLESS METHODS RESULT IN EFFICIENCY

The outstanding feature among all the interesting and original factory methods employed by the Peerless Motor Car Co. of Cleveland, O., builders of the famous two-power range Peerless Eight, is, in the opinion of many, its production system.

With recent large additions to the factory, the company is able to work its hobby—painstaking manufacturing—to the limit.

The method itself is based largely on the progressive production system which has revolutionized automobile building during the last few years. However, the Peerless way of doing it differs greatly from the average way.

Progressive production was first attempted largely for quantity production purposes and for elimination of wasted time. In the Peerless case, it was not adopted solely for quantity's sake nor to speed up the work on the individual cars.

The progressive production system was installed in the big Cleveland plant simply because it furnished the most direct avenue for the company to reach its goal of ambition—a car so perfectly constructed that the so-called "bugs" could never enter into its makeup.

The many visitors who daily go through the Peerless factory, as one of Cleveland's points of unusual interest, are first impressed by the easy, methodical way in which the workmen labor at their tasks and the surprisingly big results accomplished in a short space of time.

CHALMERS BEATS THE NATIONAL EXPRESS

A Chalmers Record Speedster beat the National Express, one of the fastest Baltimore and Ohio trains between Washington and Baltimore, over a three-mile course, a few days ago.

About eight miles out from Washington there is a stretch of macadam road which parallels the railroad track for a distance of between three and four miles. Joe Dawson, Chalmers "stunt" driver, piloting the same car that broke the 24-hour stock chassis record on the Sheepshtad Bay Speedway Aug. 1 and 2, turned the trick.

For awhile the train and the Chalmers ran neck and neck. Then Dawson slowed down for a moment when the train shot ahead about two car lengths. Dawson "stepped on" the Chalmers and in a burst of speed, averaging anywhere from 80 to 90 miles an hour, he passed the train and finished far in the lead. It was the first time anything on wheels had beaten the engineer of the National Express. He doffed his cap in felicitations to the Chalmers and its driver.

Fully 300 spectators witnessed the thrilling battle for speed supremacy between steam and gasoline propelled machines. Two moving picture news weeklies filmed the stunt and it will be shown all over the country.

PRAISES FOR 4-CYLINDER

The relative merit of the four-cylinder versus the six-cylinder car is still a subject of earnest discussion among informed automobilists, and the former retains a number of adherents, particularly when it is the valve-in-head four, such as the Baby Grand Chevrolet has, is the conclusion announced by Sales Manager William King of the Brandle Motors Co., from a more or less intimate knowledge of the trend of the discussion referred to.

"The Baby Grand is a car without vibration, without noise and a consistently satisfactory performer," King added. "With a motor that is perfectly adjusted to give the most exacting performance and a pick-up that is almost unbelievable, this particular model is winning its way into the hearts of the most discriminating buyers. It is also a fine, roomy car, with full cantilever rear springs, which make of it a car that easily finds favor with the man or woman who desires a car under $1000, the price being $965 for St. Louis delivery."

NEWEST MARMON IS BUT LITTLE CHANGED

"The success of the Marmon 34 has been one of the most interesting chapters in the history of the motor car development," said J. T. Sallsbury of the More Automobile Co., local distributor of the Marmon 34.

"It was in 1914 that Marmon engineers conceived the idea of reducing weight by scientific construction and the careful selection of metals, and in 1916 this was a realization. At the present time thousands of these cars are in the hands of owners, proving by every-day critical tests the claims of the makers.

"Buyers were quick to recognize the merits of this remarkable car, and since its introduction the demand has been far ahead of the supply. In the Marmon 34, engineers accomplished what was thought impossible—a light car which rides easily. Scientific construction which resulted in a long, strong, flexible car, yet over half a ton lighter than the old order cars, made this possible.

"The Marmon 34 that is sold now and that which will be sold next year is the same car that was conceived in 1914, with the exception of a few minor changes in detail, adding to the comfort and utility."

TOURED IN MOTORCYCLE

The present season has seen the motor cycle attain popularity by leaps and bounds, and among the specific causes of this is the advent of the side car. This kind of equipment balances the machine and renders its operation much simpler. On a trip from Kansas City to Pike's Peak, just completed, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Gooch established a new record between these two points, using a motor cycle and side car, all on Goodyear tires. Three hundred and eighty-two miles were reeled off on the last day of their trip.

THE BLACK BOX MYSTERY.

The "Black Box Book" is not a book of mystery but of explanation It is issued for users of storage and other batteries and particularizes on the construction and the winter and summer care of batteries. It is prepared by the makers of U. S. L. batteries and distributed by Moerschel, Garrison avenue and Locust street.

AGGIES ROMP OVER WASHINGTON TEAM FOR 61-0 VICTORY

Kansas Farmers' Offense Too Much for Pikers in First Conference Battle of the Present Campaign.

FOELCH IS STAR FOR RUTHERFORD'S ELEVEN

Mound Cityans Fail to Make a First Down During the Opening Half—Kling Misses Field Goal.

MANHATTAN, Kan., Oct. 20.—Swept off their feet by a Kansas Aggie offensive that promised in the first quarter to run up as many as 100 points, Dick Rutherford's Washington eleven braced in the final periods and fought the Clevenger-Schulz eleven on almost even terms.

The St. Louis eleven failed to make a first down in the first half, but when the passing game was tried the Pikers became dangerous, and several times threatened to score, when either Kling or Benway would receive a flip from Foelch out in an open field. The final score was 61 to 0.

From the first play, it was seen that the Pikers were no match for the speedy Aggies. Sullivan, substituting for L. Ptacek, caught Kling's 50-yard kick off on his own 10-yard line and darted through the Pikers to the 60-yard line Using old style football, the Aggies bucked the line and slid off tackle for five consecutive first downs, the procession ending when Harwood crossed with the first touch down Clarke kicked goal.

Sullivan scored the next Aggie touchdown at the end of a similar march up the field and Key, 137-pound end, blocked a Piker punt and fell on it behind the Washington goal line for the third score of the period.

Foelch Is Pikers' Star.

It was the tackling of Foelch, Kling and Benway that finally put an end to the one sidedness of the contest. Foelch waded through the Aggie line time after time and caught the fleet Aggie backs before they could get under way. Also it was Foelch's forward passing that developed an offensive later in the game, that kept the Aggie backfield subs, new to the open game, on was in stopping the sweeps around his end attempted by Hinds' the 138-pound Aggie star.

The Pikers best bid for a touchdown came at the beginning of the third quarter, when Foelch's punt carried far over Clark's head and the Aggie quarterback fumbled Kling scooped the bounding ball, but Hinds was upon him before the Piker captain could get under way. Following that play Kling's 25-yard attempt at a kick placement was less than a yard wide of the goal posts. The Kansas Aggies played up to the championship form shown at Columbia last Saturday, although Capt. "Stiff" Randels, all-valley end, was on the side lines, as was Leo Ptacek, regular half back.

Charges were made last week by Dr. A. Ross Hill, president of the University of Missouri, that Randels was ineligible and the Aggie officials decided that unless the star was badly needed today they would take no chances.

Dean W. M. Jardine has submitted the evidence in the Randels case to the Conference Eligibility Committee and a decision is expected the first of the week.

The lineup:

Aggies (61).	Position.	Washington (0).
Key	Left end	Kling (Capt.)
E. Ptacek-Whedon	Left tackle	Grossman
Gates-Frankenhoff	Left guard	Nobbe
Aye	Center	Kremer
Roda-Hoffhines	Right guard	Marquard
Whedon-Manzer-Magrath	Right tackle	Kurrus
Enlow	Right end	Bryant
Clarke	Quarterback	Benway
Hinds	Left halfback	Foelsch
Sullivan-Bogue	Right halfback	Berger
Foster-Harwood-Fairman-Hixson	Fullback	Meyers

Distance gained—Aggies 599 yards, Washington 63 yards. First downs—Aggies 39, Washington 4. Forward passes—Aggies completed 3 out of 10 attempts for 40 yards; Washington completed 4 out of 12 for 45 yards. Punts—Aggies, 2 for 60 yards; Washington, 8 for 230 yards. Penalties—Aggies, 60 yards; Washington, 30 yards. Touchdowns—Sullivan 2, Harwood, Hinds 2, Clarke 2, Fairman, Key. Goals from touchdown—Clarke 5.

Officials—C. E. McBride (Missouri Valley), referee. Dr. J. A. Reilly (K. C. A. C.), umpire. Ed W. Cochrane (Kalamazoo), head linesman.

FITZSIMMONS WEAKENING IN BATTLE WITH DEATH

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Robert Fitzsimmons, the pugilist, who is critically ill at a local hospital, is making a brave fight for his life, although attending physicians hold out little hope for his recovery. He was unconscious most of the day and is gradually losing strength. His wife, who callapsed yesterday after being at his bedside for 48 hours without sleep, recovered sufficiently today to resume her vigil.

Among the telegrams received at the hospital was one from Battling Nelson from Paris, Tex., which was addressed "To Good Old Bob Fitzsimmons" and expressed hope for his recovery.

Illinois Wins From Wisconsin in Annual Big Ten Battle, 7—0

Charpier Is Pushed Across Line for Only Touchdown of the Contest.

URBANA, Ill. Oct. 20.—In a game played in a drizzling rain the University of Illinois defeated the University of Wisconsin today at football 7 to 0. Charpier making the only score in the second period.

Twice Wisconsin, reached the Illinois three-yard line, but each time the latter's line held and Wisconsin lost the ball on downs. The Illini backfield, led by quarterback Nichols, worked well. The wet field, made accurate forward passing impossible. Charpier and Nichols starred for Illinois and Simpson, Bondi and Weston for Wisconsin.

The lineup:

Illinois.	Postion.	Wisconsin.
Rundquist	Left tackle	Hancock (C.)
Ingwerson	Center	Carpenter
Goelitz	Right guard	Kralovec
Koch	Right tackle	Scott
Klein	Right end	Kelly
Nichols	Quarterback	Simpson
Halas	Right halfback	Gould
Charpier	Fullback	Jacobi

Score by periods:

	1Q.	2Q.	3Q.	4Q.	T.
Wisconsin	0	0	0	0	0

Hubbell's Play Is Feature as Colgate Beats Cornell, 20—0

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 20.—With Colgate's backs ripping the Cornell line to pieces, the Ithaca team went down to a 20 to 0 defeat this afternoon. Carry, Cornell"s quarter, was injured and was replaced by Nethercott early in the game.

Hubbell made a 50-yard run from the kick-off to start the game. Later he scored a touchdown and in the last period paved the way for Gillo's second score with a 30-yard dash down the field. Hoffman's work was the only redeeming feature of Cornell's offensive.

ST. LOUIS BOY ON TEAM OF JACKIES BEATEN BY CAMP CUSTER OFFICERS

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 20.—The army officers football team from Camp Custer defeated the naval station Jackies from Lake Bluff, Ill., 7 to 0, today, in probably the first athletic contest ever held between officers of one of the Government's fighting forces and the enlisted men of another branch. Both teams were composed of stars from colleges throughout the country. The Army scored through a succession of forward passes in the second quarter after which Lieut. Miller went around left end for 18 yards and a touchdown. Lineup:

Army Officers (7)	Position.	Jackies (0)
Gardiner (Carlisle)	Left end	Loucke (Michigan)
Moriarty (Georgetown)	Left tackle	Hildner (Michigan)
Kerwin (Georgetown)	Left guard	Robins (Oklahoma)
Rock (Colgate)	Center	Pettinger (Wisconsin)
Simpson (Wisconsin)	Right guard	Andrus (Cornell)
Ward (Georgetown)	Right tackle	Blacklock (Michigan)
Thompson (Lawrence)	Right end	McCauley (Geneva)

YEATMAN EASILY DEFEATS BILLIKEN HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL ELEVEN, 30-7

The Yeatman High School eleven met with but little difficulty in defeating the St. Louis University High School department team, 30 to 7, in an abbreviated curtain-raiser to the Billiken-Drury game yesterday afternoon.

The North Side eleven was most effective in the opening period, scoring two touchdowns and a safety. The only score of the younger Billikens came 50 seconds before the close of the second period. Yeatman had just received a kickoff after a touchdown and used the forward pass on the first play. Peterson intercepted and ran 40 yards for a score. Goal was then kicked.

Thursby, Waldo, Hausladen and Winkelman each scored a touchdown for the winners. The safety came when a St. Louis U. back fumbled and covered behind his goal posts. The game was cut short in order to allow the varsity to take the field.

Right End Leffler of McKinley, About to Receive a Forward Pass

Throughout yesterday's game with Webster Groves, Leffler was conspicuous in forward pass work, on the receiving end. The above play shows a Webster boy trying to intercept the pass and Allen Lincoln, of the country team, closing in on Leffler, to tackle him after he makes the catch.

Nebraska Weight Proves Too Much for Notre Dame

Otoupalik Goes Over for Only Touchdown of Game, Cornhuskers Winning, 7 to 0.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 20.—The University of Nebraska football team today defeated Notre Dame, 7 to 0, in a hard-fought game, the decision being in doubt until the final whistle had blown.

The only touchdown of the game was made by Otoupalik in the second quarter, after a series of line plunges and a forward pass had brought the ball to Notre Dame's three-yard line. Shaw kicked goal.

Nebraska used the two full back system. The center passes directly to the runner, the quarter back position being eliminated. The lineup:

McKinley Stops Lincoln and Webster's Title Hopes

South Side Eleven Makes Whirlwind Finish and Takes 17 to 7 Contest From Highly-Touted County Machine—Dashing Halfback Throttled, Rest Is Easy.

THE city and State football championship aspirations of Webster High School went a-glimmering yesterday morning when the widely advertised county school eleven was clearly outplayed and defeated by the McKinley High School team, 17 t6 7, on Francis Field.

The margin of 10 points hardly indicates the superiority that the South Side eleven showed over the gold and black title pretenders. The tale of the battle is much better told by the fact that Webster at no time during the game consistently carried the offense into McKinley's territory; whereas the city eleven sponsored the attack on alien land throughout almost the entire last three periods.

Lincoln the Whole Show.

The game was a pittance of the straight buck-the-barrier football tactics against the diversified attack, in which straight football, spread and split formations, and generous exploitation of the forward pass were equal components. The latter style proved more successful, perhaps because the Webster offensive was a one-man affair. Allan Lincoln was the entire offense of the Webster team. The 180-pound halfback was called upon whenever a gain was needed. He responded often, but it was too great a task for him to smash the opposing line single handed and spill or dodge the secondary offense.

He did this on one occasion. Early in the first period he shot through left tackle, eluded several tacklers and shot past the left side of the backfield defense for 40 yards and a touchdown.

McKinley gained consistently because it had three backs who could carry the ball, an end who could catch a forward pass that came within reasonable distance of him, and a general attack which kept the other fellows guessing. In Spieler, a right halfback who went into the game at the start of the third period, the crimson showed a mite of a youth who could probably have wiggled his way through a phalanx.

This chap gained every time he was called upon and two of his runs were shortly followed by scores. Siebert is a fighting halfback who on three bucks ran from the Webster 42-yard line to its one-foot line. This occurred in the first period and resulted in McKinley's first touchdown. Thomas Thompson also gained his share.

Concerning Mr. Leffler.

As to Leffler this youth is the cleverest end in the city, if he sticks to the legitimate play. Occasionally Leffler waxed over-ambitious and slipped something by the officials that would have been penalized had it been noticed. He nabbed four forward passes while on the run. His punting was gilt-edged, not one of his boots going for less that 45 yards. He dropped back to the secondary defense when the opponents had the ball and in so doing intercepted several passes. Leffler undoubtedly gets his ability at the aerial game from his basketball experience.

McKinley started its rushing attack shortly after the start of the game. It carried the ball down the field with a mixed attack, but was held on the Webster 12-yard line. This was almost immediately followed by Webster's touchdown.

The count was tied in the second period when Siebert made his aforementioned runs. The defense of the county lads was noteworthy inasmuch as Crosby's men took three bucks before Siebert had plunged the remaining one foot. George Thompson then kicked goal. McKinley was again goalward bound in the third period until it was stuck with a 15-yard penalty. After a punting exchange, McKinley again carried the ball to Webster territory on a 15-yard pass, Siebert to Leffler, and a 12-yard buck by Spieler. The aggressors were then penalized five yards, after which Leffler dropped to his 23-yard line and kicked an accurate field goal.

The final score was made in the last period when McKinley rushed the ball to Webster's 30-yard mark, whence a long arching pass of Siebert's found Leffler waiting on the goal line. This play was preceded by three consecutive marches by McKinley to the shadow of the opponents' goal posts, but each proved fruitless due to an intercepted pass, a fumble, or a penalty. The lineup:

Yesterday's Football Scores

Large Majority of Gridiron Games Resulted According to Form, Despite Many Changes in Team Makeup, Due to War Conditions.

OLD man Dope's first trip "over the top," yesterday, was as much a success, as previous ventures of the past two years. The results again show that, barring accidents, football form can be relied on about 80 out of 100 times. Yesterday's games showed an approximate percentage of .809, according to selections made in Saturday's Post-Dispatch. The count was 38 victories, 9 defeats and 2 ties. The scores:

Quarterback G. Whitley's failure to kick goal after Johnson had gone over for a touchdown in the third period, gave Soldan High School a 7 to 6 victory over the Washington University freshman at Francis Field yesterday afternoon. The game was hotly contested throughout, and featured by spasmodically brilliant defensive playing.

Although holding an appreciable edge in weight, the Soldan lads were unable to make any headway after their first and only touchdown, which came shortly after the opening of the first period. A forward pass, Horn to French, put the latter across the line for the only tally for Soldan. Horn kicked the goal.

Subsequently the contest resolved into a match of defensive skill. Neither eleven was able to cross the opposing goal line in the second period and both resorted to a punting game in which honors were about evenly divided.

In the third period, the Washington Freshies, after receiving the kickoff, succeeded in rushing the ball to midfield. Albert Cox, who by all odds was the biggest attraction of the game from an offensive standpoint, skirted left end for a 35-yard gain, and a pass, Cox to Johnson, put the latter across. Unfortunately, an off side play forced the touchdown and the ball was returned to the field. However, the play was repeated on the next attempt and this time was successful, Johnson going across, G. Whitley missed the goal that gave Soldan the victory.

A new star was developed for the Soldan squad in the person of Marcus Merrill. Merrill was substituted for Capt. Schnaus early in the first period, when the latter was injured. It proved a fortunate turn of the wheel for the Gold and Brown boys, as Merrill's gains were easily the feature of Soldan's play. He shared honors with Cox for the afternoon. The lineup:

FUMBLE ON FIRST SCRIMMAGE BEATS ST. LOUIS U., 7--0

Williams, Drury Fullback Recovers Ball and Races to 3-Yard Line Before Being Downed—Touchdown and Goal Follow Next Play.

By John E. Wray.

OUTWEIGHED, at times outplayed, but always game and fighting hard, the light Drury (Panthers) football eleven of Springfield, Mo., handed St. Louis U. its second knockout of the season at Handlan's Park, yesterday afternoon, winning 7 to 0, while several Old Grads grumbled an anvil chorus at the feeble showing of the Billikens.

Drury Eleven Plays Through Entire Game Without Using a Sub

CREDIT for yesterday's victory over St. Louis University is divided by 11 students of Drury College. Not one of the players that Coach Baldwin sent in at the start of the game was taken out during the 60 minutes of play.

The fact that the same feat was also accomplished in Drury's 14-13 victory over Henry Kendall College, two weeks ago, indicates that the Springfield eleven is something of an iron-man organization.

Drury will play the Pittsburg Normal College at Springfield, tomorrow, and Maryville, Kansas, College eleven on Saturday. This means three games within eight days, and according to Coach Baldwin the "fighting eleven" will play in each. Panthers is right

The St. Louisans had the brawn and bone, and a large display of both was exhibited during the 60 minutes of actual play. Their defeat was due to neither, however, but to a mischance by which Fullback Higgins of the St. Louis crew fumbled the ball on the first scrimmage formation of the afternoon.

Drury had kicked off and Doran had raced the ball back to the locals' 40-yard line, when Higgins pulled that Zimmerman. Escaping his hands, the ball fell among a tangled nest of scrambling players, from which Fullback Williams of Drury, destined to be a star throughout the contest, emerged with the ball.

Williams is tall and rangy and his long legs twisted and contorted, as he weaved his way through the outclutching hands for a 37-yard run. Three yards from the St. Louis goal Williams stumbled and fell, with two St. Louis atop of him pinning him flat.

Score Follows Fumble.

In a flash Drury team was lined up and shot a quick play through the right side of the Billiken line, Grossenheider skirting the posts before being pinned. Williams then added his second contribution to the day's proceedings by kicking the goal, making the score 7—0, the final figure of the day's fiesta.

For the remainder of the game the battle waged back and forth with neither side having any outstanding advantage. Continuing the first period St. Louis U. kicked off and Drury found the local line as tight as a drum. On the next three downs the Billikens threw back the Drury attack for a 22-yard loss, forcing Williams to punt.

Williams the Entire Cheese.

Right here is a good place to become better acquainted with this same Williams, without whom the Panthers would be as dangerous as a rangless rattler. The tall fullback is very visible to the naked eye; yet so effective was the camouflage with which Drury disguised his attack that the Billikens did not solve it entirely throughout the game.

Williams, from his position at fullback, is the center of a scheme of play which embraces punting, forward pass throwing and running from kick formation. In fact, all three plays are executed from the kick formation made famous by Eddie Mahan and Charley Brickley.

So craftily did Drury use Williams to deceive the enemy that it was seldom he failed to gain ground in some way, when called upon. On several occasions his successful passes, making good for 20 and 30 yards, sent his eleven into a threatening position from which the Billikens emerge only through fine tackling and splendid defensive line work.

Take Williams out of Panther play and the Billikens would have walked over the enemy, by sheer weight. On their side, the Billikens had no Williams; and therein the reason for the defeat lies.

To get back to the game: Following Drury's punt in the first, which Williams made from behind his own goal line, St. Louis started an abortive march. A short forward pass went through and a first down promised much. But Drury also showed a fine defense, and the Billikens a weak attacking formation. Quarterback Doran let the enemy take the ball away by failing to punt on the fourth down.

Drury's Forward Pass Attack Yields Big Gains Late in Second Quarter.

NEITHER team could do much with the enemy's line for the rest of the half until, with about five minutes to play, Drury suddenly caused the bottom to drop out of local stocks, uncovering a forward pass attack with Fullback Williams the focus and Quarterback Windle and Right End Irwin on the receiving end. The ball was shot directly over the line and the first time it was used it came on the third play and went for 20 yards. On straight football and by inches, Drury then made a first down. St. Louis U., backed into its own teritory, threw back the line attacks fiercely. Then, on the third down again, Willams dropped back. Having lost ground by failure of line attacks, it appeared a certainty that a punt was coming. The secondary defense of the Billikens fell back with child-like confidence.

Plunk! Into the arms of Irwin it fell, for a 30-yard gain, including the receiver's run.

Hammering the line again, Drury failed in three tries, the Billikens' resistance being far beyond their attacking prowess. Williams had dropped back for the fourth down when the whistle interrupted the game with the end of the first quarter.

Billikens Tackle Well.

The second quarter fully established two facts:

That the Billiken offense either did not exist or was being badly tackle.

That the St. Louis University players at least know how to tackle.

Forward passes enabled Drury to threaten, in this period, but the Billiken line held tight on defense, even thought did fail helplessly to open up holes for its backs to plunge through.

Beginning the second half St. Louis U. swept over the enemy with the greater power. Practically all of the battling was in Drury territory. It had been raining, drizzling, all during the afternoon and kicking and forward passing, two points in which Drury excelled, were gradually being nullified by the wet ball. Punts slipped off the toe of the kicker and into the foul line for immaterial gains; and as Drury was being forced into punting, she was the sufferer. Although St. Louis U. made only three first downs during the period, the Drury eleven was unable to boot itself out of danger. Twice the Billikens were within the 20-yard line, once by virtue of a poor punt by Williams; but when the time for the punch in the pinch came, the Billikens had none.

In the last quarter Drury, playing throughout with the same eleven that began the game, came back to life and started to menace the Billiken goal. But like St. Louis U., it lacked a consistent punch. At that the left side of the Billiken line was yielding and once, a few minutes before the end of the game, the situation looked gloomy. Williams and Eggdorf were tearing through the left wing for big gains. Finally St. Louis U. held and opened a belated forward-passing attack. A first attempt was grounded, a second one shared the same fate; the third one was intercepted by Williams who dashed to St. Louis U.'s 20-yard line before being downed. Here the erratic Billiken line found itself again and held.

St. Louis made eight first downs to 12 for Drury.

St. Louis tried 10 forward passes, two succeeded for a total gain of 15 yards.

Drury tried 15 forward passes, five succeeded for a total gain of 83 yards.

KID REGAN MEETS VETERAN OF CLASS IN FRANKIE MASON

Fort Wayne Boxer in Future City Bout Has Had 108 Battles in Eight Years.

WILL CONCEDE WEIGHT

Visitor's Best Notch Is 112 Pounds, That of Local Boy, 118.

Kid Regan defeated Jimmy Murphy, thereby jimmying right into the middle of the local bantamweight trust, but when he meets Frankie Mason at the Future City A. C., Tuesday night, he's likely to find something else again. Mason is the Fort Wayne scrapper who gave Red Johnson an artistic lacing in 12 rounds here some three weeks ago.

It's strictly against the rules to refer to this Mason person as a lad. He's not, because his record proves it. Frankie has been cultivating the acquaintance of a pair of boxing gloves ever since 1910, so this is the eighth year in which he is trying to bowl over all comers. His record shows this:

A total of 108 bouts since Feb. 16, 1910.

He has boxed 820 rounds.

He owns 30 knockouts, has boxed two exhibitions and engaged in five draws.

Has fought 71 no-decision contests.

Develops a Punch.

Outside of that Mason has taken part in 13 fights this year—the coming one will be his fourteenth. And the most interesting part of his record is that apparently the more he fights the stronger becomes his punch, as he has won six of his last 13 encounters via the knockout.

Regan is just a youngster, his bout with Murphy having been his first professional "main event." However, the Kid proved against Murphy that he is capable of coping with experienced boxers and showed enough class to warrant the belief that he will at least hold his own with the veteran Mason.

The weigt question is where Regan is bound to hold a decided edge. Mason's best poundage is from 105 to 112. It is probably true that he is strongest at the latter figure. Regan has considerable difficulty getting down to the 118 mark, in fact, it is said he cannot go below this figure and retain his strength. Such being the case the local boy will probably hold the edge in weight, which will amount to about six or eight pounds.

Grinnell Surprises Winning From Iowa U. Footballers, 10-0

IOWA CITY Io., Oct. 20.—Playing a consistent offensive and defensive game, Grinnell defeated Iowa University here, 10 to 0. The teams played the first of the contest about evenly matched, but in the second half the ball was in Iowa's teritory most of the time. Reed and Jenkins were the Iowa stars while Augustine overshadowed the work of his teammates for Grinnell.

The lineup:

Ax to Fall on Only One Manager's Head

Bill Donovan Sure to Go, Rumor Has It

Red Sox May Have Trouble Replacing Jack Barry

Major Leagues Contemplate but Few Changes in Leadership, This Year, Most of the Bosses Having Given Satisfaction.

THIS is the open season for major league managers. Club leaders are beginning to rubber anxiously to find if their jobs are on straight. There seems occasion for anxiety in but few cases, this year, although the real gunning has scarcely started.

Beginning at the top of the list we find Clarence Rowland, who saved his bacon by winning the American League pennant, and clinched his job for at least two more years by landing the world's championship.

Rowland must be accorded more than passing praise, for he labored under a strain throughout the season, in that it was put strictly up to him to win or get off the payroll.

In announcing that Rowland would be retained for the 1917 season, Comiskey shouted the news—but added in a whisper that Rowland had to cop the flag to hold his job. He did, therefore he sticks. So much for No. 1 in the table.

The pinch of war is going to be felt in baseball next year, and chiefly in Boston. Jack Barry, who succeeded Bill Carrigan and ran a fading aggregation of stars into second place to boot, enlisted in the Naval Reserves in midsummer. If the European struggle endures another year, Harry Frazee will be put to the task of slecting another leader. On the other hand, should hostilities cease, Barry will return for one more ride down the stretch.

Evers Declines Offer.

THUS far, there has been no definite announcement as to Barry's successor, should Jack have to fulfill his end of the bargain with Uncle Sam. Recently gossip has had it that Johnny Evers will draw the choice. Several things are against this, which may prove sufficient to keep Trojan John away.

Chief among them is Evers' statement made here only recently that he would either return to the major leagues AS A PLAYER in 1918 or not come back at all. The second is that Evers' methods wouldn't make a very big hit with Ban Johnson, who is strong for discipline and a sworn enemy of umpire baiters.

Leaders of the Cleveland and Detroit clubs are linked in reports which have it that the managerial map of the American League is going to present a distinctly different aspect next year. Lee Fohl has finished third two successive years in Cleveland. Whethr it is his capability or Tris Speaker's is a matter of argument. Fohl is practically certain of a job, as Jim Dunn, owner of the Indians, has confidence in him, and Bobby Roth is authority for the statement that the players, to a man, are for him.

However, they do say in some parts that Lee will hear the rattle of tin some time this winter. Until such a thing comes to pass there seems to be a strong foundation for the opposite theory that he will tarry.

Hughey Jennigns is certain of a berth—somewhere. Like Fohl, underground reports are in circulation to the effect that Jennings has spent his last season in Detroit. The dubious tip in his case is that if he leaves Detroit it will be to supplant Bill Donovan in New York.

* * *

The case of Clark Griffith is worthy of just enough comment to say that he will return as manager of the Senators unless he fires himself. Griff owns enough stock in the club to make his job certain.

Real Trouble Here.

BILL DONOVAN—ah, here's the case. If there's ever a Hard Luck League organized, put a bet down on the Smiling One to land the flag. Brought in as manager two years ago when Rupert and Huston bought the Yankees, Bill was given a free reign and told to win a flag.

Because he couldn't keep players from breaking legs and arms, not to mention their heads in falling off the water wagon, Bill seems to be doomed. With the Giants as rivals, the American League demands a winner in New York, and Donovan probably will be a martyr to this exaction, as he hasn't produced the goods. That's about the surest bet in the Canning Circuit this winter.

Fielder Jones will be back with the Browns. Forget the many rumors about Tom This and Jack That managing Phil Ball's club. Jones is looking ahead at next year, which is proof enough that he'll return. Connie Mack is the Rock of Ages personified. As sure as there is baseball in Philadelphia, Connie will be there.

About Miller Huggins.

ASIDE from Miller Huggins, there isn't a manager in the National League who is on uncertain ground Huggins' case is the prize enigma of the present time. Just why a manager who runs a team picked to finish last into third place, shouldn't be given a contract post haste, furnishes only a small part of the mystery. But he hasn't.

Time and again it's been stated that Huggins is slated to manage an American League club next season. Just as often Miller Jay himself has taken pains to deny the reports. Nevertheless, where there is so much smoke there is bound to be a few sparks, if not a fire, and until Branch Rickey says Huggins has signed with the Cardinals there are not a few who believe Huggins closed his career here with the last game of the fall series.

Rickey confesses that he isn't in the least worried whether Huggins rturns or not. Aside from this, if Huggins doesn't return, he'll probably be seen in either a New York or a Detroit uniform, preferably the former. We'll have to pass it up at that.

Fred Mitchell provides the sole remaining doubtful case in the Repudiation League. Much was expected of Mitchell this year. He was given one pitcher and told to win a pennant. He couldn't. Whether the same faction of the directorate can sever his head as they did Joe Tinker's remains to be seen.

John McGraw, Pat Moran, Christy Mathewson, George Stallings, Wilbert Robinson and Hugo Bezdek are sure things.

Higgins Is Star in 27-0 Victory for Stagg's Men

Scores Three of the Four Touchdowns, and Makes Runs of Thirty and Fifty Yards.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—The University of Chicago opened its Western Conference season today with a 27 to 0 triumph over Purdue. It was the sixteenth consecutive victory Chicago had scored over the Boilermakers.

Higgins, the big Chicago fullback, was the star of the game. He scored three of the four touchdowns and hurled a 25-yard forward pass that enabled Brelos to race across Purdue's goal. Higgins started the scoring in the first period, going over for a touchdown on a 30-yard end run.

In the second period Higgins scored again on a plunge through Purdue's line from tho 15-yard line. Near the close of the period he heaved a 25-yard pass to Brelos, who scored from the 10-yard line. In the final quarter Higgins intercepted a forward pass and ran 50 yards for a touchdown.

The Purdue line crumbled before Chicago's attack. The visitors also failed to get within Chicago's 30-yard line.

The lineup:

BERRY IS BIG FACTOR IN 20-6 VICTORY FOR PENN

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 20.—The University of Pennsylvania eleven defeated Bucknell today 20 to 6, the visitors scoring their single touchdown during the last minutes of play. Pennsylvania, with Berry and light featuring the game with three touchdowns, the first by Light in the first period, finished strong, with Berry twice carrying the ball over Bucknell's goal line. Berry added two goals from touchdown, scoring 13 points in the final period.

Principia Holds Cleveland Team to a 6--6 Score

With a team composed mostly of second-string men, Cleveland High School was held to a 6—6 tie by Principia at High School Field yesterday. Phincipia balked at the idea of meeting the first team of the South Side institution, so Coach Mathews substituted many of his reserves.

The teams battled on even terms in the first period. In the second period, Principia started an attack, which kept the ball in Cleveland's territory and eventually ended in the scoring of its lone touchdown. Fletcher and DeCamp carried the ball to Cleveland's 3-yard line, but a fumble stopped the certain score. Schulz fell upon the ball and it was Cleveland's ball on its four-yard line. Deutman's kick was blocked by Murphy, who recovered the ball behind Cleveland's goal line for the touchdown. Fletcher missed the goal.

Starting the second half, Cleveland displayed a faster attack and carried the battle into Principia's territory. With the ball on its 20-yard line, Principia elected to kick. Fletcher kicked to Tiemeyer in midfield, and the diminutive quarter back returned the ball 45 yards. On the third play he plunged through tackle for the touch down. Placke failed to kick goal.

The Cleveland attack collapsed after this, but the defense held. Three times the Principia team swept up the field, and each time was stopped with a score in sight. Cleveland had but one other chance to score, that in the third period when Placke missed a 30-yard drop kick. Tiemeyer, Schulz and Deutman starred for Cleveland, and Murphy was Principia's best representative.

WABADAS AND ALL-STARS MEET IN CONTEST TODAY

If the weaather man wil cast aside his temperament this afternon and provide fair skies, the Wabadas will meet a team of major league All-Stars under Bob Connery in a baseball game at Sportsman's Park. The Wabadas will attempt to prove they are capable of beating a major league machine.

Gene Dale will hurl for the Wabadas, while Bob Steele of the Pirates will work for Connery's team. Chuck Ward and Muddy Ruel, both major leaguers and graduates of the Wabadas, will be with their old mates this afternoon. Lefty High, Red Smyth and Jack Smith are among the big leaguers Connery has lined up.

Arkansas Beats Rolla.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 20.—Arkansas University outclassed the Misouri School of Mines here today, defeating the Rolla eleven 30 to 0. Thirty first downs were counted by the Razorbacks in making their six touchdowns. Davidson and Wilson were the principal scorers for Arkansas.

ST. LOUIS SOCCER LEAGUE WILL OPEN ITS SEASON TODAY

Ben Millers and Leos Meet in First Game, While Innisfails Tackle Navals.

The St. Louis Soccer League will officially open its 1917-18 campaign at Cardinal Field this afternoon with a double header. The champion Ben Millers meet the former title-holders, the St. Leos, in the opening contest, with the Innisfails and Naval Reserves fighting it out in the second.

Because of the absence of several of last year's stars from the various clubs, through enlistments and the draft, many kickers who last year starred in the Municipal League will get a chance in the major soccer circuit today. The league has lost 12 of its stars to date.

With the new war tax law to go into effect on Nov. 4, the soccer magnates have decided to raise their prices of admission. The adult tickets this season will cost 30 cents instead of 25, while the youngsters will again be permitted to pass through the turnstiles for 15 cents. Under the Government ruling a 10 per cent tax is placed on every admission

The double referee system will be given its first tryout today. It is the intention to have two arbiters on hand every Sunday, one for each contest. Billy Bascom and "Butch" Ammons, who last season tried a "comeback" with the Innisfails, will handle the twin bill. Play at 3 o'clock.

OLIPHANT SCORES 20 OF 26 POINTS FOR ARMY IN GAME WITH TUFTS TEAM

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 20.—The Army won in easy fashion from Tufts today. The final score was 26 to 3. Oliphant, the Army star, was credited with three of his team's touchdowns. The Army leader played three periods.

In the final period Tufts faced an entire substitute Army eleven and during this period O'Connor registered a field goal for his team, drop kicking from the 25-yard line. Smith, Knight and Bartlett shared the honors of the day with Oliphant.

Lineup:

Army.	Positions.	Tufts.
Dominey (Horr)	Left end	Jochim

Bowlers to Hold Annual Meeting This Afternoon

Officers Will Be Elected and Tournaments to Be Held Will Be Decided Upon.

The annual meeting of the St. Louis Bowling Association will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the American Hotel. Officers for the season will be elected and the tournaments to be staged here this year decided upon. The main question right now is whether to hold one handicap tournament or four.

For the past few campaigns there have been four handicap tournaments, one in each section, and one scratch event.

Women to Meet Friday.

At a meeting to be held Friday afternoon a women's city association will be formed. Effort also will be made to have the dues in the National Association reduced from $1.25 to 25 cents. It is also hinted that the next tourney will be staged in Cincinnati.

It is expected that the local feminine pintopplers will stage a tournament and at the gathering Friday it will be decided whether to make it a scratch or a handicap affair.

PITT 'TANK' BOWLS OVER SYRACUSE BY 28-0 SCORE

PITSBURG, Pa., Oct. 20.—The University of Pittsburg football team easily defeated Syracuse University here today, 28 to 0, Coach Warner's eleven scoring a touchdown and goal in each of the four periods. At the start of the game Syracuse threatened the gold and blue goal, but after the first period never proved dangerous. The Pitt line held well and open playing was prevented by a muddy field.

Buy a Bond.

IF you haven't bought a bond,
Do it now.
For the boys across the pond,
Do it now.
They'll be fighting in the trench
With the English and the French
While you're sitting on the bench—
Do it now.

They will shed their blood for you,
Do it now.
It's the least that you can do,
Do it now.
If to fight you are not fit
And you want to make a hit,
Buy a bond and do your bit—
Do it now.

You're not taking any chance,
Do it now;
For, its value will enhance.
Do it now.
It is safer than a sock
And as solid as a rock;
Give old Kaiser Bill a shock—
Do it now.

Let your old mazuma talk,
Do it now.
Make the Germans walk the chalk,
Do it now.
If to war you cannot go,
Fifty iron men or so
Will increase the Kaiser's woe—
Do it now.

You can help to win the fight,
Do it now.
It will make you sleep at night,
Do it now.
You're not giving it away
And you'll live to bless the day
That you helped to win the fray—
Do it now.

Do not hesitate or slack,
Do it now.
You will get your money back,
Do it now.
For, it's only money lent
That would otherwise be spent
And will net you four per cent—
Do it now.

Help to put the Kaiser down—
Do it now.
You can earn a harp and crown,
Do it now.
With the int'rest you can buy
Golden mansions in the sky,
And secure a seat on high—
Do it now.

"Wild" Is the Word.

"RED" FABER, in discussing his attempted feat of stealing third base right from under the feet of a team mate standing on it, said that Rowland's instructions were that if Perritt pitched they were to run the bases wild. That "Red" placed a liberal, not to say literal, construction upon his boss's orders is a matter of history.

SALTMARSH IS WINNER OF CROSS COUNTRY RUN

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 20.—Sherman M. Saltmarsh, an ensign at the Boston Navy Yard, and former Dartmouth College athlete, distanced a field of 60 starters in the cross-country run for United States Army and Navy men training in New England, held today by the Boston Athletic Association. The course was six and three tenths miles and the winner's time 34m 13 4-5s.

Saltmarsh and Tom Henigan, former Dorchester star, now a soldier at Camp Devens, set the pace for the field, but Henigan dropped back to fourth place before he reached the tape. Saltmarsh finished 75 yards ahead of D. R. Powers of the United States radio school, at Harvard.

Gold medals were awarded the first ten men while the next 20 got bronze medals. Forty-eight of the 60 starters finished.

TIGERS FALTER IN FINAL PERIOD AND AMES WINS, 15-0

Quarterback Boyd, Playing His First Varsity Game, Is Star for the Iowans.

AMES, Io., Oct. 20.—The University of Missouri could do nothing with the Ames line today and Iowa State College swamped the visitors 15 to 0. Boyd, Ames' quarter, in his first 'varsity game, was the surprise of the day, making many good gains.

The teams battled to a standstill until the third quarter, when Boyd put a beautiful drop kick over the goal. In the final quarter long runs by Aldrich, Johnson, Boyd and Vanderloo and hard line playing swept the Tiger team off its feet and netted two touchdowns. Missouri then braced and opened a fire of forward passes, but with no avail.

Score and line-up:

Ames (5).	Positions.	Missouri.

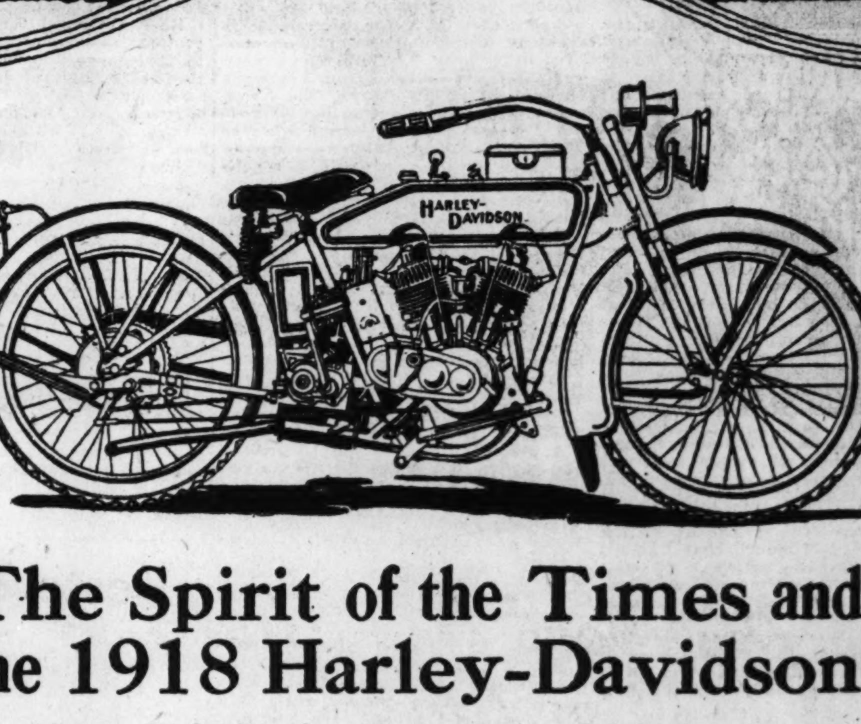
AMES WINS CROSS COUNTRY

AMES, Iowa, Oct 20.—Ames won the annual cross-country meet from Missouri over the five-mile Iowa State course this afternoon. Hawthorn, of Ames, was the first man to complete the grind. His time was 27m 3s.

Missouri did not place among the first five. The first five Ames men to finish were Hawthorne, Frits Scher, Cromer, Schenk and Jones.

KIRKWOOD WINS EASILY.

The Kirkwood High School had an eay time with the Edwardsville (Ill.) High team on the former's gridiron yesterday afternoon. The County lads were vctorious 25 to 6. Payne, of the winners, was the indivdual star, making three touchdowns and scoring a goal kick. His open field running also was the feature of the game.



The Spirit of the Times and the 1918 Harley-Davidson

For 16 years Harley-Davidson Motorcycles have led the way in motorcycle development.

Motorcyclists know that we always were able to offer just what the rider wanted about a season before it was expected. In this way we explain our success.

The 1918 Harley-Davidson Motorcycles will again stand head and saddle above competition. While the Harley-Davidson has always led in economy of operation that one possibility for improvement has been further developed. For 1918 the Harley-Davidson engineers have given us a motorcycle capable of even greater economy.

50 to 75 Miles per Gallon Gasoline 600 to 1200 Miles per Gallon of Oil
5000 to 8000 Miles per Set of Tires

There are several important improvements in the latest Harley-Davidson creation—refinements that make for greater efficiency and even longer life.

We know that every person who ever rode or expects to ride will want to see the new beauty—so tomorrow we throw wide our doors and "open house" will be the rule. Come in. Swing into the saddle of the latest Harley-Davidson. See the luxurious new sidecar. We'll be looking for you.

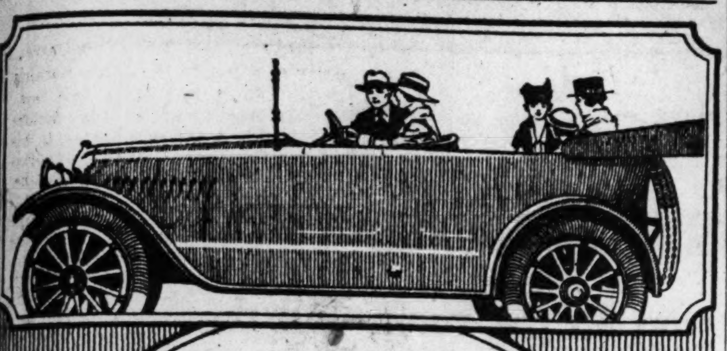
TRUCK BODY FORMED.

The tentative organization of the St. Louis Motor Truck Manufacturers' and Dealers' Association was completed at the Marquette Hotel Monday night by the representatives of 18 firms. Charles A. Marien of the One-Wheel Truck Co., was made president. Wastell Gray of the International Mack Corp., secretary, and N. F. Sutton of the General Motors Truck Co., treasurer.

A committee on organization with Sutton as chairman, and W. E. Conway Jr. of the Garord Motor Co., Martin O'Mara of the White Co., Jack Ryan of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co., was appointed.

Joseph A. Schlecht, president; H. F. Fahrenkrog, vice president, and Robert E. Lee, secretary of the St. Louis Automobile Manufacturers' and Dealers' Association, were invited guests and addressed the meeting.



The Most Economical Six You Can Buy

THE GRANT SIX is known all over the country as the most economical Six. Thousands of owners average 20 miles to a gallon of gasoline and 900 miles to a gallon of oil, 7000 miles or more from standard tires.

Right now you can buy this remarkable car for less than any other Six in America. It is the most astonishing automobile value in the market today. Judged by prevailing prices the GRANT SIX should sell for at least $1000 and we challenge comparison of the GRANT SIX with any car you can buy up to $1150.

In the GRANT SIX you get an overhead-valve engine, full-floating rear axle, cantilever rear springs, vacuum gasoline feed, equalized brakes, Remy ignition, Wagner starting and lighting system, Willard battery and feature after feature of the higher priced cars.

Don't delay—get a GRANT SIX now while the amazingly low price is still in force.

NEW FIRM TO HANDLE ROAMER AND MONROE

The first week of November will mark the opening of a new motor car firm, the C. & H. Motor Co., which has leased the salesroom at 4160 Olive street. The new organization is headed by W. H. Cook, formerly manager of the Supreme Motor Car Co., and prior to that assistant manager of the Kansas City Winton branch. Associated with him will be Arthur D. Hamilton, formerly with the Citizens' National Bank of Kirksville, Mo.

They have taken the distribution in the St. Louis territory for Roamer and Monroe cars. The Roamer is not new to St. Louis, having been first shown here at a salon exhibit at the Jefferson Hotel last summer, and many are now owned by St. Louisans.

Its manufacturers have adopted the slogan of "America's Smartest Car" and to lend individuality to their product offer the purchaser a choice of 21 color combinations and a range of 17 different upholsterings.

Each mechanical unit is the product of some standard manufacturer the specifications including a 3½x5¼ four-cylinder Continental motor, Bosch high tension magneto and the Bijur two-unit electrical equipment. It lists in the $2000 class.

The Monroe, although new to St. Louis, has gained wide popularity in other sections. It is a light four in the $1000 class, with the extreme lines featured by many of the higher-priced makes. An exceptionally roomy five-passenger body is secured on a wheel base of 115 inches. A light roadster is also made with full electrical equipment, that sells under $600.

The first shipment of each of the new cars will be received the latter part of this month and the formal opening will be held about the first of November.

TO SHOW GRANT TEST IN MOTION PICTURES

The public is constantly hearing of various tests and records made by Motor cars but this week St. Louis is to get a first hand view to the hardships that these tests mean, thanks to the motion picture camera.

J. C. Barcus, president of the St. Louis Grant Motor Co., has made arrangements to show at the Grand Central Theater a film taken of the Grant Six that made the great record of crossing the Sierra Nevada Mountains in early spring before even the pack trains had broken the trail.

The route chosen was the old Emigrant Trail from San Francisco to Lake Tahoe near Reno. Almost from the start the car was forced to buck snow drifts and the pictures show the car fighting its way to the top of the mountains, often with the snow flying and over the hubs in unbroken drifts.

In one place the road was blocked by a fallen tree that was removed by dynamite. In another place a washout had taken the road and a temporary bridge of trees was made. One picture shows the little car beside the tablet marking the Great Divide of the Sierras.

After seeing the roads that were traveled and the obstacles that were surmounted, there is no question of calling the trip a pleasure jaunt. One cannot help but contrast the work of this mountain climber which was a stock Grant Six with service that the average owners ask of his car.

EXPECTS BIG BUSINESS.

A. G. Whitaker of the Northern Motor Co. has returned from Detroit, where he attended a general business conference of Liberty Motor car dealers at the factory. The meeting was attended by Liberty car dealers from all points in the United States and Canada.

Whitaker states that the most interesting feature of the conference was the report on the future business outlook by Percy Owen, president of the Liberty Motor Car Co.

Mr. Owen has devoted considerable time recently in gathering data from all parts of the country that would have a tendency to show the trend of business and has also made several visits to Washington and talked with men who are in close touch with the situation.

From these various sources of information, Mr. Owen is convinced that the United States must enjoy an unusually large busines in the future. War orders are being placed in great numbers and there will be no lack either of the volume of business or the necessary capital to conduct it properly. The present spasmodic condition of business will continue for a time, and will only be felt until the immense amount of money the Government is now spending gets into proper circulation.

From Mr. Owen's observations there are two grave problems that will soon assert themselves very forcibly and which will handicap business to some extent.

With the large demand for raw materials for war orders, especially steel and aluminum, and the condition of the labor market, there is a likelihood of a shortage in materials. Just at present the supply is sufficient, but manufacturers are showing an inclination to be wary in promising deliveries after the first of the year.

Mr. Owen found in conversing with officials at Washington that they entertained the view that the material situation, in a few months, would be problematic, and in some cases an extremely bearish forecast was made.

Another element which will affect general business conditions in a few months is shipping facilities. War supplies being manufactured at various points must be transported to the seaboard and Government business naturaly will have the preference by the railroads. Aside from the material and shipping situation there is nothing standing in the way of all lines of business receiving an abundance of orders before spring.

FORD DEALERS ORGANIZE

The St. Louis Ford Dealers' Association has been organized, with Milton B. Strauss, chairman; Clarence H. Tevis, vice chairman, and William D. Walsh, secretary. The association will aim to improve the Ford service and hande all matters pertaining to the distribution of the Ford car in St. Louis.

The 10 dealers holding membership in the association are: Ayres Auto Co., Bilgere-Kavanaugh Automobile Co., Carondelet Motor Car Co., Ollie E. CLOSED CARS INTEREST.

"These are days of keen interest in closed cars," says J. E. Newell, Paige and Stearns distributor in St. Louis.

"The seclusion and coziness afforded by a Sedan or Sedanet permits the enjoyment of winter driving without the sacrifice of comfort. The demand for closed cars is increasing by leaps and bounds and the factories with which we are associated are among the few which foresaw this call and provided for it."

THE 1918 CASE SIX HAS MANY NOVEL FEATURES

One make that has gleamed out in the spotlight of automobile interest is the new 1918 Case six built by the J. I. Case T. M. Co. at Racine, Wis. Its new innovations are practical and have been added by Case engineers who have fortunately not been held down to the task of having had to build a car to a price limit. Advance models in the hands of distributors are causing more than ordinary interest on the boulevards and highways.

The 1918 car includes a Case-Continental 6-cylinder engine, 3⅛-inch bore by 5¼ inch stroke, the new motor with the counterbalanced crankshaft which experienced automobilists and dealers everywhere can refer to with pride. Its flexibility and fuel economy are the predominating characteristics.

For 1918 the Case Six carries Westinghouse electrical equipment, separate units, Willard storage battery. A combination switch for ignition and lighting is located on the steering column.

In the design of the composite wood and steel body some masterful touches have resulted in a distinctly individual car. The designers have embodied an exclusive stream line effect. The soft deep upholstery is of high grade china cotton covered with real leather. Marshall cushions are also provided.

The 1918 Case is being built in three body styles for one chassis; the family model for five or seven; the Sport model for four and the all Seasons model is finished in periscope green, the other two models are finished in blue.

EMPIRE SEDAN IS HERE.

The new 1918 Empire Sedan was shown for the first time in St. Louis last week at the Knight Motor Co., 3327 Locust street. The Sedan, a lark blue in color, is of the convertible type; all windows being removable and leaving an open touring car with a permanent top for summer use.

Its makers claim it to be the lowest price six-cylinder sedan, using the Continental Red Seal motor, on the market, being priced at $1685.

It's the stuff they use to make the "old 'uns" sparkle and shine at the "Bargains in Slightly Used" places.

HEADS BIG NEW WAR FUND

The executive and organizing ability of John N. Willys, head of the Willys-Overland, Inc., of Toledo, has been called into full play in connection with the raising, under the supervision of a war camp community recreation fund of $3 for every soldier and sailor in the service of Uncle Sam. He will have associated with him, in the big task, men of national prominence in nearly every city in the country.

President Wilson, in a recent letter, expressed appreciation of Mr. Willys' willingness to serve the country in this respect and wished the work every success. The letter was made public by the Commission on Training Camp Activities of the War and Navy, when the appointment of Mr. Willys to direct the campaign was announced.

Such Luxury With True Economy a Vanishing Opportunity

PLANNED and prepared for months ago when costs were so much lower.

Built in quantities to permit low prices even for those low costs.

These beautiful luxurious sedans and coupes, exceptional values in normal times, are downright bargains today.

When these cars are sold it will be a long, long time before such luxury can again be enjoyed with such economy.

We were fortunate in getting a good share of the output and are ready to make prompt deliveries.

These cars have the powerful, economical, thirty-five horsepower four cylinder Overland motor or the 35-40 horsepower six cylinder motor, as you prefer.

They are beautifully designed, beautifully finished cars, up to the minute in style and conveniences.

The interiors, completely trimmed in rich grey worsteds with harmonizing upholstery and carpet, are truly luxurious without suggesting lavish display.

Both the sedans and the coupes are convertible—open or closed as you wish, for the side windows and uprights disappear when you want an open car.

Let us show you the cars—now is the time to buy—now is your opportunity.

TIRE INDUSTRY GROWN TO VAST PROPORTIONS

AKRON.—Some idea of the vast scale on which the rubber industry is conducted in Akron, the rubber capital of the world can be gained from a description of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. business.

Seventeen years ago the Firestone company occupied a small building with only one-eighth of an acre of floor space. Today the plant has over 39 acres of floor space, and buildings now under construction will increase this nine acres.

When the company first began the manufacture of automobile tires, its capacity was only a few tires a day. Today it is more than 15,000 a day and will be 25,000 when new buildings are completed. In 1916 its gross sales amounted to $36,000,000. This year it has been over 1,000,000 a week, or over $60,000,000 for the year. Up to Sept. 1, the sales had increased 72 per cent over the same period last year.

The company now has more than 10,000 employes in its home office and factories and 1500 at its branches and in the field.

Akron is a city that has grown so fast within the last 10 years that it is scarcely recognized by the old residents as the same little village they knew in the nineties. Thousands of workmen pouring into the city every year have brought with them all the problems of the metropolitan city. The new residents came faster than homes could be built for them and soon Akron found itself with a real big-city housing problem on its hands. A well-known writer who had heard fo the marvelous growth of the city and came to see facetiously wrote back to his publication that here was "standing room only."

NEW BUICK HOME OPENED

The Vesper-Buick Automobile Co. and H. G. Hurd, retail distributor of the Buick, tendered a house warming on an elaborate scale to its employes and guests last Monday night. The fine new building at Grand and Lindell avenues was a bower of flowers sent by friends and competitors, and a dinner and extensive cabaret program and moving pictures were features on the second floor.

BUY NOW SAYS R. R. MAN

"There are a great many men who have been planning to buy motor cars in the spring coming to us now and placing orders for immediate delivery," says Frank A. Flint of the Hudson Motor Car Co. of St. Louis.

"There was never a more opportune time than now for the Hudson buyer. With the prospects of an increase in price within a short time, there is a tremendous demand for Hudsons throughout the country. Many who have planned to buy a little later are going to be disappointed, because Hudson dealers have only so many cars to sell at present prices, and when this allotment is gone, higher prices will prevail.

"The vice president of one of the largest railroad systems in America had planned to buy a super-six sedan next spring. Last week he ordered one of the Hudson dealer at Tacoma, Wash. Not only the prospect of higher prices in the spring, but the fact that prompt deliveries will also be harder to obtain prompted him to make the purchase. The transportation problem will be greater than ever next spring, and this railroad official knew that this was the best time to buy a car.

"With further advances—and there are now 53 makers of cars who have increased their prices since the first of the year—Hudson is practically the only large manufacturer that has not yet announced a price increase."

MEAT CAUSE OF LAME BACK AND KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Salts to flush Kidneys if your back is aching.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—ADV.

CATTLE MARKET SHARPLY LOWER ON BIG RECEIPTS

Prices Lost 50c to $1 in Local Trade Last Week; Hogs Also Weak.

COMPARATIVE RECEIPTS.

	Last Week.	Week Before.	Last Year.
Cattle	43,600	43,000	36,200
Hogs	55,600	38,000	47,000
Sheep	10,400	12,300	10300

Unusually heavy cattle receipts worked prices lower last week. It was not from lack of demand that made the market unsatisfactory, but the overabundance of supplies. It looked impossible to stem the tide of receipts, as everyone seems desirous of cleaning up before the winter season. Choice cattle were scarce, but were sacrificed along with the multitude of common to medium cattle of all varieties, which made up the big share of receipts. At the close of the market showed a general decline of 50c to $1 per cwt, compared with prices in force at the close of the previous week.

Choice to prime beef steers are quoted at $14.75 to $16.75; good to choice, $12.50 to $14.50; medium to good, $9 to $11; common to medium, $7.50 to $9; common off-colored light killing steers, $6.50 to $7.50; good to choice stockers and feeders, $7.25 to $8.25; medium to good, $6.25 to $7.25; common to medium, $5.50 to $6.25; good to choice stock cows, $6.25 to $6.75; good to choice stock heifers, $7 to $7.75; choice to prime fat yearling butcher cattle, $11 to $14; good to choice, $9 to $11; medium to good, $7 to $9; common to medium, $6 to $7; choice to fancy heavy beef cows, $9 to $10; good to choice, $8 to $9; medium to good, $7 to $8; cutters, $5.50 to $6; canners, $5 to $5.50; good fat beef bulls, $8 to $9; heavy sausage bulls, $7 to $8, and light sausage bulls, $6 to $7.

The hog market received an unmerciful pounding from sellers, and at the close yesterday had settled to the lowest level in many weeks. The general market showed a decline of $1.50 to $1.80 per hundred, compared with the previous week's close; and the present market will average about $3 per hundred under the next high level.

This is packing season, when the big operators make a determined effort to lower the market; but this ye ratheir effort to lower values has shown more aggressiveness than in former years, which, of course, can be attributed to the abnormal high market that has been in effect for some months.

Yesterday receipts amounted to 4800 head and the market was 25c lower than Friday's close, with a top of $16.70 for fancy heavy swine. Choice hogs, 180 pounds up are quoted at $16 to $16.70; god mixed hogs, 160 pounds up, $15.50 to $16; 120 to 150 pound pigs, $14.75 to $15; lighter pigs, $12.50 to $14.50; best rough hogs $15.50 to $15.75, with half-fat rougs at $11 to $12.50.

The sheep situation, while not marked by any erratic tendency, was nevertheless of a weakened character, closing with lambs 50c to 75c lower, and sheep 25c lower. Bulk of the good to choice lambs, $16 to $16.75; medium to good, $15 to $16; fat sheep, $11; choppers, $8, and canners, $5 to $6. Angora goats, $7.25 to $8.25; hair goats, $7 to $7.75, and kids $9 to $10.50.

FUTURE CORN PRICES SHOW STEADY RANGE

Week's Market Is Slightly Higher on Active Options; Oats Irregular.

Official disavowal of reports that the Food Administrator had planned to make $10 a cwt the standard price of hogs did a good deal last week to harden corn and oats in value here and the market closed with small gains after being sharply depressed. Yesterday's prices, however, were on the downturn as a result of good weather, peace talk and reports of large yields of new corn as shown by husking returns.

As the untrue reports of a proposed $10 scale in the hog market had been accompanied by talk of a simultaneous reduction of corn prices to $1 a bushel, the denial of such a plan naturally tended to inspire considerable buying of corn, and to give corresponding firmness to quotations. The chief other influence was the varying outlook from day to day in regard to whether conditions alternately hindering or promoting the seasonable drying out of the crop in preparation for shipment.

Liberal export business served as the main prop of oats, but yesterday's market was lower, when this demand died out, and farmers were said to be ready to market their crop more freely.

Enlarged shipping demand for provisions was ascribed in part to the published views of the Food Administrator and also to lifting of maximum prices at Liverpool. On the other hand, continued severe breaks in the value of hogs were reflected by further weakness of late deliveries of packing house products.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Cash corn was steady in price, but scarce.

Quote No. 2 corn, $1.94 n; No. 2 yellow, $1.95 n; No. 2 white, $2.10 n.

Quote standard oats, 60c n; No. 3 white, 59½@60c; No. 4 white, 59c; No. 2, 57½c, No. 3, 57¼c.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—With husking at hand in the main section of the corn belt and with the outlook promising generous returns, corn prices today slid downward and there was a decided smash in the cost of provisions. Corn closed nervous, ⅞c to 1½c net lower, at $1.14⅜ to $1.14½ December, and $1.09 to $1.09⅛ May. Oats lost ⅜c to ⅝@¾c. The setback in provisions ranged from 50c to $2.30.

A gradual but almost uniform descent of prices took place in the corn market. The general forecast pointed to continuance of fair weather and low temperatures, whereas a return of moisture and warmth had been expected to interfere with best results in preparing the bulk of the crop. Optimism increased owing to good returns from fields already husked notably in central Ohio, where yields were said to average 50 bushels an acre.

Sensational price breaks which accompanied urgent selling of provisions came for the most part after opinions from experts had been circulated that the potential hog supply had been generally put far too low, and that the receipts of hogs would be on a broad scale when the feeding of the 1917 corn crop had taken effect in earnest.

SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH'S REVIEW OF MARKET CONDITIONS

STRONG SUPPORT IN NEW YORK STOCK LIST CAUSES GOOD GAINS ON THE WEEK

U. S. Steel and Other Standard Shares Rise One to Five Points.

EARLY MARKET WEAK

Selling Was Forced by Report That Stock Exchange Would Close.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"So much of the breaks in stocks at the opening of this week, was a direct result of the senseless rumor about closing the Stock Exchange, that it is not wholly easy to take the true measure of the decline. But of one main underlying cause for the decline there was not much doubt. It was precautionary selling by large taxpayers who were perplexed over the individual problems which the new war taxes created.

"To some extent the realizing sales—and more especially the absence of support to the market during the break—resulted from the necessity of shifting capital, with a view to the tax department's requisitions for cash, a few months hence. But the particular pressure, which for one day somewhat hysterical was more probably occasioned by bewilderment over the longer future.

"In so far as this had a reasonable basis, it was caused, not alone by the botching of the conference, of some of the finance's committee's most carefully drawn schedules, but even more immediately by the seeming evidence that certain Congressmen, with a voice in legislation, were determined to make the taxes something in the nature of exemplary punishment.

"This cause for the disturbance in the investment markets—in so far as it was the cause—points out its own remedy. All things considered, the temper of Congress, in the later work on the revenue bill, was statesmanlike. Everyone remembers the talk which was heard in the early stages of the debate, about the "rich men who forced us into the war for their own profit; and the men at whom this stupid innuendo was directed may have imagined that the authors of it had managed to get some kind of strangle hold on the Conference Committee. But that sort of thing can hardly last as the war goes on.

"How it appeals to the people at large and to Congress itself, in the case of public men who have had full rope for their malice, may be seen from the case of the statesmen who began with precisely these proposals of penalizing and confiscating wealth as such, and who is now being considered by a Senatorial Committee on the ground of public attacks upon the war policy of the country and contemptuous references to the victims of the Lusitania.

"But the larger inference which will be drawn from the public attitude is that our future program of finance is likely to be pursued in a somewhat different spirit. The English legislators learned very early the necessity of avoiding, so far as might be, provisions which are exasperating rather than statesmanlike, and, which, while increasing the requisitions on capital, would go some towards hampering the productive power of capital on which the Treasury must relie for future war loans. Against this, we had friendly warnings from foreign financial circles, months ago.

"The coming week will be largely given up, from the financial point of view, to the second war loan. In the warnings and misgivings of the past week or two the present canvass has merely repeated history. Three days before the lists closed for the loan of last June, only three-fourths of the amount asked" for had been subscribed. Even on the final day, Wall Street as a whole looked for nothing better than the covering of the full two thousand millions. The community's complete surprise at the magnificent total which rolled out, when the whole country's applications of the final day had been tabulated, and the thousand million over application became known, can hardly have been forgotten.

"There is perfectly good reason to anticipate an equally gratifying result on this occasion—always supposing the people, rich men and poor men alike, act up to the American traditions. But this will be the result only if every citizen realizes the personal and individual responsibility which rests upon him to do the part that belongs to him.

"Stocks that were sharply lower in the early week gained rapidly in the later trading and final prices were materially higher than the close of the previous week. Yesterday's market was strong."

Curb Review.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Prices of the leading securities on the Broad street curb traveled over a wide range last week, with substantial losses in the first few days, followed by vigorous advances, and with a display of pronounced strength when the week ended.

Most interest was attached to the action of the oil stocks, which had been unsettled through fears of price fixing, but those issues, after their recessions, became the most prominent features of the later advance, and were in better demand than they had been for over a month past.

Merritt was one of the most active of this group, selling as low as 29⅛, from which it advanced to 26¼. Midwest Refining, after selling at 131, rose to 142. Northwest moved up from 80 to 94 cents, and Cosden & Co. rose from 7⅝ to 8½.

War stocks also developed activity and strength in the last half of the week, with Aetna explosives advancing from 3⅝ to 5⅝, and Inter-Tube was actively traded in at 3¼ to 3⅝. Submarine, after declining from 15⅞ to 14, rallied to 15½. Cities Service, after declining from 221½ to 214½ rose to 218, and Air Reduction, which sold down to 77, later rose to 85.

Fluctuations in the low priced mining stocks were narrow, Calumet and Jerome selling at 1⅞ to 1 9-16; Emma Consolidated at ⅝ to 9-16, Jerome Verde at 1¼ to 1 3-16, and Green Monster at 1 1-16 to ½.

Higher priced stocks had wider fluctuations, Magma falling from 44½ to 39, and then rallying to 43. Butte Copper and Zinc sold at 9⅝ to 8⅛. Nixon Nevada advanced from 71 to 84 cents.

There were heavy dealings in bonds in the outside market. More than 1,000,000 Canadian Government 5s changed hands at 94 to 93¼, and back to 94. Russian 6½s dropped from 76 to the new low record of 70, and the 5½s sold at 66½ to the new low record of 61½.

London Review.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York Evening Post.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—"The London financial community is confident that your war loan will be a success. The right note has been struck, we think, by Mr. Wilson and the bankers acting with him, the one circumstance which might have impeded the operation—too great rigidity in your banking organization — has apparently been overcome by Washington's determination fully to mobilize your country's banking resources.

"It is considered here that your financial organization, so soon after your entry into war, is little short of marvelous. It seems, moreover, to be improving daily, through the increasing co-ordination of effort between Washington and the banking community.

"The Stock Exchange is evidently restive, and creates a problem of its own. But this fall in prices of investment securities is primarily a consequence, in your case as it was in ours, of the huge creations of Government debt. The movement was virtually inevitable; but your people must remember only market values are affected, and that its income from the stocks remains unchanged.

Investments Are Good.

Moreover, there is growing recognition here by investors, especially in the short term Government loans that the terms are more attractive than appears on the surface. Belligerent Governments are compelled to spend lavishly, while the purchasing power of money is diminished through the rise of commodities. But when the loans come to be repaid, the public should derive a special advantage from recovering the principal at the time when the purchasing power of money is once more increased. Hence there should be a double incentive both to thrift and the habit of sound investment.

"This week, the city's feeling about the war developments is mixed. The news from Flanders is excellent, barring the delay in our forward movement, imposed by unfavorable weather. But the course of events in Russia is deplorable, and the best financial judgment is that the allies will have to consider seriously the position resulting from it.

"Although the subscription for the new German loan has closed, the city has no information whatever as to the real measure of success achieved. The newspaper campaign has been in some respects suggestive: one German paper, for instance, emphasizing the argument that the only way to bring back the comfort of Sunday pudding and broth is through peace, and that peace can only be secured through the success of the loan."

COTTON OFF 30 POINTS DESPITE BAD WEATHER

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Bullish crop and weather news failed to create much fresh buying in the cotton market today, and reactionary sentiment was a good deal in evidence around the ring. December eased off from 27.60c to 27.20c, or 34 points under last night, and closed at 27.29c, with the general list closing steady at an advance of 1 point on October, but generally 16 to 25 points net lower.

The market opened barely steady at an advance of 1 point to a decline of 17 points. December and January were higher on the unfavorable showing of the weather map and bullish overnight spot advices, but there was active realizing for over the week end, and the failure of bullish features to inspire aggressive buying, evidently increased the disposition to take profits. Brokers with Wall street and uptown connections were particularly active sellers on the decline, which carried January off from 27.22c to 26.79c and March from 26.90c to 26.35c. Closing prices were a few points up from the lowest on covering.

Frosts were reported in the eastern belt and barometric condition suggested that another cold wave might reach the Southwest before Monday. It was reported that returns to a prominent Southern authority indicated a ginning of 5,262,000 bales prior to Oct. 18, and pointed to a crop of 11,086,000 bales, which local traders supposed to be without regard to the weather of the past two days.

There was also some uneasiness over reports of a tropical storm in the Caribbean Sea, but these features seemed to be overshadowed for the time being by the extent of recent advances and the increasing crop movement.

Reports from the goods trade indicated continued firmness owing partly to the raw material situation and scarcity of labor, while a good demand was reported for goods from the interior.

Three Great Oil Fields

The Three Great Oil Fields now in the eyes of the oil men of the Southwest are Goose Creek, Humble and Damon Mound. Goose Creek and Humble are the older fields, but Damon Mound is rapidly forging to the front. The Imperial Petroleum Company has leases in all three of these big Gusher Fields. At Goose Creek and Humble the Imperial has property adjoining Gusher Territory. This company now offers an opportunity that rarely comes to the public—that of securing an interest in such valuable properties in three of the greatest oil fields in the Southwest. During the past twelve months Goose Creek and Humble fields have produced an aggregate of over 15,000,000 barrels of oil, which has sold around $1 to $1.25 a barrel. The large production of these two fields is accounted for by the gusher wells that make from 500 to 10,000 barrels. One flowing well at Humble is reported to have produced more than two million barrels total since it was brought in, perhaps three years ago. The well managed oil companies of this section have literally made millions of dollars annually for stockholders from oil production in these fields. The opportunity seems to be as great as ever for tremendous profits.

WILL DRILL FOR GUSHER WELLS

Because of the very favorable location of the Imperial leases the company will put down one or more deep wells at once with the purpose of bringing in flowing wells which are common to the three fields where these leases are located — Goose Creek, Humble and Damon Mound. The first lease to be drilled now will be at Goose Creek These great gusher wells of the Coastal Fields have made the shareholders of many local oil companies tremendous dividends.

LOCATION OF PROPERTIES

The properties controlled by the Imperial Petroleum Company are in very favorable locations. At Goose Creek the company has more than 20 acres now under lease, among which is the Wright tract, situated in the central part of the field within the gusher area, with gusher wells having come in on ADJOINING property only 50 to 150 feet from the line.

At Humble the company has a lease of 25 acres ADJOINING the famous Stevenson tract, the land on which the great Humble gushers come in that have millions for the companies operating on the Stevenson. Humble produces millions of barrels of oil annually and is now second only to Goose Creek in production among the Coastal Fields.

At Damon Mound, the new gusher field, the Imperial has a 10-acre lease which is located right adjoining the holdings of some of the largest oil companies in the country. The first well in this new field came in with a reported production of 12,000 barrels daily.

Large bonuses have been paid for some of the Imperial leases, because of the location near big flowing wells.

This company is managed by successful business men and experienced oil operators and expects to develop big oil production on the above properties.

ORGANIZATION

The Imperial Petroleum Company is capitalized at $250,000, divided into shares of $10 par value, fully paid and non-assessible. Sufficient number of treasury shares will be sold to insure a substantial drilling fund. The company operates under a Declaration of Trust, which vests control of its affairs in a Board of Trustees and exempts shareholders from personal liability. The Trustees are successful business men in their several lines, three of the board being experienced in the oil business. We invite the fullest investigation of the management and the properties.

EXAMINATIONS MADE OF AND REPORTS SUBMITTED ON PETROLEUM PROPERTIES
ANDREW P. BENITZ, PH. D.
GEOLOGIST DE L'ECOLE DES MINES, PARIS, FRANCE
GEOLOGIST AND MINERALOGIST
[illegible] CARTER BUILDING
PHONE: PRESTON 1766

TO THE IMPERIAL PETROLEUM COMPANY,
Houston, Texas.

HOUSTON, TEXAS, Sept. 26, 1917.

Gentlemen;

The following report, which I have the honor to submit, is accompanied by a private letter.

-INTRODUCTION-

This examination of your holdings was made in conformity with Travel Order No. 32 of my private practice records, Houston, Texas.

-OUTLINE OF RESULTS-

The A.A.Wright Tract, in the Wm. Scott Survey, for which this Company has contracted, lies in the center of the best producing area of the Goose Creek Oil Field. It is surrounded on all sides by producing wells, notably the Simms-Sinclair 35,000 barrel gusher which lies only a short distance west of the property herein mentioned, and the last well brought in in this district with an initial production of 3,500 barrels per day, by John O'Neal, a few days ago, which lies about 150 feet north of the property herein mentioned. Many large wells ranging from 3,000 barrels to 10,000 barrels daily, have been brought in close to your lease on all sides.

There is no doubt but that your holdings are of great commercial value, as only a few wells have been drilled near this property, leaving a large area from which you can draw great quantities of oil.

-GENERAL GEOLOGY - Stratifigraphy.

From an examination of the logs of wells drilled near the property herein mentioned, and from my practical experience as Superintendent of the wells drilled by Mr. C.T.Rucker on the south of this property, and from a general survey, I have compiled the following results:

In the special area herein mentioned, the formation differs only in hardness, from the other parts of the Field, but records all the pay strata recorded in the other parts of the Field, which are as follows:

The 900 to 1,000 foot stratum -- I believe this stratum could be made "pay" in this Tract, as I have witnessed the porosity of the formation and the quality of the sands, which suggest a void of about 15% with a strong gas pressure.

The 1300 to 1,400 foot stratum is closely cemented and hard, and I do not believe it can be made to produce in this part of the Field.

While no one has yet made an attempt to make the 1,700 foot stratum produce, I am sure that it would more than repay the cost of the test. This stratum is virgin and capable of good production.

The 2,300 foot stratum, also, is almost virgin, having only a few wells producing from it in this portion of the Field, and I know that I could have brought in some good wells from this stratum, on this Tract for Mr. C.T.Rucker, if he had not desired to go to the 2600 foot stratum.

The 2,600 foot stratum is the most developed stratum in the Field in general, and while you could obtain production in your property, I should not advise it, as almost all the producing wells near the property herein mentioned, are producing from this stratum.

The 3,100 foot stratum, (the stratum from which the big Simms-Sinclair well was brought in) I am sure continues under your property with a little variation in depth. Great quantities of oil can be expected from this stratum in the holdings herein mentioned.

It is my belief that there is another oil stratum underlying the 3,100 foot stratum, at a depth of from 3500 to 3600 feet, capable of great production.

Long before the 3,100 foot stratum was discovered, I made a report to Mr. C.T.Rucker, (for whom I am consulting geologist) in which I urged him to develop this stratum in his property.

-ECONOMIC GEOLOGY - General Statement.

The writer will call your attention to the fact that while this part of the Field has become the center of production, only two strata have been tapped, leaving three or four virgin sources, capable of producing several million barrels of oil.

The property herein mentioned, is so located as to drain the surrounding properties, if energetically developed, and in my opinion, very good judgment was used by the Officers of your Company in acquiring it.

I am sure that your very efficient Field force, headed by Supt. L.J.Bryan, will use all diligence in the development of this property and that their efforts will be regarded with success. While some drilling difficulties may be encountered, owing to the hardness of the formation, I advise you not to become discouraged, as the oil is there and you will get it.

Respectfully submitted -

INVESTIGATE

Look into the facts regarding the properties of this company, the management and the possibilities for profit from an investment in the company's shares. The stock has been sold to many business men, as well as capitalists, oil men and even drillers right in these fields. Many buyers have personally inspected the properties and have put their money into this enterprise.

To Start Drilling at Once

Arrangements are now made to begin drilling a deep well on the Wright lease at Goose Creek just as soon as material and machinery can be put on the ground. This is the lease which has producing wells within 50 to 150 feet of the line and is right in the central part of the Goose Creek Field. Read the opinion of Mr. Benitz, the well-known geologist, regarding this Wright property. This report of Mr. Benitz is reprinted in this announcement. It is expected that flowing wells of large capacity will be brought in on the Wright lease when the drill gets down to the deep sand strata which is found on the surrounding property.

A Very Unusual Opportunity

We offer the remainder of the last allotment of Imperial treasury shares at $12.50 per share; par value $10. On account of the splendid location of the properties controlled by the company in three gusher fields, this is a very unusual offer. This company is past the early financing stage and has offered this stock to add to the drilling fund. The company owns its drilling machinery, which was purchased at a cost of thousands of dollars and has several thousand dollars' worth of pipe and supplies. Developments will be pushed as rapidly as possible. It is rare that the public has an opportunity to invest in a company with such properties. This offer may be withdrawn at any time, as developments come very quickly in these big gusher fields. Write for Prospectus and Maps so that an early decision can be made.

BIG BEAR OIL CO. NOW IN CAP ROCK Over Shannon Sand

A big well encountered in the Shannon Oil Sands may force Big Bear stock from its present price, 12½ cents, to dollars per share over night. Big Bear stock is full paid and nonassessable; incorporated in Wyoming for $500,000; it holds 520 acres in the most sensational money-making oil field in the U. S.—the Big Muddy of Wyoming; it is drilling two wells, both nearing the Oil Sands; it has the casing to complete both of these wells; it has in the bank $15,000.00, and has $28,000.00 coming in from parties who have bought stock on the monthly payment plan; drillers and refinery men at Casper, Wyo., near our wells, have bought over $30,000.00 worth of Big Bear stock; your money goes for actual work, no officer receiving any salary or commission; this company is drilling in the Big Muddy field, where 95% of the wells drilled are producers, ranging from 100 barrels to 2000 barrels daily capacity; one 500-barrel well would make this stock sell in the dollars; and, finally, it is being financed by men whose integrity is unquestioned. It is the wonderful calcium, sulfide that does this. The blood must have it. The presence of skin eruptions is proof of blood poverty and you get just what you need to enrich and purify it in Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

This fact has been demonstrated by hosts of women and men who realize that the presence of skin eruption of any sort detracts from their usefulness in business, pleasure, society and their own self-esteem. And since Stuart's Calcium Wafers will rid the skin of impurities, why have such imperfections? You will find Stuart's Calcium Wafers on sale at 50 cents a box at all drug stores. WIDOW'S CLAIM ON $3,000,000 ESTATE UPHELD

Will Controversy Reveals That Henry Wood, Former Dairy Company Head, Started as Milk Man.

By a decision of Probate Judge Holtcamp yesterday, Mrs. Minnie Wood's claim to half of the estate of her husband, Henry Wood, which is estimated to be worth from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000, is upheld. When the Woods were married, in 1876, he was a milk wagon driver and she was a domestic. When Wood died last March he was president of the Missouri Humane Society. He was formerly president of the Union Dairy Co.

If Judge Holtcamp's ruling is sustained on appeal it will reduce by nearly half bequests made by Wood to the Bethesda Foundling Home, St. Luke's Hospital, St. Louis Children's Hospital and the Jewish Hospital.

The decision was specifically on the question of allowance for Mrs. Wood's support, but its effect is to establish her right to renounce the provision of $2400 a year in Wood's will for her support. The effect of such renunciation, which she has filed, is to give her one-half of the estate absolutely.

Estate Left in Trust.

Wood left his estate in trust for the four institutions named after the death of heirs to whom he left yearly incomes. He also killed $20,000 to the Humane Society. Mrs. Wood filed an application for an allowance from the estate of $6000 for a year's support. The three hospitals opposed the allowance. They contended that a separation agreement signed by Mr. and Mrs. Wood in 1902, under which Wood bound himself to give his wife an income of $2400 a year and to provide her with a home as long as she lived, precluded her from renouncing the will or claiming more than her husband provided for her in the will.

Judge Holtcamp holds that the agreement is ont sufficiently clear in its terms to established whether Mrs. Wood waived her right to a dower interest in her husband's estate, and that it is not binding in any event, because it was not faithfully observed by Wood, who for a period of seven months failed to provide for his wife's support as the agreement required.

Letters Bare Early Life.

The Bethesda Home did not join in the opposition to Mrs. Wood's claim. A letter written by M. W. Watts, attorney for the institution, filed in the Probate Court in connection with the contest, disclosed the humble beginning of the married life of Mr. and Mrs. Wood. Watts wrote the letter to Dr. E. W. Saunders advising against the institution joining in the contest. He declared that he did not believe Mrs. Wood was involved in the sepaartion agreement.

The letter stated that after the marriage the couple kept a boarding house for drivers of milk wagons and Mrs. Wood did all the housework, arising at 3 a. m. to prepare the meals for the drivers. When prosperity came to Wood, he tired of his wife and the separation agreement was the result.

MILITIA OFFICERS FORBIDDEN TO TELL TROOP LOCATIONS

Recent Private Messages From Heads of Units in France Causes Official Action

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—An order has been sent to all national guard officers forbidding them to communicate to state authorities, formally or informally, any information as to the movements of their own or other army units. Two recent instances where messages from Europe revealed facts the Government wished withheld prompted the action.

The following order, made public today, was sent to commanders of all national guard divisions by Adjutant-General McCain:

"Communicate orders to each organization commander in your division that during the time they are in the Federal service they are prohibited from making any report, formal or informal, to the Governor or other authorities, civil or military, of their respective states relating to any movement of their organizations or of any other Federal troops or personnel."

The order does not forbid national guard officers from advising their families of arrival at any point.

In Memoriam.

In memory of Bircha Sink, died Oct. 22, 1913.

Do not ask me if we miss him;
O, there's such a vacant place.
Oft we think we hear his footsteps
Or we see his smiling face.

Sadly missed by

WIFE AND SON.

In Memoriam.

In memory of our dearly beloved husband and father, H. Frederick B. Lampe, who departed this life, Oct. 20, 1914.

Three sad years ago yesterday,
That you, our darling, passed away;
In silence you suffered untold pains
With utmost patience you bore the same,
Till God called you to your heavenly home
To suffer no pains, no aches no more.

Sadly missed by your loving

WIFE AND CHILDREN.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our darling husband and father, Alvin B. Kniest, who died Oct. 20, 1916.

I have longed for you, darling husband,
Through one long, lonely year;
My heart fills with sorrow,
My eyes bedimmed with tears.
Oh! darling, how I miss you,
No one but I can tell.
God who loved you better,
Has taken you home to dwell.

Sadly missed by wife and son,

NEVADA KNIEST AND LITTLE SON, MOTHER AND SISTER.

In Memoriam.

In memory of John Adam Laffauer.

October is to us
The saddest day of the year;
In loving remembrance of my dear husband and father.
Sad and sudden was the call
Of our dear father loved by all;
We little thought that on that day
Our dear father would be called away.
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But little know the grief within our hearts concealed.
He shall never be forgotten,
Never from our memory fade,
Loving hearts will always linger
Around the grave where he is laid.

Sadly missed by

WIFE AND CHILDREN. (c)

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our dear son and brother, Willia mL. Picker, who departed this life on Oct. 19, 1916.

Sad and sudden was the call
For our dear son and brother loved by all;
We little thought that on that day
Our dear Will would be called away
We could not realize nor understand what they said
When the message came saying he was dead;
But God who loved his best
Has taken him home to rest.

Sadly missed by

MOTHER, SISTERS AND BROTHERS.

SUCCESSFUL LUBRICATING OIL SALESMEN

We are at present getting in touch with a few high-grade lubricating oil salesmen whose services we want for 1918 in the capacity of field manager. Replies treated strictly confidential. PENNSYLVANIA PETROLEUM AND REFINING CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

SALES ARE EASY NOW.

OUR MEN ARE COINING MONEY

Working in small towns and among the farmers. Everywhere there is a demand for our kerosene (mantle) lamps. "Show and sell" is the slogan of our salesmen. One man sold 16 in 3 days. Out of 16 left on trial, took back only one lamp. Mr. Poling in a small Oklahoma town landed the church, bank and every store and office in town; 145 lamps in 30 days was the September record of a Missouri representative whose profit of $428 caused him to write: "I have sold goods of all kinds, roofing, pianos, groceries, typewriters, automobile accessories, etc., but your Aladdin Lamp is the fastest seller I ever had. I don't have to 'sell' the lamp. I just leave it for two or three days' trial with anyone who has been using the ordinary oil lamp. That settles it; they keep the lamp; wouldn't be without it."

1,000,000 ALADDIN MANTLE LAMPS

Have been sold in eight years. This lamp, which burns common oil (kerosene) gives a light five times brighter than electric light; has been tested and recommended by 34 universities and was awarded the gold medal at San Francisco Exposition.

FINANCIAL INDEPENDENCE

Has been reached by many people through selling the Aladdin Lamp. Farmers, ministers, professional men, as well as salesmen, have been successful in selling our lamps and have shared in the millions of dollars we have paid out in salesmen's commissions. We want some more good men at once. The present prosperity of the farmer means wonderful business for energetic, reliable men who start with us now. Here's your chance to get into the $5000-a-year class. Apply for territory and sample lamp offer at once. Mantle Lamp Co., 682 Aladdin Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

SIMPSON'S "Travels in Russia" is not a war book, but one based on travels in 1910 and 1912, when nothing worse than the old regime and the Asiatic cholera prevailed. The farm-born newspaper man, author, formerly of the Illinois State Journal and the New York Musical Courier, is one of the few Anglo-Saxon writers who had the industry to speak and read the difficult but beautiful language of the Russians before traveling among them. Many beautiful letters to the author attest enjoyment of the casual humor, genial tone and great help in finding some of the true flavor of Russian life. Only 136 pages; 50 half-tones, 16 musical etchings. In full cloth, price $1. Order direct from the author-publisher or give this order to your dealer. Eugene E. Simpson, Taylorville, Ill.

J. L. SPRAGUE, 504 Chemical Bldg.

GOING FAST

Little River drainage district lands in Southeast Missouri are going fast; we have sold 126 tracts in 30 months; $50 up for cut-over land; $85 up for improved; have absolutely nothing to offer in trade and therefore decline to answer trade propositions. Box A-14, Post-Dispatch. (c99)

YOUR LAST CHANCE

I believe unimproved land in the Little River drainage district, now selling from $40 to $75, will not be obtainable below $125 before the close of 1918. I and my correspondents have listed over 12,000 acres of cutover, unimproved land, which we will sell at $45 to $60. Some of this land is as fine as there is in the entire district, and is today well worth double what we are selling it for; terms, one-fourth to one-half cash, balance to suit. Box A-13, Post-Dispatch. (c99)

LITTLE RIVER DRAINING DISTRICT

In tracts of 80 acres up; $45 to $60 for unimproved land, $80 to $175 for land in cultivation; these are the cheapest agricultural lands in the world today; terms, half cash, 8 years on remainder; 6 per cent interest. Box A-15, Post-Dispatch (c99)

An egg laid for every yolk made

Most hens lay less than half of the yolks that are formed because white elements are lacking in the grain feed they eat. Wheat, corn, oats, barley, and kafir contain (above bodily maintenance) an average of 224 yolks and only 154 whites. The excess yolks which are absorbed by the hen, mean not only fewer eggs, but they form fat which cuts down egg production.

	Yolks	Whites
Purina Chicken Chowder	182.05	282.5
Purina Scratch Feed	247.49	142.1
Combined Ration	429.54	424.66

Note the perfect balance and the large quantity of white and yolk elements supplied.

More eggs or money back

The money paid for Purina Chicken Chowder will be refunded if hens do not lay more eggs when fed Purina Chicken Chowder as directed with Purina Scratch Feed than when fed any other ration. You take no risk. 99 out of 100 hens eat too much grain which cuts down egg production. Feed the perfect balance—100 lbs. of Purina Scratch Feed to each 100 lbs. of Purina Chicken Chowder and you will actually use less feed and get more eggs. Sold only in checkerboard bags by the leading dealers. If your dealer cannot supply you, send us his name.

BIG MINORCA MEETING AND EXHIBITION DEC. 31

George H. Northup of New York, who 30 years ago brought Minorcas to America, will award the prizes at the Minorca exhibition which will be held in St. Louis, Dec. 31 to Jan. 5, in connection with the general poultry show at the Coliseum. In the same week there will be held national and Missouri State meetings of the International Single-Comb Black Minorca Club. Dr. E. D. Geiger of Canton, Ill., is president of the national organization, Junius Johnson of Kansas City is vice president and Charles Schaper of St. Louis is vice president for Missouri. They are making extensive preparations for the meetings and exhibition. The international club has a membership of more than 1100, representing every state in the Union, Canada and Mexico.

St. Louis in the last three years has cooped more Minorcas than Madison Square Garden, and with the aid of the meetings the directors of the exhibition are expecting a class of from 300 to 500 birds. At least $300 in cash prizes will be awarded in addition to a considerable number of cups ranging in value from $15 to $100 each.

Powder Which Will Kill Poultry Lice

According to Farmers' Bulletin No. 801 of the Department of Agriculture, sodium fluorid powder is death to poultry lice. It can be dusted into the feathers so it will easily reach the skin. It should be applied thoroughly to all parts of the body. It can also be made into a solution, one ounce per gallon. It should be well stirred. The dipping method kills the lice more quickly, better and more cheaply. This solution has no bad effect on the skin, but is rather irritating to the air passages.

Relative Economy of Poultry Meat

An illustration of the relative economy of poultry meat at the present time was illustrated in the writer's experience recently. A hen of somewhat less than average size, in good flesh, made individual portions for five persons. There was also plenty of good gravy for the same number of persons, and then there was enough chicken soup for four good bowls. At present prices no other first-class meat will go so far. Only the cheapest grades of meat are so economical. The price of steaks or all kinds is just about twice what it was 18 months ago. Poultry has not advanced in price correspondingly.

$1,000,000 HOTEL PLANNED TO FACE UNION STATION

FITS WELL WITH PLAZA-PARK SCHEME

Association Owning Block Has Long Designed High-Class Improvement and Held Out Against Multitude of Short-Term Leases.

By Berry Moore.

The block bounded by Market, Walnut, Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets has, according to realty authorities, been picked for a site for an extensive hotel structure, the cost of which, exclusive of the site, will approximate $1,000,000.

The project is credited to Oklahoma interests, whose identity is concealed, but which have at their command, it is said, ample resources.

While details of the plans have not been made public, it is understood that a highly sumptuous building of the skyscraper type is projected. The structure, according to those who have seen the tentative plans, will contain between 450 and 500 rooms, each to be equipped with a bath and a shower, and it will be featured by an arcade extending from Seventeenth to Eighteenth street, with an entrance from Market street.

Held for High-Class Improvement.

The site, which is owned by the St. Louis Brewing Association, will be acquired either under a 99-year lease or by purchase outright. Norman Jones, secretary and treasurer of the brewing association, stated that the owners are not interested in the project, but are desirous of leasing the site for improvement with a building of the nature stated. He said that the association would either lease or sell the plot, and for that reason it had declined to tie it up with short-term leases. He stated that the association had plans, made several years ago, for a large hotel for this plot, but that they had been lost.

The Market street frontage is filled with a conglomeration of small stores, picture theaters and saloons. The rear, or Walnut street side of the block, was occupied for many years by the Excelsior Brewery, the building of which was recently razed.

Several years ago a group of Chicago capitalists had this block under consideration for improvement with a large hotel structure, but the project collapsed when Europe was plunged into war.

Plans for conversion of the block fronting Union Station into a plaza and park have been taken up again in earnest by the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, its members perceiving the potentialities of this district with the execution of this project. This would involve the obliteration of all the buildings on the block bounded by Market, Chestnut, Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets, and the condemnation and acquisition of the site by the city.

Union Station Front Plans.

Among the strong advocates of the plaza and park are John A. Watkins, W. W. Butts, Christian Brinkop, John S. Harris and Joseph F. Dickman. Watkins would also purchase the entire frontage on the north side of Chestnut street between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets. This he would sell restricted to high-class business purposes in lots to suit, and devote the proceeds to the expense of the plaza and park improvement.

Julius Haller, president of the Julius Haller Real Estate Co., and a member of the Board of Aldermen, would go still further, and widen Eighteenth street from Market street to Washington avenue. The vista thus created from Washington avenue to Union Station would be superb, he says. As president of the Board of Aldermen, Haller was a staunch supporter of the Central Parkway plan.

The Union Station plaza and park project, Watkins declares, reveals the potentialities of this district as a hotel and automobile center. As a site for hotels on a magnificent scale, the vacant block at the northeast corner of Eighteenth and Chestnut streets, and the block of the St. Louis Brewing Association under consideration for the hotel project as stated, would be ideal, Watkins declared. As a matter of fact, all the corners commanding the Union Station plaza and park, he says, would at once become eligible sites for high-class structures.

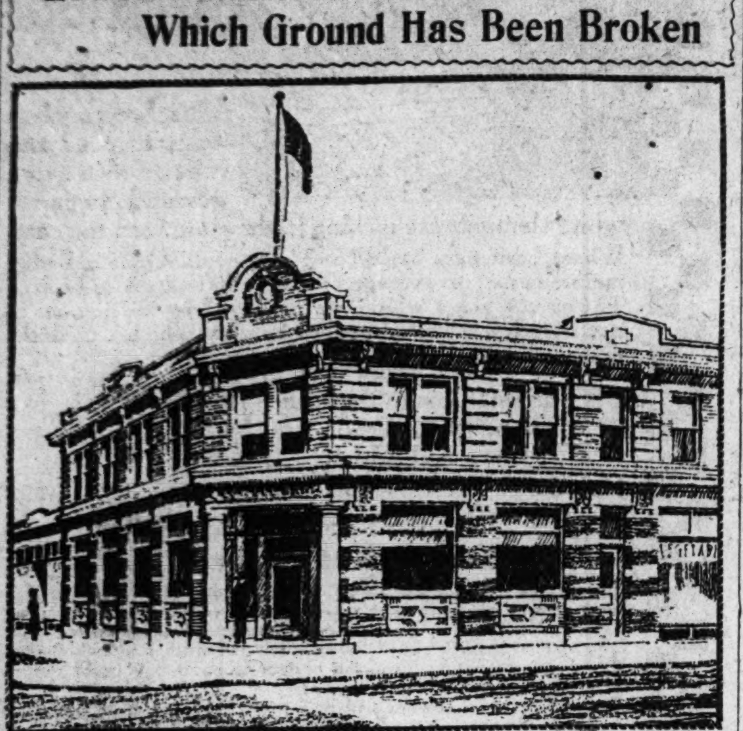
The plaza and park is conceived as a nucleus for a parkway system with streets radiating therefrom.

FLETCHER R. HARRIS REALTY CO.

The Fletcher R. Harris Realty Co. reports having sold the colonial type residence of Capt. Robert Fullerton Jr., 94 Aberdeen place, to Dr. Arthur O. Fisher. Capt. Fullerton is with the Fifth Missouri Regiment and Mrs. Fullerton, for the time being, is in Des Moines.

The company also sold the residence, 5355 Cabanne avenue, for the Rea Realty Co., to [illegible] Caldwell.

Lowell Bank's New Home, for Which Ground Has Been Broken



GROUND was broken Friday for the new Lowell Bank building to be located on the southeast corner of Florissant and Warne avenues, the lot being 133x105 feet. The site was leased for a long term. The bank is now located on North Broadway, in Baden. The floor above the new bank will be elegantly fitted up for offices, and besides the bank there will also be five large stores and modern apartments. William Wedemeyer is architect and will superintend the building.

George J. Wanstrath Real Estate Co. sold this corner for Charles Becker to the Floriss Investment Co. Wanstrath handled the lease to the Lowell Bank and also has leased two stores fronting on Florissant avenue to the Scharlot 5 and 10 cent store.

The price paid for the ground was $10,000 and the improvements will cost about $40,000.

THREE OF FIVE NEW BUNGALOWS REPORTED SOLD

Wide Interest Expected to Quickly Remove Lafayette Avenue Homes From Market.

According to the Rosenbaum-Hauschulte Real Estate Co., three of the five bungalows nearing completion in the 4200 block of Lafayette avenue, have been sold. The bungalows are exciting wide interest, and doubtless will not remain long on the market.

Each comprises six rooms, reception hall and sleeping porch. Their construction is along substantial lines and is of attractive design.

These buildings are being erected by the Sam Koplar Real Estate and Building Co., which has built up both sides of this block with houses of this type.

The bungalows are in Shaw's Lafayette additions, and are located in the first block east of Shaw's Garden. They are being offered at attractive prices and on most favorable terms.

FINNEY RESIDENCE LANDMARK ON CLARK AVENUE IS SOLD

Purchase Said to Have Been for Speculation—New Interest in Section Reported.

The old Finney home, a three-story 12-room structure, occupying a lot, 25x150 feet at 1236 Clark avenue, was sold yesterday by Martin Trepp, for Mrs. Alexander Finney to John M. Gomes, who bought for speculation. The price paid was not disclosed.

The house was built by Bernard Finney, the father of the vendor, and for whom Finney avenue was named. It is one of the land-marks of Clark avenue.

Trepp, who has the agency of much property in that section of the city, reports a revival in the demand for property south of Market street principally on the part of professional operators.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED BY SAVINGS TRUST COMPANY

Women Customers of West End Institution Given Flowers and the Men Cigars.

The Savings Trust Co., 4935 Delmar avenue, celebrated Friday its tenth anniversary. It has, the company states, been 10 years of uninterrupted progress in building up its own business, and development of the section in which the bank is located.

The company has also found time to push the sale of Liberty Bonds, having itself subscribed liberally, and customers more than $50,000.

The anniversary was celebrated by presenting women customers with flowers, while the men were remembered with cigars.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY TRUST CO.

The Mississippi Valley Trust Co. reports these sales:

4604-06-08-10 McMillan avenue, for the estate of Annie Cox, deceased, to Frances Walter, the property consisting of four apartments. The purchaser was represented by the Kotsrean-Althen Real Estate Co.

Vacant lot, 150 feet front, at the northeast corner of Mary and Carter avenues, for the O'Fallon estate to H. Pollvogt, the purchaser being represented by Bush-Burns Realty Co.

The 10-room residence at 6342 Watterman avenue, for Jerome F. P. Casey to John C. Collins. The Butts Realty Co. represented the seller.

3526 Lindell boulevard, for Mrs. Lou Craggs to Methudy M. Gunther, lot 37.6x144 feet. The purchaser was represented by the Mercantile Trust Co.

1438-40 North Eleventh street, for the estate of Emma W. Powell to Abe Arbiter.

KORTE-RUST REALTY CO.

3939 Kennerly avenue, a single flat for Henry L. and Essie Schaeffer to George A. and Birdie Otley.

Lots 4 and 5, Home Heights, St. Louis County, containing 4.91 acres, on the west line of Eminence boulevard, with 6-room house, barns, etc., for Joseph E. and Nellie G. Atwood to Louis and Catherine Faerber, for $8500.

3944 Walsh street, a frame cottage, lot 80x191.2 feet, for Morton W. and Minnie M. Luebbert to Henry L. and Louisa Braun.

SINGLE VACANCY REMAINS IN NETHERBY HALL APARTMENTS

Recently Completed House Structure Presented by Wealthy and Exclusive Class.

All but one of the Netherby Hall apartments, at 4540 Lindell boulevard, have been leased, according to Edward L. Bakewell, their agent.

These apartments alternate in sizes from 10 to 11 rooms and are equipped with three baths and all the conveniences and luxuries of the first-class hostleries.

The building, which was erected by Chase Ulman, is one of the most elaborate of this type in St. Louis and is being pre-empted by a wealthy and exclusive class. In the erection of Netherby Hall, Ulman tried to eclipse the Cathedral apartments, at Lindell boulevard and Newstead avenue, it being his initial operation in the Cathedral parish district.

Ulman, who is a lawyer, was formerly actively identified with large sugar interests in the West Indies, and is still a dominating though somewhat silent factor in them.

ANTICIPATES END OF LEASE, EXTENDS IT FOR 10 YEARS

Aeolian Company Will Expend $25,000 in Improvement of Olive Street Home.

John S. Carter & Co. have effected an extension for a further term of 10 years a lease on the six-story building at 1004 Olive street, known as Aeolian Hall, from the Price Realty Co., its owner, to the Aeolian Co. of New York, to be continued as its local branch for the sale of pianos and talking machines. The building is occupied by this company under a 15-year lease, which has about three and a half years to run.

The fact that the Aeolian Co., having branches in all the principal cities in the United States and maintaining an expert real estate man to handle its interests, has seen fit to anticipate the expiration of its lease by this length of time, and to secure a long-term extension at an advanced rental, is indicative of the improvement on Olive street, where the numerous vacancies occasioned by the removal of railroad ticket offices, are rapidly disappearing, and the street is otherwise showing marked improvement.

It is the intention of the Aeolian Co. to make alterations and improvements in the building costing in the neighborhood of $25,000, through which it will become one of the handsomest showrooms in the United States.

4 SEMI-BUNGALOWS FINISHED

Each of Allemania Street Homes Said to Have Cost $2700.

The Seal Realty and Buildng Co., of which John B. Wise is president and Roland A. Wise secretary, has finished four brck semi-bungalows on Allemania street. The cottages are a half block east of Gravois avenue and each cost $2700.

Wise has built and sold more than 100 cottages in South St. Louis within the last six years.

DECORATORS BUSY ON ODEON

Buildings Also Being Painted and Given New Furnishings.

The Odeon Building at Grand and Finney avenues, is being redecorated and painted throughout, while the auditorium is being refurnished. The building includes several offices, which are eligible for doctors, dentists and musicians. These are being offered for lease on attractive terms.

CASTING CONCERN WILL MORE THAN DOUBLE CAPACITY

St. Louis Malleable Company Buys Site, but Labor Scarcity Delays Building.

William A. and Charles A. Block announce the sale of three and one-half acres in North St. Louis to the St. Louis Malleable Casting Co. The purchase is on the Terminal Railroad. It adjoins the two acres on North Conduit avenue now occupied by the company, which will enlarge the malleable plant with the gray iron department, erect a new steel foundry of 50 to 60 tons daily capacity, also a small forging and brass shop. About 50 per cent of the capacity of these additions will be used for manufacturing and enlarging the company's line of well-known specialties, which it is selling in every state and many foreign countries. The remainder of the capacity will be utilized for manufacturing castings for job work customers.

The company will employ, when running full, about 700 additional men, and the present difficulty of getting these men is causing delay in proceeding with the erection of the additions stated.

ST. LOUISANS TO HELP FIX REALTY CONVENTION DATES

Delegation From Exchange to Depart for Indianapolis Tonight to Attend Meeting.

Leo Bloch, president of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, John J. Dowling, general chairman of the convention committee, William E. Caulfield, C. M. McDonald and John W. Gibson will depart tonight over the Pennsylvania Railroad for Indianapolis, to attend a meeting of the officers and board of managers of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, which will be held there tomorrow and Tuesday.

The main purpose of the meeting is to fix the dates for the real estate convention to be held in St. Louis next year. Charles L. Simpson, former president of the National Association accompanied by other members of the Kansas City Exchange will also be present. They will arrive in St. Louis this morning and spend the day as guests of the St. Louis Exchange, being entertained by an auto ride through the parks, boulevards and residence sections.

It is expected the meeting at Indianapolis will be largely attended. President William M. Garland of the National Association will make the trip from Los Angeles to preside. The Indianapolis Real Estate Board is reported to have a splendid entertainment program outlined for the visitors.

LEASES BIG SPACE AS QUARTERS FOR JOBBING BUSINESS

Vacancies in the Ferguson-McKinney Building Reported Being Steadily Absorbed.

The Martin-Breitt Real Estate Co. has closed a lease covering the fifth floor of the Ferguson-McKinney Building, which has a frontage of 212 feet on the north side of Washington avenue and of 137 feet on Twelfth street, to the Elder Manufacturing Co., who will use the floor exclusively for jobbing sales of men's hosiery and underwear.

The Elder company is conducting nine factories in the city and will have its headquarters at the northwest corner of Thirteenth street and Lucas avenue. The company has recently leased a portion of the first floor of the Ferguson-McKinney building fronting on Washington avenue which it will use as a show room for various lines of merchandise.

The Martin-Breitt company also reports having closed a lease for the remainder of the first floor of the Ferguson-McKinney building to Sigmund Glaser & Co., now located at 1510 Washington avenue. A plate glass front will be installed, and the walls and ceilings will be finished in white enamel. Glaser & Co. handle laces, embroideries, handkerchiefs, trimmings and kindred merchandise. It is the intention of the company to install the most modern fixtures.

The Martin-Breitt company reports having leases pending for all of the remaining vacancies on the upper floors of the building, which is owned by the Lesser-Goldman Cotton Co.

NORTH ST. LOUIS HEIGHTS LOT SALES SETTING NEW RECORDS

Most of Purchases Said to Be Improving, Mainly With Homes of Bungalow Type.

The Broadway Savings Trust Co. announces a notable revival of demand for both lots and houses, especially bungalows, in North St. Louis Heights. All records are being broken in sales of lots in this addition.

The purchasers according to Charles De Largy, real estate officer of the trust company, are a substantial class and are improving the sites with homes, principally of the bungalow type.

Clients of the Broadway Savings Trust Co. have erected for sale a number of attractive bungalows in this addition which are receiving wide attention, and contracts for the sale of several have been closed. Demand for the bungalows foreshadows their quck disposition.

KENT JARVIS.

FINDS WESTMORELAND A MODEL APARTMENT

St. Louis Builder and Chicago Visitors Say It Embodies All Modern Ideas.

Julius Pitzman, president of the Julius Pitzman Construction Co., and former City Surveyor, remarked to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday that last Sunday he toured some of the apartment house districts of the West End to satisfy his curiosity as to the character of the work being put in these buildings.

"I saw good, bad and indifferent houses of this type," said Pitzman. "Of all the buildings I visited, the one that appealed to me most was the Westmoreland Hotel Apartments, in process of construction on the south side of Berlin avenue, just west of Union avenue. This forms a superb structure, embodying the highest order of construction, and the most attractive arrangement. It is fireproof, soundproof and vermin proof, while its sanitary provisions are perfect. Constructed entirely of steel, concrete, brick and stone, it is destined to endure for ages. Deterioration in a building such as the Westmoreland will be almost negligible.

"This building has everything that modernity suggests, including electric elevators and electric stoves, the latter supplementing a wonderful steam heating plant. The location could not be improved upon, the site being adjacent to Westmoreland and Portland places, the most imposing residential parks of the city, and overlooking Forest Park, its proximity to which insures its status as a high-class residential property.

"I would not live in an apartment building if it were given to me, but apartments are fine for young people and for couples averse to children, especially the unit kind, of which the Westmoreland is a model."

Several of the leading apartment house promoters of Chicago were in St. Louis during the week, studying the plan and construction of the Westmoreland Hotel Apartments. The building, according to James M. Rohan, vice president of the Title Guaranty Trust Co., of whom they were the guests, was a revelation to the visitors. From it they obtained many ideas which, Rohan declares, they will adopt in the construction of buildings of this type in Chicago.

There are 77 of these apartments and more than half of them have been leased. They are being built by the Sam Koplar Real Estate Co., of which former Mayor F. H. Kreisman is president.

BUYS NEW SITE FOR FACTORY

Bulis Company Invests $100,000 in Switch Property.

The Mercantile Trust Co. sold to the Bulis Manufacturing Co. three acres on Calvary avenue, between Slevin and Brown avenues.

The business of the Bulis company increased greatly the past year, so that it became necessary to locate on switch property. It will erect on the site a building containing about 60,000 square feet, and it has arranged for a switch. The investment in ground and building will approximate $100,000.

Hon. Henry W. Kiel,
St. Louis,Mo.

It causes me more regret than I can find words to express that it is impossible to accept your invitation to deliver an address in your city October twenty fourth. I am fully convinced that every man,woman or child who wishes to feel that he has had a part in bringing about the wider liberty which is coming to the world through the war in which we are fighting can rest assured he is contributing directly by buying a Liberty Bond. An investment in one of these bonds is an investment in liberty with a sure return of the money invested. Every citizen of this free country ought to contribute in accord to his ability. Patriotism consists in doing or giving that which is neccessary to maintain the principals of our country. Not giving but loaning money is a neccessary contribution to worl freedom.

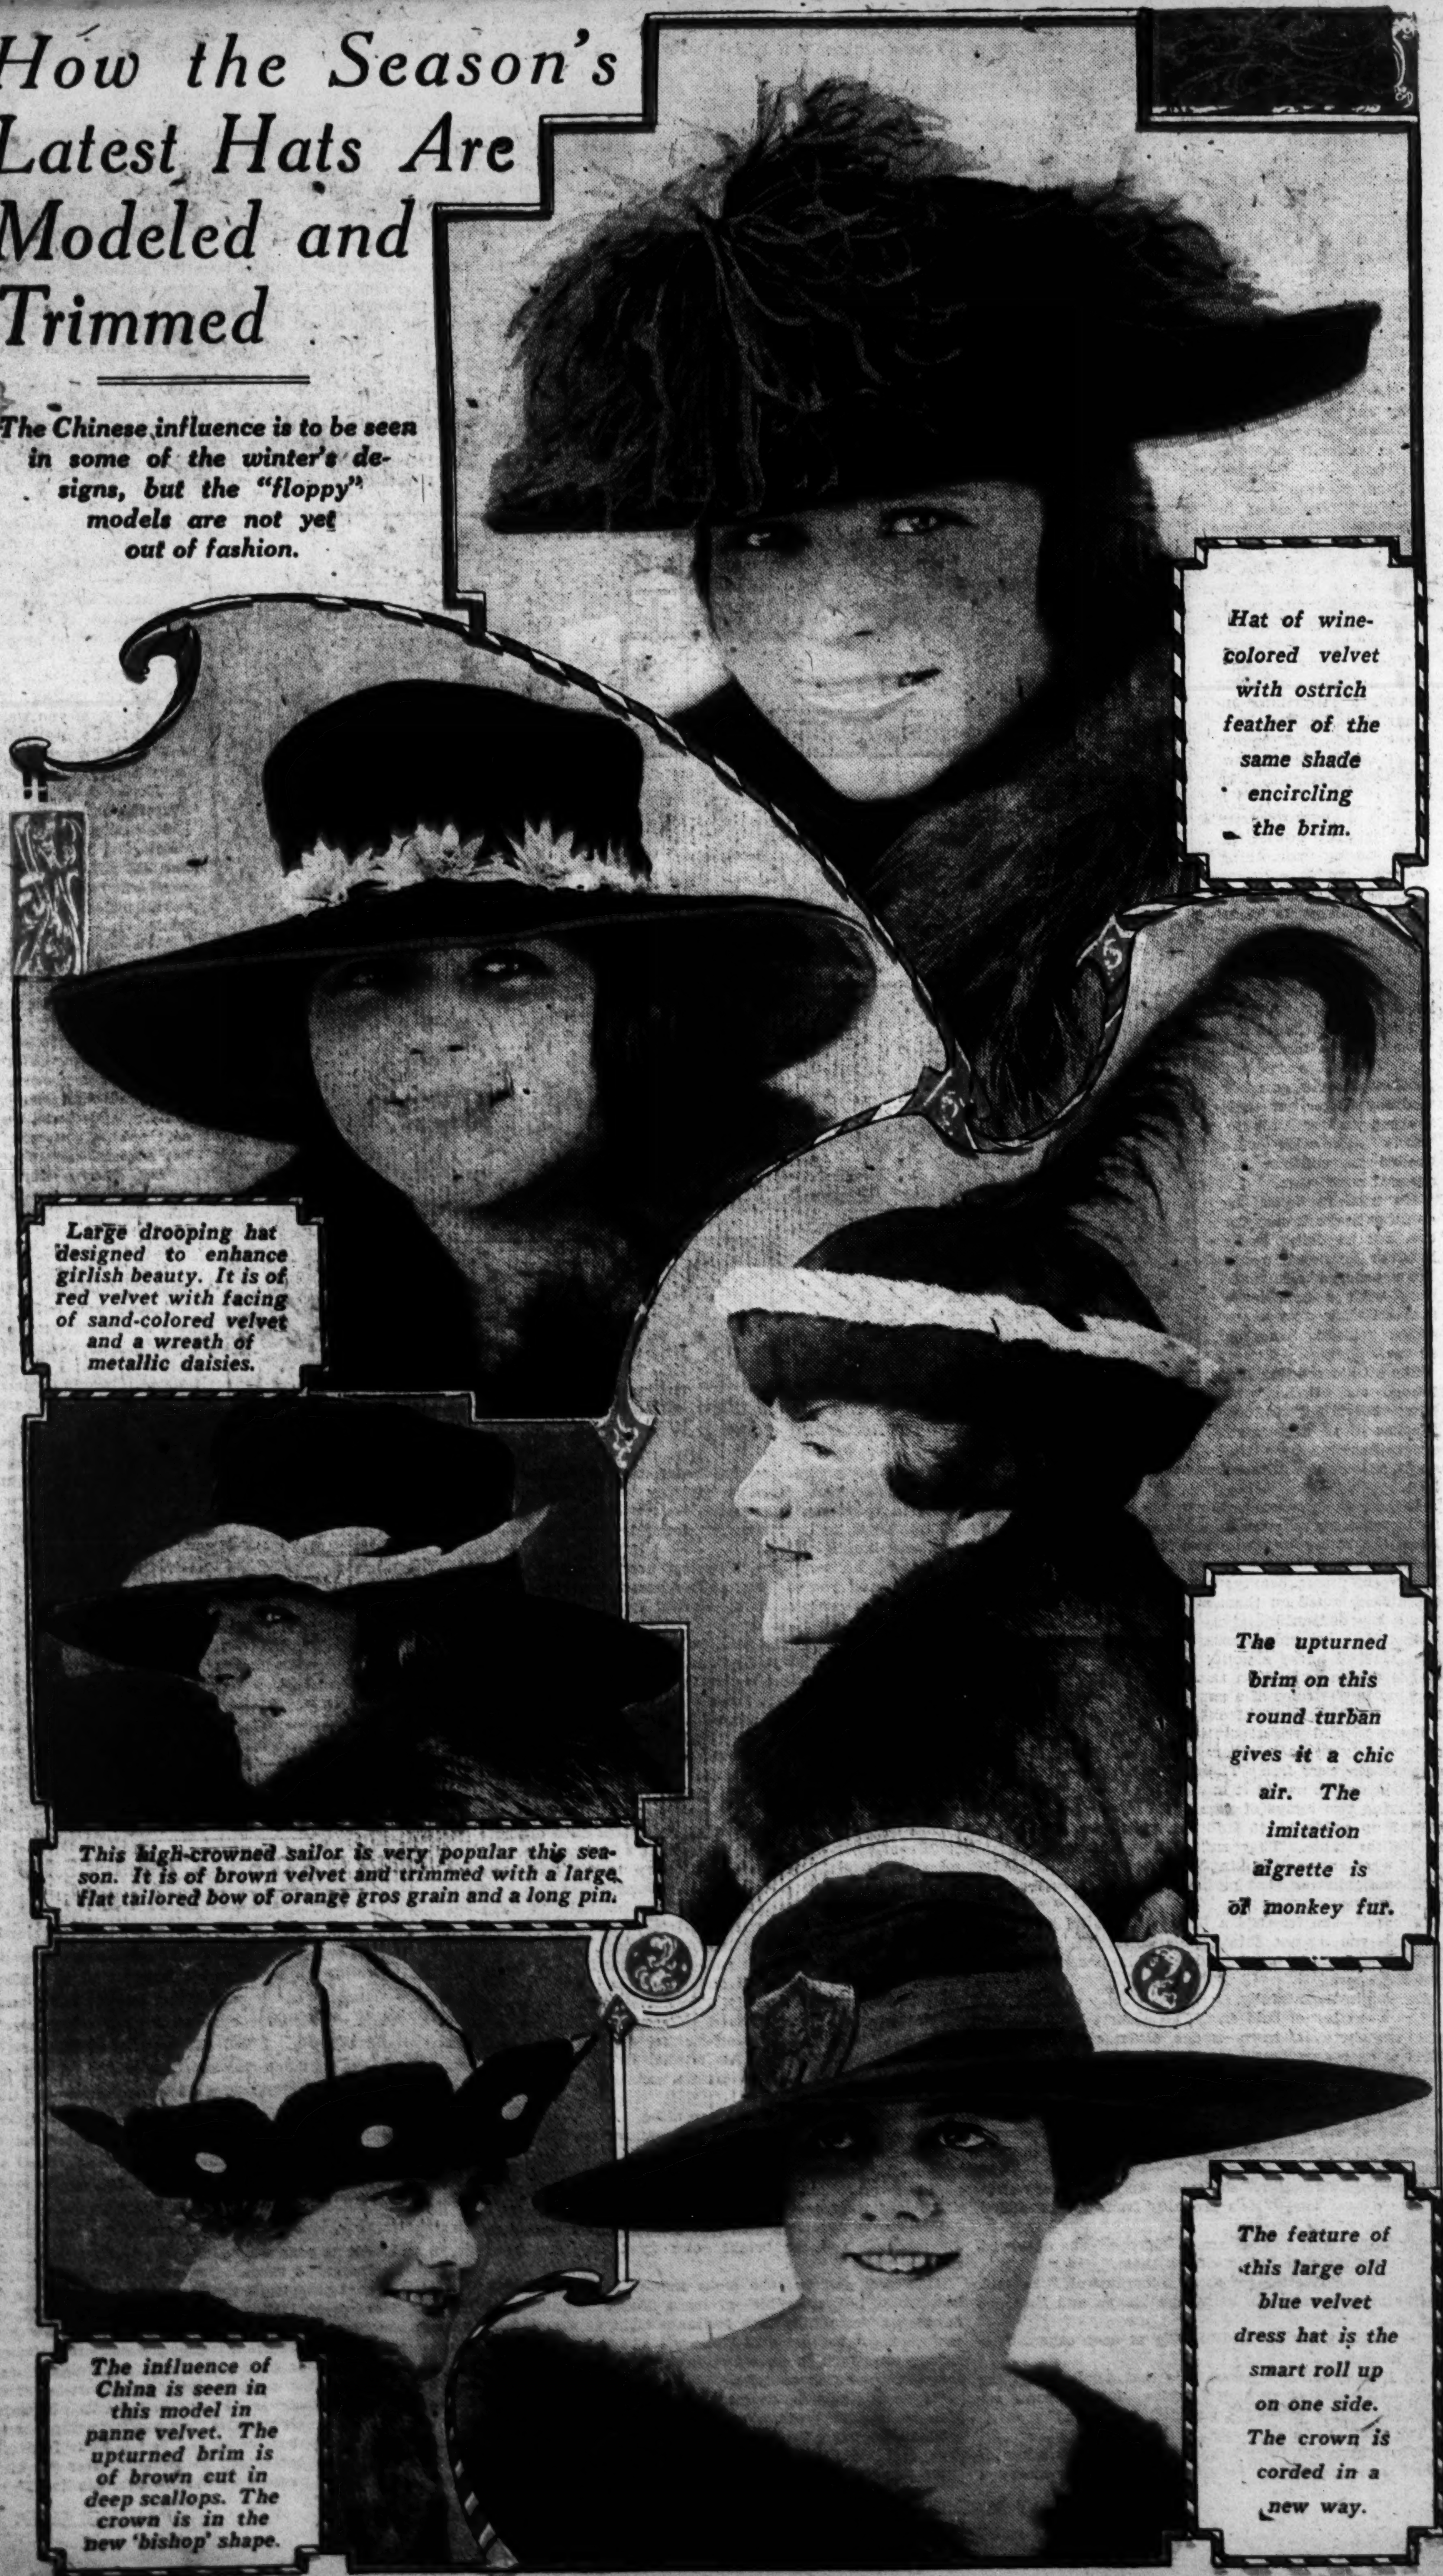
How the Season's Latest Hats Are Modeled and Trimmed

The Chinese influence is to be seen in some of the winter's designs, but the "floppy" models are not yet out of fashion.



Hat of wine-colored velvet with ostrich feather of the same shade encircling the brim.

Large drooping hat designed to enhance girlish beauty. It is of red velvet with facing of sand-colored velvet and a wreath of metallic daisies.

The upturned brim on this round turban gives it a chic air. The imitation aigrette is of monkey fur.

This high-crowned sailor is very popular this season. It is of brown velvet and trimmed with a large flat tailored bow of orange gros grain and a long pin.

The influence of China is seen in this model in panne velvet. The upturned brim is of brown cut in deep scallops. The crown is in the new 'bishop' shape.

The feature of this large old blue velvet dress hat is the smart roll up on one side. The crown is corded in a new way.

MORE EVIDENCE OF GERMANY'S PLAN ... FOR WORLD'S DOMINION ...

Sayings of Teutons of all classes for many years show that their "kultur" was to be forced upon all peoples of the earth and that this was to be accomplished with a ruthlessness which already has marked the nation's conduct of the war — Utterances strongly bring out the colossal egotism of the race and some are interesting in showing how little the country has done to accomplish her aims

MORE and more evidence is being accumulated, in the form of utterances of Germans of all classes, to make ridiculous the claim that Germany is conducting a defensive war. Not only since the conflict began, but for many years previous, the nation dreamed of world conquest, and no better proof of this can be found than in the sayings of her people—professors, scientists, statesmen, poets, military men, editors, merchants, down to persons of more or less obscurity.

The latest collection of these quotations is contained in "Out of Their Own Mouths," published by D. Appleton and Co. One cannot read them without being convinced that German "kultur" was to be spread among the people of the earth whether they willed it or no, and they should leave no doubt in the minds of those who may have questioned that America and her allies really are fighting to make the world safe for democracy.

The plan for world conquest, according to the utterances on this page, was to be carried out with a savage ruthlessness, and it is interesting to note how few of her aims Germany so far has been able to achieve. North and South America were included in the scheme, and in one instance Germans are told that they have taken the Monroe Doctrine too seriously.

"Truth," says an introduction by William Roscoe Thayer, "is revealed not only in wine, but in those expressions which we make unconsciously—in grief, in anger, in exultation. So when you find, in the passages which follow, the writer exulting over a policy which seems to you to be damnable, you can be sure that he is wearing no mask. The same is true when he lays before you, and gloats over it, a scheme of perfidy; or when he exposes, quite naively, his unbounded self-conceit and the vast proportions of the national swelled head, for which not merely Germany but Europe was too small, and only the world would suffice."

UTTERANCES OF MEN OF SCIENCE.

LET us confess openly that it is not simply the coercion of our needs in world trade that makes us England's rival. It lies in the nature of our nation to strive out of and beyond the boundaries of its present power. At bottom, it has never fitted into the cramped relations of the Continental West, as a state side by side with other states. * * * The German nation is stronger than the other nations of the West. Should it unfold all its forces merely to gain political power in the West, it might well crush the other nations. It is only since the field of political activity open to Western peoples has expanded beyond the boundaries of the West that room is given us to attain a political influence corresponding to our strength, without being obliged, for this purpose, to take from the other civilized peoples in our part of the earth light and air for breathing and for thriving. * * *

As one of the great Powers we can and must have further growth; we must grow into a world Power.—Prof. Martin Spahn, "Im Kampf um unsere Zukunft" (1915).

We cannot conduct world politics on an equal basis with other Powers so long as we are limited to our present geographical position. * * * England must no longer be permitted to cut us off from our dominions across the sea. The coasts in every part of the world, except where, as in America, they are able to protect themselves, must be brought under the guns of our ships, just as under those of England. * * * Above all things, we must get the channel. * * * We have occupied Belgium against France; we need it against England.—Prof. Martin Spahn in "Hochland," Heft 1 (October, 1914).

The decision regarding the future of our colonies will not be reached in Africa or in southern waters, but in Europe. * * * When our Zeppelins shall fly over London, like eagles seeking their prey; when our submarines * * * shall drive, contemptuous of death, against the dreadnoughts, as if their aim was to breach the walls of Liege; when our cruisers, such as the Emden, like flying Dutchmen, become the terror of the North Sea—then only will come the time of accounting. Then will dawn the day of a new great German colonial policy, and new colonial maps will be wanted.—Prof. Carl Mirbt, "Der Kampf um unsere Kolonien" (1914).

No one but a German understands Germany. We are morally and intellectually superior to other nations; we are without equals. The same is true of our organization and our institutions.

William II, deliciae generis humani, has always protected peace, justice and honor, although his power would have enabled him to crush all opposition. The greater his successes, the more modest he becomes. His Chancellor, Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg, the most eminent of men now living, knows no higher cares than those of truth, loyalty and right. Our army is, so to speak, a smaller model of the intelligence and morality of the German people. We are forced to sacrifice our best and our noblest in a war against Russian brutes, English hirelings and Belgian fanatics. The French are still the nearest to us. We shall have no peace until those three European mischief makers are crushed.

England pursues a policy that recalls the policies of European states in the eighteenth century. Germany, on the contrary, has taught the world that politics may be conducted conscientiously and war waged with loyalty. England is on the road to ruin. France may still be saved. As for Russia, she must no longer be our neighbor. This time we shall wipe the slate clean. Our real enemy is England. Woe to thee, Albion! God is with us and defends our just cause!—From the letters of Prof. Lasson, appearing in the "Amsterdammer," a Dutch weekly.

We are determined to be and to remain a strong German nation and a strong German state; and * * * if it is necessary to extend our territorial possessions so that the increasing body of the nation shall have room to develop itself, we will take for ourselves as much territory as seems to us necessary. We shall also set our foot wherever it seems to us important, for strategic reasons, in order to preserve our unassailable strength. That is all!—Prof. Werner Sombart, "Handler and Helden" (1915).

PUBLICISTS, MEN OF LETTERS AND JOURNALISTS.

After all, it is obviously the meaning of history that the white race under the leadership of the Teutons, should attain a real and definitive domination of the world.—The "Zukunft" (Sept. 7, 1901).

The most distinguished men in modern spiritual history were for the most part Teutons of the full blood, such as Durer, Leonardo da Vinci, Galileo, Rembrandt, Rubens, Van Dyck, Voltaire, Kant, Wagner. Others show an intermixture of the brunette race * * * as in the case of Dante, Raphael, Michael Angelo, Shakspeare, Luther, Goethe, Beethoven. * * * Dante, Raphael, Luther and others were geniuses not because of but in spite of their mixed blood. Their endowment was an inheritance from the Teutonic race.

The numerous busts of Julius Caesar show a thoroughly Teutonic type of skull and face. Alexander the Great was of the general Macedonian type; very white skin with rosy lights, Teuton type of skull and face, reddish hair and dark blue eyes.

The entire European civilization, even in Slav and Latin countries, is the work of the Teuton race. * * * The Papacy, the Renaissance, the French Revolution and the Napoleonic empire were achievements of the Teutonic spirit.

Napoleon was probably a descendant of the Vandals, who long ago overran Corsica.—Ludwig Woltmann, "Politische Anthropologie" (1903).

The Teutons are the aristocracy of humanity; the Latins, on the contrary, belong to the degenerate mob.—Ludwig Woltmann, "Die Germanen in Frankreich."

We are beyond all doubt the first of all the nations of the world as warriors. For two centuries German power upheld the decaying Roman empire; for only by Germans could the primal German vigor be broken. In seven great battles of the nations, in the Teutoburg Forest, on the Catalonian Plain, at Tours and at Poiters, on the banks of the Lech, before Vienna against the Turks and at Waterloo we rescued European civilization.

We are the most capable nation in every field of science and in every branch of the fine arts. We are the best colonists and best mariners and even the best merchants.

And yet we do not enter into our share of the heritage of the world.

That the German empire is not the close but the beginning of our national development is an obvious truth that as yet is by no means a common treasure of all Germans, but only of a small body of cultured men. * * * Men of heart and of understanding.—Fritz Bley, "Die Weltstellung des Deutschtums" (1897).

* * *

It is Germany's task today to pass from the position of an European Power to that of a world Power.

A policy of sentiment is folly. Enthusiasm for humanity is idiocy. Charity should begin among one's compatriots. Politics is business. Right and wrong are notions needed in civil life only.

Culture is a spiritual organization of the world, which does not exclude bloody savagery. It raises the daemonic to sublimity. It is above morality, reason, science.—Thomas Mann in the "Neue Rundschau" (Nov., 1914).

MILITARY WRITERS.

Must culture build its cathedrals on the hills of corpses, seas of tears and the death-rattle of the vanquished? Yes, it must. These accompaniments of the expansion of culture may be regarded, if one will, as the pudenda of glory; but without these organs there would be no victory, no multiplication, no conquest and no fertilization. * * *

Either it must be denied that culture is a blessing to humanity, and dreams of Arcadian simplicity must be accepted, or the right to rule must be accorded to one nation. In the latter case, the power of the conqueror becomes the supreme moral law to which the vanquished must submit. Vae victis!—Lieut. Karl A. Kuhn, Instructor in Military History, Charlottenburg, "Die Wahren Ursachen des Weltkrieges" (1914).

War is not a work of charity, and in the soldier's heart there is no compassion.

The soldier must be hard. Grow hard, warriors!

It is better to let a hundred women and children belonging to the enemy die of hunger than to let a single German soldier suffer.—Gen. von der Goltz, "The Ten Iron Commandments of the German Soldiers."

* * *

* * * Terror seems relatively the milder method of holding in subjection masses of people who have been thrown out of the normal and regular conditions of peace. * * * The mass of the people, if in their passionate excitement they oppose force with force, can be restrained from excesses only by using drastic methods of combating any such paroxysm. If individuals suffer for the sake of a warning example, their fate is deeply to be lamented; but for the whole body of people the severity exercised against these individuals operates wholesomely and is a benefit. Wherever war breaks out, terrorism becomes a military necessity.—Hartman in the "Deutsche Rundschau."

REGARDING AMERICA.

* * * For the people of the republics that have divided the Spanish and Portuguese inheritance it will be a blessing to come under German authority.

They will soon become reconciled to German rule and will be glad to share in the glory of the German name throughout the world.—Otto Richard von Tannenberg, "Grossdeutschland" (1911).

A portion of our public opinion is much too cowardly as regards America. The fact that the United States asserts the Monroe Doctrine and practically warns us Europeans out of America does not mean that we must submit to this doctrine. If for the most part we do so, this is due to European disunity, which makes it possible for the United States to fish in muddy water. * * * As I have explained before, there can be no question for us of political conquests in America, but there certainly is a question of economic and cultural activity.—Alfred Hettner, "Die Ziele unserer Weltpolitik," in series entitled "Der Deutsche Krieg" (1915).

COMMANDERS AND LETTERS FROM SOLDIERS.

Beginning with today, no more prisoners are to be taken. All prisoners are to be put to death. The wounded, whether armed or not, are to be put to death. Prisoners, even where they are organized in large units, are to be put to death. No living man is to remain behind us.—Order of the day, issued by Gen. Stenger, commander of the Fifty-eighth Brigade, Aug. 26, 1914.

A Young Man in a Hurry

I'm miserable enough now—my position is false enough now. I—I cannot stand being stared at for 36 hours"——

"If you say so, I'll spread the rumor that you're my sister," he suggested, anxiously. "Shall I?"

Even she perceived the fatal futility of that suggestion.

"But when you take off your glove everybody will know we're not B. and G.," he said.

She hesitated; a delicate flush crept over her face; then she nervously stripped the glove from her left hand and extended it. A plain gold ring encircled the third finger. "What shall I do?" she whispered. "I can't get it off. I've tried, but I can't."

"Does it belong there?" he asked, seriously.

"You mean, am I married? No, no," she said, impatiently; "it's my grandmother's wedding ring. I was just trying it on this morning—this morning of all mornings! Think of it!"

She looked anxiously at her white fingers, then at him.

"What do you think?" she asked, naively; "I've tried soap and cold cream, but it won't come off."

"Well," he said, with a forced laugh, "fate appears to be personally conducting this tour, and it's probably all right"—— He hesitated. "Perhaps it's better than to wear no ring"——

"Why?" she asked innocently. "Oh! perhaps it's better, after all, to be mistaken for B. and G. than for a pair of unchaperoned creatures. Is that what you mean?"

"Yes," he said vaguely.

There came a gentle jolt, a faint grinding sound, a vibration increasing. Lighted lanterns, red and green, glided past their window.

"We've started," he said.

Then a negro porter came jauntily down the aisle, saying something in a low voice to everybody as he passed. And when he came to them he smiled encouragement and made an extra bow, murmuring, "First call for dinner, if you please, madam."

They were the center of discreet attention in the dining car; and neither the ring on her wedding finger nor their bearing and attitude towards each other were needed to confirm the general conviction.

He tried to do all he could to make it easy for her, but he didn't know how, or he never would have ordered rice pudding with a confidence that set their own negro waiter grinning from ear to ear.

She bit her red lips and looked out of the window; but the window, blackened by night and quicksilvered by the snow, was only a mirror for a very lovely and distressed face.

Indeed, she was charming in her supposed role; their fellow passengers' criticisms were exceedingly favorable. Even the young imp who had pronounced them B. and G. with infantile unreserve appeared to be impressed by her fresh, young beauty; and an old clergymen across the aisle beamed on them at intervals, and every beam was a benediction.

As for them, embarrassment and depression were at first masked under a polite gayety; but the excitement of the drama gained on them; appearances were to be kept up in the roles of a comedy absolutely forced upon them; and that brought exhilaration.

From mental self-absolution they ventured on mentally absolving each other. Fate had done it. Their consciences were free. Their situation was a challenge in itself, and to accept it must mean to conquer.

Stirring two lumps of sugar into his cup of coffee, he looked up suddenly, to find her gray eyes meeting his across the table. They smiled like friends.

"Of what are you thinking?" she asked.

"I was thinking that perhaps you had forgiven me," he said, hopefully.

"I have"—she frowned a little—"I think I have."

"And—you do not think me a coward?"

"No," she said, watching him, chin propped on her linked fingers.

He laughed gratefully.

"As a matter of cold fact," he observed, "if we had met anywhere in town—under other circumstances—there is no reason that I can see why we shouldn't have become excellent friends."

"No reason at all," she said, thoughtfully.

"And that reminds me," he went on, dropping his voice and leaning across the table, "I'm going to send back a telegram to my sister, and I fancy you may wish to send one to your wandering brother."

"I suppose I'd better," she said. An involuntary shiver passed over her. "He's probably frantic," she added.

"Probably," he admitted.

"My father and mother are in Europe," she observed. "I hope my brother hasn't cabled them."

"I think we'd better get those telegrams off," he said, motioning the waiter to bring the blanks and find pen and ink.

They waited, gazing meditatively at each other. Presently he said:

"I'd like to tell you what it is that sends me flying down to Florida at an hour's notice. I think some explanation is due you—if it wouldn't bore you?"

"Tell me," she said, quietly.

"Why, then, it's that headlong idiot of a brother of mine," he explained. "He's going to try to marry a girl he has only known 24 hours—a girl we never heard of. And I'm on my way to stop it!—the young fool!—and I'll stop it if I have to drag him home by the heels! Here's the telegram we got late this afternoon—a regular bombshell." He drew the yellow bit of paper from his breast pocket, unfolded it, and read:

"St. Augustine, Fla.—I am going to marry tomorrow the loveliest girl in the United States. Only met her yesterday. Love at first sight. You'll all worship her! She's 18, a New Yorker, and her name is Marie Hetherford. JIM."

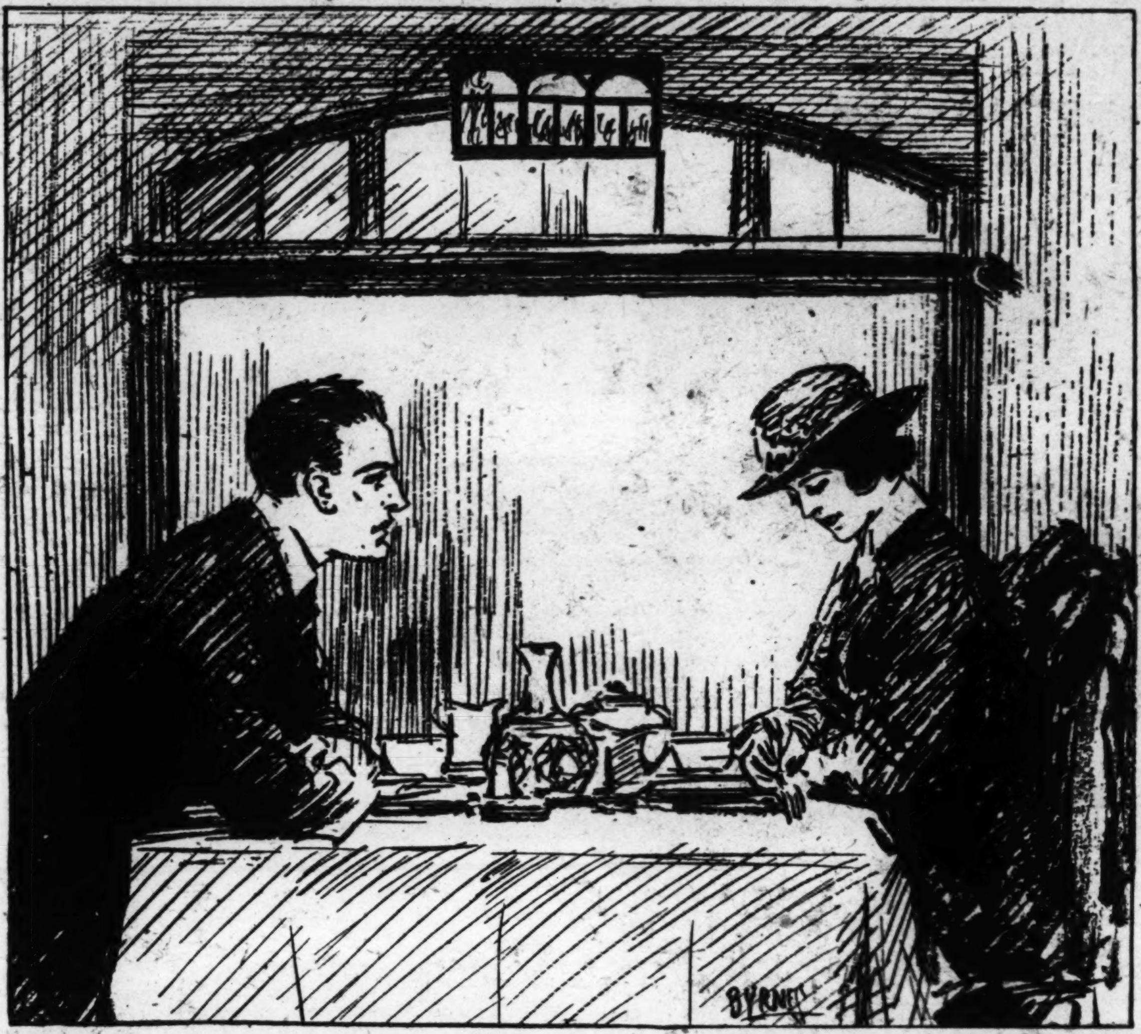
He looked up angrily. "What do you think of that?" he demanded.

"Think?" she stammered. "Think?" She dropped her hands helplessly, staring at him. "Marie Hetherford is my sister!" she said.

"Your—sister!" he repeated, after a long pause—"your sister!"

She pressed a white hand to her forehead, clearing her eyes with a gesture.

"Isn't it too absurd!" she said, dreamily. "My sister sent us a telegram like yours. Our parents are abroad. So my brother and I threw some things into a trunk and—and started! Oh, did you ever hear of anything like this?"



"You are the only person in the world who will not think me crazy for saying this. We're a headlong race. Will you marry me?"

"Your sister!" he repeated, dazed. "My brother and your sister. And I am on my way to stop it; and you are on your way to stop it"——

She began to laugh—not hysterically, but it was not a natural laugh.

"And," he went on, "I've lost another sister in the shuffle, and you've lost another brother in the shuffle, and now there's a double-shuffle danced by you and me"——

"Don't. Don't!" she said, faint from laughter.

"Yes, I will," he said. "And I'll say more! I'll say that Destiny is taking exclusive charge of our two families, and it would not surprise me if your brother and my sister were driving around New York together at this moment looking for us!"

Their laughter infected the entire dining car; every waiter snickered; the enfant terrible grinned; the aged minister of the Church of England beamed a rapid-fire of benedictions on them.

But they had forgotten everybody except each other.

"From what I hear and from what I know personally of your family," she said, "it seems to me that they never waste much time about anything."

"We are rather in that way," he admitted. "I have been in a hurry from the time you first met me—and you see what my brother is going to do."

"Going to do? Are you going to let him?"

"Let him?" He looked steadily at her, and she returned the gaze as steadily. "Yes," he said, "I'm going to let him. And if I tried to stop him I'd get my deserts. I think I know my brother Jim. And I fancy it would take more than his brother to drag him away from your sister." He hesitated a moment. "Is she like—like you?"

"A year younger—yes, we are alike. . . . And you say that you are going to let him—marry her?"

"Yes—if you don't mind."

The challenge was in his eyes, and she accepted it.

"Is your brother Jim like you?"

"A year younger—yes. . . . May he marry her?"

She strove to speak easily, but to her consternation she choked, and the bright color dyed her face from neck to hair.

This must not be; she must answer him. To flinch now would be impossible—giving a double meaning and double understanding to a badinage light as air. Alas! Il ne faut pas badiner aves l'amour! Then she answered, saying too much in an effort to say a little with careless and becoming courage.

"If he is like you, he may marry her. . . . I am glad he is your brother."

The answering fire burned in his face; she met his eyes, and twice her own fell before their message.

He leaned forward, elbows on the table, hot face between his hands; a careless attitude for others to observe, but a swift glance warned her what was coming—coming in a low casual voice, checked at intervals as though he were swallowing.

"You are the most splendid girl I ever knew." He dropped one hand and picked up a flower that had slipped from her finger bowl. "You are the only person in the world who will not think me crazy for saying this. We're a headlong race. Will you marry me?"

She bent her head thoughtfully, pressing her mouth to her clasped fingers. Her attitude was repose itself.

"Are you offended?" he asked, looking out of the window.

There was a slight negative motion of her head.

A party of assorted travelers rose from their table and passed them, smiling discreetly; the old minister across the aisle mused in his coffee cup, caressing his shaven face with wrinkled fingers. The dining car grew very still.

"It's in the blood," he said, under his breath; "my grandparents eloped; my father's courtship lasted three days from the time he first met my mother—you see what my brother has done in 24 hours. . . . We do things more quickly in these days. . . . Please, please don't look so unhappy!"

"I—I am not unhappy. . . . I am willing to—hear you. You were saying something about—about"——

"About love."

"I—think so. Wait until those people pass!"

He waited, apparently hypnotized by the beauty of the car ceiling. Then: "Of course, if you were not going to be my sister-in-law tomorrow, I'd not go into family matters."

"No, of course not," she murmured.

So he gave her a brief outline of his own affairs, and she listened with bent head until there came the pause which was her own cue.

"Why do you tell me this?" she asked innocently.

"It—it—why, because I love you."

On common ground once more, she prepared for battle, but to her consternation she found the battle already ended and an enemy calmly preparing for her surrender.

"But when—when do you propose to—to do this?" she asked in an unsteady voice.

"Now," he said, firmly.

"Now? Marry me at once?"

"I love you enough to wait a million years—but I won't. I always expected to fall in love; I've rather fancied it would come like this when it came; and I swore I'd never let the chance slip by. We're a headlong family—but a singularly loyal one. We love but once in our lifetime; and when we love we know it."

"Do you think that this is that one time?"

"There is no doubt left in me."

"Then"—she covered her face with her hands, leaning heavily on the table—"then what on earth are we to do?"

"Promise each other to love."

"Do you promise?"

"Yes, I do promise, forever. Do you?"

She looked up; pale as a ghost. "Yes," she said.

"Then—please say it," he whispered.

Some people rose and left the car. She sat apparently buried in colorless reverie. Twice her voice failed her; he bent nearer; and——

"I love you," she said.

A MIRAGE COLLISION IN THE AIR.

A REMARKABLE story of a mirage in the clouds is told by a young British flying corps officer in the following letter to his father: "I had often wondered what it would feel like to see a machine coming straight for one and to know that a collision was inevitable. I had the experience this afternoon, only the collision did not take place. I was on patrol with five other machines over the lines—by the way, I am writing this like a novel, but I feel like it—and had just gone into a cloud bank. Just before going in I saw the 'bus on my right turning to cross in front of me. All of a sudden I saw a machine just the same as my own appear out of the cloud about 50 feet away, making straight for me. Instinctively I jammed my nose hard down and went as near a nose dive as possible; the other 'bus did the same. I turned; the other turned into me. I was in a cold perspiration all over by this time, so I thought 'Here goes; if I am going to crash it might as well be complete.' So straight for it I went. We got closer and closer, and biff! my machine and—its mirage in the clouds met. It seemed like a hideous nightmare, and I can still see that machine doing its utmost to crash into me. I think I can say I have had the full horrors of a collision in the air without its actually taking place. I finally got out of the clouds, and had not the faintest idea where I was, but about 15 seconds after 'archie' reminded me that I was a little too low over his lines."

The Weaker Sex? No, Not Woman, But Man!

So avers Dr. Dudley A. Sargent. noted authority, who declares woman poses as physically frail in order to entice male pursuit—In fact, pound for pound, she is stronger than man, and can outwalk and outswim him in distance contests—Is superior in enduring pain and fatigue because she is "nearer to nature and more of a savage"

WHEN a timid maiden leans appealingly upon the manly breast of one of the opposite sex and murmurs adoringly: "Oh, you great big, strong man!" the latter should beware. Consciously or unconsciously, she is fooling him. And such terms as the "weaker" and "frailer" sex, whenever employed by one of the great sisterhood, are nothing more nor less than camouflage.

For these startling doctrines we have as authority no other than Dr. Dudley A. Sargent of Harvard University, probably the nation's foremost expert on physical development. Out of an experience of many years with the collegians and co-eds of Harvard, he utters the following revolutionary assertions:

"Pound for pound, the average normal woman in good health can endure more pain, discomfort and fatigue and can expend more muscular energy than the average normal man of similar condition."

The conventional idea that the fairer sex is the weaker is an illusion that ought to be dispelled, according to Dr. Sargent.

"The mistaken notion of the weakness of women," says he rather irreverently, "is one which she herself has nurtured and in which man has encouraged her. Woman's timidity and her traditional inferiority in physique and courage are, consciously or not, a pose. It is her method of inviting pursuit. The basic laws of sex selection dictate that the female shall be pursued. Woman has taken this position so long that she finds it hard to admit her natural courage, or even to admit it to herself.

"In the matter of endurance the eyes of the world were opened a few years ago when women swimmers went in first for long-distance contests. Rose Piti off, Annette Kellerman and others demonstrated their superiority over their male competitors. They were impervious to the discomfort and the strength-sapping bite of the cold water. They went on while the male athletes in the pink of condition had to give up.

A job calling for a man's strength — An Iowa woman blacksmith.

"No longer ago than last July a lot of selected young men of high physical condition went to the Plattsburg training camp. The hikes of the first few days were no longer than five or ten miles. Yet a large proportion of them were exhausted, some failing to finish On the very same days, under the same climatic and weather conditions, parties of young women from the Sargeant Camps, did 25-mile hikes to the top of Mount Monadnock and back, and were none the worse for the experience.

"We have had in our school women who could lift 1000 pounds. We have had many who could lift 600 pounds, and any number who could score 500 on the lift tests. It is characteristic that these women of extraordinary strength resent being known as 'strong women.' The conventional mistaken theory being that physical power carries with it coarseness and implies a general lack of refinement, it follows that women are likely to deny or conceal their strength.

"At our summer camp we found that the girls playing the game of soccer football were able to stand up to the work quite as well as the college man at the rugby game, with as little exhaustion, and that they endured the minor details which are sometimes painful without complaint.

"Whether woman shows it or denies it, the fact remains that the average healthy woman is capable of enduring a greater amount of pain, fatigue or discomfort than the average man. You don't have to go far to confirm this statement.

"Anyone knows what a nuisance the father of a family is when he has to stop home from the office with a cold on his chest. Mother may have a splitting headache, but she says nothing about it.

"Go into any dentist's office, and the man behind the chair will tell you that it is his men patients who squirm and howl and groan, while the women customarily endure pain with little complaint."

There seems to be little reason, in the opinion of Dr. Sargent, why, from the standpoint of physical endurance, women should not make as good soldiers as men. He points to the women soldiers of Russia, who, by all accounts, bore themselves heroically both on the march and in the battlefield. He asserts that women often surpass men in long-distance walking.

"In the Central American countries and notably in Mexico," the authority goes on, "women camp followers, called 'soldaderas,' travel under heavy loads on foot from 20 to 25 miles a day, while their men do the same distance on horseback. Nor is it fair to say that these women show such superiority because they are uncivilized savages accustomed to outdoor life. The same is equally true of their men."

The reason why woman is content to hide her strength and pose as a creature far weaker and more delicate than man are taken up by Dr. Sargent.

"Until civilization arrives at the point of intelligent physical development," says he, "it has a large element of perversion. This affectation of weakness or delicacy is a perverted idea. It finds its expression in the debutante slouch, a pose which was prevalent among young women a year or two ago, and in smiliar droopy, clingy, sloppy poses of times gone by. These things are on the same plane with the old-fashioned idea that a perfect lady would faint at the slightest excuse or none at all, and that it was entirely indelicate for a woman to eat a square meal.

Right: Mlle. Carpentier, daughter of a French grocer, who has surprising ability in wrestling and boxing.

"Woman of necessity comes nearer the primitive type than man. She is biologically less developed. Even a brief consideration of the facts will prove this fully. It should be clear to anyone that woman was built for one primary and definite purpose, the bearing of children. Any other characteristics are secondary.

"Man's functions, on the other hand, are more far-reaching and comprehensive. They are constantly growing and changing and being altered by the progress of the race. He develops along many lines and in many directions.

Here the learned doctor interjects a few remarks which the fair sex may find rather unflattering.

"Biologically, woman is more of a savage than man, more of a barbarian, and she has therefore a greater proportion of physical endurance. She is nearer to nature. She can undergo many strains that a man cannot. This does not mean that she can take a 16-pound sledge hammer and swing it eight hours day, though she might in some cases even do that. It does mean that in the case of withstanding cold, or thirst, or hunger, or physical privation of any sort, a woman can outlast a man nine cases out of ten.

"The reason for all this is plain. Through countless generations woman has been a conserver of energy. She stores up energy in order that she may impart it to her offspring. Woman's life is two lives.

"Fortunately, women are fast getting over their false notions. The war has helped to impress them with the need of a strong race, and they are more and more ready to recognize the strength they have and to develop it. They are coming rapidly to a realization that the lines of health and strength are beautiful, and to dress for those lines..

"It is very much to be doubted if even the dictates of fashion could ever bring back the era of tightly-laced corsets, monstrous bustles and the yards and pounds of useless draperies hung on the distorted female figure.

"Which is as it should be. The sooner woman recognizes her physical superiority over man the better for all. There can be little profit in avoiding the truths of nature.

"It should be clear," said Dr. Sargent in concluding the above interview with a writer of the Post-Dispatch, "and it is becoming every day more clear, that woman ought to make the most of her God-given strength."

Veteran's Advice on How to Live at the Front

"I WANT to point out to you the little things in warfare—the ordinary personal things, the things that are not a bit thrilling or exciting. In the process I hope to show you how to avoid making other people, as well as yourself, suffer; the other people may be your comrades, your family, or your nation."

So runs the preface to a timely little book, "How to Live at the Front—Tips for American Soldiers" (J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia), by Hector McQuarrie, Bachelor of Arts at Cambridge and now a Second Lieutenant, Royal Field Artillery.

A STRONG man finds an intensive bombardment pretty awful; a weak man cannot stand it at all. There are lots of men who are what is termed "temperamental." You know the sort of chap. Now, if you regard yourself as one of these men, choose an arm of the service where you will not be too much exposed. Present your case to the doctor who examines you. He may not sympathize very much, but see what you can do. If all your efforts fail and you find yourself in the infantry, stick it out. It will not be so very bad. In any case, make a point of looking after your physical health as much as possible. Endeavor to develop your body, even at the expense of your mind. Your mind will not be of very much use; indeed, it may leave you altogether during an intensive bombardment.

Don't be surprised if you have to wait many days, many weeks, for both towel and uniform; therefore, if you can take a thin extra shirt with you and a towel, do so. Many recruits in England had to dry themselves on pocket handkerchiefs for weeks. They were easy to wash, but to dry them was difficult. People have a habit of pinching things in the army. Don't forget to take two toothbrushes with you. People even pinch these for some reason or other, possibly to clean buttons with.

The first day in training camp you will have to look out for yourself. Things will seem a bit horrible to you. There will be a long line of other rookies waiting for food. If you can be near the top of the line, be there. If you are at the end it may be that the food will have run out and you'll get none. This will be owing to the inexperience of the man dishing out the food. He'll soon learn; so will you.

You will at first find that discipline is a little lax in spots. Sometimes, and when you least expect it, it will be very severe. There will be a good deal of time on your hands, but dont be deceived by this, it will change. To sum up, take all things as they come. If you can keep cheerful, do so. Expect many discomforts and don't be surprised if you detect what you may regard as inefficiency. Like you, many of your officers will be inexperienced. If one of them makes mistakes, try to put up with them cheerfully. He is doing his best and all the time he is getting blazes from his superiors—you don't hear it, or you ought not to.

You will find a number of noncommissioned officers—they will possibly be old soldiers, with a sprinkling from the regular army. Look out for the old soldiers. They are either very crusty or very affable. The affable ones are of very little use to you, the crusty regular army men are the fellows from whom you can learn most. You will find them very neat and tidy. Look at their clothing, it will be very clean. Their shoes will be polished in a wonderful way; their hats will be clean and neat. You will note how they hold themselves. Try to copy them.

As a sign of bondage, saluting seems to irritate certain people. An American imbued with the spirit of freedom, unless he looks at saluting in the right way, may possibly object to it as a sign of autocracy. Let him remember that it is just as compulsory for an officer to salute a private as it is for the officer to be saluted, and that the junior officer must salute his superior as the private must salute his officer—it is merely a method of saying "How do you do?"

Some soldiers find it very hard to keep out of the orderly office, and, of course, they must be punished. The things an officer will never forgive and always punish severely are the unsporting things—letting other people do your work, for instance, while you slack. Smart appearance always seems to be an essential quality in a good soldier. The fellows generally seen waiting for trial outside the orderly room look the part in spite of their efforts to clean up.

Your first impression of France may be a little bit disappointing. You will possibly arrive at an early hour in the morning, and if you have been clever you will have saved a few biscuits from the day before's rations, because breakfast will be noticeable by its absence. The first thing you will hear is that you are going to a rest camp. Why it is called a rest camp no one has ever been able to discover. It is by no means restful. However, you may get some leave and will be able to have a look at the French port. Thousands of children will ask you for souvenirs. It is not advisable to give them many of your tunic buttons.

When time to entrain comes, prepare for an unpleasant shock. You, with perhaps 20 others, will sit on the floor of a freight car. On the outside is written in French, "eight horses," "sixteen men." This may worry you a little, but as you have more brains than a horse, you will endeavor to get something to sit on, perhaps some straw. Having reached the rail head for troops, you will be billeted in certain villages. Each platoon will probably have a farmhouse of its own. At this stage, feel in your knapsack for your tin of insect powder. For three years those barns have been occupied by relay after relay of soldiers, not all of whom have carried insect powder. However, the hay or straw will be soft and comfortable. The place is considerably better than the best dugouts in the trenches, and much safer.

I suppose many of you are wondering how you will feel when you first get into the trenches. I am certain that you are looking forward to it with pleasurable excitement. There is plenty of excitement, certainly. However, be fairly careful. A bullet comes very swiftly and kills you in less than a second.

I wonder if you will attend to writing home? Of course you'll continue writing to the young lady, but your mother? If you forget her, she'll have nothing to help her bear a fearful lot of pain.

More Evidence of Germany's Plan for Dominion

The Captain called us about him and said: In the fort that is to be taken there are, in all probability, Englishmen. I do not want to see a single English prisoner in the hands of the company."

A general shout of assent was the response—Under-Officer Gottsche, Eighty-fifth Infantry Regiment, Ninth Army Corps.

They were lying in heaps, eight or ten wounded or dead, one on top of the other. Those who were able to walk were made prisoners and taken along; those who were seriously wounded, who had a shot in the head or in the lungs, etc., * * * and were not able to get up, received more bullets to finish them. These were our orders.—Reservist Fahlenstein, Thirty-fourth Fusiliers, Second Army Corps.

Langeviller (August) 22. Village destroyed by the Eleventh Pioneers. Three women hanged to trees. (A week later.) So we have destroyed eight houses with their inmates. Out of one alone, two men with their wives and an 18-year-old girl were bayoneted. The girl made me feel badly, she gave such an innocent look; but nothing could be done against the excited crowd, for at such times they are not men but beasts.—Unsigned notebook of soldier.

We come to a hollow where dead and wounded redbreeches are lying about in heaps; the wounded are hammered or stabbed, because we know that these scoundrels will shoot us as soon as we pass them. There lies out, face to the ground, a Frenchman, but he is only shamming dead. The kick of a sturdy musketeer tells him that we are there. Turning over, he calls for quarter, but he is told that he needs a dose of French medicine and is pinned to the earth. A weird noise near me comes from blows that a soldier of the 154th is raining upon the bald head of a Frenchman with a clubbed rifle. Very wisely, he has appropriated for this piece of work the Frenchman's gun, for fear of breaking his own. Very soft-hearted men put the French wounded out of their misery with bullets; the others hew and stab whenever they can. Our opponents fought bravely; we had choice troops before us; they let us come within 30 then 10 yards—but then, of course, it was too late. Quantities of abandoned knapsacks and weapons give proof of their desire to flee: but at sight of the field-gray "monsters" terror lamed their feet and in the middle of the narrow footway the German bullets called a halt. At the entrance of their leafy shelter huts they lie whining for mercy, but whether they are slightly or mortally wounded our brave musketeers save the Fatherland the costly care of numerous enemies.—From an article in the Jauersches Tageblatt (Silesia), Oct. 18, 1914, by Under-Officer Klemt, First Company, 154th Infantry Regiment.

crowded and had no room in which to expand. The tunnel would place within six minutes of the heart of the city a spacious tract on the other side of Mount Royal. As a real estate operation the scheme was a master stroke. On the farms was laid out a model suburb, to which was given the name of Mount Royal. The value of the ground was multiplied twentyfold. Not only was the cost of the tunnel paid out of the sales, but there was a profit, it is said. In addition, the rock from the tunnel was used in paving the streets of Mount Royal, and in building an elevated embankment which carried the Canadian Northern tracks through the center of Montreal and down to the banks of the St. Lawrence.

The French habitants had little reason to protest over the bargain. Most of them were enabled to retire and live in comfort on the sums paid for their little farms. One man got $117,000 for a few acres. The largest farm of all brought nearly $800,000.

It was in the midst of this achievement that the partners were summoned to London, were tapped on the shoulders by the King and bidden to arise as Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann. That was in 1911.

By 1914 the Canadian Northern, by its own building operations and by the acquisition of other roads, had become a true transcontinental line. Its last link between the Atlantic and Pacific was completed that year when Sir Donald's workmen drove a branch from Edmonton, in Alberta, to Vancouver, on the Pacific coast.

The system now started on the east at Lake St. John, in the center of the Province of Quebec; it ran south to Quebec and then, sweeping west, passed through Ottawa and Toronto, running along Lakes Huron and Superior to Port Arthur; next, in a grand curve to the northwest, it took in Winnipeg, Brandon, Regina, Saskatoon and Edmonton; and finally turned southwest again for the descent to Vancouver. In the Atlantic there was a branch in Nova Scotia, running from Yarmouth to Halifax; and there was another branch on Cape Breton Island, at the mouth of the St. Lawrence. In the Pacific there was still another branch on Vancouver Island. The great agricultural provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alebtra were fairly honeycombed with branch lines; and when the collapse came hundreds of miles of new tracks were projected or under construction. The company had a fleet of boats on the Great Lakes, and in 1910 launched the two fastest and most splendidly equipped steamships in the Canadian trade, for service between Montreal and Bristol.

It was truly a royal kingdom upon which the partners could look in the summer of 1914. They could board a train at the Pacific coast and never step from their own territory until they disembarked from one of their own ships in the British Isles. This was no ordinary conquest to be accomplished in 14 years by two men who in 1900 had nothing but their own brains and energy. They had literally built up an empire from a shoestring.

Then the war brought the crash. It happened that in 1912, when the money market was tight, the Canadian Northern borrowed $45,000,000 from the Dominion Government, which accepted stock as collateral. In normal circumstances the interest payments could have been kept up. But the prosperity of the railroad was wagered on the future growth and prosperity of the Western provinces, which could have been expected to continue multiplying in wealth as they had done in the past. One result of the shots fired at Sarajevo was to bring the Mackenzie-Mann empire to the ground. The company could not repay the loan from the Government. There were only two alternatives—bankruptcy or Government ownership. The Government chose the latter.

The only obstacles was $60,000 worth of stock owned personally by the two promoters. A commission, with the president of the New York Central Railroad as a member, was appointed to look into the matter. Its report was that the stock held by President Mackenzie and Vice President Mann "represents no actual consideration which the Government should necessarily regard as an obligation or charge on the property."

However, the Government agreed to submit the problem to the courts, and to let them decide what compensation, if any at all, shall be allowed to the men whose genius created the system. Sir William is now 68 years old and Sir Donald is 64. At this age, it is doubted by their friends whether they will have the heart to attempt the achievement of another empire, or the reconquest of the one they have lost. At any rate, both are extremely wealthy men outside of their railroad interests. Sir William is in control of traction facilities in most of the great Canadian cities, and Sr Donald is one of the largest real estate and mine owners in the Dominion.

WANT TO REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT?

You have often heard the expression, "The remedy is worse than the disease." Most surely this is true as applied to the various drastic drugging, dieting and exercising systems intended to result in weight reduction.

An effective system of treatment, minus all these objections, consists of deep breathing in the open air and the use of oil of korein after each meal and before retiring at night; also the guidance of simple rules accompanying the box.

Oil of korein is an absolutely harmless preparation put up in five-drop capsules; easy to take. Get a small box at your druggist's today and see what remarkable results may be yours.

If you wish to rid yourself of ten to sixty pounds of fat, give this home treatment a trial. Gain a nice figure and surprise your acquaintances.—ADVERTISEMENT.

Stop Using a Truss

STUART'S PLAPAO-PADS are different from the truss, being medicine applicators made self-adhesive purposely to hold the parts securely in place. No straps or buckles attached—no obnoxious springs. Cannot slip, so cannot chafe or press against the bone. Thousands have successfully treated themselves at home without hindrance from work—most obstinate cases cured. Soft as velvet—easy to apply—inexpensive. Awarded Gold Medal. Process of recovery is natural, so afterwards no further use for trusses. We prove it by sending you Trial of Plapao absolutely free. Cured His RUPTURE

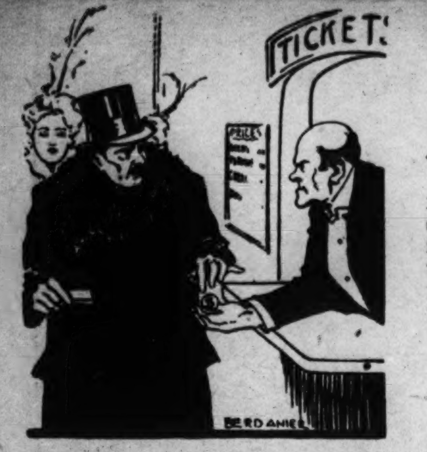
I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 233D Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.—ADV.

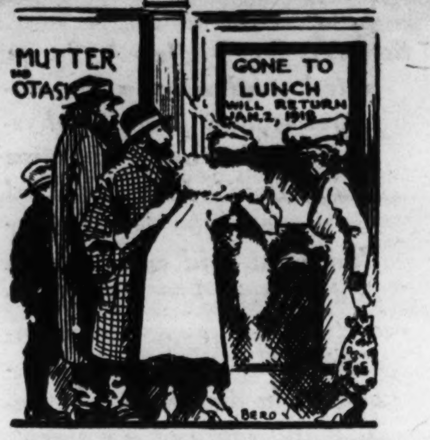
A New Series of Potash and Perlmutter Stories

BY MONTAGUE GLASS

Number Two :-: On Financing the War



And when the public is through paying for their tickets he gives them one look y'understand, and they just naturally hand him a dollar.



Right then and there I am going to shut up shop and paste a notice on the door.

"I SEE where this here Chump Clark says that incomes from over ten thousand dollars should ought to be confiscated," Abe Potash observed to his partner, Morris Perlmutter, one morning in September.

"Sure, I know," Morris replied, "and if this here Chump Clark has a good year next year and cleans up for a net profit of $10,226.35 then he'll claim that all incomes over $10,226.35 should ought to be confiscated, Abe, and that's the way it goes. I am the same way, Abe. Anyone what makes more money as I do, Abe, I ain't got no sympathy for at all."

"I bet yer Vincent Astor thinks that John B. Rockafeller should ought to be satisfied mit the reasonable income which a feller could make it by working hard at the real estate business, the way Vincent Astor does," Abe commented.

"John B. Rockafeller oser worries his head over the ravings of a proteiariat," Morris said. "But anyhow, Abe, there's a whole lot to what this here Chump Clark says at that. If we compel men to give up their lives for their country, why shouldn't we compel them fellers which has got incomes of over ten thousand dollars to give up their property for their country also?"

"Well, I'll tell you, Mawruss," Abe replied. "This here Chump Clark is a Congressman, and the way I feel about it is, that when a Congressman wants to say something in Congress, y'understand, he should ought to be compelled to first submit it in writing to a certified public accountant or anyhow a bookkeeper, y'understand, because the average Congressman ain't got no head for figures. Take Mr. Clark, for example, and when he reckons that everybody which gets drafted is going to give up his life for his country, y'understand, you don't got to be the head actuary of the Equitable exactly in order to figure it out that he's made a tremendous overestimate. So when the same feller talks about confiscating incomes over ten thousand, it ain't necessary to ask how he come to fix on ten thousand instead of five thousand or fifteen thousand, because whether he tossed for it or dealt himself three cold hands, and the hand representing $10,000 won out on treys full of deuces, y'understand, the information ain't going to help us finance the war to any extent."

"Why not?" Morris asked.

"Because, you take yourself, for instance, and we would say, for the sake of argument, that in 1917 you turned over a new leaf and worked so hard that you made $15,500."

"Listen, Abe," Morris interrupted, "if there is a new leaf coming to anyone around here, Abe, I wouldn't mention no names, for the sake of an argument or otherwise."

"All right," Abe said, "then we'll say you didn't work no harder, but just the same Mawruss, if you was to make $15,500 in 1917, and this here Chump Clark gets the Government to confiscate $5500 on you, how much would they confiscate on you in 1918?"

Morris shrugged his shoulders.

"What is the use of talking pipe dreams?" he said.

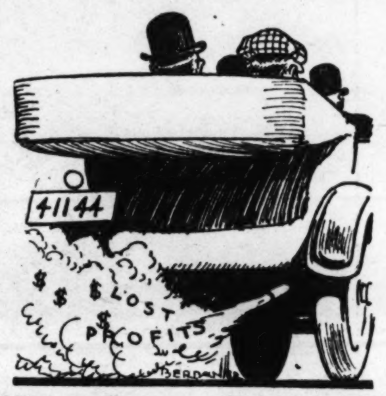
"I ain't talking pipe dreams," Abe retorted. "This is something which not only Chump Clark suggested it, but Senator La Follette also as a good scheme for financing the war."

"Evidently they don't expect the war to last long," Morris commented, "which the most the Government could hope to collect is the excess income for 1917, because if the Government confiscates $5500 on me in 1917, am I going to go around in the summer of 1918 beefing about business being rotten because here it is the first of July, 1918, and so far all the Government could confiscate on me is $2267.38, whereas, only July 1st, 1917, I had already got confiscated on me $2431.50? Oser a Stuck! If I have made ten thousand dollars as early as April 1st, 1918, and I know that all further profits for 1918 is going to be confiscated by the Government, y'understand, right then and there I am going to shut up shop and paste a notice on the door:

GONE TO LUNCH
WILL RETURN JAN. 2, 1919.

And anybody else would do the same, Abe, I don't care if he would be as patriotic as Senator La Follette himself even."

"But that ain't the only idees for financing the war which Congress has got it, Mawruss," Abe said. "On everything which a feller buys, from penuchle decks to headache medicine, he will have to put a stamp. There will be extra stamps on all kinds of checks, from bank checks and poker checks to bar checks and hat checks. There will be red stamps, blue stamps and stamps in all pastel shades, and when they run out of colors they'll print 'em in black and white and issue them to the public in flavors, like wintergreen, peppermint, spearmint and clove for bar check stamps and strawberry, vanilla and chocolate nut sunday for theayter ticket stamps."



If you treat one of them grafters to so much as a two-quart automobile ride you've already sacrificed half your profit on a couple of garments even if he does pay for the stamps.

"For my part they could flavor 'em with gefullte Miltz mit Knockerl, because I got through buying orchestra seats when they begun to tax you $2.50 for them, Abe, which if the Government really wants to raise money by taxing the public, why do they fool away their time asking suggestions from such new beginners like La Follette and Chump Clark, when right here in New York there is fellers in the restaurant business, the theayter business and running hat check stands which has made taxing the public a life study already. For instance, if I would be the Government and I wanted to tax theayter tickets, instead of monkeying around with stamps for 20 or 30 cents, y'understand, I would put a head waiter by the box office window and when the public is through paying for their tickets, he gives them one look, y'understand, and they just naturally hand him a dollar."

"What I couldn't understand is why should the Government pick on people which goes to theayter for amusement," Abe said. "Ain't it enough that in order to hold my trade I've got to sit for three hours listening to a lot of nonsense when I could hardly keep my eyes open, but I must also get writer's cramp in my tongue from licking stamps yet just to oblige the United States Government and a customer from the Middle West, which it's a gamble whether he would return the goods on me, even if he does give me the order."

"That's what it is to have fellers working as Congressmen which ain't had no other business experience," Morris declared. "If La Follette and this here Chump Clark knew what they was about, Abe, they would make it a law that the customer should buy the stamps, and not alone for theayters, but for meals also. You take some of these out-of-town buyers which you've practically got to ruin their digestions before they would so much as look at your line, y'understand, and if they would got to paste a 50-cent stamp on every broiled lobster they order up on you, it would go a long way towards taking care of the uniform bills for the first draft."

"And they should also got to stand for the tax on gasoline also," Abe added. "If you treat one of them grafters to so much as a two-quart automobile ride, you've already sacrificed half your profit on a couple of garments, even if he does pay for the stamps."

"Cigars is another thing the Government could of got a lot of money out of," Morris said.

"What do you mean—could of got?" Abe exclaimed. "They do get a lot of money out of cigars. You take the average cigar today which costs $60 a thousand to put on the market, Mawruss, and each cigar stands the manufacturer in as follows:

Advertising ..	$0.01
Printing and litographing,	0.005
Manufacturing and boxing..	0.01
Swiss Chard...	0.005
War tax	0.02
Total	$0.06

"Sure, I know," Morris agreed, "but the art about taxing cigars ain't so much to sting fellers that manufactures them and the feller that buys them as the feller which accepts them free for nothing. There is a whole lot of women's wear retailers in the Middle West which has got quite a reputation for hospitality, because whenever they have a poker game up to the house, they hand out cigars which cost you and me and other garment manufacturers here in New York as much as $90 a thousand wholesale. So, what I say is that the Government should tax anybody which accepts a cigar to smoke on the spot 10 cents, and for every one of them put-in-your-pocket-and-smoke-it-after-a-while cigars, such a feller should be taxed $10 or 10 days."

"Well, they'll get a whole lot of money raising postage from 2 to 3 cents," Abe suggested.

"But not so much as they could get if they was to go about it right," Morris said. For sending letters which says, 'inclosed please find check in payment of our last month's bill and oblige,' 3 cents is enough for any business man to pay, Abe, and in fact the feller which received such a letter shouldn't ought to kick if the Postoffice Department makes him pay also 3 cents postage, but there is some letters which it should ought to be the law that when a merchant received one of them, he should right away report the sender to the Postoffice Department for a special war tax stamp from one to a hundred dollars. For instance, $2 extra wouldn't be too much postage for a letter where it says, 'your favor received and contents noted, and in reply would say you should be so kind and wait a couple days and I would see what I could do towards sending you a check for your March bill, as my wife has been sick ever since May 15th and oblige, yours truly, The Reliance Store, M. Doober, proprietor.'"

"If all them overdue retaiiers which is all the time pulling a sick wife on their creditors was to be taxed $2 apiece, Mawruss," Abe said, "how much postage do you figure a storekeeper should pay when he writes to claim a shortage in delivery before he starts to unpack the goods even. Then there is the feller which when it don't get below zero promptly on the first of November writes to tell you that he must say he is surprised as the winter-weight garments which you shipped him ain't nowheres up to samples and is holding same at your disposal and remain, which if the Government would come down on him for a hundred dollars, he is practically getting off with a warning. And I could think of a lot of other excess postage cases, too, but as I understand it, we are only trying to raise forty billion dollars, Mawruss."

"Don't let that stop you, Abe," Morris said, "because there's going to be plenty of extras over and above the original estimate, which I see that a lot of South American countries is coming into the war and it's only a question of a month or so when we would have calling on us a commission from Peru, a commission from Chile, a commission from Bolivia, a commission from Paraguay, and all of them with the same hard-luck story that if they only had a couple of billion dollars, they could put an army of 500,000 soldiers into the field, if they only had 500,000 soldiers."

"Just the same, Mawruss," Abe said, "them countries is going to be a lot of help."

"And when we get through paying the help, y'understand, we've still got to raise money for the family to live on," Morris said, "so go ahead with your suggestion, Abe. Maybe there's some taxes which Congress ain't thought of yet."

"Well, there's this here free speech, which, instead of being free, Mawruss, if it was subject to a tax of $1 per soap-box hour, payable strictly in advance, y'understand, so far as the pacifists is concerned, you would be able to hear a pin drop. Even Congressmen would soon get tired of paying from $20 to $24 a day, especially if the Government made it a stamp tax."

"La Follette would be covered mit stamps from head to foot," Morris remarked.

"That would suit me all right," Abe said, "particularly if the Collector of Internal Revenue was to run him with stamps affixed through a cancellation machine and cancel him good and proper."

And if they would got to paste a fifty-cent stamp on every broiled lobster they order up on you it would go a long way toward taking care of the uniform bills for the first draft.

Current from Electric Runabout Thaws Frozen Water Pipes

THE use of electric current to rapidly and safely thaw out frozen water mains and service pipes has become relatively common. Many cities have elaborate outfits of generators, transformers and other necessary apparatus mounted on motor trucks. This equipment is expensive and unless the call for its service is great and the expense is unwarranted, and small towns and water companies cannot afford the equipment.

As an emergency outfit the Mount Carmel Utility and Service Co. made use of an electric runabout owned by the company to provide the necessary current during a spell of very cold weather last winter. There were many complaints from residences that the service pipes were frozen and needed immediate attention. The electric runabout used by the manager of the company has a 32-cell Exide battery. This car was run up to the residence where trouble had been reported, and after the necessary connections were made a current of about 75 amperes was applied at 60 volts, and almost invariably within ten minutes the water began to run. In no case did this treatment fail, and it was possible to attend to as many as 50 frozen connections a day during the emergency.

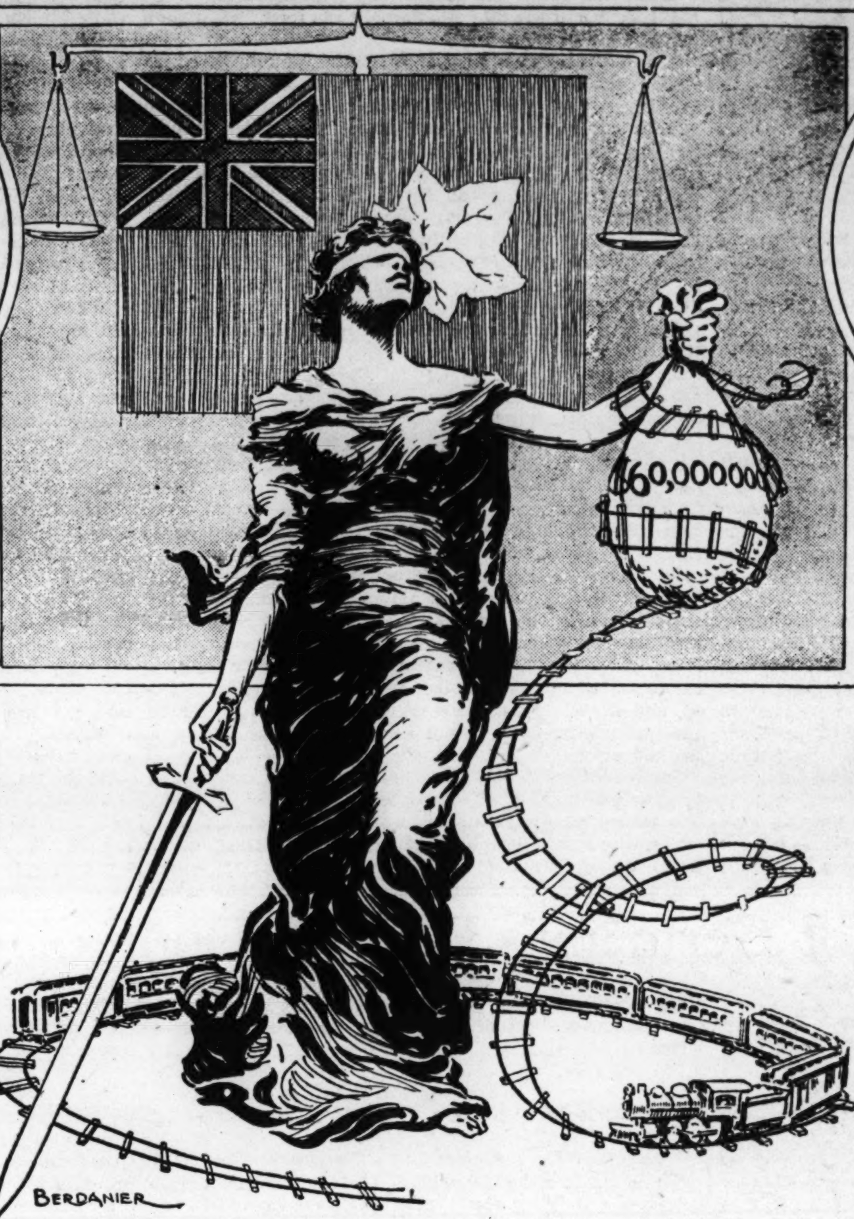
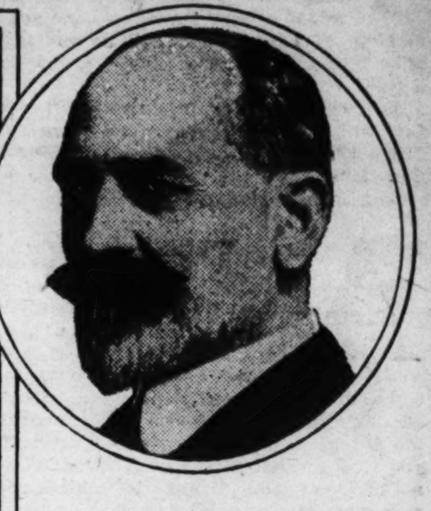
SIR DONALD MANN.





SIR WILLIAM MACKENZIE.

Amazing achievement of two poor and country-bred Scotchmen who started "on a shoestring" and created Canadian Northern system, with 9500 miles of track stretching from Atlantic to Pacific and ships on Great Lakes and both oceans—Then, as prize was won, the war snatched it away, system faced bankruptcy and Dominion authorities seized it for operation under government ownership — Courts to decide whether founders will lose $60,000,000 of stock then own in company :: :: ::

THIS is the narrative of a country school teacher and a lumberjack, who, building on a shoestring, rose in 14 years to be millionaires and Knights of the British empire; who at the height of their fortunes were acclaimed as empire builders wortny of brotherhood with Cecil Rhodes; and who, at last, by a fatal revolution of circumstances, have been swept from joint sovereignty over a demesne stretching across the entire width of Canada, from Quebec to Vancouver.

Such is the drama concealed in the dry official announcement recently made that the Dominion Government has decided to take over the Canadian Northern Railway, with its 9500 miles of track in actual operation, and incorporate it in a gigantic system of Government-operated railroads, with a total mileage of 25,000, with 100,000 miles of telegraph lines, and with steamships traversing the Atlantic and Pacific. It will be the most enormous experiment in Government ownership of transportation ever undertaken in the world.

The two men who created the Canadian Northern and who ruled every mile of its rails with the absolutism of Czars, have been compelled to abdicate. For nearly two decades the names of Sir William Mackenzie and of Sir Donald D. Mann, president and vice president of the system, have been words of magic in their country. To Canadians the fact that they have fallen from power far overshadows in spectacular interest the Dominion's trial of Government control of railroads on the vastest scale in history. It is even to be decided by the courts whether Sir William and Sir Donald shall be stripped of the $60,000,000 worth of stock they own in the Canadian Northern.

Their downfall is another instance of the singular fate which has overtaken several men who annexed or developed great territories for England. Robert Clive, founder of the Anglo-Indian empire, was tried for corruption in acquiring wealth before a parliamentary commission, and although acquitted, killed himself in shame over the disgrace. Warren Hastings was rewarded for his services in tranquilizing India by being impeached in Parliament and being branded with immortal and undeserved infamy by the eloquence of Edmund Burke. He was acquitted, but only after a trial lasting seven years. The reputation of Cecil Rhodes was almost ruined by the premature Jameson raid. And now Mackenzie and Mann, having developed for the empire a territory more productive than South Africa, are deposed from power and are quite likely to lose millions of dollars of their fortunes.

For the first scene of this play in actual life one must revert to a construction camp in the foothills of the Northern Rockies, some 40 years ago. Most of Western Canada was then as complete a wilderness as it was when America was discovered. Antelope and buffalo ranged upon the plains. Plover circled about the uplands and wild fowl streamed over the marshes. The rivers were the chief lanes of travel, and along them paddled or portaged the red-sashed voyageur, the grim Scotch factor, the Indian packer and the sun-browned explorer. On the rivers, too, usually at their mouths, were the frontier settlements with their little gray churches to welcome the fur brigades coming down from the North. It was no later than 1870 that an expedition of soldiers, sent out from Ontario to suppress the Northwest Rebellion, required three months in traveling the 500 miles from Thunder Bay, on Lake Superior, to Winnipeg. The journey may now be made in 17 hours.

Such were the time and the place of the first meeting of "Bill" Mackenzie and "Don" Mann, a conjunction momentous in the development of Canada. The former was 28 years old and the latter 24. Both were contractors in a small way, both were of Scotch ancestry, and both were natives of Ontario. Mackenzie was born at Kirkfield, in 1849, and Mann in 1853 at Acton, which is not far from Rockwood, the birthplace of James J. Hill.

At first glance one would have concluded that never were there two more incompatible young men, but time proved that each was ideally fitted to complement the other. Later they became known throughout Canada by the significant nickname of "Damon and Pythias."

Mackenzie was tall, lean and sinewy. After a few years in the common schools, he had become a country school teacher. But he grew weary of birching urchins, and for a time tried to become a merchant. Then the West beckoned to him as it has beckoned to many an American youth, and there he found his destiny. It announced itself in the form of small contracting jobs for the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific railroads. He was gifted with a keen and forceful brain, suave and affable manners and a pertinacity which caused his friends to say: "William Mackenzie never lets go." He became the financial genius of the Canadian Northern.

Donald Mann was a short and stocky youth of Herculean physical strength. As a boy he was cock of the walk about Acton. One story is that at the age of 17 he entered every event in a local contest of physical prowess, from wrestling to throwing the discus, and walked off with all the prizes. In the same year—to the great chagrin of his father, who was ambitious for him to become a preacher—Donald ran away to the lumber camps in Michigan. He developed into an expert wood cruiser and a gang driver who got more work out of his men than most bosses. But this masterful young man found it intolerable to work for anyone but himself, and also struck out for the West. His first contract was to take out ties for the Canadian Pacific. Donald Mann was possessed of a massive will, indomitable energy and immense driving force. He became the Canadian Northern's construction and operative head, the human dynamo of the system.

After the canny Scotch fashion, the young men observed each other very cautiously for several years. Then, each being satisfied as to the qualities of the other, they joined forces in the notable partnership of Mackenzie, Mann & Co., which grew to be one of the most active Dominion firms in railroad contracting.

It was no doubt while they were engaged in building mile upon mile of railroads for others that there came to the partners an imperial dream—that of flinging across Canada, to the north of the routes of the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk Pacific, a transcontinental system, which would open up to cultivation and make accessible to both coasts the untapped territories in the heart of the four prairie provinces—Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Their vision was of a purely Canadian enterprise, in contrast to the others. The Canadian Pacific was built and operated with Yankee brains, and the Grand Trunk was conceived by an American.

But how were two young men, relatively penniless and obscure, to bring about so vast an achievement? They possessed no capital and had little hope of enlisting the support of bankers. At last the means—no less simple than audacious—revealed itself to them. They would induce the people of Canada themselves, through the provincial governments, to put up the money for creating the Mackenzie-Mann railroad. Using other people's money to create wealth and power for themselves was the solution of their problem, and became their constant policy.

Their first coup was engineered in 1900, when the partners contrived a deal with the Province of Manitoba, by which they got possession of the Northern Pacific's lines in that province, aggregating 200 miles. It was charged at the time that the Northern Pacific was forced to sell under threat of seeing its tracks paralleled by a Government railroad.

This little strip of rails in the center of Canada was the germ of the Canadian Northern. With tireless energy the partners began reaching out to the east and to the west, with Quebec as their goal on the one side and on the other Vancouver. Their chief financial policy was that of winning bonuses and land grants from the provincial governments, and as they progressed from province to province each was induced to foot the bills. Saskatchewan eventually guaranteed some $30,000,000 of the railroad's bonds; Manitoba underwrote almost as much more; Alberta and British Columbia guaranteed half as much. With such backing Mackenzie sold to American and British financiers half a billion dollars of bonds.

It need not be imagined that the promoters won these financial triumphs without the bitterest opposition. The older railroads did not view with equanimity the activities of their young and hustling rival. Cabals were set on foot against the Canadian Northern in Ottawa, London and New York. Scandals followed the railroad's entrance into every province, though none of the accusations made was ever threshed out in court. It was alleged that the partners played Machiavellian politics wherever they operated; that they contributed lavishly to the campaign funds of both parties; that in Saskatchewan they were Liberals and in Manitoba Conservatives.

But no one could deny that they obtained results, and on a magnificent scale. For 14 years the Canadian Northern drove its way irresistibly to the east and to the west, at the rate of more than one mile of track laid every day in the year. It thrust its way onward from forest to prairie, from prairie to mountain, from mountain to coast, with glacial certainty. And in the wake of the steel rails settlers flowed in upon the plains, elevators, mills and towns sprang up, and civilization made itself at home where before there had been only silence and the sighing of the wind in the wild grasses.

In this work each partner had his own division. The astute and keen-witted Mackenzie wrung bonuses from reluctant Legislatures, dealt with politicians, persuaded dubious financiers to invest in Canadian Northern bonds. Mann, without respite, drove the company's workmen over hill and dale, mountain and plain, energizing the entire organization with his own mighty vitality of will. In 1900 the trackage of the Canadian Northern was next to nothing; in 1904 it had 1800 miles, and 3700 miles in 1907.

The striking feat through which the Canadian Northern won entrance into Montreal must not be overlooked. As is well known, Montreal, the largest city in the Dominion, is situated on an island, with the St. Lawrence on one side and an arc of the Ottawa River on the other. The island is bisected from north to south by a mountain called Mount Royal, of which name the word Montreal is a corruption.

Montreal lies on one side of the mountain, and being prevented by the carrier from overspreading the island, became one of the most congested cities in North America. On the other side of the mountain was a stretch of fertile, level ground, owned and tilled for a century by thrifty French habitants. There the famous Montreal muskmelon was brought to its expensive perfection.

All the practicable railroad entrances to the city were bottled up by the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk. But Mackenzie and Mann could not rest quiet while their road was barred from the most populous city of Canada. So they hit upon the bold scheme of tunneling four miles through the base of Mount Royal. Their engineers reported that the cost of the enterprise would be $20,000,000.

The partners could not pay this sum, and, besides, it was against their principles to expend money themselves if they could get others to do it. So they sent an agent among the habitant farmers and quietly gathered options on such land as they wished. It took two years to get the land and the cost was $1,500,000. But when it was obtained the engineers at once began boring from opposite sides of the mountain.

The gist of the scheme was this: Montreal was over-

The 100-Pound Hero of 110 Air Fights

This is number of single combats fought by Maj. W. A. Bishop, Canadian aviator, 22 years old — Brought down at least 47 enemy planes and probably 23 more — Is only living man decorated with Military Medal, Order of Distinguished Service and Victoria Cross—Visited this country recently on way to Toronto to be married before returning to the front

THE other day a boyish young chap, short of stature and so slight that he would scarcely tip the scales at 100 pounds, registered at a New York hotel. The name which he signed was "W. A. Bishop." A little later the hotel clerk nearly lost his lower jaw when he learned what hero he had entertained unawares. For the diminutive guest was the greatest of living air fighters, now that Guynemer is dead—he was the world-famous Maj. William Avery, Bishop of the Royal Flying Corps, who in three months won every decoration which Britain has to bestow. He was paying a hasty visit to this country on official business for the English Government.

But an important part of his errand across the ocean was business for Cupid. After leaving New York he went to Canada, his native country, and in Toronto was welcomed by his fiancee, whom he planned to marry before returning to the front.

So far as is known, Maj. Bishop is the only living man who has a right to wear not only the Military Medal but the Order of Distinguished Service, and not only that but the Victoria Cross. Yet he is only 22 years old, and he blushed and stammered like a schoolboy when he tried to explain something about air fighting at a Canadian club dinner in New York. His record, however, rivals the fabled exploits of the paladins of old. Here it is, as piled up in five months at the front:

> Forty-seven Hun airplanes sent crashing to the earth.
>
> Twenty-three other planes sent down, but under conditions which made it impossible to know certainly that they and their pilots had been destroyed.
> Thrilling escapes without number, including one fall of 4000 feet with his machine in flames.
> The most daredevil feat of the war—an attack single-handed on a Boche airdrome, in which he destroyed three enemy machines.

These feats not only won medals for the hero, but rapid promotion. With his appointment as Major, he was also named chief instructor of aerial gunnery—which is his chief hobby—and commander of an airplane squadron.

Bishop went to Europe from his home in Owen Sound, a little Ontario town, where his father is County Registrar, in the spring of 1915 as a cavalry private. Cavalrymen have an easy time these days waiting for the trench warfare to end and the coming of the open fighting, when they can get at the Hun. Bishop didn't want to wait, so he was transferred to the flying corps. He made no particular impression on the officers, but finally got a place as observer in the spring of 1916. His machine was shot down presently, and when he came out of hospital he was given three months' leave, most of which he spent at home.

When he went back last fall he tried again, and this time succeeded in qualifying as a pilot. He spent the early winter training in England, and finally reached the front in February. Then things began to happen.

His first enemy 'plane was brought down within a few days, under circumstances which have not been told, but which were enough to win the Military Medal. By Easter his record was such that he was made flight commander and Captain. He celebrated by attacking three German 'planes single-handed. Four others came to their rescue. He got two; then, out of ammunition, went home. This brought him the D. S. O.

It was June 2 before he succeeded in winning the V. C. The official account tells that story best:

"Capt. Bishop flew first to an enemy airdrome. Finding no enemy machine about, he flew to another airdrome, about three miles distant and about 12 miles within enemy lines. Seven machines, some with their engines running, were on the ground. He attacked these from a height of 50 feet, killing one of the mechanics.

"One of the machines got off the ground, but Capt. Bishop, at a height of 60 feet, fired 15 rounds into it at close range. A second machine got off the ground, into which he fired 30 rounds at 150 yards. It fell into a tree. Two more machines rose from the airdrome, one of which he engaged at a height of 1000 feet, sending it crashing to the ground. He then emptied a whole drum of cartridges into the fourth hostile machine, and flew back to the station.

"Four hostile scouts were 1000 feet above him for a mile during his return journey, but they would not attack. His machine gun was badly shot about by machine-gun fire from the ground."

Apparently the official reporter was not interested in the Captain's condition. The damaged machine gun accounts for his strategic retreat, which satisfies officialdom. On Bishop's behalf, it should be remembered that an aviator lives very close to his machine gun during such a fracas—if he lives.

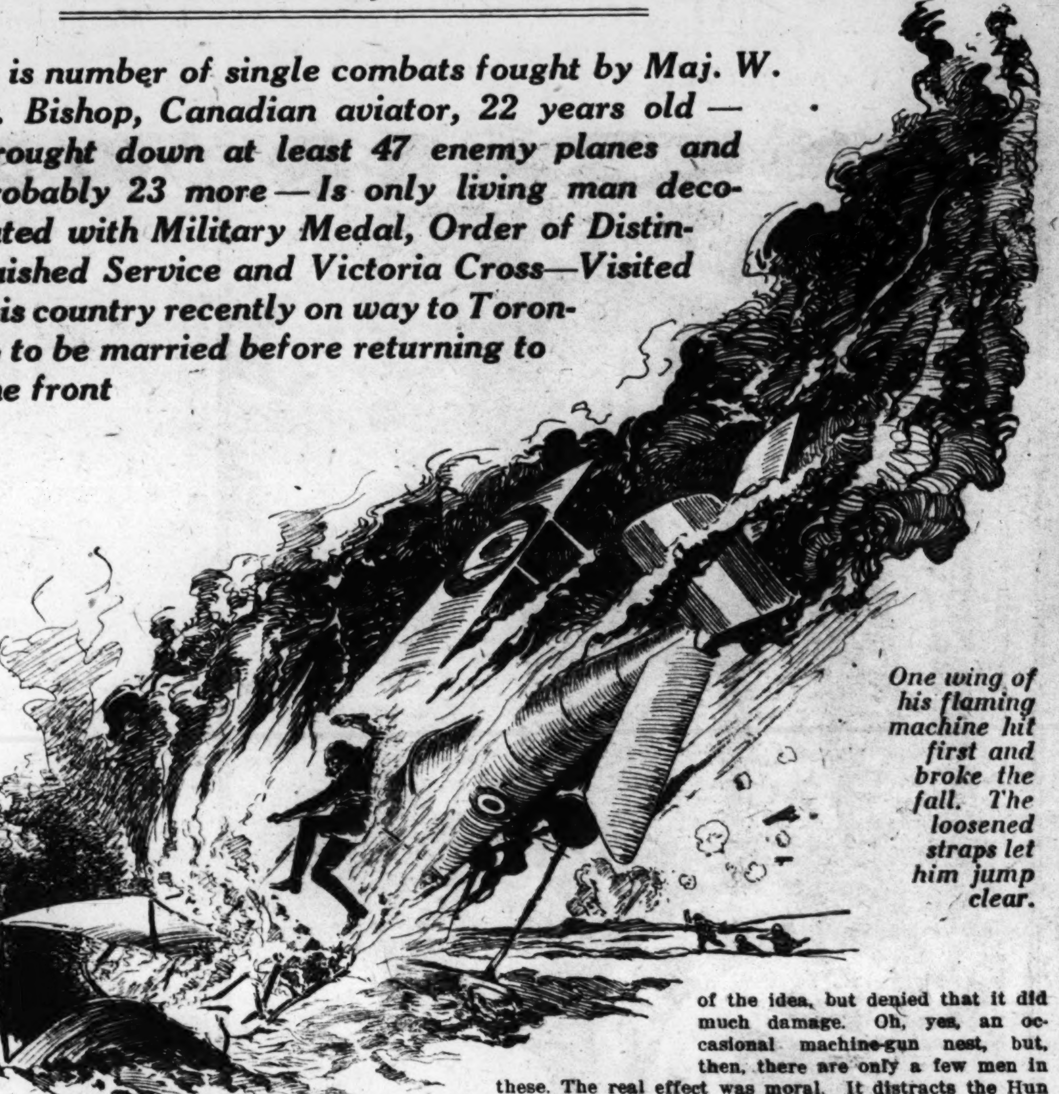
It will be observed that the official reporter puts much weight on the number of cartridges used. There were 15 plus 30, plus a drum, which is 47, a total of 92. In some way the number used to kill the mechanic was omitted. The total casualties were two planes crashed, two whose fates were not mentioned and the mechanic. The Liberty Loan Committee figures that a $50 bond will buy 1007 such cartridges.

Anyhow, Bishop got the V. C. for this before-breakfast excursion. When he was given a furlough, a few weeks ago, it was suggested that he stop at Buckingham Palace on his way home. There a rather small man with a light beard and a crown pinned the three medals on the breast of the Canadian.

Maj. Bishop himself is inclined to complain a little at the tools with which he has to work. His faith in incendiary bullets has been shattered, for instance.

"You want to bring the Hun down in flames if you can," he explained. "That is the nicest way. But you can't be sure of doing that. I shot six incendiary bullets into one fellow's petrol tank one day, and the thing wouldn't blow up."

Good shooting is what does the trick, he says, and plenty of it. "Don't trust to one bullet to kill a Hun. Get him in the head if you can, or at least in the upper part of the body. But get him several times—one bullet is never sure to kill one. Get hunks of them into him, into his head. That does it. The greatest thing to teach the new men is how to shoot."



One wing of his flaming machine hit first and broke the fall. The loosened straps let him jump clear.

He finds bombing interesting, though, of course, he prefers duels. He explained that there was little use in bombing from the heights that were safe from the Archies, as was done at first, and that the man who wanted to get results came down just close enough so that he wouldn't be upset by his own bomb. Then he can be almost sure to hit.

The air fighting is still going higher, he remarked casually. Even when above 22,000 feet one can never be sure any more that he will not be attacked from above. Of course, the fliers have to take along their own oxygen in tanks when they go up like that. But they are fairly warm, even there, if they are behind their engines, as in many of the new models.

The thing that seems to appeal to this 100-pound air terror is the unexpectedness of things. There is always likely to be some fortuitous occurrence that gives one a chance to exercise a nimble wit and that stirs the blood a little. He told one story to illustrate this point before he really realized that he was talking about himself.

MAJOR W. A. BISHOP AND HIS WIFE.

"I was about 10,000 feet up, going through a cloud bank, without a thing in my mind but to get back six or seven miles behind the Hun lines, and see what was going on, when I heard the rattle of machine guns. I looked back and there were three Huns coming straight for me. We all started firing at about 300 yards. I gave all I had to one fellow and he came to within about 10 yards of me before swerving. He went by in flames. I turned on the second and he fell, landing only about 100 yards from the first one, which shows how fast we were going.

"I was excited and the third machine escaped," he added apologetically. An attack, two duels and two victories while the planes were traveling less than a quarter of a mile, at over 100 miles an hour! Time, perhaps 10 seconds.

It was Bishop, according to reports, who invented the plan of diving down and shooting the Germans from behind during an attack. He did not discuss the origin of the idea, but denied that it did much damage. Oh, yes, an occasional machine-gun nest, but, then, there are only a few men in these. The real effect was moral. It distracts the Hun to be shot in the back. Also it greatly encourages the infantry who are charging.

"They cheer like mad," he grinned. "They think we are killing thousands of Huns."

Traditions gather thick around such a man. Tommy has no demigods in his religion, but he does the best he can with his heroes. So Tommy says that Bishop brought down nine machines in a two-hour fight one day. But Tommy's best story of him is given to illustrate the nerve which enjoys being called on to fight for life on a split second's notice.

A Hun flier had used an incendiary bullet on Bishop's petrol tank that did work, Tommy reports. The battle had been at a low altitude, about two miles up. Bishop's 'plane flamed up, and he fell. He was on the point of jumping and had loosed the straps that held him into the fuselage. Airmen dislike being burned to death. But he decided to make a try for life at the risk of this, and after he had fallen 4000 feet or so took the levers again and pulled up the nose of the plane, straightening her out. Of course, his engine was out, so he began to tail dive, and went a few more thousand feet that way. Then he succeeded in straightening her out once more, but side-slipped, and finally banked just as he struck. One wing of his flaming machine hit first and broke the fall. The loosened straps let him jump clear. He was just behind the British lines, and Tommy rushed up and gathered him in and put out the fire that was blazing from his clothes, making him look like a torch.

He was not hurt.

A Schooner Built by Prayer

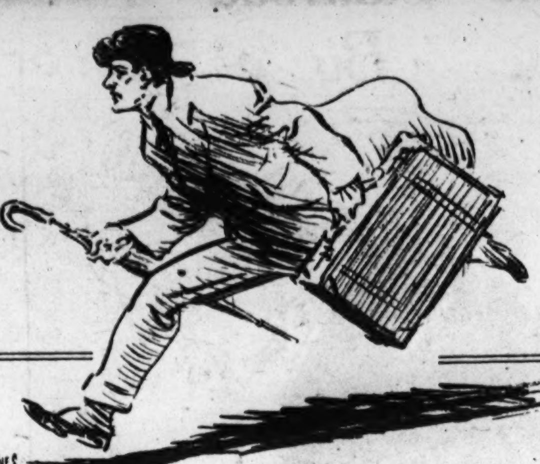
THE story of the building and first trip of the 25-ton Messenger, built by the residents of Pitcairn Island, has been related by a minister who has arrived in Fiji after visiting the people of the island. The extreme isolation of Pitcairn Island has fortunately been broken to some extent by the opening of the Panama Canal. Western-bound vessels now find Pitcairn a convenient port of call to take in water, and to replenish their stocks of fruit and vegetables.

Before the war Pitcairn depended mostly for mails and regular supplies upon the periodic visits of British warships, but during the last three years there have been few opportunities for the islanders to get into touch with the outside world. This isolation led them to undertake the formidable task of building a schooner, with the object of establishing communication with Tahiti. Without proper tools, materials, or facilities, and without experience, the natives set to work on their task praying with simple faith that God would provide for their needs. Nails were made from all the old iron on the island and timber was procured from the native trees. Shortly after the work had been started a boat called.

"The run to Mangareva," the minister says, "was accomplished in four days. At this place the boat remained one week and then commenced its trip to Papeete. After a few days' sailing out on the deep they experienced heavy weather and contrary winds, which blew them due south for a distance of 500 miles. For 40 hours hurricane weather was experienced, but no water washed their decks and no damage was done. The little craft seemed to be borne along over the huge seas by the angels as the ark of old. For three weeks no headway was made, consequently much perplexity seized the crew. They were within 300 miles of Raivavae, of the Austral group, and had only two buckets of fresh water left and very little provisions. However, after casting lots, and drawing in favor of Papeete, a favorable wind immediately sprang up, which carried them in eight days to this port."

A YOUNG MAN IN A HURRY

By Robert W. Chambers



"Soyez tranquilles, mesdames. . . . Je suis un jeune homme presse. . . . Mais Modeste."—Labiche.

AT ten minutes before 5 in the evening the office doors of the Florida & Key West Railway Co. flew open, and a young man emerged in a hurry.

Suit case in one hand, umbrella in the other, he sped along the corridor to the elevator shaft, arriving in time to catch a glimpse of the lighted roof of the cage sliding into depths below.

"Down!" he shouted; but the glimmering cage disappeared, descending until darkness enveloped it.

Then the young man jammed his hat on his head, seized the suit case and umbrella and galloped down the steps. The spiral marble staircase echoed to his clattering flight; scrub women heard him coming and fled; he leaped a pail of water and a mop; several old gentlemen flattened themselves against the wall to give him room; and a blonde young person with pencils in her hair lisped "Gee!" as he whizzed past and plunged through the storm doors, which swung back, closing behind him with a hollow thwack.

Outside in the darkness, gray with whirling snowflakes, he saw the wet lamps of cabs shining, and he darted along the line of hansoms and coupes in frantic search for his own.

"Oh, there you are!" he panted, flinging his suit case up to a snow-covered driver. "Do your best now; we're late!" And he leaped into the dark coupe, slammed the door and sank back on the cushions, turning up the collar of his heavy overcoat.

There was a young lady in the farther corner of the cab, buried to her nose in a fur coat. At intervals she shivered and pressed a fluffy muff against her face. A glimmer from the sleet-smeared lamps fell across her knees.

Downtown flew the cab, swaying around icy corners, bumping over car tracks, lurching, rattling, jouncing, while its silent occupants, huddled in separate corners, brooded moodily at their respective windows.

Snow blotted the glass, melting and running down; and over the watery panes yellow light from shop windows played fantastically, distorting vision.

Presently the young man pulled out his watch, fumbled for a match box, struck a light, and groaned as he read the time.

At the sound of the match striking, the young lady turned her head. Then as the bright flame illuminated the young man's face, she sat bolt upright, dropping the muff to her lap with a cry of dismay.

He looked up at her. The match burned his fingers; he dropped it and hurriedly lighted another; and the flickering radiance brightened upon the face of a girl whom he had never before laid eyes on.

"Good heavens!" he said. "Where's my sister?"

The young lady was startled, but resolute. "You have made a dreadful mistake," she said; "you are in the wrong cab"——

The match went out; there came a brief moment of darkness, then the cab turned a corner, and the ghostly light of electric lamps played over them in quivering succession.

"Will you please stop this cab?" she said, unsteadily. "You have mistaken my cab for yours. I was expecting my brother."

Stunned, he made no movement to obey. A sudden thrill of fear passed through her.

"I must ask you to stop this cab," she faltered.

The idiotic blankness of his expresion changed to acute alarm.

"Stop this cab?" he cried. "Nothing on earth can induce me to stop this cab!"

"You must!" she insisted, controlling her voice. "You must stop it at once!"

"How can I?" he asked, excitedly; "I'm late now; I haven't one second to spare!"

"Do you refuse to leave this cab?"

"I beg that you will compose yourself"——

"Will you go?" she insisted.

A jounce sent them flying towards each other; they collided and recoiled, regarding one another in breathless indignation.

"This is simply hideous!" said the young lady, seizing the door handle.

"Please don't open that door!" he said. She tried to wrench it open; the handle stuck—or perhaps the strength had left her wrist. But it was not courage that failed, for she faced him, head held high, and——

"You coward!" she said.

Over his face a deep flush burned—and it was a good face, too—youthfully willful, perhaps, with a firm, clean-cut chin and pleasant eyes.

"If I were a coward," he said, "I'd stop this cab and get out. I never faced anything that frightened me half as much as you do!"

She looked him straight in the eyes, one hand twisting at the knob.

"Don't you suppose that this mistake of mine is as humiliating and unwelcome to me as it is to you?" he said. "If you stop this cab it will ruin somebody's life. Not mine—if it were my own life, I wouldn't hesitate."

Her hand still clasping the silver knob, suddenly fell limp.

"You say that you are in a hurry?" she asked.

"A desperate hurry," he replied.

"So am I," she said, bitterly, "and, thanks to your stupidity, I must make the journey without my brother!"

There was a silence, then she turned towards him again:

"Where do you imagine this cab is going?"

"It's going to Cortlandt street—isn't it?" Suddenly the recollection came to him that it was her cab, and that he had only told the driver to drive fast.

The color left his face as he pressed it to the sleet-shot window.

He turned a haggard countenance on her; he was at her mercy. But there was nothing vindictive in her.

"I also am going to Cortlandt street; you need not be alarmed," she said.

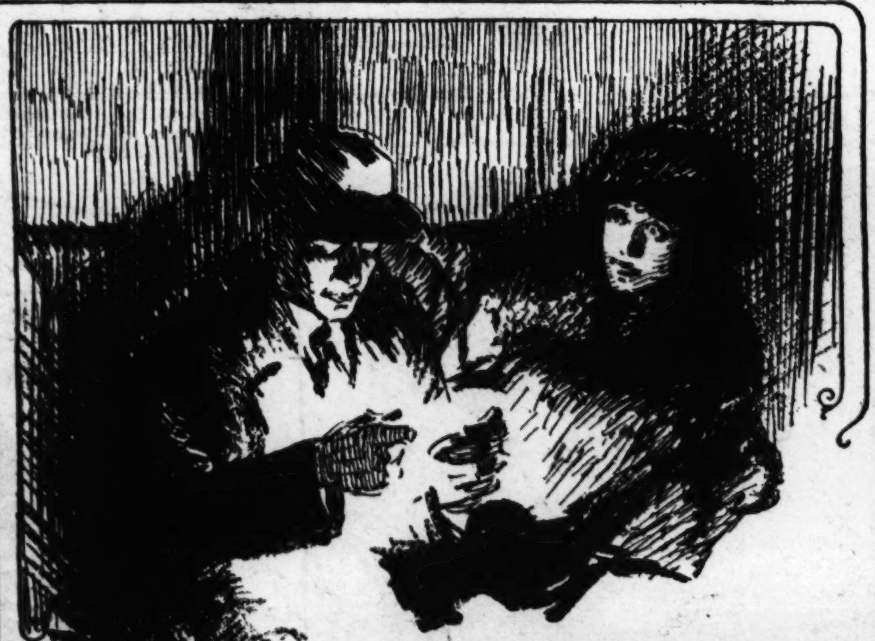
The color came back to his cheeks. "I suppose," he ventured, "that you are trying to catch the Eden Limited, as I am."

"Yes," she said, coldly; "my brother"—— An expression of utter horror came into her face. "What on earth shall I do?" she cried; "my brother has my ticket and my purse!"

A lunge and a bounce sent them into momentary collision; a flare of light from a ferry lantern flashed in their faces; the cab stopped and a porter jerked open the door, crying:

"Eden Limited? You'd better hurry, lady. They're closin' the gates now."

They sprang out into the storm, she refusing his guiding arm.



Presently the young man pulled out his watch, fumbled for a match-box and struck a light.

"What am I to do?" she said, desperately. "I must go on that train and I haven't a penny."

"It's all right; you'll take my sister's ticket," he said, hurriedly paying the cabman.

A porter seized their two valises from the box and dashed towards the ferry house; they followed to the turnstile, where the tickets were clipped.

"Now we've got to run!" he said. And off they sped, slipped through the closing gates, and ran for the gangplank, where their porter stood making frantic signs for them to hasten. It was a close connection, but they made it, to the unfeigned amusement of the passengers on deck.

"Sa-ay!" drawled a ferry hand, giving an extra twist to the wheel as the chains came clanking in, "she puts the bunch on the blink f'r a looker. Hey?"

"Plenty," said his comrade; adding after a moment's weary deliberation, "She's his tootsy-wootsy sure. B. and G."

The two young people, who had caught the boat at the last second, stood together, muffled to the eyes, breathing rapidly. She was casting tragic glances astern, where, somewhere behind the smother of snow, New York City lay; he, certain at last of his train, stood beside her, attempting to collect his thoughts and arrange them in some sort of logical sequence.

But the harder he thought, the more illogical the entire episode appeared. How on earth had he ever come to enter a stranger's cab and drive with a stranger half a mile before either discoverd the situation? And what blind luck had sent the cab to the destination he was also bound for—and not a second to spare, either?

He looked at her furtively; she stood by the rail, her fur coat white with snow.

"The poor little thing!" he thought. And he said: "You need not worry about your section, you know. I have my sister's ticket for you."

After a moment's gloomy restrospection he added: "When your brother arrives to knock my head off I'm going to let him do it."

She made no comment.

"I don't suppose," he said, "that you ever could pardon what I have done."

"No," she said, "I never could."

A brief interval passed, disturbed by the hooting of a siren.

"If you had stopped the cab when I asked you to"—— she began.

"If I had," he said, "neither you nor I could have caught this train."

"If you had not entered my cab, I should have been here at this moment with my brother," she said. "Now I am here with you—penniless!"

He looked at her miserably, but she was relentless.

"It is the cold selfishness of the incident that shocks me," she said; "it is not the blunder that offended me"—— She stopped short to give him a chance to defend himself; but he did not. "And now," she added, "you have reduced me to the necessity of—borrowing money"——

"Only a ticket," he muttered.

But she was not appeased, and her silence was no solace to him.

After a few minutes he said: "It's horribly cold out here; would you not care to go into the cabin?"

She shook her head, and her cheeks grew hot, for she had heard the observations of the ferrymen as the boat left. She would freeze in obscurity rather than face a lighted cabin full of people. She looked at the porter who was carrying their valises, and the dreadful idea seized her that he, too, thought them bride and groom.

Furious, half-frightened, utterly wretched, she dared not even look at the man whose unheard-of stupidity had inflicted such humiliation upon her.

Tears were close to her eyes; she swallowed, set her head high, and turned her burning cheeks to the pelting snow.

Oh, he should rue it some day! When, how, where, she did not trouble to think; but he should rue it, and his punishment should leave a memory ineffaceable. Pondering on his future tribulation, sternly immersed in visions of justice, his voice startled her:

"The boat is in. Please keep close to me."

Bump! creak—cre—ak! bump! Then came the clank of wheel and chain, and the crowded cabin, and pressing throngs which crushed her close to his shoulder; and "Please take my arm," he said: "I can protect you better so."

A long, covered way, swarming with people, a glimpse of a street and whirling snowflakes, an iron fence pierced by gates where gilt-and-blue officials stood, saying monotonously: "Tickets! Please show your tickets. This way for the Palmetto Special. The Eden Limited on track No. 3."

"Would you mind holding my umbrella a moment?" he asked.

He produced the two tickets and they passed the gate, following a porter who carried their luggage.

Presently their porter climbed the steps of a sleeping car. She followed and sat down beside her valise, resting her elbow on the polished window sill, and her flushed cheek on her hand.

He passed her and continued on towards the end of the car, where she saw him engage in animated conversation with several officials. The officials shook their heads, and, after a while, he came slowly back to where she sat.

"I tried to exchange into another car," he said. "I'll stay in the smoker all I can."

"I'm awfully sorry," he said at last. "I'm not quite as selfish as you think. My—my younger brother is in a lot of trouble—down at St. Augustine. I couldn't have saved him if I hadn't caught this train. . . . I know you can't forgive me; so I'll say—so I'll ask permission to say good-by."

"Don't—please don't go," she said, faintly.

He wheeled towards her again.

"How on earth am I to dine if you go away?" she asked. "I've a thousand miles to go, and I've simply got to dine."

"What a stupid brute I am!" he said, between his teeth. "I try to be decent, but I can't. I'll do anything in the world to spare you—indeed I will. Tell me, would you prefer to dine alone"——

"Hush! people are listening," she said in a low voice. "It's bad enough to be taken for bride and groom, but if people in this car think we've quarreled I—I simply cannot endure it."

"Who took us for—that?" he whispered, fiercely.

"Those people behind you; don't look! I heard that horrid little boy say, 'B. and G.!' and others heard it. I—I think you had better sit down here a moment."

He sat down.

"The question is," she said, with heightened color, "whether it is less embarrassing for us to be civil to each other or to avoid each other. Everybody has seen the porter bring in our luggage; everybody supposes we are at least on friendly terms. If I go alone to the dining car, and you go alone, gossip will begin.

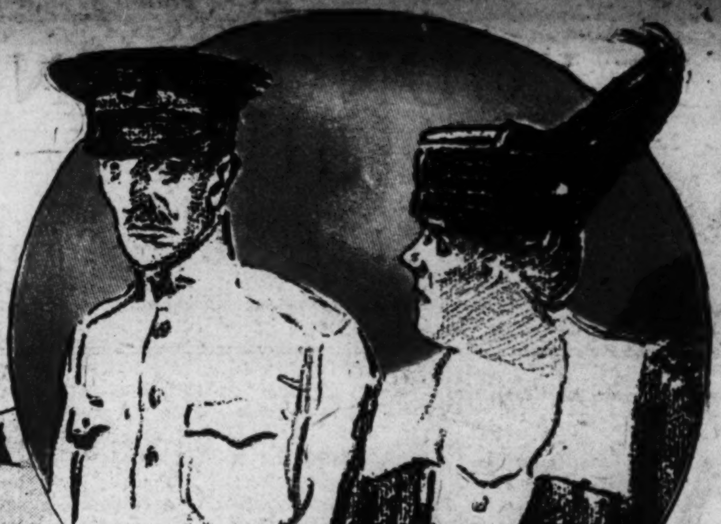
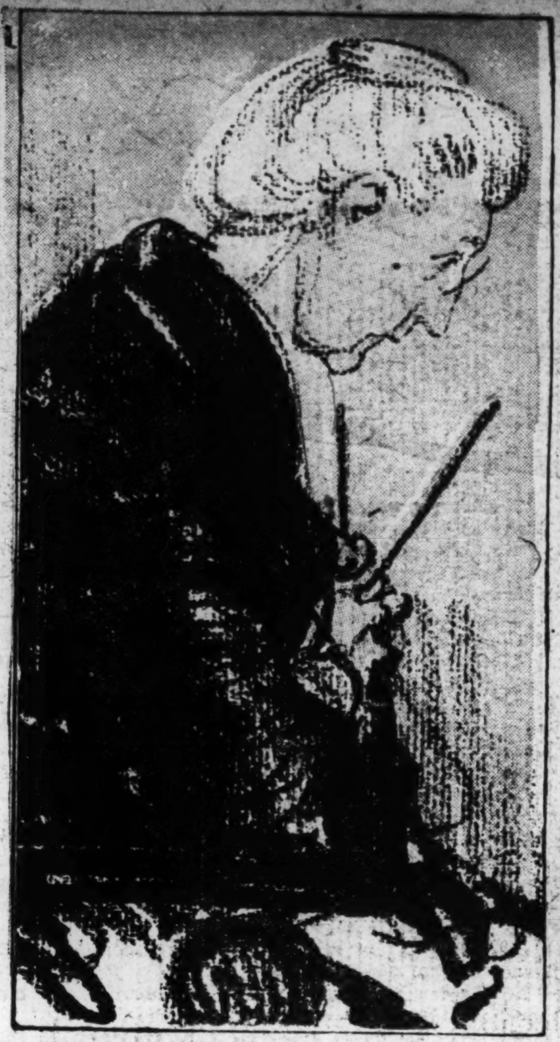
Here and There in War Times

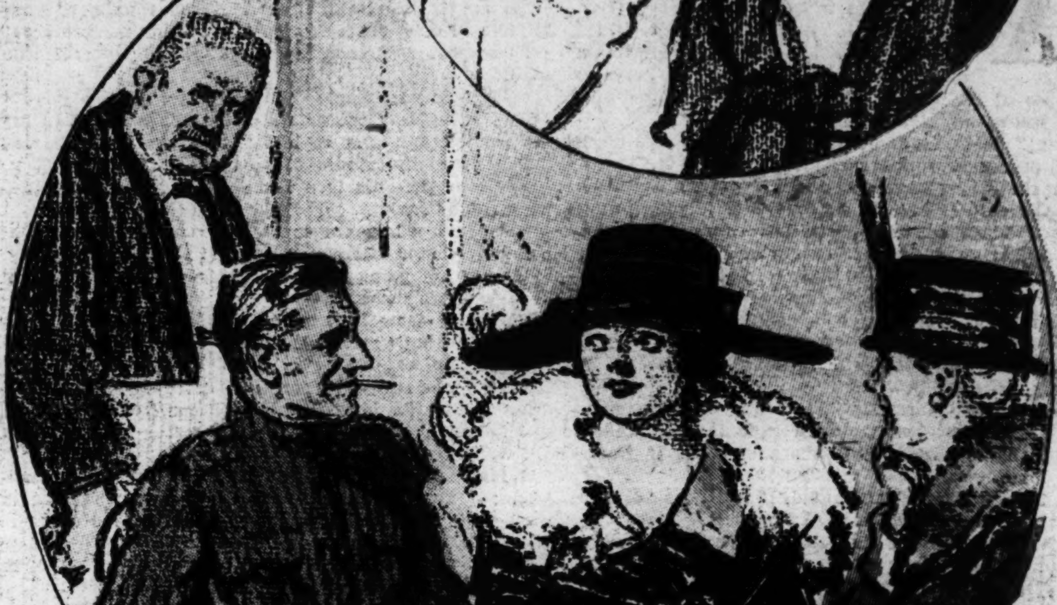
Character Sketches
by W. E. HILL



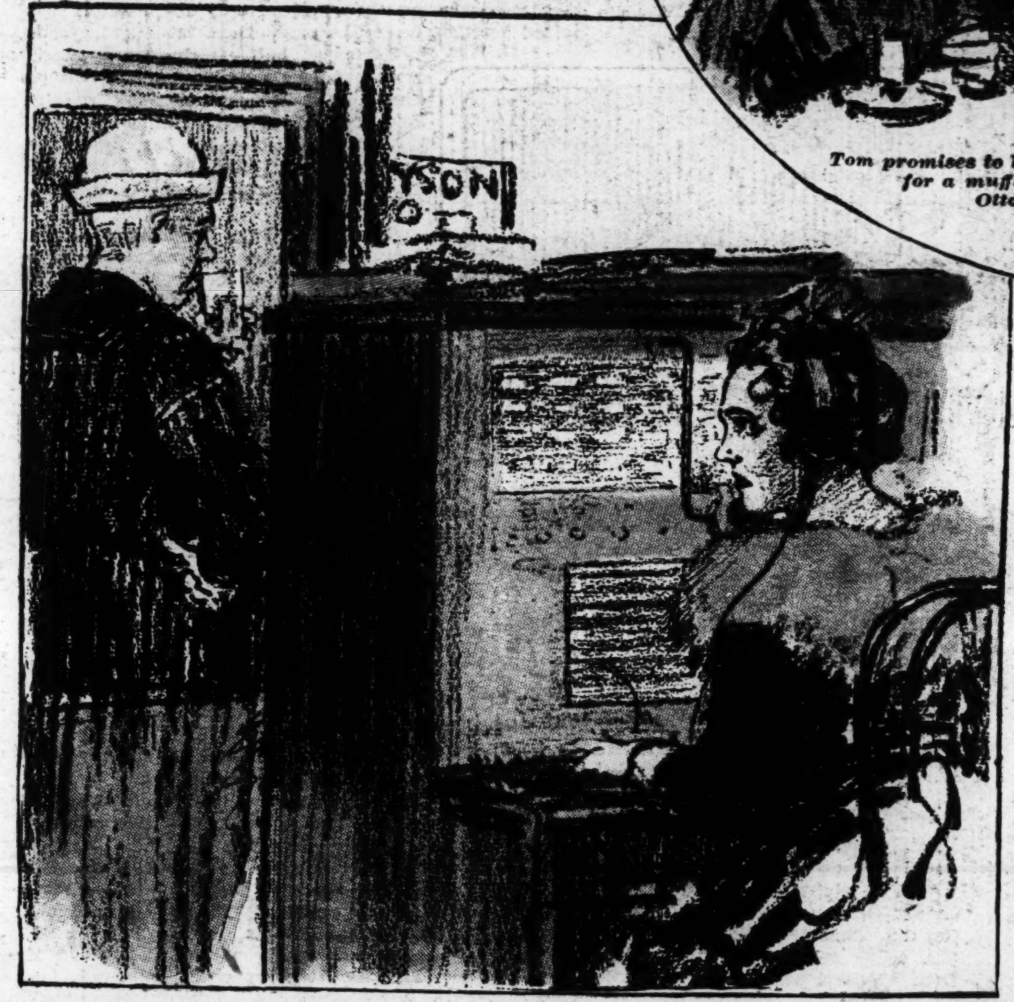
The officer who forgot the theater tickets, and his wife. He now knows what it really means to be reprimanded.



The lady who used to knit combing jackets and such is now hard at work on her sixth navy sweater.



Tom promises to bring Ethel the Kaiser's ear in exchange for a muffler, much to the astonishment of Otto, the waiter, who takes it quite seriously.



The thirsty naval reservist in the booth is helped out by the obliging operator, who orders something cooling for him.

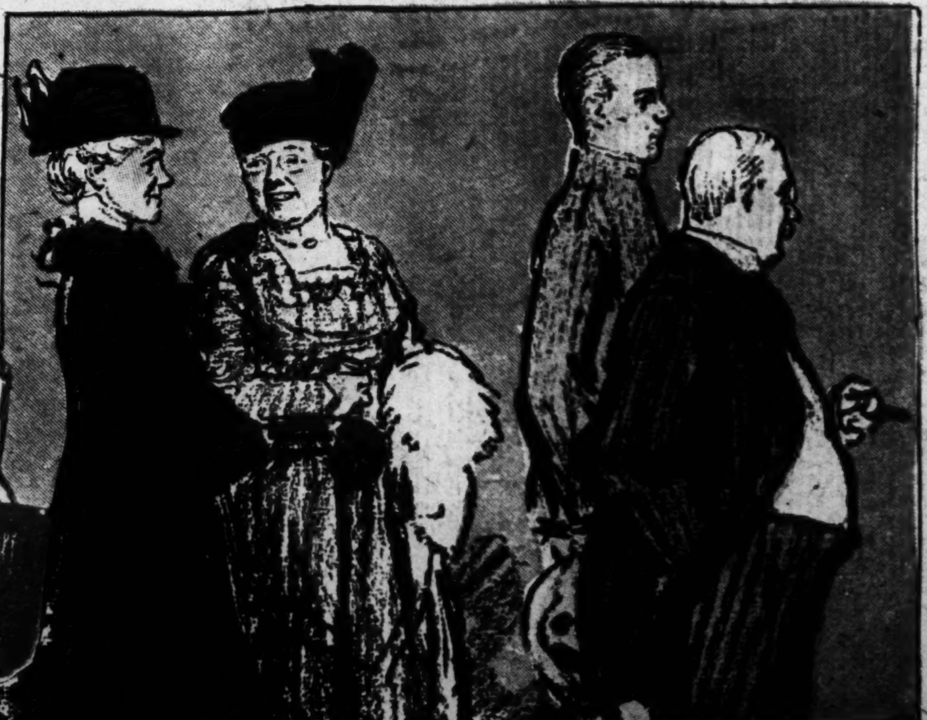
"It's awful, Mrs. Lacey. Even corsets has gone up on account of the steel in them."



Reflected glory. "I'm not saying it because he's my son, Clara, but honestly, isn't he just the handsomest thing you ever saw?"

WARTIME ACTIVITY IN OUR NAVY YARDS

The dock filled and a warship floating in.

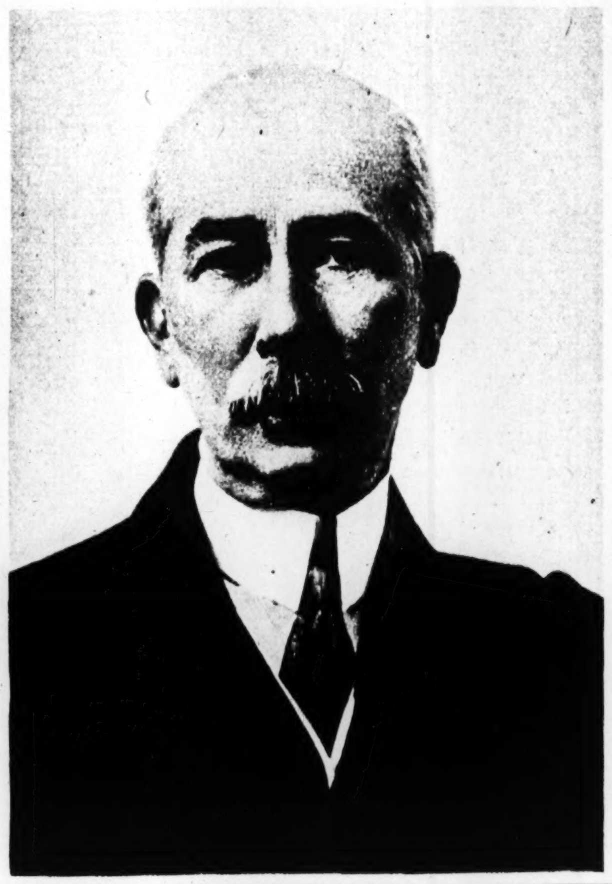
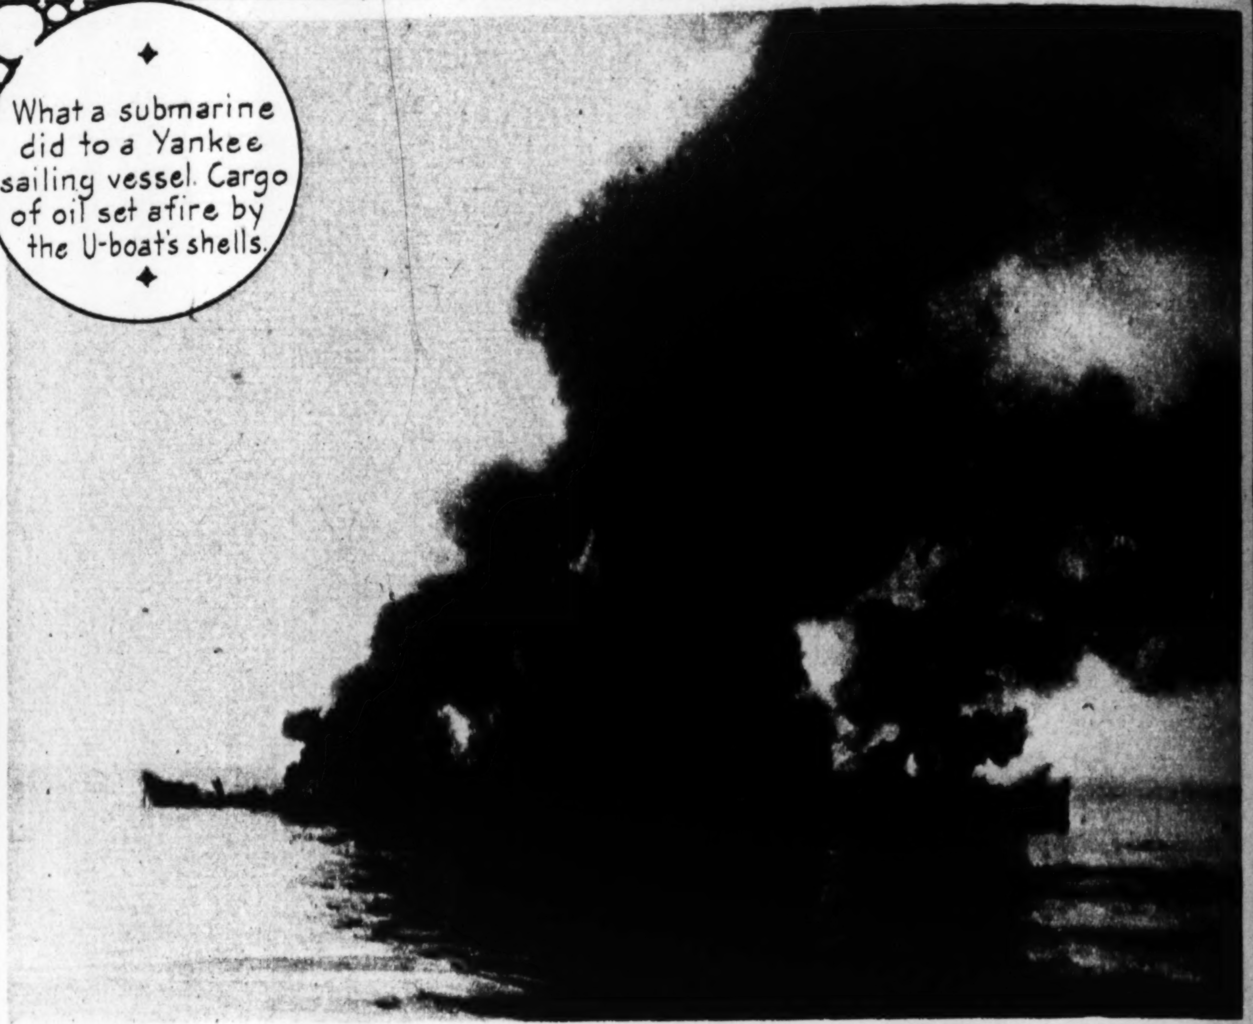
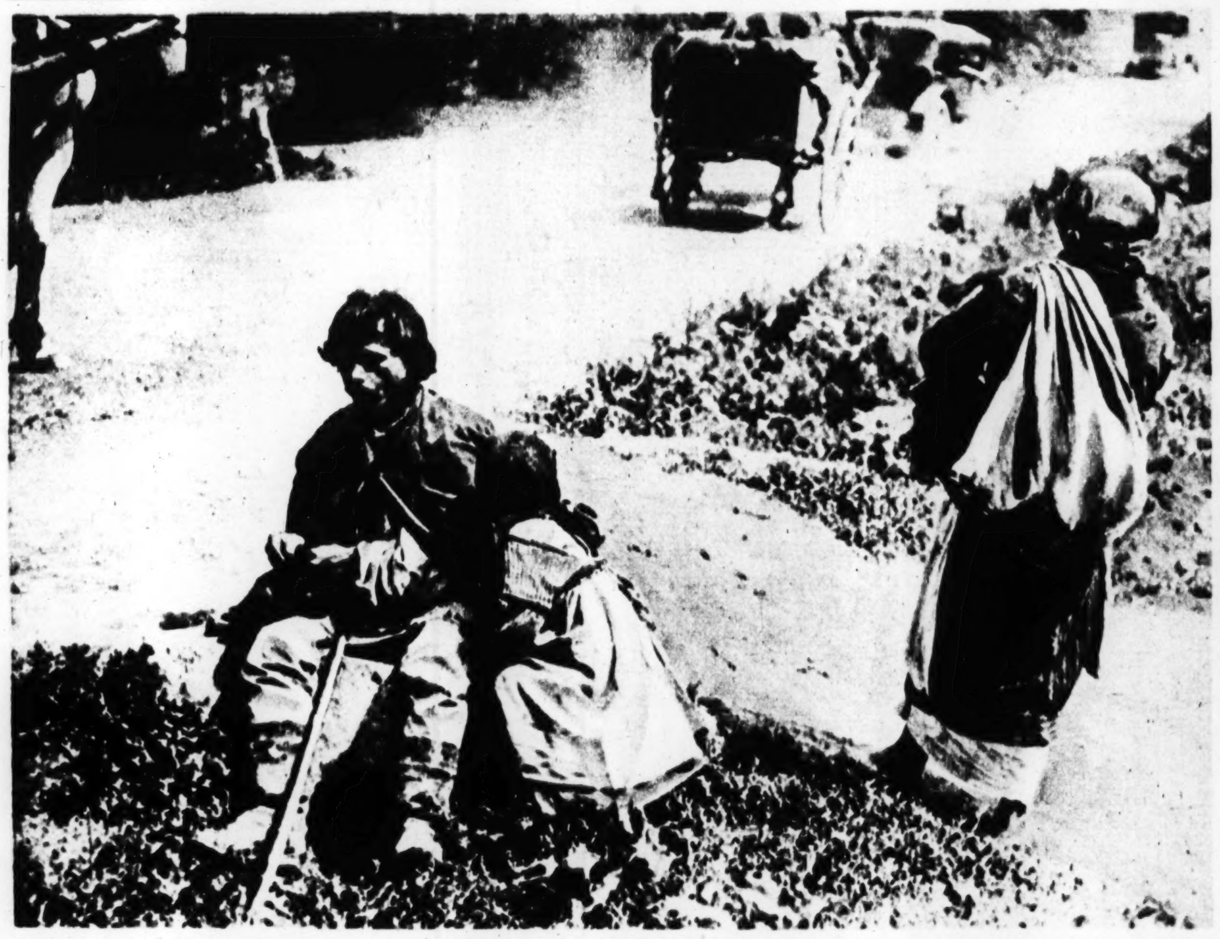
The last stage—high pressure hose washing off the final vestiges of dirt, preparatory to painting the hull.



Latest portrait of Col. E. M. House, confidential adviser to the President who is gathering data for use at the peace conference.



What a submarine did to a Yankee sailing vessel. Cargo of oil set afire by the U-boat's shells.



This German officer masquerading as a blind beggar, with the "wife" and "child" show in the picture as properties, was captured behind the Russian lines and shot.

L'haleine des fleurs, le rire des fées—le comble du gout français —ma Poudre-de-Riz Djer-Kiss. Son charme exquis est captivant, tout comme son charme parisien est captivant.
—Kerkoff, Paris.

Translation:—The breath of flowers, the laughter of fairies—the achievement of French taste —my Djer-Kiss Face Powder. Captivating is its exquisiteness, captivating its charme Parisien

Add Parisian Smartness to American Beauty

To the indomitable Kerkoff no care is too precise, no pains too great. That is why Djer-Kiss Face Powder is bien sur worthy of the fairest. Produced by this master parfumeur in Paris, it proclaims itself the dernier cri of toilet fascinations.

With truth can we say this—whether it be a dainty cheek, a nose piquante or a nose retrousse, a little caress of this poudre-de-riz gives the air Parisien. Perhaps already you use Djer-Kiss Face Powder. Then, sans doute, you will agree with us.

In return for ten cents Monsieur Kerkoff's importateurs, the Alfred H. Smith Co. of 33 West Thirty-third Street, New York City, will be happy to send you samples of Djer-Kiss Extract, Face Powder and Sachet.
